Dear Premier and Minister Bond,

On February 29, 2012, inappropriate remarks were made in the legislature by the member for Kamloops-South Thompson, Kevin Krueger, concerning British Columbia's judiciary. I have attached the transcript for your convenience. The comments made by the member were inflammatory in nature and called into question the independence, impartiality, and integrity of our judiciary. As a result, I am calling on you Premier, as head of the Government and leader of the BC Liberal Party to direct Mr. Krueger to withdraw his comments from the House.

I am also directing this to the Minister of Justice and Attorney General, as she has a unique role in the justice system and it is incumbent in this role for her to defend the judiciary. The judiciary plays an integral role in British Columbia's justice system and unfortunately this was made light of by the member's comments. As such, I hope these inflammatory sentiments do not reflect the views of your government or your party.

I expect these comments to be addressed. This is a serious matter and there can be no excuse for such comments to be made in the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia.

Sincerely,

Leonard Krog, MLA, Nanaimo

HOUSE BLUES

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 29, 2012

Afternoon Sitting

K. Krueger:

I'll tell you something else that these members don't do that really bugs me, and that's these people who, for their own selfish interests, lobby government through the media, especially judges.

Now, any one of you members would really have a problem if you phoned a judge and said, "I don't think you're handling that case right" — especially if you're a cabinet minister.

We all know what happened. We had a judge recently saying that he let an accused child offender leave his courtroom, and he made political statements about this being because the government is not funding them properly. That is horrendous. I would rather have a guy shake me down on the street for money than let an accused child offender walk, with the prospect that he might offend other children. I was absolutely appalled. It's outrageous.

MLAs don't phone judges. Judges should judge individual cases before them. They should get them done. That is a tremendously inefficient system. It has inefficiencies built in every step of the way. It seems to have no drive to conclude cases.

I think they've got to shake themselves up. They don't want us coming in and telling them how to do things better, but I don't think they should be politicking. I think they should be judging their cases.

It's dishonourable to start politicking from the bench. There have been a number of examples of that, including a group of judges actually suing the government for higher wages. When people hear what wages they get now, they're scandalized because they're so out of whack. They get paid way more than anybody who is elected to serve in this House or any of the people who work for us.

It's just completely unacceptable that they would then sue the people of British Columbia, through the government, because they want to do better yet. They want to be blind to the economic situation that other British Columbians and the whole province find themselves in. They should batten down the hatches and do their jobs, one case at a time.

Be happy that the level of crime is way down. Stop whining about how many judges there are, and get the work done. Do something creative.

There are call centres that actually do a very efficient job of making sure the next client who needs service gets the next server. Why couldn't we do that? They're already doing virtual court things. They're doing videos in courtrooms. I don't know, but there's no real good reason — except that they don't want to be watched — why judges don't want cameras in courtrooms. I think it's really healthy for the judges to be under public scrutiny.

I've long advocated the Court Watch system, which they use in other jurisdictions, where the public is encouraged by the organization. "Go on in and watch the judges. It's really interesting." When they know that people are watching, you would find the judgments that ensue a lot more along your line of thinking, because the judges aren't as accountable when people aren't watching them.

M. Sather: You don't like those judges, do you?

K. Krueger: It's not that I don't like judges, Member opposite. There are many good judges. There are some real bad apples. If you've been doing your reading, Mr. Member, you'll know about those and some of the outrageous things that they have said and done.

Now, when they laugh like that, I think they probably haven't been doing their reading, and they're not aware that we have some real problem people on the bench. We have way too frequent adjournments, way too many stays.

Oh, and Member, it's not as though I don't know they're going to read it. I hope they're going to read it, and I hope they're going to have a real hard look in the mirror.

Some of those judges have no great drive to get things done, but they want to lecture. They want to hector the government. I hope this upsets them enough to sit down and talk to each other and say: "Well, those things the MLA said today are true. We've got to stop having these disgraceful cases of people walking from the courts."

It's not tough to get people charged or get their case into court. We all know that. It takes a long, long time. Once they're there, the judge who's responsible should take that case very, very seriously. Every one of them should work at least an eight-hour day. I've been in court and seen judges just get tired of listening and make a pronouncement that didn't look very fair to me.

I think the judges should look at the way that they choose judges. I think the lists they submit for who should next get to be a judge are way too brief sometimes, and I don't think we know the half of that.

I encourage the members opposite to read about Court Watch and encourage their constituents.

Probably lots of people don't know about that organization. I think that a whole lot of their constituents, just like me and my constituents, are flabbergasted by some of the things that judges do and some of the people that walk away with a slap on the wrist or even less.

Dear Mr. Krog:

Thank you for your letter of March 1, 2012, regarding the remarks made by Mr. Kevin Krueger, MLA for Kamloops-South Thompson, in the Legislature on February 29, 2012.

As Minister of Justice and Attorney General, I can assure you that I respect the work done by the judiciary in our province. Our government fully respects the independent role of the judiciary and recognizes that a positive and constructive relationship is critical to our ability to work together on important initiatives.

I have spoken with Mr. Krueger and made it clear that I do not agree with his remarks. They do not reflect my views or the views of our government.

While I did ask MLA Krueger to reconsider his remarks, he has chosen to stand by the comments made in the Legislature.

Immediately after becoming aware of the remarks, I expressed my regret and concern to the three Chief Judges of the Court and assured them that these comments did not reflect my views or those of government.

Dear Premier Clark and Ms Attorney:

The last several weeks have seen an unfortunate increase in "finger pointing" around justice system issues. The comments made by MLA Kevin Krueger in the Legislature yesterday display a lack of respect for, and misinformed view of, the work done by the Judicial Branch of Government.

We appreciate that the Attorney General has publicly stated that she does not share MLA Krueger's views. In addition, the CBA BC calls upon the Premier to disassociate the Legislative and Executive Branches of Government from the remarks of Mr. Krueger and to confirm your Government's respect for the judiciary and the importance of the independence of the judiciary in our democracy.

The CBA BC Branch remains prepared to work constructively with all stakeholders on justice system reform, but that work will not be successful in an environment of distrust and inflammatory comments. We believe it is important that Mr. Krueger's remarks be quickly and clearly isolated so that reform discussions can proceed in a spirit of respect and understanding.

Subject: Criticism of Judges

Hello Mr Krueger (MLA)

Good for you for your criticism of the judges and the judicial system in general - do not be intimidated into backing down. Judges are representing themselves and their egos to the world and not representing the wishes and interests of the people that they are supposed to represent - me and you. They believe that they can challenge any law that gets passed and they have no respect for the sentences that should be passed. The police regularly arrest the same offender every second day and the judges let them out with a slap on the wrist (perhaps) every other second day. Ask the police why they persevere and they tell you that at least the scum is off the street for at least 50% of the time. Judges complain about work load, but a work day consists of ridiculously short hours, extended tea, coffee and lunch breaks - just go and sit in court one day and you will be appalled at their attitudes - they are paid stupidly high salaries for the little amount of value work that they may do. Work hours should be extended (even one hour a day would make an incredible inroad into the backlog of cases). Our judges should be elected by the populous and then their attitudes would change to one of respect for society.

Best Regards
