

BCSTA Executive

It has come to my attention that Saanich school district and openStudent representatives have been approaching Boards of Education and local teacher associations in a concerted effort to undermine the implementation of MyEducation BC and encouraging districts to unilaterally withdraw from a signed Memorandum of Understanding.

I am frustrated that it appears a school district is spending public dollars on their own solution, dollars that should be directed to students, to compete against a province-wide solution chosen by their own colleagues, after a comprehensive and transparent selection process. To date 47 districts and 80 independent schools representing close to 90 per cent of students are committed to MyEducation BC.

These are the facts regarding the MyEducation BC.

Claim: Saanich was not permitted to participate in the RFP process.

Fact: False. The Saanich Board of Education did have an opportunity to participate in the qualification stage but was not successful in meeting the required qualifications. Government procurement and Treasury Board policy require that all large scale procurements include a Request for Qualifications stage.

Claim: There are significant financial savings by developing a product in BC (openStudent) rather than purchasing a commercial of the shelf service (MyEducation BC).

Fact: False. These claims are based upon inaccurate comparisons with BCeSIS. The business plan for openStudent, as described in published documents, is incomplete and does not accurately account for all ongoing development and hosting costs.

The openStudent financial model requires substantial uptake by schools in order to be viable. A Ministry review of the business plan indicates that openStudent systems would need to contain more than 100,000 active student records to reduce annual school district costs to $10/student, the annual usage fee for MyEducation BC. The total enrolment for the four districts that have indicated support for openStudent is only 23,600 students which would cause their annual usage cost to exceed $27.50/student. If all five remaining uncommitted districts also choose to implement openStudent (which is highly unlikely) the cost would still be more than $14.85/student. An analysis based on information from their own business plan shows that openStudent will cost districts significantly more than MyEducation BC.

Claim: The Ministry is developing a “BC common platform” that will allow openSchool to plug-in and exchange student records with other student information systems.

Fact: False. The Ministry is not developing a platform for connecting disparate district-based student information systems. MyEducation BC is a complete student information service and no provision is being made for interfaces with other student information systems. Schools that use openStudent or any other system will not be able to easily share records with schools using MyEducation BC.

Claim: OpenStudent is on the Ministry of Education list of approved software.

Fact: False. The Ministry does not have a list of approved student information system software.

Claim: Aspen SIS is an unfinished product.

Fact: Aspen is a mature product that has been installed in more than fifty jurisdictions in the United States and United Kingdom. Aspen was selected through a rigorous procurement process because it best satisfied the requirements of schools in British Columbia, right out of the box. The service will go into production in April 2014 and all enhancements and customizations for BC will be completed in August 2014. MyEducation BC will be implemented in more than 700 schools by September 2014.

As Minister responsible for education in this province it is my job to ensure every dollar that we have available supports student learning. We believe that we have selected the best product to support the transformation of education in this province and I am frustrated there is misinformation being actively communicated through a variety of channels.

I look to each of you as trustee leaders in this province to actively support the province-wide solution – a solution that was chosen by school districts for school districts.

Sincerely,

Peter Fassbender
Minister of Education

TIMELINE AND DETAILS OF THE MYEDUCATION BC PROCUREMENT PROCESS:

January 2012 – engagement of 1400 stakeholders through a survey to determine key requirements and criteria for a new electronic student information system. Stakeholders included BCTF, BCSTA, BCCPAC, BCPVPA, BCSSA, FISA, FNESC, school district staff, independent school staff who identified the 700 requirements the successful vendor would need to meet.

May 2012 – creation of an executive steering committee comprised of 3 superintendents, 3 secretary-treasurers, 1 school district principal, one service management council member and ministry staff. It was their job to determine if what was being requested was viable.

July 2012 – province issues a Request for Qualifications (RFQ). The purpose of the RFQ was to comply with the Vendor Reference Check Review Policy, set out by Treasury Board, and to establish a list of Qualified Respondents that met the requirement of the Policy and who were eligible to submit proposals in response to the RFP. Only legal entities qualified through the RFQ process were eligible to submit proposals through the RFP.

