Discussion

Most of the snow should be done by the early morning hours today, however, some occasional flurries will linger over the area through the weekend. The main weather issue though is dropping temps and gusty winds over the ridges. Very cold temps are expected by tonight and tomorrow. Weather next week starts off clear, cold and dry.

Discussion

Spotty flurries with intermittent light snow is expected tonight, with the steadier light snow mostly over the plateau areas. The gusty winds will continue, contuing to cause blowing and drifting snow issues.

Looking ahead it looks like the arctic airmass will remain in place for 10-14 days.
