12.1 Objectives

The objectives of this chapter are to:

- Provide guidance for key legislation, including
 - Document Disposal Act;
 - Electronic Transactions Act;
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act; and
 - Personal Information Protection Act.
- Define authorities, responsibilities and accountabilities for information and technology management.
- Provide a policy framework within which government can derive the maximum benefits from the use of information and technology.
- Establish policies for the management of information and technology activities.

12.2 General

12.2.1 Principles

Information management is a core component of government infrastructure; it is the intellectual capital of responsible governance. Best practice policies and standards result in efficient, accountable and cost-effective use of resources. Information technology constitutes the full spectrum of technologies and services that support information management. The Government Chief Information Officer (CIO) is responsible for the corporate management of information and information technology. The principles underlying effective management are:

- information is a vital government asset that must be managed and, where appropriate, shared to maximize investments;
- information and technology are key components in delivering cost-effective government services to the public;

- information and technology have the potential, when planned and managed properly, to improve productivity and reduce costs to government;
- information and technology are strategic enablers of quality government service delivery;
- the management and business principles applied to other government resources should be applied to information and technology resources; and
- the private sector is to play a major role in supplying services for the development and support of information technology.

12.2.2 IM/IT Governance

As Chief Information Officer and technology strategist for major government information and technology initiatives (see CPPM chapter 2 section 2.4.1, Central Agency Policy Responsibility Areas) the Office of the Government CIO is the central authority for the government of British Columbia responsible for Chapter 12. The policies contained in this section should be considered in conjunction with other core policy areas on planning (chapter 3), procurement (chapter 6), fees and licensing (chapter 7), asset management (chapter 8), financial systems and controls (chapter 13), risk management (chapter 14), general security (chapter 15), business continuity (chapter 16) and loss management (chapter 20).

The Office of the Government CIO also maintains four major manuals that support the Core Policy and Procedure Manual (CPPM) Chapter 12. They are the:

- Information and Technology Manual (Supplement to CPPM Chapter 12);
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Policy and Procedures Manual;
- Recorded Information Management Manual; and
- Information Security Policy.

Additionally there are a variety of standards, directives and memoranda that support core policy located on the Government CIO's website.

In May 2006 Cabinet "Mandate[d] the Chief Information Officer with governance authority for standards setting, oversight and approvals for the Province's information and communications technology." The following authorities, responsibilities and accountabilities reflect past ones that have been ascribed to the Government CIO and new ones that have been developed as part of the Government CIO's Governance Working Group's work. They also include authorities, responsibilities and accountabilities ascribed to Ministries and/or Ministry CIOs in the past version of this chapter as well as those recommended through the work of the Government CIO's Governance Working Group.

Government Chief Information Officer

The Government CIO develops, proposes, and maintains corporate-wide IM/IT policy, procedures and standards, and evaluates compliance. Areas associated with this authority include data access, electronic identity management, records management, information management, information technology, privacy, security applications, and systems of government.

Governance and Policy:

a) Legislation

- Recommends legislation in the areas of information and technology management, including access rights in the public and private sector, privacy, security, records management and electronic service delivery.
- Ensures the legislated Personal Information Directory summaries in the Personal Information Directory are maintained.

b) Policies, Procedures, and Standards

- Proposes corporate IM/IT architecture and related policy, procedures and standards to protect and manage information as a government asset.
- Ensures the privacy and security of citizens through the policies, procedures and standards governing citizens' information held by the Province.
- Ensures government's information systems are designed to be interoperable, secure, and able to authenticate and authorize appropriate access.
- Ensures ministries procure information and technology management goods and services compatible with the government infrastructure.
- Clarifies the interpretation of corporate IM/IT policies, procedures and standards.

c) Compliance Monitoring

- Develops mechanisms and processes to ensure compliance with corporate IM/IT policies, procedures and standards.

- Proposes corporate IM/IT performance metrics that enable ministry compliance.
- Informs ministry CIOs of their responsibilities in complying with corporate IM/IT policies, procedures and standards.
- Recommends and reviews audits in coordination with other central authorities to ensure compliance with corporate IM/IT policies, procedures and standards.
- Accesses audit report data to identify information management practices, and information system infrastructure and applications.
- Identifies information necessary for the performance of the Government CIO's duties from any public officer.

d) Advising Government

- Advises senior ministry decision makers, committees and councils, Treasury Board and Cabinet regarding telecommunications, access rights in the public and private sector, privacy, information and technology management, records management, security and electronic service delivery.
- Provides analysis and recommendations to Treasury Board Staff on initiatives, submissions and/or proposals related to information and technology management.

Strategic IM/IT Planning:

a) IM/IT Planning Framework

- Leads the strategic planning process for corporate IM/IT governance.
- Develops, maintains and facilitates the implementation of an integrated government-wide IM/IT planning framework.
- Facilitates the corporate strategic IM/IT planning process and ensures the alignment of IM/IT plans with government's strategic direction.
- Develops and maintains working relationships with Broader Public Sector (BPS) CIOs to communicate government's IM/IT strategic direction and promote the alignment of BPS IM/IT with core government.
- Ensures that the Province is aware of and keeping pace with legislation, policy trends and issues in other jurisdictions.
- Defines corporate vendor engagement strategies to deliver government's IM/IT priorities.

b) Information Resource Planning

- Provides leadership and strategic direction to ministries for the development of the annual Information Resource Management Planning (IRMP) process.
- Coordinates ministry IRMPs with government's IM/IT strategic directions and priorities.

c) IM/IT Human Resource Capital Planning

- Recommends the strategic direction for human resource capital needed to focus on IM/IT functions across government.
- Identifies human, financial and technical resources required to deliver corporate IM/IT strategic plan.
- Advises Public Service Agency on IM/IT human resource capacity required to achieve government's IM/IT strategic directions and priorities.
- Ensures that awareness and training activities inform staff and contractors of their rights, roles and accountabilities for the security, privacy and management of government's IM/IT assets.

Strategic Infrastructure Development:

- Defines the technological direction and framework for IM/IT across government.
- Provides the strategic direction for cross-ministry IM/IT projects.
- Evaluates new information technologies to determine applicability to government business processes.
- Ensures that structures and reporting relationships for IM/IT sub-committees support strategic infrastructure development. Reviews the IM/IT implications of agreements involving compatibility with government's IM/IT infrastructure and strategic directions.
- Designs strategic infrastructure and coordinates activities to enable stakeholder participation in development of the next generation government network.
- Closes the Digital Divide for First Nations communities, and establishes the basis for implementing the next generation government network.
- Provides leadership and obtains resources for key IM/IT projects to facilitate the ongoing development of government's strategic infrastructure.

Transformational Opportunity Analysis:

- Chairs the CIO Council.
- Advises ministries on the hiring of the ministry CIO.
- Researches and reports on transformational activities and leading IM/IT practices in other jurisdictions.
- Identifies and assesses transformational or integrating IM/IT opportunities in government and, where requested, in the Broader Public Sector.
- Promotes the development of cross-government business processes and an enterprise architecture.
- Ensures alignment to the government's strategic direction for major IM/IT projects and projects with service integration implications through project milestone sign-offs and final project approvals.
- Proposes efficiency and effectiveness measures for improvements in the application of information and technology.

Security:

- Provides the overall strategic direction and policy for securing government's information technology infrastructure and government records including electronic information.
- Ensures that measures are established to assess compliance with IM/IT security policies, procedures and standards.

Ministry Chief Information Officer

Governance and Policy:

a) Governance Authority

- Reports to their respective ministry ADM accountable for IM/IT, with a functional reporting relationship between the Government CIO and the ministry CIO.
- Maintains accountability for all business and operational IM/IT initiatives that have no cross-government implications.
- Maintains accountability for IM, budgets, records management, forms management, privacy, security, e-services, business architecture, ministry applications, information management, IM/IT strategic planning and IT (including ministry infrastructure).
- Manages information and technology, and all related support activities.
- Ensures that the delegated responsibility for information and technology is carried out fully.
- Develops an IM/IT workforce strategy to support business transformation, information protection, business continuity and succession planning in consultation with the ministry Strategic HR Director.

b) Legislation

- Provides legislated Personal Information Directory summaries for the Personal Information Directory.

c) Policies and Standards

- Reinforces IM/IT core policies and standards from a risk management perspective.

d) Compliance Monitoring

- Ensures compliance with the IM/IT core policies and standards.

e) Advice to Government

- Ensures that information technology plans address human resource requirements in terms of job design, training and working environment.

Strategic IM/IT Planning:

a) IM/IT Planning Framework

- Establishes strategic direction, consistent with overall government IM/IT direction.
- Participates in ministry service plans and corporate IM/IT planning.
- Accesses the Executive table of each ministry, with stronger emphasis on strategic discussions, rather than just operational issues.

b) Information Resource Planning

- Plans the three year Information Resource Management Plan.
- Works together with other ministry CIOs on horizontal initiatives, both within and across sectors, and adapting to changing priorities.

c) IM/IT Human Capital Planning

- Develops staff to make safe, effective and efficient use of information and technology.
- Manages ministry information resources, ensuring that sound information management practices are followed.

Transformational Opportunity Analysis:

- Provides business analysis and project management expertise.

Strategic Infrastructure Development:

- Functions with a greater role in Information Management within their ministry.
- Supports ministry line of businesses applications.
- Supports ministry-unique applications.
- Develops ministry specific applications if and when required.

Security:

- Protects information holdings in all physical, electronic and digital formats commensurate with its value and sensitivity at all stages in the life cycle of the activity to preserve the confidentiality, integrity, availability, intended use and value of all records.
- Uses security categories approved by Risk Management Branch.
- Identifies and categorizes information and other assets based on the degree of injury (low, medium, high).

12.3 Policy

12.3.1 Appropriate Use of Government Resources

Objectives

- Meet the requirements mandated by the Standards of Conduct.
- Maximize productivity and prevent risks to network security and performance.
- Protect the privacy, confidentiality and security of government's information.
- Increase adherence to government information and technology-related legislation, policies and standards.
- Promote public trust in government's use of information and technology assets.

General

All users of government's information and technology resources must take responsibility for, and accept the duty to, actively protect information and technology assets. This includes taking responsibility to be aware of, and adhere to, all relevant legislation, policies and standards. Government uses information technologies to support employees and other authorized users to work efficiently in delivering services to citizens. Proper use of these technologies assists in the daily management of information, saves time and money, reduces administrative overhead and improves service delivery. The technologies include, but are not limited to, information systems, services (e.g., web services; messaging services); computers (e.g., hardware, software); and telecommunications networks and associated assets (e.g., telephones, facsimiles, cell phones, laptops, personal digital assistants). Improper use may jeopardize the confidentiality, integrity and availability of government's information and technology assets, and may put personal information protection, security or service levels at risk.

