THIS WEEK: Climate Change will have direct & indirect health impacts on BC residents. The Climate Risk management team is working with the Ministry of Health Population & Public Health, Health Protection branch to explore options for assessing those impacts. This process has involved gaining an understanding of the intersections between health and climate action and how policy can be used to encourage climate action, while also supporting the health of populations.

Join Emily Quinn, MPH from the Ministry of Health and Kari for a presentation & conversation that explores both the vulnerabilities, opportunities and ways we can help each other along in both mitigation, adaptation and public health.

Meeting Schedule, Tips, and Proposal Template can be found here: \Climate Action Secretariat\Climate Policy\Meetings - Climate Policy beginning June 2010

Please note that meetings do not occur on days when there is also a CAS All-Staff meeting. Stay tuned for updates on particular occurrences. Updates will include who is speaking, the topic and the location.