August 2012 - 16 responses received and evaluated by committee comprised of 5 school district representatives and 4 ministry staff lead by an independent government procurement specialist.

September - November 2012 - functional requirements for the new system were prepared by 45 experts from public and independent schools. These requirements were made publicly available on the Ministry's website, 175 comments were received that were then incorporated into the requirements document that formed part of the Request for Proposal.

December 2012 – Request for Proposals issued to all qualified candidates from the RFQ process. Six proposals were received.

February – June 2013 – evaluation process. Evaluators were all members from the core evaluation committee and additional subject matter experts. In total experts from 16 districts helped to select the successful vendor on behalf of all school districts and the ministry.

November 2013, after a comprehensive procurement process, the Ministry of Education entered into a contract with Fujitsu Consulting (Canada) to offer MyEducation BC, a hosted service based upon the Aspen SIS software from Follett School Solutions Inc.

February 2014 - Several school districts have begun the implementation process and it is expected that the service will replace BCeSIS in 720 schools by September 2014. Deployment across the province will be completed in 2015/16

March 2016 - BCeSIS will be decommissioned.

Thanks for your note Nancy. As I shared with you earlier in the week, I know from personal experience how hard this decision is for you, your team and the board. As with so many initiatives like this, I'm not sure anyone could have predicted the type of systems that could have been available or had the level of up take that it has incurred. In hindsight, I'm sure a number of things could have been done differently.

What will be most important for me now is how we support you in the transition going forward. I will have a conversation with my team on their ideas of next steps and we will have further conversations with yourselves and the other openStudent Districts.

I will be in touch shortly.

Kind regards,

Rob

Hello Rob,

At our in-camera Board of Education meeting last night I presented the concerns you expressed regarding the integration of openStudent with the Service Card, potential costs for SD63 and the implications of further investment of funds, as per our conversation on Monday. The Board passed a motion to wind down operations of openStudent by April 30.

It is extremely disheartening for them and for all of our staff as you can imagine. And there is concern that we received mixed messages from the Ministry over time (districts should consider innovative cost saving measures, districts could choose their system, the service card was never raised as an issue til now, etc.). Personally, I believe that if a couple of things had been different at the time of the announcements about the end of BCesis , and we had been given the opportunity to be considered, openStudent as a BC product was an innovative solution to the headaches and costs of the past.

The Board also felt that it would have been appropriate for you to speak to them directly about this. I do know that that would not have changed anything. It is what it is, and Saanich will rebound.

The Minister may receive a letter in this regard from the Board and I believe that our Board Chair will do a press release. For now we will begin packaging up our code, because the core module is complete and marketable.

Best wishes,
Nancy

Dear Mr. Hunter:

Thank you for the letter of November 18, 2013, Minister Fassbender has asked me to respond on his behalf.

As you acknowledge in your invitation, the Province is strongly committed to providing the K-12 Sector a common student information service. After extensive consultations with school districts, practitioners, parents and students there is overwhelming support for the MyEducation BC provincial solution. We are convinced that there is great benefit to students and teachers to have all schools in the province using the same student information system.

I believe it is in your school district's best interest to reconsider using MyEducation BC before making further investments in an independent solution. It is our understanding that very few districts are pursuing openStudent. Currently, we have a commitment from districts representing close to 90 percent of the student population who will be moving to MyEducation BC.

I would also like to address the inaccuracy in your statement that you were not permitted to participate in the RFP process. Government procurement requires that all large scale procurements include a Request for Qualifications stage. The Saanich Board of Education did have an opportunity to participate in the qualification stage but was not successful in meeting the required qualifications.

In addition, the Ministry of Education has undertaken a review of the business case that you provided for openStudent. It does not accurately reflect our experience with BCeSIS or the plans for transitioning to our new service. We feel that some of the assumptions underlying your approach, statements about the level of support by other districts, and the accuracy and completeness of the financial analysis are questionable. Given the limited support by other school districts, I am not persuaded that you have made a convincing case for a viable standalone solution.

The benefits that teachers, students and parents will experience with MyEducation BC include a province-wide system for cross district collaboration through a modern, easy to use secure system that allows real-time access to student records while being flexible to support personalized learning, special needs, and various scheduling options.