Policy

a) Appropriate Use of Information Technology

1. Users must use government-provided information technology resources as the business tools required to do their work and provide efficient service delivery. This use is subject to the same restrictions and management review process as any other government resource.
2. Users must use information and technology resources in accordance with the Standards of Conduct, and applicable terms and conditions. The following conditions, and others that may be established by the Government CIO from time to time, apply to all users:

Users must not:

- attempt to circumvent or subvert system or network security measures;
- propagate viruses knowingly or maliciously;
- detrimentally affect the productivity, integrity or security of government systems;
- obtain files from unauthorized or questionable non-government sources (e.g., racist material, pornography, file swapping sites);
- access Internet sites that might bring the public service into disrepute or harm government's reputation, such as those that carry offensive material;
- access radio stations or video clips (typically referred to as "streaming" audio or video) over the Internet, unless the access is work-related and authorized;
- download non-work related files, such as Freeware, Shareware, movie or music files;
- divulge, share or compromise their own or another's government authentication credentials;
- transmit or otherwise expose sensitive or personal information to the internet;
- use information and technology resources for commercial solicitation or for conducting or pursuing their own business interests or those of another organization;
- distribute hoaxes, chain letters, or advertisements;
- send rude, obscene or harassing messages;
- send, forward and/or reply to large distribution lists concerning non-government business. In addition, users must consider the impact on the network when creating and using large, work-related distribution lists; and
- attempt to obscure the origin of any message or download material under an assumed internet address.

Users must:

- comply with all applicable legislation, regulations, policies and standards;
 - use all appropriate anti-virus precautions when accessing non-government data and systems from the government network;
 - adhere to licensing agreements for all software used;
 - respect copyright and other intellectual property rights in relation to both programs and data;
 - only use the email account provided by government from the government network when exchanging email with outside systems;
 - use approved security measures when accessing the government network from home or a non-government computer;
 - only use messaging forums (e.g., Internet Relay Chat, internet newsgroups) when conducting work-related business or exchanging technical or analytical information; and
 - use the rules for complex passwords to create password.
3. Employees must have their manager's permission for the personal use of government information technology resources. Personal use of government information technology resources must not occur during peak hours (i.e., 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.) and must be consistent with professional conduct and the Standards of Conduct.
 4. Any content created or transmitted using government equipment or retained within the government network will be managed as a government record. There is no expectation of personal privacy related to the use of government information technology resources except for specific privileged communications (i.e., Cabinet, solicitor/client, and union representative communications).
 5. Inappropriate use of government information technology resources will be investigated on a case-by-case basis. Individuals misusing government information technology resources are subject to disciplinary action, including dismissal, cancellation of contract, and/or other legal remedies.

12.3.2 Information and Technology Planning

Objectives

- Establish planning tools to integrate government's strategic information and technology directions, ministry service plans, and information management and information technology plans.
- Help ministries align information and technology investments with program objectives, and improve services to the public.
- Improve accountability on information and technology initiatives.
- Evolve an enterprise architecture plan that supports the information and technology needs of government.
- Provide strategies for managing information and technology during daily operations, including critical incidents management.
- Facilitate the re-establishment of operations during, and immediately following, a critical incident or other serious disruption.

General

The Office of the CIO oversees the information and technology planning cycle to locate, foster and monitor key issues, opportunities and investments in e-government infrastructure and services. The Government CIO has overall responsibility for the Information Resource Management Planning (IRMP) process. This annual planning cycle is driven by the broader business planning cycle of the government (see CPPM chapter 3, Part 1, Objectives). The development of an IRMP helps ministries align information and technology investments with government strategic plans, ministry service plans, information management and technology plans and program objectives to provide improved services to the businesses and citizens of British Columbia. The IRMP provides an opportunity to assess and strategize for optimization of shared services and consider or implement alternate service delivery approaches.

Vital records and business continuity planning is another key planning area that ensures government's business will continue by keeping information safe and accessible and timely recovery of operations following a service disruption. Plans must include how to re-establish the systems and records that enable government to operate effective and efficiently. Service disruptions can range from a short term inability to access records or services to more significant longer term critical incidents where entire networks may be affected.

Policy

a) Information Resource Management Plans

1. An update of a three to five year Information Resource Management Plan must be submitted annually to the Government Chief Information Officer and Treasury Board Staff.

b) Vital Records and Information Technology Business Continuity Plans

1. Government must create and maintain a business continuity plan that includes identification and management of its vital records.
2. Vital records must be maintained so that re-establishing the legal, financial and functional responsibilities of government is achieved quickly after a catastrophic event or crisis.
3. Vital records must be maintained in a manner that meets current environmental and security standards.
4. Ministries must develop, or work with their supporting infrastructure technology service providers to develop, Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Plans on all information systems and the associated technology infrastructure and test them regularly.

See CPPM chapter 16 Business Continuity Management, chapter 14 Risk Management and the Government CIO website Information Resource Management Planning.

12.3.3 Information Management

Part I: Data Management and Architecture

Objectives

- Derive maximum business benefit from information and technology.
- Facilitate and enhance government's ability to make informed decisions.
- Improve the accuracy and timeliness of data.
- Increase system effectiveness and efficient access to data.
- Share data within legislative authority to improve service delivery to citizens of British Columbia.

General

To demonstrate that services are delivered efficiently and effectively, government must have access to the data in various computer systems, files and reports. Consistent data management practices allow a common structure for data access, integrated programs/services, data sharing and interoperability with government information systems. The use of data within government is governed by legislation that applies to all public bodies. More specific legislation also authorizes ministry program management and information collection including, in some cases, personal information.

Policy

a) Data Management

1. The Government CIO must define, maintain and publish government data definitions and structures to maximize the business value of shared data.
2. Data and corresponding information systems must be identified, classified, inventoried, documented and maintained throughout their lifecycle.

3. Ministries must establish and maintain a data administration/architecture program to manage the design, integrity, availability, and efficient use of data and information systems.
4. Data and corresponding information systems must have an identified Data Custodian.

See Data Administration Standards.

Part II: Personal Information Protection

Objectives

- Ensure the lawful collection, use, retention, disclosure, disposition and security of personal information by public bodies within British Columbia.
- Assure citizens that privacy principles are being taken into account during the design, implementation and evolution of programs, systems and services.
- Ensure that Privacy Impact Assessments are completed and that privacy issues that arise through these assessments are dealt with prior to implementation.
- Ensure that Information Sharing Agreements are completed when a ministry shares personal information with a party external to the ministry.
- Record summaries of Information Sharing Agreements, Privacy Impact Assessments and Personal Information Banks in the Personal Information Directory.

General

To promote government accountability and protect personal information privacy as described in the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (the Act) all public bodies must comply with the provisions of the Act and its regulation. The FOIPPA Policy and Procedures Manual is a supplemental manual (publicly available) that interprets the Act by describing the operational policies and procedures that ministries and other government offices must use in carrying out their legislated responsibilities. In some cases public bodies may have other legislation specific to their business that adds privacy, confidentiality or security provisions regarding personal information management, (e.g., Medicare Protection Act).

Two standard tools that assist ministries in the management of personal information are Privacy Impact Assessments (PIA) and Information Sharing Agreements. Ministries are required to conduct a PIA for new or revised projects, programs, applications, systems or new enactments. The PIA process determines if the privacy protection requirements of the Act are met. In all cases part 1 (basic information) of the PIA should be completed to assess whether personal information is being collected. Where it is determined that personal information is collected the complete PIA is required, whereas if it is not being collected then only part 1 is required. The PIA supports government business objectives by ensuring the collection, use, retention, disclosure and security of information is conducted consistent with the Act and government policies, procedures and protocols. Information Sharing Agreements establish relationships, responsibilities, security requirements, access rights, and authentication requirements between ministries and the data consumers to whom they supply government information. Information Sharing Agreements may also be used in conjunction with alternate service delivery data management contracts and privacy protection schedules or with research agreements to clarify responsibilities of all of the involved parties.

The Act requires that the Minister Responsible for this Act must maintain and publish a Personal Information Directory (PID) to provide summary information about records in the custody or under the control of ministries of the government of British Columbia and about the use and disclosure of those records. The IM/IT Privacy and Legislation Branch of the Government CIO's office (see Information and Privacy) maintains the central directory of Personal Information Banks, Privacy Impact Assessments and Information Sharing Agreements created by and/or operating on behalf of provincial ministries. Ministries as custodians of the data have the knowledge of the personal information holdings and the responsibility to supply the summaries for inclusion into the PID in a timely manner.

To ensure a proactive privacy framework, sound principles of privacy, security and confidentiality must be understood by all users of personal data and incorporated into daily practice within public bodies. This involves developing a culture where privacy is seen as a design objective for information and technology not an obstacle to be overcome. Personal privacy is a right protected through legislation, policies and best practices by the Government of British Columbia.

Policy

a) Privacy Impact Assessments

1. A Privacy Impact Assessment (PIA) must be conducted to determine if a project, program, application, system or new enactment collects, uses, retains or discloses or secures personal information.
2. A preliminary PIA must be completed during the feasibility or initiation stage of any project, program, application, system or enactment. A formal PIA must be finalized, including the sections on security and retention of personal information, before implementation of any project, program, application, system or enactment.
3. Ministries must review existing summaries in the government Personal Information Directory, PIA section, at least once a year, and submit new summaries as needed within 30 days of the final signing off of a PIA.

b) Information Sharing Agreements

1. Ministries must develop Information Sharing Agreements to cover personal information exchanges outside of the immediate program area, as required. These agreements must include a compliance review requirement and schedule of planned reviews.
2. Ministries must review existing sharing agreement summaries in the government Personal Information Directory, Information Sharing Agreement section, at least annually, and submit new summaries as needed within 30 days after approval of an Information Sharing Agreement.

c) Personal Information Banks

1. Ministries must maintain a directory of Personal Information Banks and review the existing Personal Information Banks summaries in the government Personal Information Directory at least annually.
2. New Personal Information Bank summaries must be submitted to the government Personal Information Directory within 30 days of implementation.

d) Personal Information Management

1. People who manage access or use government information must receive privacy and information management training on initial employment and as required thereafter.
2. Personal information in the custody or control of public bodies must be stored, managed and accessed solely within Canada throughout its lifecycle, except in specified circumstances.
3. Remote access from a foreign country to personal data, including viewing, is prohibited except in specified circumstances.
4. Ministries must use the principles of "need-to-know" and "least privilege" when authorizing access to personal information.

Part III: Managing Information

Objectives

- Assign responsibility and accountability for the management of information within the custody, or under the control of, government.
- Assure compliance with legislation, policies and standards.
- Create and retain a full and accurate record documenting decisions and actions.
- Provide relevant information in a timely, useable, cost-effective, and accurate manner.
- Preserve government information in a manner that retains the information's authenticity, reliability, accessibility and integrity for as long as required.
- Support transparent and effective access to government information within legally established privacy and confidentiality restrictions.

