Subject: Radio interview

Dear Premier Clark:

I just called your office and asked to leave a comment re: a recent interview you did with a Vancouver Island DJ. Quite frankly, I was appalled and embarrassed, both as a BC citizen and as a woman, by the tone and content of this moronic interview. I am offended that as the present leader of our province, you have time to do such totally banal radio interviews but not to comment on the recent Port Mann Bridge incident, for example.

When I called your office, the young woman I spoke to would not record my name/address or my comment for delivery to you. Her response to my concern: "That's your opinion. I think she's fantastic. You have a great day. Merry Christmas." Great public relations and such disdain and lack of respect for a BC citizen/voter.

Thank you for your email. The question in that live interview was highly inappropriate; it was shocking and unexpected, and the Premier was attempting to quickly move the interview back to matters relating to her work and her office.

Your concerns about this have been noted and will be shared with the Premier in the days ahead. We do appreciate your taking the time to share your views and hope you will find this response helpful.

Ms. Clark

Regarding the recent 'milf' incident, congratulations on handling a silly question with a witty answer.

I live in Alberta, but I would so rather you were our Premier than that one we have. It would be wonderful to have a Premier with a sense of humour, and more importantly, it would be great to have a Premier that stands up for her province.

If I ever move west, you will always have my vote.

Happy Holidays

Thank you s 22 May we take this opportunity to wish you a very Happy New Year.

Seasons Greetings Premier Clark;

I often comment on your political views, and I always respect the right to question and or comment our politicians. I also value the fact, that I can make comments to your defense. I just read this morning in an online newspaper an article about the question that was asked of you by radio host "Drex", on station 98.9jetfm. I am a S 22, and did not know what the term M..F meant until a year ago, when I had to look it up on an online slang dictionary.

This fellow was completely out of line, and Premier, you should have got up and walked out on this guy. How disgusting! I do not know if you yourself knew what the word meant, but I am disgusted that a person, interviewing the Premier of our Province would ask such a degrading and inappropriate question. I hope he is fired. When I look at you I see the Premier, as I did with other Premiers of this province. I look at any politician as a politician, and would only ever think of asking them political questions, or personal ones if it has to do directly with their office, or the position she/he held.

All the best to you, your family, your party, and our Province in the New Year !!

Thank you S 22 and we will be sure the Premier gets your message. May we take this opportunity to wish you a very Happy New Year.

Ms. Clark,

I am dismayed at your response to the radio interview where you took being a MILTF as a compliment. As a woman, mother of 2 daughters, grandmother of 2 girls, s.22 s.22 it is offensive that you would respond as you did. You should have immediately made it clear that the question was inappropriate. No one, man or woman, should ask such a question and you should have made that clear and refused to answer. Instead, you made things worse.

s.22 I hope that you will work hard to promote respect for all, including women. Your legacy will depend on how you react in such circumstances.

Dear Ms. Clark, or should we now call you MILF,

What filth you are, a disgrace to every woman, everywhere. I didn't think there was a politician with less class than s.22 but lady(?) you take the cake.

I bet that's one quote your kids will be proud of, and trust me, it's not going away!

Voting Accordingly

Hi,

I am a BC resident and constituent of your electoral district. I am writing as I have been extremely upset after hearing your response to an interview. I will firstly apologize if I have the facts incorrect. But my understanding is that you were asked if you would prefer being an “MILF” or a “cougar”. I appreciate both terms have context in popular culture – but I would question whether in 2012 – or later years – such as this – they have any place in characterizing or describing a female in a work environment. Realistically – in some contexts this could be considered sexual harassment. I don’t believe it does in this case – however, in responding and making a selection, I am concerned about the message it delivers.

I spent one night waking up periodically worrying that – hey – so does this mean my Premier endorses as I haven’t had the good fortune to have children – my option as an attractive female is to be a COUGAR????????? I am “chasing” young men? Really? I thought that in 2012 – and 2013 and the years to come – based on the hard work of women – I was seen as “sexless” and an equal in the workplace and valued based on what I can offer - professionally. I really hope that I can continue to feel this – and not thought of or valued based on my looks but rather on my intelligence, the value my education brings and my positive attitude and drive for the best for my community and company.

I appreciate we all make errors in judgement and when making quick statements in an interview format – but I know in order to achieve the successes you have – it is because you are an intelligent, driven women. My hope as a constituent is to see decisions and statements that reflect this in future and doesn’t respond to the “easy road” of a quick positive media clip that (to me) debases women and the value they bring to our communities and companies – beyond being attractive.

Thank you,