The ability for parents and students to monitor student progress on a continual basis and communicate securely with teachers and school-based staff is something government feels is a strong benefit of this new system.

Once again, I would encourage you to re-evaluate your pursuit of a standalone solution as I do not believe it is in the best interest of your students or is financially sustainable.

I have asked the MyEducation BC team to meet with your team on how we can include your District to ensure Saanich school district benefits from adopting the provincial student information service.

Sincerely yours,

Rob Wood

Dear Minister Fassbender,

I am writing you today on behalf of the Saanich Board of Education. As you know, our district has suspended work on its student information system (openStudent) as we explore options outside British Columbia. We are encouraged by the interest we have received and will continue to consider ways to finish what we believe to be an outstanding and inexpensive system for any educational jurisdiction, Canadian or international.

Our Superintendent, Nancy Macdonald, was called to the Deputy Minister's office on March 4, 2014 to discuss the requirement of a BC system to integrate with the new BC Services Card. He explained that this requirement would be of significant cost to the district. Ms Macdonald graciously received this information and provided it to the Board of Education on March 6, 2014 concluding that the potential cost would be too great a risk for our Board to bear. The Board reluctantly passed a motion to cease development temporarily, while options mentioned above were explored.

The Trustees would like to express their concern that the Board itself was not involved in the Deputy's communication. A meeting with Mr. Wood was postponed twice and then eventually cancelled. While this opportunity may not have changed the outcome, it would have allowed the Board the chance to discuss its concerns and to pose questions of the Deputy Minister.

Overall, our Board of Education is extremely disappointed but has no less pride in the innovative approaches it has taken in education, technology and revenue generation. There is no invention or innovation out there that hasn't involved courage or risk. We hold our heads high in knowing that we built an information system that is competitive, flexible and modern. And we took these steps upholding our Board goals and will continue to do so in the future with the greatest degree of integrity.

With the greatest respect,

Wayne Hunter

Mr. Fassbender

S22 I am appalled by your government's curtailment of School District #63 (Saanich) students' tracking system that was to be implemented this coming school year. This project was undertaken to address the inadequacies of the BCeSIS tracking system that cost $Millions from a US firm to develop over several years and was less than satisfactory for tracking of students' progress in spite of several attempts to correct this program. From what I gather you are scrapping the Openstudent program because it will not co-ordinate with a student services card that will be the same as the provincial healthcare services card. The Openstudent program, being locally developed and therefore far less expensive, would meet the needs of BC students, teachers and administrators, and save the government money. Your government has decided to sign another deal with a foreign corporation for yet another untried student tracking program with the inevitable costs associated with any new IT system in revising software programming, but you have squelched the technological development of our own made-in-BC software. S22

S22 Is it your government's intent to spend more in foreign-owned and operated software at three and possibly 30 times the cost of a BC-developed IT service that could save the taxpayers of this province money better spent put into the BC education system? I hope your ministry will seriously reconsider the investment in a locally-produced IT system to the benefit of British Columbian parents, students, teachers, administrators and IT workers.

Subject: Provincial student information service (Referral 172847)

Dear S22

Thank you for your e-mail of March 8, 2014 to the Minister of Education, regarding the new common student information service. I have been asked to respond to your message.

In response to feedback collected through an extensive consultation process, the Ministry of Education undertook a comprehensive procurement process for a new student information service to replace BCeSIS. In November 2013 a contract was signed with Fujitsu Consulting (Canada) to provide MyEducation BC, a hosted service built upon the Follett Aspen SIS software. The selection was based upon requirements prepared by teams of stakeholders from school districts, independent schools and the Ministry. Fujitsu was chosen because their proposal best delivered the required functionality and they have the corporate capacity to provide a stable, low-risk, flexible solution that will serve students and schools well. Fifty school districts, representing more than 88.5% of public school students, and more than 80 independent schools have already committed to participate in MyEducation BC. It will be implemented in more than 800 elementary, middle and secondary schools by September 2014, with the remainder coming on board in 2015.