General

The Interpretation Act definition of "record" includes all recorded information, whatever the media or format. Information management is a core component of government infrastructure and ensures that critical characteristics such as authenticity, reliability, integrity and usability of a record are preserved and protected for as long as required.

Government must appropriately provide access to, manage, preserve and dispose of its records in compliance with the Document Disposal Act, the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, and other relevant legislation, policies and standards, in order to:

- ensure government accountability;
- provide evidence of its activities and organizational structure;
- document its responsibilities, rights and entitlements; and
- preserve records of enduring value.

Records deemed to have enduring value will be preserved in the government archives. Government records are eligible for final disposition when their scheduled active and semi-active retention periods have expired.

The Government of British Columbia standards for the classification and scheduling of its records are documented in the Administrative Records Classification System (ARCS), the Operational Records Classification Systems (ORCS), ongoing records schedules and other approved records schedules. ARCS and ORCS support the automated scheduling and classification of records within an Enterprise Document and Records Management System (EDRMS). The implementation of the government standard EDRMS software in conjunction with other digital preservation practices and procedures (e.g., storage and media management, metadata standards) supports government's requirements for long-term records preservation.

Policy

a) Governance of Recorded Information

1. Government must manage all records created and received during the conduct of its business activities.
2. Ministries must establish and maintain a recorded information management program.
3. Ministries must establish and maintain a forms management program.
4. Government records must be managed and preserved to remain authentic, reliable, trustworthy, secure, complete and accessible over time and location regardless of media or format.
5. Ministries transferring records to off-site storage must use approved records centres.

See CPPM chapter 15, Security.

b) Classification, Scheduling and Maintenance of Government Records

1. Ministries must implement and maintain the government standard records classification and scheduling systems (i.e., ARCS, ORCS, Ongoing Records Schedules).
2. Ministries must develop records classification systems for their operational records (ORCS).
3. Ministries must use the government standard Enterprise Document and Records Management System (EDRMS) when implementing an electronic document and records management system.
4. Government records must remain authentic, reliable and accessible after any conversion or migration from one media, format, or system to another.

c) Storage and Disposition of Government Records

1. Government records must be disposed of securely in accordance with approved records retention and disposition schedules and asset management processes.
2. Ministries must establish internal records disposition procedures.
3. Government records scheduled for archival retention must be maintained in a manner that preserves their integrity and authenticity up to and throughout transfer to the government archives.
4. Government records scheduled for destruction must be destroyed in a method appropriate for the recording media and that maintains the security of the information and the privacy of individuals.

See CPPM chapter 6, Disposal of Surplus Assets, chapter 8, Asset Management and chapter 20, Loss Management.

d) Working Outside the Workplace

1. Reasonable security measures must be made to safeguard electronic storage devices and paper-based confidential and/or personal information while in transport and in use outside the workplace.
2. The most appropriate electronic method for accessing confidential and/or personal information must be established prior to working outside the workplace in accordance with the Working Outside the Workplace Policy.
3. Confidential and/or personal information must not be downloaded/stored to a non-government computer or other device (for example, smartphone, memory stick/card, external hard drive, etc.).

See the Working Outside the Workplace Policy

Part IV: Sharing of Government Information

Objectives

- Adhere to government strategic directions for information management.
- Respond to citizens' needs and expectations of connecting with government electronically, and increasing government accountability to the public.
- Improve ministry products, services and programs.
- Enhance understanding of information used to make decisions.
- Promote efficient and effective sharing while leveraging experience and knowledge of data already collected within government.

- Exchange personal information between a public body and a person, a group of persons or an organization, as allowed within privacy and ministry-specific legislation regarding personal information.

General

Government information is an asset that may be under the custody or control of a ministry or other government agency but is collected for, and owned corporately by, the Crown, i.e., the Province. To achieve the government's goal of effective and efficient citizen-centred service delivery, and to improve public service outcomes, the sharing of relevant information by authorized users must be done across service teams and for common or integrated programs. Sharing of information must be allowed under the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act or another enactment prior to disclosure. The authorized and appropriate use of information within government benefits the citizens and the Government of British Columbia. In particular:

- Routine release is the disclosure of information held by a public body without the necessity of a more costly formal Freedom of Information request.
- Contacting government electronically is becoming a normal part of communications between government, businesses and citizens in British Columbia. An employee's work email address is defined in the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act as contact information and is not therefore personal information. However, the release of a government email address may be restricted in cases involving employee health and safety issues.
- Legally mandated information-sharing requests, e.g., where requirements to disclose information for legal cases or inquiries, are to be addressed to the appropriate ministry solicitor, Legal Services Branch.

Policy

a) Routine Release of Information

1. Ministries must promote the routine release of information, where allowed by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act.
2. Ministries may charge fees for information made available routinely, as pre-approved by Treasury Board.

b) Internal Use of Government Information Assets

1. Originating ministries providing information to internal-to-government users must not charge for information in its basic format. The originating ministry is to determine the basic format for the information. Special circumstances to be negotiated between the two parties.
2. The originating ministry must allow access to information for internal-to-government users in its basic format in the most cost-effective manner (e.g., intranet website). Information access costs are to be borne by the requesting ministry.
3. The information held by the originating ministry must be considered the correct or official version. Internal-to-government users must ensure that the most current version of information be used.
4. Requesting ministries do not have the right to reproduce, market or distribute information to external-to-government users without the approval of the originating ministry. Originating ministries should develop and provide liability disclaimers appropriate for the information being disseminated.
5. To protect confidentiality and security, the information being shared must be documented and shared only on a need-to-know and least privilege basis.

See CPPM chapter 7, section 7.3.2 Fees and Licenses, Privacy Protection Schedule (PPS) and Procurement, Part I, 6.3.3.e, Administration, policy 12.

c) Publication of Government Email Addresses

1. Government email addresses, including generic office email addresses, must be kept up to date and published in the British Columbia Government Directory except where exempted for health and safety reasons.
2. Generic office email IDs may be used when required to meet operational requirements. A specific, designated owner must manage each generic office email ID.
3. Individual alias email IDs must not be used.
4. Government email addresses must not be made available electronically in bulk form external to government (e.g., electronic files, distribution lists).
5. Government e-mail addresses must use the government naming convention (i.e., `firstname.surname@gov.bc.ca`) and must not include a host name.

d) Disclosure Requirements for Legal Proceedings

1. Ministries must list all relevant records in their custody or control under the Attorney General's discovery of documents.
2. Government records destruction schedules must be suspended during court orders for Demand of Discovery.

3. Records disposition must be suspended during legally mandated reviews (e.g., litigation, document discovery, and commissions of inquiry.)

e) Crown Copyright

See CPPM chapter 6 Procurement, section 6.3.4.e, Crown Copyright.

f) Intellectual Property

See CPPM chapter 6 Procurement, section 6.3.4.f., Disposal of Intellectual Property.

12.3.4 Electronic Identity Management

Objectives

- Interact electronically with businesses and citizens to conduct business transactions.
- Facilitate the legal use of electronic signatures in e-services between government and citizens and businesses.
- Provide assurance to users of e-services that the privacy, confidentiality, integrity and security of their information will be maintained to the highest possible standard.
- Promote public confidence in management of the identity and eligibility information used for government electronic service delivery.

General

BC government strategic direction includes a commitment to integrate services and to deliver them electronically where possible. This strategy supports a client-centric framework that will assist and enable ministries to deliver services better through improved access to business and citizen online services.

To enable electronic service delivery, the BC government passed the Electronic Transactions Act to support its move into the global electronic economy. The principle purpose of the Act is to provide legal equivalence between paper and electronic documents and signatures, except in limited circumstances.

Identity management consists of a number of processes that include:

- registration and issuing of electronic identities and credentials;
- identity proofing - how government proves an individual is who they claim to be;
- authentication - how government knows a user is who they claim to be when accessing services online;
- authorization - decisions about what services an individual is eligible for; and
- access controls - controls around what information a user will see and how users' views will be managed.

Policy

a) Electronic Signatures

1. Ministries must consider the benefits of using electronic signatures in all e-service initiative designs, and choose the manner of signature(s) that best serves the initiative.

b) Identity Management

1. All users must have a unique application user logon profile.
2. Government e-services requiring user authentication must use the Enterprise Security Gateway for authentication, unless an exemption has been granted by the Government CIO.

12.3.5 Information Technology Management

Objectives

- Promote the principles and best practices of project management in all information and technology projects.
- Provide a context for overall government direction within which ministries can establish their information and technology architecture directions.
- Maximize information technology system to system and human to system interoperability.
- Maximize effectiveness and efficiency of information technology implementation and operations.

- Encourage compatibility and supportability across the government's information and technology environment.
- Lower service costs to government through effective information technology procurement practice.
- Optimize the use, performance and cost of information technology resources.

General

In British Columbia government strategic direction includes a commitment to integrate services and to deliver them electronically where possible. This strategy supports a client centric framework that will assist and enable ministries to deliver services better, through improved access to business and citizen online services.

Professional project management is the basis for developing sound strategic and operational information and technology initiatives. Project management includes incorporating best practices, standards and proven methodologies to foster a consistent formal approach that maximizes success in information and technology initiatives.

Corporate information technology standards serve as a "building code" to provide client centered services regarding interoperability, efficiency, security and privacy while recognizing that the least amount of regulation promotes innovation and where appropriate, competition. This will result in some standards being high-level (e.g., statements of best practices, industry standards, and recognized leading methodologies) while others, of necessity, will be at a lower level (e.g., services, products, or tools).

The purpose of corporate shared services is to employ best practices in cost control, optimizing return on investments, implementing standardization and improving the effectiveness and efficiency of services, products and tools. The Government CIO has authority to identify where a corporate approach should be used in planning for shared services, new initiatives and procuring information and technology assets. (see CPPM Chapter 6, section 6.3.5 a, Information Management and Information Technology Procurement).

Evaluations provide assurance to Treasury Board, the Government CIO and senior ministry management that information technology best practices, policies, standards and guidelines have been implemented and are functioning effectively across government. Routine evaluation of information technology is a change management methodology that impacts daily operations, service delivery planning, modifying existing systems or implementing new systems, and forms a key component of Enterprise Risk Management feeding into the annual business planning cycle.

Policy

a) Information and Technology Project Management

1. Responsibility for the management and control of information and technology projects resides with executive-level program management through the annual IRMP process.
2. Ministries must select a methodology for the development of information systems appropriate for the size, complexity, nature and cost of the development project.
3. A Project Steering Committee must be established to provide direction and decision making for any high-risk major development project.
4. Major information and technology projects must be monitored against a documented master project plan.
5. Post Implementation Reviews must be done on all major projects.
6. Development of information systems must be conducted by the private sector unless an exemption is granted by the Government CIO.
7. Information system application plans that will use or interface with a shared computer facility or service must include a government-wide approach and, where available, use shared services to achieve economies of scale in the use and management of information and technology.
8. Development of new financial systems or enhancements, changes or revisions to existing ones must be formally approved in accordance with CPPM chapter 13, Financial Systems and Controls.
9. Development of new electronic commerce systems or enhancements, changes or revisions must be formally approved by Banking and Cash Management to ensure compliance with payment card industry (PCI) standards.

See CPPM chapter 7, section 7.3.8 - Acceptance of Electronic Payments, and the IM/IT Standards Manual.

b) Information Technology Standards

1. Standards and exemptions from published standards, must be approved by the Government CIO.
2. Standards must support the efficient, secure operation of systems while maintaining privacy.
3. Standards must provide the least amount of regulation to promote innovation and competition, where appropriate.
4. Standards must maximize effectiveness and efficiency for information technology planning, design, implementation and operations.

c) Information and Technology Procurement and Unsolicited Proposals

1. Government-wide approaches and standards must be used in information and technology asset procurement and in managing unsolicited information and technology proposals by vendors.

See CPPM chapter 6, section 6.3.5, Information Management and Information Technology Procurement.

d) Information Technology Operations and Evaluation

1. Ministries, in conjunction with Workplace Technology Services, must establish and maintain inventories of computer hardware, software and related communications equipment.
2. Ministries must identify a funding source in the annual ministry information technology plan for the evaluation of compliance, system or security controls identified for a project, system or application.

See CPPM chapter 8, Asset Management and chapter 20, Loss Management.

12.3.6 Information and Technology Security

Objectives

- Ensure appropriate security measures are established for all data, information, applications, hardware, associated documentation and computer facilities.
- Support incorporation of privacy principles in the design of information systems.
- Support access to data, software and computer facilities, based on demonstrated need and authorization.
- Ensure information is viewed and managed as an asset that must be protected commensurate with its value.
- Select only those vendors who will undertake to comply with the security policies of this chapter when contracting for data processing services or engaged in alternate service delivery initiatives.

General

Security is the responsibility of all employees, contractors and others who have access to, use or manage the information and technology assets of government. Information systems security includes the protection of personal data, systems, documentation, computer-generated information and facilities from accidental or deliberate threats to confidentiality, integrity or availability. Security policies apply to all locations where information is processed or stored by, or on behalf of government (e.g., Workplace Technology Services, ministry and contracted computer facilities).

Policy

a) Security

1. A formal management framework will be established to initiate, implement, monitor and enforce information and technology security within the Government of British Columbia.
2. Security requirements must be assessed, identified and documented to determine security implications and control requirements when there is a requirement for third parties to access government assets. Security controls must be documented and agreed to with the third party.
3. Information and technology assets must be classified, inventoried and recorded with an identified owner who is responsible for achieving and maintaining appropriate protection of those assets.
4. Users of government assets must continue to be aware of, and understand, their role in reducing the risk of theft, fraud or misuse of government assets. Changes in responsibilities, roles, contracts or employments must be managed.
5. Operating procedures must be documented and monitored to ensure the correct and secure operation of information and communication technologies.
6. Third party service delivery agreements must be monitored for compliance, and changes managed to ensure that the services delivered meet or exceed specified requirements.
7. Operational requirements for new systems must be established, documented and tested prior to acceptance and use. Future capacity requirements should be made to reduce the risk of system overload or failure.
8. Documents, computer media, data and system documentation must be protected from unauthorized disclosure, modification, removal or destruction.
9. Data and information exchanges within government, or with an external entity, must be secure and managed through a documented process.
10. Government information and technology assets will be monitored regularly and logs maintained to identify inappropriate access, use, or other security events.
11. Access to information, systems, and business processes must be managed and controlled on the basis of business and security requirements.

12. Access to, or from, internal and external networks and network services must be managed and controlled.
13. Security requirements must be assessed, identified, documented, and agreed to during all stages of development.
14. The security controls of new or modified information systems and services must be reviewed prior to implementation.
15. Information and technology assets will be protected commensurate with the identified risks and security requirements.
16. Information security incidents, events and weaknesses must be managed and communicated to the Government Chief Information Officer for corrective action, if appropriate.
17. Information security management requirements must be integrated into the business continuity planning process to protect information systems and communication technologies from disasters, loss of service or information security failures.
18. The security of information systems and communications technologies must be regularly reviewed to ensure compliance with applicable legislation, policies, standards and documented security controls.

b) Reporting the Loss or Unauthorized Disclosure of Government Information

1. The Government Chief Information Officer is responsible for the coordination, investigation, and resolution of information incidents.
2. All actual or suspected information incidents must be reported immediately using the Information Incident Management Process.
3. The Government Chief Information Officer is responsible on behalf of government, for liaising with the Office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner regarding an actual or suspected privacy breach.

See CPPM chapter 15, Security and CPPM L, Loss Reporting, and the Information Security Policy Manual.

12.4 Information and References

12.4.1 Definitions

Administrative Records Classification System (ARCS) – The government-wide standard for classifying, filing, retrieving and disposition scheduling of administrative records. ARCS also includes freedom of information and protection of privacy designations. ARCS is a block numeric system, reflecting function and subject. See also ORCS.

Application – A collection of computer hardware, computer programs, databases, procedures and knowledge workers that work together to perform a related group of services or business processes.

Attorney General's discovery of documents – A demand for discovery of the documents which are or have been in the party's possession or control relating to any matter in question in the action, and the other party shall comply with the demand by delivering a list of the documents that are or have been in the party's possession or control relating to every matter in question in the action.

Basic format information – information used by the originating ministry to conduct its business. Examples could include raw data or value-added information in either electronic or hard copy formats.

Computer media – An object or device that electronic information is stored on. It includes, but is not limited to, tapes, disks, diskettes and computer hard drives.

Court ordered for Demand of Discovery – The court may order that a party deliver a list of the documents that relate to a matter in question in the action to any other party and that, although not in the possession or control of the party against whom the order is made, are within that party's power.

Data – The data that is an individual fact (datum) or multiple facts (data), or a value, or a set of values, but is not significant to a business in and of itself. Data is the raw material stored in a structured manner that, given context, turns into information.

Data Custodian – A senior manager for a business area responsible for data requirements, standards, access rules, business training, etc. They define the business value, scope, standards and services of the organization's data within the context of their mandate.

Electronic Signature – Information in electronic form that a person has created or adopted in order to sign a record and that is in, attached to, or associated with, the record.

Government – Any ministry, agency, board, commission, Crown corporation, institution, committee or council reporting or responsible to the Government of British Columbia.

Government records – All records, regardless of physical format, that are received, created, deposited, or held by or in any ministry, agency, board, commission, Crown corporation, institution, committee or council reporting or responsible to the Government of British Columbia.

The Interpretation Act (RSBRITISH COLUMBIA 1996, c. 238, s. 29) defines "record" as follows: "'record' includes books, documents, maps, drawings, photographs, letters, vouchers, papers and any other thing on which information is recorded or stored by any means whether graphic, electronic, mechanical or otherwise."

Government records consist of records in every physical format, including electronic records, film, audio and audiovisual tapes.

Government records include cabinet ministers' records that are created and/or accumulated and used by a minister (or a minister's office) in developing, implementing and/or administering programs of government. Government records do not include legislative records.

The retention and final disposition of most government records is governed by the Document Disposal Act. See also Executive records, MLA records, Non-government records, Personal records.

Host Name – Any name that is included in an email ID that can be used to identify the network address of a computer.

Information – The data in context. The meaning given to data or the interpretation of data, based on its context, for purposes of decision-making. The finished product as a result of the interpretation of the data.

Information Incident - a single or a series of unwanted or unexpected events that threaten privacy or information security. Information incidents include the collection, use, disclosure, access, disposal, or storage of information, whether accidental or deliberate, that is not authorized by the business owner of that information. Information incidents include privacy breaches (see the Process for Responding to Privacy Breaches). 12.3.6

Information and Technology Resources – Information and communications technologies, including data, information systems, network services (e.g., web services; messaging services); computers (e.g., hardware, software); telecommunications networks, and associated assets (e.g., telephones, facsimiles, cell phones, laptops, personal digital assistants).

Information Management – The application of systematic planning, controls and standards to the creation, use, transmission, retrieval, retention, conversion, final disposition, and preservation of information resources in all formats, and the improvement of information handling systems of all kinds.

Information System – A system (including people, machines, methods of organization, and procedures) which provides input, storage, processing, communications, output and control functions in relation to information and data. Normally used to describe computerized systems, including data processing facilities, data base administration, hardware and software which contain machine-readable records. A collection of manual and automated components that manages a specific data set or information resource.

Information Technology – The common term for the entire spectrum of technologies for information processing, including software, hardware, communications technologies and related services.

Internet – The global interconnection of data networks or bulletin board systems that commonly use (but are not limited to) the Internet Protocol.

Least Privilege – A security principle requiring that each subject in a system be granted the most restrictive set of privileges (or lowest clearance) needed for the performance of authorized tasks. The application of this principle limits the damage that can result from accident, error or unauthorized use.

Major Project – A project that is over six months duration or identified as high risk or cost greater than or equal to $250,000.

Master Project Plan – A document that describes the common vision of the project, the overall project management functions, specific deliverables and establishes the detailed project workplan and budget.

Need-to-know – A privacy principle where access is restricted to authorized individuals whose duties require such access. Individuals are not entitled to access merely because of status, rank or office.

The need-to-know principle may be implemented in various ways. These include physically segregating and controlling access to certain records, listing individuals who may access certain records, or installing access controls on automated information systems.

The need-to-know principle is especially important in protecting the privacy of individuals as required by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act.

Ongoing records schedule – A records schedule that authorizes the retention and final disposition, on a continuing basis, of the types of records described in the schedule. ARCS and ORCS serve as ongoing records schedules for ministry or agency administrative records and operational records. Special records schedules are another type of ongoing records schedules.

Operational Records Classification System (ORCS) – An integrated records classification and scheduling system tailored to the operational records of a specific function or program of government, in accordance with government-wide standards. ORCS facilitate classification, filing, retrieval and disposition; ORCS may also be used to identify vital records and freedom of information and privacy designations. ORCS is a block numeric records classification system, reflecting function and subject.

Originating ministry – The ministry or agency which is the prime or original holder of the information.

Payment Card Industry (PCI) Standards – payment systems standards issued through the international Payment Card Industry Security Standards Council and required by the payment card industry.

Record – Includes books, documents, maps, drawings, photographs, letters, vouchers, papers and any other thing on which information is recorded or stored by any means whether graphic, electronic, mechanical or otherwise.