The Request for Proposals for the provincial student information service, including requirements for user authentication, were published on the BC Education Plan web site. OpenStudent did not meet the minimum criteria required to qualify for consideration as a province-wide service. The decisions to continue the development of openStudent as a district project and subsequently to terminate it were made by Saanich Board of Education. The Ministry of Education is confident that MyEducation BC is the best common solution for teachers, staff, students, and parents in this province, and will not be providing direct funding to other solutions.

Thank you for your interest in the new common student information service.

Hello Everyone:

It is with extreme regret and disappointment that the District of Saanich has been compelled to discontinue funding for the openStudent project. In a recent meeting with the Deputy Minister of Education, it was revealed that any new information system must now integrate with the new BC Service Card, and that this new requirement will result in significant increased costs to the openStudent project. It was indicated that these additional costs would be in the millions of dollars. Given this cost pressure, the Saanich School board made the very difficult decision to cease funding further development of the openStudent application. I have attached the news release related to this announcement.

The reasons that the openStudent project was initiated three years ago remain fully intact and meaningful today. It is a system that has been developed by the education community and has the ability to continually evolve in sync with changes in educational delivery and assessment. The user acceptance level has been remarkably high. Feedback from teachers, clerical and admin staff has been extensive and extremely positive.

openStudent remains the lowest cost alternative SIS for any jurisdiction, and over a short period of time, would have freed up over 100 million education dollars that could have been put to better use.

In February 2011 districts in the province gathered together in Abbotsford and clearly identified a number of key objectives for the successor to BCeSIS. These included: a common system, a custom built applications, improved functionality, a robust and flexible design, and control at the stakeholder level. The only alternative that addressed ALL of these important objectives is openStudent. We have never lost sight of this mandate.

The completion of version 1 of openStudent has proven that it is entirely possible for the education community to successfully design and build a student information system, one that directly meets the needs of stakeholders. During the project we created and maintained authentic connections with the stakeholders and, through continuous collaboration, tapped into their collective skills and experience. The result has been something that is innovative, diverse and gets us all thinking outside the box. And through it all, we have managed this project inexpensively, on time and on budget.

We wish to thank everyone in the province for your contributions to this project. To our partner districts: it has been a pleasure working with you and we wish to thank you for your trust, time and energy. To the District of Saanich: our sincere thanks and appreciation for your faith and extensive support throughout this project. This truly is a district that is not afraid to be innovative and to think outside the box.

While this chapter of the openStudent project is clearly at an end, we are continuing to pursue other jurisdictions and partners to help complete the build of the application.

Good luck to everyone in the future and hopefully our paths will cross again.

Subject: Provincial Student Information Service (Referral 172821)

Dear ⁵²²

Thank you for your email of March 7, 2014 to the Minister of Education regarding the common provincial student information system. I have been asked to respond to your letter.

In response to feedback collected through an extensive consultation process, the Ministry of Education undertook a comprehensive procurement process for a new student information service to replace BCeSIS. In November 2013 a contract was signed with Fujitsu Consulting (Canada) to provide MyEducation BC, a hosted service built upon the Follett Aspen SIS software. The selection was based upon requirements prepared by teams of stakeholders from school districts, independent schools and the Ministry. Fujitsu was chosen because their proposal best delivered the required functionality and they have the corporate capacity to provide a stable, low-risk, flexible solution that will serve students and schools well. Fifty school districts, representing more than 88.5% of public school students, and more than 80 independent schools have already committed to participate in MyEducation BC. It will be implemented in more than 800 elementary, middle and secondary schools by September 2014, with the remainder coming on board in 2015.

We are confident that MyEducation BC will provide the education community with a service that will support change and personalized learning as we move together to transform education in the province. The Ministry will not be providing any direct funding to other solutions.

Email: Board.trustees@sd63.bc.ca

Dear Mr. Hunter:

Thank you for the letter of November 18, 2013, Minister Fassbender has asked me to respond on his behalf.

As you acknowledge in your invitation, the Province is strongly committed to providing the K-12 Sector a common student information service. After extensive consultations with school districts, practitioners, parents and students there is overwhelming support for the MyEducation BC provincial solution. We are convinced that there is great benefit to students and teachers to have all schools in the province using the same student information system.