Requesting ministry – The ministry or agency requesting information from the originating ministry. This policy will use the term "information" to encompass raw data, summaries, abstractions, consolidations and other products derived from data.

Routine Release – The disclosure of certain types of information as a matter of course without the necessity of a formal Freedom of Information (FOI) request. Routine release includes, but is not limited to, the release of records that have been designated as available without a formal request under section 71 of the Act. Routine release may be reactive (responding to requests for information when received) or proactive (systematically disseminating information in advance of requests using mechanisms such as the Internet, libraries, etc.).

Security event – An identified occurrence of a system or service state indicating a possible breach of information security policy or failure of safeguards, or a previously unknown situation that may be security relevant.

User – Persons (including employees and contractors) authorized to access and/or use government information technology resources.

Vital Records – The records of government that contain information essential to:

- conduct of emergency operations during and immediately following a disaster;
- resumption/continuation of government services or operations;
- re-establishment of the legal, financial and functional responsibilities of government; and
- re-establishment of the rights and obligations of individuals, corporate bodies and other governments with respect to the Government of British Columbia.

1. Introduction

1.1 General

This document explains the purpose, organization, and elements of the Administrative Records Classification System (ARCS) and Operational Records Classification Systems (ORCS). It is designed to help you understand, interpret and use ARCS and ORCS.

1.2 What are ARCS and ORCS?

ARCS and ORCS are combined records classification and scheduling systems that facilitate the efficient and systematic organization, retrieval, storage, and destruction or permanent retention of the government's records. ARCS is the government standard for administrative records. ORCS are specific to operational records.

A standard classification system is the cornerstone of an effective records management program. ARCS and ORCS identify and describe the records created by offices throughout government, and organize them into a structure that reflects administrative and operational functions. This organizational structure ensures that records can be quickly and easily identified, documented and retrieved.

ARCS and ORCS are also records scheduling systems. A records schedule is a timetable that governs the life span of a record from creation, through active use within an office and retention in off-site storage, to destruction or transfer to the government archives.

The records schedules in ARCS and ORCS ensure that records are retained for sufficient periods of time to meet the legal, operational, audit, fiscal or other requirements of government. Records schedules identify records with enduring value for transfer to the government archives. Records schedules also provide for the timely destruction of records when they are no longer required to support the government's operational and administrative functions.

Records that have only short-term or temporary usefulness are considered to be 'transitory records' and may be disposed of when no longer needed. Since they will not become part of a final record of decision, and do not fulfill any administrative or operational functions, they do not need to be filed in the office recordkeeping system and should be destroyed when no longer needed. For more information see the special schedule for Transitory Records (schedule 102901).

1.3. The Organization of ARCS and ORCS

ORCS and ARCS have one or more numbered sections covering broad categories corresponding to major operational or administrative functions and program activities.

ORCS also include:

- An Information System Overview Section, which identifies and describes electronic records. For more information about electronic records and the Information System Overview, see 2.12.
- An Executive Summary, Table of Contents, Introduction, and Index.

- Appendices (optional) that provide additional information relevant to the ORCS and the records it covers.

For more information about ORCS and a selection of approved ORCS, see the IAO Record Management web site.

The primary is the basic building block of ARCS and ORCS. Primaries are identified with a three, four, or five digit number. Each primary also has a descriptive title. Primaries are subdivided into two-digit secondary classifications.

The first primary in each section is called a section default primary. It provides general information relating to the whole section and to records repeated in other primaries throughout the section.

Groups of related primaries, called primary blocks, appear together, indicated by two-part titles and an initial "general" primary.

OPERATIONAL RECORDS CLASSIFICATION SYSTEM

This records schedule is approved in accordance with the Document Disposal Act (RSBC 1996, c. 99). It constitutes authority for retention and disposition of the records described herein provided it has been implemented according to government policy and procedures. For assistance, contact your Records Officer.

Schedule 222222

ETRT ORCS

Section 1 - 2

2.1 Primary Number and Title

Each primary in ARCS and ORCS has a primary number and a title. The title reflects the function to which the records grouped under the primary relate.

2.2 Scope Note

The scope note describes the records to be classified within the primary; the administrative or operational function to which the records relate; and the activities and/or work processes leading to records creation. It also lists the record types (e.g., memos, forms, reports) and media (e.g., photographs, video recordings).

2.3 Secondary Number and Title

Secondary numbers and titles designate specific record series or groupings of records relating to the function covered by the primary. Secondary titles describe specific types of records and secondary numbers link them to the records retention and disposition schedule. The two-digit secondary number is added to the primary number to form the file number (e.g., 100-20 or 23120-04).

There are three types of secondaries: reserved secondaries, subject secondaries, and case file secondaries.

2.3.1. Reserved Secondaries

Reserved secondaries cover records series that are repeated in several primaries. For example, secondaries -00 and -01 are reserved throughout ARCS and in all ORCS.

Secondary -00 is reserved for "Policy and procedures" records; that is, records that document the requirements for how an organization carries out its business. This includes draft and approved policy documents, working materials and correspondence, precedent-setting documents, procedural guidelines and manuals, and standards documentation.

Secondary -01 is reserved for "general" records that cannot be classified in specified subject or case file secondaries. Use secondary -01 when:

- The document does not relate to any of the existing secondaries, but does fall within the primary.
- The document contains information of a general nature and does not reflect actions or decisions of the creating office.

Note that the retention period for secondary -01 is often shorter than related subject or case file secondaries and that the designated final disposition is most often destruction.

Do not use the "General" secondary for records that relate to two or more of the subject or case file secondaries. Instead, file the official file copy in one folder and duplicates in the other relevant folder(s). When appropriate, provide a cross-reference between files.

2.3.2 Subject Secondaries (-02 to -19)

Secondary numbers -02 to -19 are used for specific subjects and other non-case file series. These are commonly referred to as subject files.

Subject files may be coded to aid in retrieval. Coded subject files usually consist of many different files, each dealing with a different aspect of the same subject. Codes may take the form of names, titles, abbreviations, or other alphabetic/alphanumeric codes. An oblique (/) separates the code from the secondary number.

In the sample primary, secondaries -03 (Extraterrestrial reports and statistics) and -04 (Visits by unidentified extraterrestrials) are subject secondaries.

2.3.3. Case File Secondaries (-20 and higher)

Case file secondary numbers are used for files relating to a common function or activity. A case file is part of a series of similar files, each containing records pertaining to a specific time-limited event, project, transaction, or product, or to a specific person, organization, or other entity. The records within each file are generally consistent with other files in the same series. For example, the same types of forms may appear in every file. Case file series are assigned secondary numbers -20 and higher (-30, -40, -50, etc.).

Individual files within case file series are usually identified with a file code. The code identifies the specific person, event, project, or other entity covered by the file. Codes can take many forms (e.g., proper names, acronyms, alphanumeric). An oblique (/) separates the code from the secondary number. For guidelines on developing file codes, see the Standard Coding System.

In the sample primary, secondaries -20 (Extraterrestrial registrant case files) and -30 (Extraterrestrial Registration System) are case file secondaries.

2.4 Cross References

Cross references point users to other related classifications.

2.5 Records Retention and Disposition Schedule

The retention and disposition schedule, which is linked to each secondary (or record series), indicates how long records should be retained in active storage space, when or if they should be transferred to semi-active storage, what their final disposition will be, and when that will take place.

Scheduling information for each record series is indicated in the A (Active), SA (Semi-active), and FD (Final Disposition) columns to the right of the secondary classification. The abbreviations used in each column are explained in 2.7, "Key of Terms."

2.5.1. Active (A) Retention Period

The active column indicates the length of time a record is retained in the active phase of its life cycle. Active records are used frequently and therefore are maintained in the office space and equipment of the creating office.

Entries in the active column use the designations of "SO", or "CY" or "FY", and when applicable, have an additional time period indicated. For example:

CY+1y

Maintain all records created or received within the calendar year (1 January to 31 December) together until the end of the calendar year. Then retain them for an additional calendar year.

In the sample primary, extraterrestrial reports and statistics (secondary -03) are active for the calendar year (CY) of their receipt or creation, plus one more year.

FY+1y

Maintain all records created or received within the fiscal year (1 April to 31 March) together until the end of the fiscal year. Then retain them for an additional fiscal year. When required by financial administration policy and procedures, place financial records relating to the prior fiscal year, but created or received after March 31, on the file for the prior fiscal year.

For information about Superseded or Obsolete (SO) and other terms and abbreviations used in the active retention period column, see 2.7.1.

2.5.2. Semi-active (SA) Retention Period Column

Semi-active records are used only occasionally and therefore need not be maintained in expensive office space. Semi-active records retain administrative, operational, fiscal, audit, or legal value for the ministry or agency that created the records. Semi-active records should be stored in a government-approved records storage facility (see Core Policy and Procedures Manual, c. 12.3.3, part 111, a), 5) or, if they are electronic, in your office record keeping system.

In the sample primary, the extraterrestrial reports and statistics (secondary -03) are semi-active for three years.

2.5.3. Final Disposition (FD) Column

The final disposition column indicates that records with enduring value to the Province are preserved and those that have no enduring value are destroyed. Records are eligible for final disposition when their active and semi-active retention periods have expired.

In the sample primary, extraterrestrial reports and statistics (secondary -03) are fully retained. This means they will be transferred to the custody of, and can be accessed only through, the British Columbia Archives (also referred to as the government archives). The Extraterrestrial Registration System (secondary -30) will be destroyed when the function supported by the database is no longer performed by government.

2.6 Office of Primary Responsibility (OPR)

The OPR maintains the official or master record in order to satisfy operational, financial, legal, audit, and other requirements. All other offices are non-OPR offices. Non-OPR retention periods and final dispositions are differentiated from OPR retention periods by being underscored. The disposition of non-OPR records must coincide with or precede the disposition of OPR records. Your Records Officer is responsible for designating OPR offices.

2.6.1. OPR in ORCS

In ORCS, the name of the OPR appears in a statement beneath the cross-references (e.g., Unless otherwise specified below, the ministry OPR (Unidentified Flying Objects Branch) will retain these records for...).

The ORCS non-OPR retention and dispositions can appear in the active, semi-active, and final disposition columns to the right of a secondary classification or they default to a non-OPR retention and disposition established for the primary as a whole. The default non-OPR retention and disposition appears in a statement beneath the cross-references (e.g., Except where non-OPR retention periods are identified below, all other ministry offices will retain these records for: SO nil DE.

To simplify the use of ARCS and ORCS in automated systems (e.g., EDRMS TRIM), all new and amended ORCS have a standard non-OPR retention period and final disposition of SO nil DE.

2.6.2. OPR in ARCS

OPR names do not appear in ARCS. Instead ministries designate the OPR based on their individual requirements. ARCS has a standard non-OPR retention period and final disposition of SO nil DE. For the names of your ministry or agency's ARCS OPRs, contact your Records Officer.

In the sample primary, the Unidentified Flying Objects Branch is the OPR. All other offices holding records covered by this primary are non-OPR with a retention and disposition of SO nil DE.

2.7 Key of Terms

A variety of terms and abbreviations are used in the active, semi-active and final disposition columns.

2.7.1 Terms Used in the Active and Semi-Active Retention Period Columns

a. Calendar-based abbreviations

These are used in combination with numbers, to indicate how long records will be kept in the office or offsite:

w	=	week
m	=	month
y	=	year
CY	=	Calendar Year (1 January to 31 December)
FY	=	Fiscal Year (1 April to 31 March)

b. SO = Superseded or Obsolete

"SO" identifies records for which an active retention period cannot be predetermined because retention is dependent upon the occurrence of some event or action. This retention category is used in ARCS and ORCS in the following different ways:

i. Routine Records

"SO" is commonly used to indicate the active retention period for records that are useful for reference or informational purposes. In those cases, "SO" is not defined by a specific event or action, but is used to allow the creating offices the authority to decide when the records have no further value and are ready for storage or disposition.

The most common retention period is:

Active	Semi-Active	Final Disposition
SO	nil	DE

SO is used throughout ARCS and ORCS to streamline the disposition of records with short-term retention value, especially for non-OPR offices. Upon authorization of the Records Officer, records with the above retention and disposition schedule may be destroyed when no longer required.

In the sample primary, non-OPR policy and procedures files (secondary -00) are designated SO.

ii. Specific Definition of SO

"SO" is also used to identify the active retention period for records that must be retained until a case is closed or some other specified event occurs. It may not be possible to predict the length of time a file may be required for active use, and "SO" is defined in terms of some specific action, event, or the completion of a procedure.

In the sample primary, Extraterrestrial registrant case files (secondary -20) are active for SO+3y, with SO defined as "when extraterrestrial visitor leaves the province". This means that the OPR will retain a file in active storage space for three years after the relevant visitor has left, after which the records upon authorization of the Records Officer will be transferred to off-site storage.

c. NA = Not Applicable

"NA" is used when records are not covered by the secondary at a specified stage of their lifecycle. The reasons for the "NA" designation are stated in a note under the secondary.

In the sample primary, visits by Unidentified extraterrestrials files (secondary -04) have a semi-active and final disposition of "NA" because files are reclassified to secondary -20 when the visitor is identified.

d. nil = no semi-active retention period

"Nil" is used in the semi-active column to identify records with no semi-active retention period.

Many types of government records remain active as long as they serve an administrative or operational function, after which, they have no semi-active retention period and are ready for final disposition.

In the sample primary, the semi-active period for records in non-OPR offices is designated as nil. This means that the records are ready for destruction (as designated in the final disposition column) upon expiry of the active period and authorization of the Records Officer.

2.7.2 Terms Used in the Final Disposition Column (FD)

The purpose of the final disposition column is explained in 2.5.3.

Some government records contain information that has long-term value to the agency responsible for them, the government generally, and/or the public. These records are part of the documentary heritage of the Province of British Columbia and are transferred to the custody government archives for permanent retention.

The final disposition of records can be full retention, selective retention, or destruction, as explained below.

Check to ensure that you have authorization from your Records Officer prior to disposing of government records.

a. FR = Full Retention

"FR" means that a government archivist has determined that all of the records covered by a secondary have enduring value and will be preserved in their entirety by the British Columbia Archives. Under the terms of full retention, the archivist responsible may destroy unnecessary duplicates, publications, waste and scrap materials, ephemera, and other items which are not an integral part of the record series. The reasons for full retention may be explained in an "FR =" statement.

In the sample primary, Extraterrestrial reports and statistics (secondary -03) are FR "because they document extraterrestrial visitors to the province."

b. SR = Selective Retention

"SR" means that a government archivist has determined that a portion of these records have enduring value and should be retained by the government archives. The reasons and criteria for selective retention may be explained in an "SR =" statement.

In the sample primary, Extraterrestrial registrant case files (secondary -20) are SR "because they document extraterrestrial visitors to the province" and the selection criteria is to retain "all files relating to green extraterrestrials."

SR statements may include instructions to box selected records separately from those to be destroyed. The instructions for extraterrestrial registrant case files require the OPR to box records selected for retention in the government archives separately from those identified for destruction.

c. DE = Destruction

The final disposition of records that have insufficient enduring value to justify their preservation is physical destruction. In some cases, especially in section default primaries, the destruction is justified with a "DE =" note.

d. OD = Other Disposition

"OD" means that the final disposition of the records will be through permanent transfer from the Government of British Columbia to another entity. A final disposition note will provide information relating to the specific method to be used for alienation of the records (e.g., sale, transfer, or other method).

e. NA = Not Applicable

Where appropriate, some government records are reclassified to a new primary and/or secondary at the end of their active or semi-active retention period. The final disposition of such records is NA. See the explanation of NA in 2.7.1.

2.7.3 Other Terms

The purpose of the other terms that appear in the key of terms is explained in other sections; see references below:

FOI =	Freedom of Information/Privacy	see 2.8
OPR =	Office of Primary Responsibility	see 2.5
PIB =	Personal Information Bank	see 2.8
VR =	Vital Record	see 2.11

2.8 Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy

Personal Information Banks (PIB) The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (RSBC 1996, c. 165, s. 69 (1)) defines a PIB as a collection of personal information that is organized or retrievable by the name of an individual or by an identifying number, symbol, or other particular assigned to an individual. PIBs can be identified in ARCS and ORCS. In the sample primary, the PIB acronym appears to the left of the Extraterrestrial registrant case files secondary (-20). In ARCS, PIBs are identified with a note underneath the relevant secondary.

Where more information about why the information contained in a record series is restricted, in whole or in part, from public disclosure, a special form of explanatory note ("FOI =") is used to explain the access restrictions for the secondary and to point to the section of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act that allows for the exemption. In the sample primary, the Visits by unidentified extraterrestrials secondary (-04) has an FOI note which quotes section 15 (1)(b) of the Act to justify restricting access.

2.9 Explanatory Notes

Explanatory notes are used in ARCS and ORCS to help you understand the records, to explain office procedures and practice, and to summarize provisions governing the creation, processing, accessing, and disposition of documents. There are two types of explanatory notes: qualifiers and other notes.

2.9.1 Qualifiers

Qualifiers provide information that will help you organize and access the files covered by a secondary. They appear directly under a secondary title, in curved brackets.

- "Includes" qualifier lists types or forms of records covered by the secondary. If there is no includes qualifier, see the "Records types include ..." sentence in the scope note for this information.
- "Arrange" qualifier gives the method of arrangement. In the sample primary, the Extraterrestrial registrant case files secondary (-20) instructs records creators to "arrange by registration number."
- Physical format designations: see 2.10 for an explanation of this qualifier.

2.9.2 Other Notes

The notes below are presented in the order in which they may appear below a secondary.

OPR =	Provides the name of the office of primary responsibility if it is different from the primary default OPR. See discussion of OPR in section 2.5 .
SO =	Explains when a file designated SO should be closed. See discussion of SO in section 2.7.1 .
##y =	Gives reasons for active and/or semi-active retention periods that are longer than seven years. In the sample primary, there is a "303y =" note under secondary -20.
NA =	Explains why the usual active, semi-active, or final disposition designation does not apply. See discussion of NA in section 2.7.1 .
SR/FR/DE =	Explains why records are being selectively or fully retained, or (if not self-evident) why they are being destroyed. See discussion of these notes in section 2.7.2 .
FOI:	Explains issues of confidentiality relating to the records. See discussion of the FOI note in section 2.8 .
NOTE:	Provides other useful information related to the scope of the secondary, such as history of the records, volume of the records, filing procedures, whether there is an ongoing accession number, or location of copies.

2.10 Physical Format Designations

Physical format designations are used if the records classified under a particular secondary consist of textual records in physical formats other than text on paper or textual records stored in electronic form (e.g., Word documents).

Records relating to a common function or activity, but in a different physical format, are classified under the same secondary, unless the versions contain different information or require different retention periods. In those cases, the physical formats may have separate secondaries, with the format identified in the secondary title rather than in a qualifier.

The physical format designation is expressed as a qualifier under the secondary title. In the sample primary, the Extraterrestrial Registration System (secondary -30) is identified in a qualifier as an electronic database.

Examples of physical format designations are: paper, microfilm, microfiche, computer output microfilm (COM), computer output microfiche (COMfiche), optical disk, electronic database, and electronic records.

Information about special media, such as photographs, maps, and sound recordings, is conveyed in an "(includes)" qualifier or in the paragraph of the scope note beginning "Includes" or "Records types include". All records in a file or folder are covered by the same retention schedule, regardless of media. Related information in an electronic database is subject to the same schedule; for example, in the sample primary, registration information in the ERS (secondary -30) concerning a specific extraterrestrial can be purged when the relevant extraterrestrial registrant case file (under secondary -20) becomes inactive.

2.11 Vital Records

Vital records are those containing information essential to the functioning of government during and after a disaster, and essential for preserving the rights of citizens.

In the sample primary, the Extraterrestrial Registration System (secondary -30) is identified as a vital record.

2.12 Electronic Records and the Information System Overview (ISO)

Information required for the scheduling of electronic records in ORCS is documented in an ISO and Information System Overview for an Subsystem (ISOS).

An ISO serves three purposes:

- ↓ It provides a high-level description of the function and information content of the system, in other words a map of the data managed by the system and the major stages through which it flows while being processed;
- ↓ It documents the recordkeeping context of the system by identifying how the system and related records are classified in the ORCS;

- ✦ It may be used to schedule the electronic system by indicating when its active life ends and what the final disposition will be.

Electronic records (i.e., records created and maintained on an electronic system) are scheduled under secondaries like all other forms of records, as well as being documented in the ISO.

An electronic system may be scheduled in the ISO Section, and also may be included under the primary covering the function or activity to which it relates. In the sample primary, the Extraterrestrial Registration System (ERS) appears as secondary -30.

A system related to functions covered by an entire section of the ORCS will appear in the section default primary, or if it relates to the entire ORCS, in the ORCS default primary. Information in the database relating to specific entities is covered by the schedules relating to the relevant case files; for example, the registration information in the ERS concerning a specific extraterrestrial can be purged when the relevant extraterrestrial registrant case file (under secondary -20) becomes inactive.

Government Records Service

Information Access Operations Branch, Government Records Service supports a government-wide framework for the management of recorded information. This framework includes policies, standards and strategic direction for the creation, security, accessibility, retention, disposition and preservation of records.

The branch provides central records management support services to ministries, Crown Corporations and agencies including:

- Advisory services
- Contracted records storage
- Centralized records management training
- Operational Records Classification System (ORCS) development
- Administrative Records Classification System (ARCS) development and maintenance
- Archival appraisal
- Enterprise Document and Records Management System (EDRMS) implementation

Ministry of Citizens' Services and Open Government

Records Schedules for Special Categories of Records

Some types of records can be scheduled for retention and disposition in broad categories which may apply to all ministries and agencies. These are normally routine, transitory, and ephemeral records or data which serve no ongoing purpose.

Special schedules also cover executive records, commission of inquiry records, record copies of published maps, and information stored on special media, such as videotape, optical disk, paintings, maps, plans, photographs, and other sound, film, video, photographic, or cartographic media.

Special government-wide ongoing records schedules have been approved for the following categories of administrative and operational records.

Commission of Inquiry Records	112907
Computer System Electronic Backup Records has been superseded by ARCS secondary 6820-05
Electronic Mail	102903
Executive Records	102906
General Records Schedule	112909
Government House Records	112911
Lieutenant-Governor Records	112912
Record Copies of Published Maps	112908
Redundant Source Records	206175
Special Media Records	102905
Transitory Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Records	102902
Transitory Records	102901
Unsolicited Records	112913
Voice Mail Records	112914
Word Processing Records	102904
Year 2000 (Y2K) Project Documentation and Test Data	112916

Government Records Service (GRS) delegates the authority to administer the retention and disposition authorities for the routine and transitory records included in these schedules to the Records Officer of ministries and agencies covered by the Document Disposal Act.

Records covered by the following special schedules must be transferred to GRS contracted off-site storage facilities when they are considered superseded or obsolete, for selective retention by the government archives: Special media records; Executive records; Commission of inquiry records; record copies of published maps; Government House records; and Lieutenant-Governor records.

Although applicable to all government agencies covered by the Document Disposal Act, the General Records Schedule (112909) is applied by GRS or government archives staff only.

Ministries and other agencies may propose new government-wide schedules or amendments to existing schedules by completing a records services application (ARS 118) and submitting it to their Records Officer.

Executive Records (schedule 102906)

A SA FD

SO 10y SR

Executive records are the administrative and operational records of the offices of ministers, deputy ministers, assistant deputy ministers, and equivalent positions.

Included are records in all formats and media and records classified and scheduled under all primaries of the Administrative Records Classification System (ARCS) and Operational Records Classification System (ORCS) or other records schedules.

This special schedule for executive records takes precedence over retention periods and final dispositions indicated in ARCS and ORCS, unless one of those records classification systems specifies a longer retention period or full retention for a given record series.

If an ORCS has been developed to include records of an executive office, the retention periods and final disposition of the ORCS will take precedence over this schedule.

SO = when file is closed

NOTE: Contact your Records Officer before disposing of any records from executive offices. Off-site storage and retrieval services may be arranged through Records Centre Services at (250) 387-1583.

10y = All executive records will be retained for a minimum combined active and semi-active retention period of ten years from the date of file closure. In some cases, a longer combined active and semi-active retention period may be required under ARCS or ORCS.

SR = The government archives will selectively retain executive records because of their significant operational, legal, historical, evidential, informational, or other values.

Executive records often document the development, implementation, operation, and evaluation of government legislation, programs, and services. Such records are unique primary source documents and will be retained.

The government archives will fully retain records which pertain to legal precedence, audits or special investigations.

The government archives will fully retain for their evidential value all policy and procedure files created by offices having primary responsibility for policy and procedure development and approval. Draft and duplicate materials which hold no evidential value may be purged and discarded.

Executive records may contain a large volume of transitory and ephemeral material. For example, ministers often receive high volumes of form letters relating to a single issue. In most instances, a sample will be retained and the rest will be discarded. In unusual instances, all letters may be retained.

As with all government records, routine records of no value will be discarded.
Unnecessary duplicates, publications, waste and scrap materials, and other items which are not an integral part of the record series will be purged and destroyed.

292 - INFORMATION AND PRIVACY - FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

Records relating to the management of access to government information as stipulated in the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIPPA) (RSBC 1996, c. 165, part two), and subject to federal and other provincial freedom of information (FOI) legislation for responding to requests for consultation. This primary includes the review by the Office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner (OIPC) of a public body's decision regarding a request for records as regulated by FOIPPA (part five), as well as the identification of categories of records available to the public without application under FOIPPA.

Records types include correspondence; written requests for information and request forms; copies of retrieved records; staff time logs; notices of transfer, fees or extension of time; file lists, indexes or finding aids; reports; and other types of records as indicated under relevant secondaries.

For accounts payable, see primary 925.

For agreements, see primary 146.

For routine inquiries regarding services provided by a ministry or agency, see primary 320.

The ministry or agency OPR is the information access office unless otherwise specified below.

non-OPR NOTE: Offices will retain non-OPR copies of records for SO nil DE

Primary- Secondary	Records Series	OPR
		A	SA	FD
292-00	Policy and procedures (may include copies of OIPC orders)	SO	nil	DE

292-05	Public Record Index	CY+1y	nil	DE
292-20	Public use records case files	SO+1y	nil	DE
SO = when not required for reference
NOTE: This secondary is intended for documentation about public use records. Public use records are those created or organized specifically with the expectation of public access.

292-25	Public Record Index case files	SO+1y	nil	DE
	SO = upon publication of the Index
	NOTE: This secondary is used to collect information about categories of records available to the public without submitting a request for access as prescribed under FOIPPA (s. 71). The information in these files is used to update and maintain the Public Record Index.
292-27	Routine release review files (covers "reactive" and "proactive" release of information)	SO+1y	nil	DE
	SO = when records reviewed for routine release are no longer created and have been disposed of in accordance with the approved records retention and disposition schedule
	NOTE: Routine release means the disclosure of certain types of information as a matter of course without the necessity of a formal Freedom of Information (FOI) request. Routine release includes (but is not limited to) the release of records that have been designated as available without a formal request under FOIPPA (s. 71). Routine release may be reactive (responding to requests for information when received) or proactive (systematically disseminating information in advance of requests using mechanisms such as the Internet or libraries).
292-30	FOI requests and related complaints (includes letter of acknowledgement, notice of extension, working notes, news clippings, summary of analysis, request response package including cover letter and copies of severed documents, mediation materials, and related commissioner and judicial recommendations and orders)	SO	5y	SR PIB
	SO = when file is closed, all avenues of appeal are exhausted, and the information is no longer needed for reference
	SR = The government archives will retain those FOI request and related complaint files that document OIPC inquiries or judicial reviews. These records provide evidence of the way in which FOI requests are responded to throughout government. Each time files covered by this secondary are being boxed to send off-site, the relevant information access analyst will identify significant files. All files covered by this secondary that are not selected will be destroyed.
292-40	FOI requests for personal information (includes letter of acknowledgement, notice of extension, working notes, news clippings, summary of analysis, request response package including cover letter and copies of severed documents, request	SO	5y	SR PIB to correct personal information, and commissioner and judicial recommendations and orders)

SO = when request is closed, all avenues of appeal are exhausted, and the information is no longer needed for reference

SR = The government archives will retain files that document commissioner's inquiries or judicial reviews. These records provide evidence of the way in which FOI requests are responded to throughout government. Each time files covered by this secondary are being boxed to send off-site, the relevant Information access analyst will identify significant files. All files covered by this secondary that are not selected will be destroyed.

292-45	FOI consultation requests (covers responses to requests for consultation from other public bodies and other jurisdictions within and outside of B.C.)	SO	5y	DE
--------	-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----	----	----

SO = when request is closed

292-50	Freedom of information issues (supersedes and merges former secondaries 292-03 Release of information, 292-04 Exceptions to disclosure, and 292-50 Freedom of information issues)	SO	5y	DE
--------	-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----	----	----

SO = when issue has been resolved, the information is no longer current, and/or the information is no longer required for reference purposes

DE = Records classified under this secondary can be destroyed because freedom of information issues are sufficiently documented in executive records and central agency records under the Information and Privacy ORCS.

400 - PLANNING, PERFORMANCE, AND PROJECTS

Records relating to ministry/agency planning and performance, including branch and program planning, as well as projects and initiatives undertaken for cross-government benefit (e.g., mentoring, climate action, knowledge management, and workstation refresh) or by administrative program areas (with the exception of building and Information Technology [IT] development projects). Record types include correspondence, templates, reports, and other types of records as indicated under relevant secondaries.

Record types include correspondence, plans, reports, and other types of records as indicated under relevant secondaries.

For budget planning, see primary 1000.

For building projects, see primary 525.

For employee performance and development plans (EPDPs), see primary 1385.

For the government's overall strategic plan, see the records of Treasury Board Staff.

For "operational" projects, see the relevant program ORCS.

For project management oversight and support, see primary 405.

For staffing planning, see primary 1580.

For strategic human resource planning, see primary 1705.

For IT projects, see primary 6450.

non-OPR NOTE: Offices will retain non-OPR copies of records for: SO nil DE

Primary- Secondary	Records Series	OPR
		A	SA	FD
400-00	Policy and procedures	SO	nil	DE
400-01	General (supersedes and merges former secondaries 380-02 Financial and 380-03 Personnel)	CY+2y	nil	DE
400-02	Final annual reports (not covered in an ORCS) (supersedes final published reports classified under former secondary 442-20 annual reports)	SO	nil	FR
OPR = Ministry/agency's own annual report if it is not classified under the relevant ORCS. Apply the non-OPR retention period and final disposition to all other published annual reports. FR = The government archives will fully retain each ministry/agency final published annual report (not covered in an ORCS) because they summarize the B.C. government's goals, objectives, and performance measures in regards to its policies, programs, and services. Each year staff will set aside one copy of each final published annual report for transfer to the government archives (print and box with other FR records or transfer via the government EDRMS).

NOTE: The development of these reports is covered by secondary -20.

NOTE: Annual reports were replaced in fiscal year 2002/03 by annual service plan reports.

400-03	(superseded by secondary -20 Ministry/agency planning and performance files)
400-04	(superseded by secondary -20 Ministry/agency planning and performance files)
400-05	(superseded by secondary -20 Ministry/agency planning and performance files)

400-07	(superseded by secondary -20 Ministry/agency planning and performance files)
400-08	(superseded by secondary -20 Ministry/agency planning and performance files)
400-09	(superseded by secondary -20 Ministry/agency planning and performance files)
400-10	Final internal strategic and business plans	SO	nil	FR

FR = The government archives will fully retain final approved internal strategic and business plans because they provide a concise description of ministry/agency program goals, objectives, and performance measures.

After each significant update, staff will set aside one copy of each final approved strategic and business plan for transfer to the government archives (print and box with other FR records or transfer via the government EDRMS).

NOTE: The development of these plans is covered by secondary -20.

400-20	Ministry/agency planning and performance files (supersedes and merges former secondaries 400-03 Standards development, 400-04 Modelling, 400-05 Goal-setting (objectives), 400-06 Joint planning strategies (inter-agency), 400-07 Strategic planning, 400-08 Business planning, 400-09 Mission statements, 400-20 Program planning files, 400-30 Program implementation files, 410-02 Quality assurance, 410-03 Service standards, annual, monthly, quarterly, trimester, and weekly planning and performance reports classified under former primaries 440, 442,	SO	2y	DE
--------	-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----	----	----

444, 446, and 448, 875-02 Ministry fleet plan targets (annual), and 6600 Information resource management - general) (includes correspondence, workplans, annual service plans, annual service plan reports, quarterly reports, trimester reports, monthly reports, weekly reports, business plans, information technology [IT] plans, knowledge management plans, climate change plans, spreadsheets, and working documents)

SO = when no longer required for planning or performance evaluation and reporting

DE = Ministry/agency planning and performance files can be destroyed upon authorization of the Records Officer because planning activities are sufficiently documented in secondaries -02 and -10, or in primary 280, ministry ORCS, and executive records.

NOTE: This secondary covers researching, establishing, and implementing ministry/agency objectives, goals, performance measures, targets, priorities, and programs, as well as the development of plans, reports, and other goal-setting documents. It also includes knowledge management strategies, plans, and activities.

400-30 (superseded by secondary -20 Ministry/agency planning and performance files or the relevant program ORCS)

400-40	Cross-government and administrative project files (supersedes and merges former secondaries 105-30 Organization/reorganization projects, 336-20 Public relations projects, projects formerly covered by 295-20 Ministry current issues and projects, 380-20 Project files, and 736-05 Program status and needs) (includes correspondence, business cases, project charters, meeting agendas and minutes, records of decisions, reports, and deliverables)	SO	2y	DE
--------	-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----	----	----

SO = upon project completion or cancellation

DE = Cross-government and administrative project files can be destroyed upon authorization of the Records Officer because significant projects are adequately documented in executive records covered by primary 280 and/or by Special Schedule for Executive Records (102906).

NOTE: This secondary covers cross-government and administrative program projects and initiatives (e.g., mentoring, climate action, knowledge management, workstation refresh, but not building and computer application development and enhancement projects). Projects range from small, short-term assignments to large-scale, complex projects that require business cases, project plans, project charters, detailed scope, schedule, and budget documentation, risk management plans, and overall project management.

400-50	Management review/evaluation of internal programs (supersedes former secondary 410-20 Program evaluation project files and 975-60 Other audits and reviews)	SO	2y	DE
--------	----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----	----	----

SO = upon completion of review or evaluation and when corrective action is taken

DE = These records can be destroyed upon authorization of the Records Officer because significant management reviews and evaluations are adequately documented in executive records covered by primary 280 and/or by Special Schedule for Executive Records (102906).

NOTE: These records document management reviews and evaluations of the effectiveness of internal programs in achieving their objectives and the efficiency with which they are administered.

423-03	Current file lists	SO	nil	DE
	DE = This information is also contained in other files which are fully retained by the government archives.
	NOTE: All offices must open secondary 423-03 in order to meet legal evidence requirements by maintaining a record of all files opened and used under ARCS and ORCS.
423-05	File retrieval indexes	SO	nil	DE
	SO = when updated and the records to which the indexes refer have been disposed of DE = These indexes may be destroyed because those required for the retrieval of records with a final disposition of selective or full retention are identified and retained in the relevant program ORCS and/or accession case file (secondary 432-20).
423-06	(superseded by secondary -20 Custody management case files)
423-07	(superseded by secondary 420-06 Records management service requests)
423-20	Custody management files	SO	nil	DE

(supersedes and merges former secondaries
423-06 Transfer of legal custody and 423-20
Custody management case files)

SO = upon completion of transfer and when no longer required for reference purposes

NOTE: This secondary is for actual cases where the legal custody of records is transferred to or from other ministries/agencies, or the legal custody is permanently transferred from the provincial government to another entity (i.e., permanent alienation of records). The legal custodian is the office responsible for the administration/care of the records.

423-30	Records inventories and retention studies (supersedes and merges former secondaries 425-20 Ministry/agency inventories and 425- 30 Retention studies)	SO	nil	DE
--------	----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----	-----	----

NOTE: Classify inventories and retention studies relating to ORCS development under primary 430.

Services Application forms [ARS 118], Records Storage Transfer Requests [ARS 645], Authority to Apply Approved Schedule by Ministry or Agency [ARS 517A], Authority to Transfer Records and Apply Approved Schedule [ARS 617], and disposition notices)

SO = upon final disposition of all records included in accession and when the ministry or agency no longer requires the information

DE = These files can be destroyed upon authorization of the Records Officer because accession files and documentation relating to the final disposition of records accessioned in storage facilities managed by the central records management agency are fully retained by the government archives under the Archives and Records ORCS (schedule 881148).

432-30	Destruction case files (covers final disposition actions [i.e., destructions] administered by individual offices upon authorization of the Records Officer) (includes correspondence, file lists, Records Destruction Authorization Forms [518], and Form D - Tobacco Form for Destruction Applications)	SO+1y 5yr FR
--------	-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	---------------------

OPR = The Records Officer's office is the OPR for these records. All other offices must apply the non-OPR retention period and final disposition to these records.

SO = upon completion of disposition action and when the ministry or agency no longer requires the information

FR = Destruction case files will be fully retained because they document decisions by government ministries to destroy records that have not been accessioned in storage facilities managed by the central agency. This disposition is consistent with accession files held by the central agency.

1550 - LEAVE AND TIME REPORTING

Records relating to reporting and approving employee attendance.

Most BC Government employees report their time worked and leave taken on an automated time and leave reporting system. However, paper timesheets and leave forms may be used for employees with irregular work schedules (e.g., shift or on call workers) and electronic forms are used to approve employee additions to base pay after the payroll deadline.

Record types include correspondence, forms, reports, and copies of timesheets and leave forms.

NOTE: The official employee pay files and leave and time reporting records are held by TELUS Sourcing Solutions (TSS)-BC on behalf of Provincial Human Resource Management System (HRMS) Partnership Branch. Agencies not served by TSS-BC will need additional secondaries and different retention periods. For guidance, please contact your Records Officer.

For gross pay over $10,000 reports, see primary 1100.

For payroll expenditure reports, see primary 1100.

For recovery of salary dollars from employee transfers, see primary 1190.

Ministry of Citizens' Services and Open Government

ORCS e-Reference Library

Office of the Premier and Executive Council

This ORCS establishes a classification system and retention and disposition schedule for the operational records created by Executive Council and its president, the Premier. The Executive Council consists of the Premier and all Cabinet Ministers. The Executive Council determines government policy and is held responsible by the Legislative Assembly for the operation of the provincial government. The Office of the Premier, and Executive Council with its committees and their secretariats, spans parts of several ministries and is under the charge of several different deputy ministers.

These records relate to the formulation and integration of planning and policy directions for the Province; coordination of the response made by the Government to correspondence received by the Premier from the general public, other jurisdictions, industry and corporations; issues on the development, maintenance, monitoring and inspection of various projects and programs of the ministries of the Government of British Columbia in relationship to provincial, territorial, federal and international governments and organizations; and provision of support functions to the Premier in his or her capacity as Premier.

There was an amendment to the ORCS approved May 31, 2012. See the Register of Amendments and Appendix A for a summary of the changes.

OFFICE OF THE PREMIER

14000 - 14999

Section 4 covers records relating to the functions of the Office of the Premier of the Province of British Columbia. The Office of the Premier provides support to the Premier in his or her capacity as Premier. These support functions include: response to correspondence and enquiries; scheduling of public appearances and private meetings undertaken in the capacity of Premier; writing speeches on government issues; and liaison and coordination of access to and information about the government.

NOTE: Records of the Premier as the President of Executive Council are classified in Section 1. Records of correspondence to and responses from the Premier as head of the Government of British Columbia are classified in Section 2. Records of the Premier as Leader of the political party which forms the Government of British Columbia are political records and as such are not covered here.

Ministry of Citizens' Services and Open Government

ORCS e-Reference Library

Office of the Premier and Executive Council

This ORCS establishes a classification system and retention and disposition schedule for the operational records created by Executive Council and its president, the Premier. The Executive Council consists of the Premier and all Cabinet Ministers. The Executive Council determines government policy and is held responsible by the Legislative Assembly for the operation of the provincial government. The Office of the Premier, and Executive Council with its committees and their secretariats, spans parts of several ministries and is under the charge of several different deputy ministers.

These records relate to the formulation and integration of planning and policy directions for the Province; coordination of the response made by the Government to correspondence received by the Premier from the general public, other jurisdictions, industry and corporations; issues on the development, maintenance, monitoring and inspection of various projects and programs of the ministries of the Government of British Columbia in relationship to provincial, territorial, federal and international governments and organizations; and provision of support functions to the Premier in his or her capacity as Premier.

There was an amendment to the ORCS approved May 31, 2012. See the Register of Amendments and Appendix A for a summary of the changes.

11600 REQUESTS FOR CONGRATULATORY CERTIFICATES

Records relating to requests for congratulatory certificates from the Premier. Requests arrive in the public mail, by telephone, or from other government offices. Possible requests include certificates for meetings, weddings, birthdays, anniversaries, and retirement. Completed congratulatory message request forms are generated and sent to the office of the Chief of Protocol so that that office may notify other government officials who may need to send out additional certificates. The form is returned from Protocol and the information on it is entered on the certificate production database. Certificates are generated by the database, signed and mailed out. Request correspondence is not individually logged on the correspondence tracking system.

For congratulatory letter messages from the Premier about group events, individual accomplishments, or sporting events, see secondaries 11100-25 to -35.

Operational Records Classification System (ORCS)

I N D E X

This index provides an alphabetical guide to ORCS subject headings and relevant primary number(s) in which documents relating to a specific subject or function may be classified. It should also aid the user in retrieving, by subject, documents which have been classified and filed.

Employees responsible for records classification should use this index as a means of access to the contents of ORCS. Once they have located what appear to be relevant index entries for a given subject, they should refer to the primary or primaries listed in order to determine which is the correct classification and also to determine the correct secondary. Often, the primary scope notes will clarify whether or not a document should be classified in a given primary. Primary scope notes should be read carefully as they delineate a primary's subject and content.

This index contains an alphabetical listing of:

- a) all keywords which appear in primary titles;
- b) all keywords which appear in secondary titles;
- c) keywords which appear in primary scope notes;
- d) common synonyms for indexed keywords; and
- e) common abbreviations.

Cross-references:

"See" references indicate that the subject heading sought is indexed under an alternate entry (a more appropriate keyword, a full or official name, etc.).

"See also" references are used when additional information can be found in another entry.