I believe it is in your school district's best interest to reconsider using MyEducation BC before making further investments in an independent solution. It is our understanding that very few districts are pursuing openStudent. Currently, we have a commitment from districts representing close to 90 percent of the student population who will be moving to MyEducation BC.

I would also like to address the inaccuracy in your statement that you were not permitted to participate in the RFP process. Government procurement requires that all large scale procurements include a Request for Qualifications stage. The Saanich Board of Education did have an opportunity to participate in the qualification stage but was not successful in meeting the required qualifications.

In addition, the Ministry of Education has undertaken a review of the business case that you provided for openStudent. It does not accurately reflect our experience with BCeSIS or the plans for transitioning to our new service. We feel that some of the assumptions underlying your approach, statements about the level of support by other districts, and the accuracy and completeness of the financial analysis are questionable. Given the limited support by other school districts, I am not persuaded that you have made a convincing case for a viable standalone solution.

The benefits that teachers, students and parents will experience with MyEducation BC include a province-wide system for cross district collaboration through a modern, easy to use secure system that allows real-time access to student records while being flexible to support personalized learning, special needs, and various scheduling options.

The ability for parents and students to monitor student progress on a continual basis and communicate securely with teachers and school-based staff is something government feels is a strong benefit of this new system.

Once again, I would encourage you to re-evaluate your pursuit of a standalone solution as I do not believe it is in the best interest of your students or is financially sustainable.

I have asked the MyEducation BC team to meet with your team on how we can include your District to ensure Saanich school district benefits from adopting the provincial student information service.

Sincerely yours,

Rob Wood

Dear Minister Fassbender:

The Saanich Board of Education and Senior Staff wish to extend our thanks to you for meeting with us today about openStudent.

We want to acknowledge your receptiveness and very much appreciate the timely efforts made to accommodate our team.

Minister Fassbender, we believe we have taken some bold steps in addressing a pressing need of the Province of British Columbia's schools. And while we were not permitted to participate in the RFP process regarding a new student information system, we have forged ahead with the belief that we have a product that will be not only superior in functionality, but significantly cheaper than a commercial version, as described in our meeting today.

You did confirm that your preference is that all districts employ the same system. Our view is that modern systems can be compatible, without detriment to the goals of government for seamless record transition and other requirements.

At our meeting you acknowledged that you would be interested in coming to Saanich. We are happy to host you at any time.

Thank you again for the time you gave us today.

Yours truly,

Hello Rob.

I don't like taking advantage of having your email address, but just wanted to follow up with you regarding a visit to Saanich for an update on openStudent. Would it be possible for your assistant to contact mine (copied here) with some possible dates?

We are very excited about the interest we are receiving in our student information system. We can share the latest with you and promise to keep it to one hour at the most.

Thanks Rob, looking forward to hearing from you.

Nancy

Thanks for your note Nancy. As I shared with you earlier in the week, I know from personal experience how hard this decision is for you, your team and the board. As with so many initiatives like this, I'm not sure anyone could have predicted the type of systems that could have been available or had the level of up take that it has incurred. In hindsight, I'm sure a number of things could have been done differently.

What will be most important for me now is how we support you in the transition going forward. I will have a conversation with my team on their ideas of next steps and we will have further conversations with yourselves and the other openStudent Districts.

I will be in touch shortly.

Kind regards,

Rob

Subject: openStudent

Hello Rob,

At our in-camera Board of Education meeting last night I presented the concerns you expressed regarding the integration of openStudent with the Service Card, potential costs for SD63 and the implications of further investment of funds, as per our conversation on Monday. The Board passed a motion to wind down operations of openStudent by April 30.

It is extremely disheartening for them and for all of our staff as you can imagine. And there is concern that we received mixed messages from the Ministry over time (districts should consider innovative cost saving measures, districts could choose their system, the service card was never raised as an issue til now, etc.). Personally, I believe that if a couple of things had been different at the time of the announcements about the end of BCesis , and we had been given the opportunity to be considered, openStudent as a BC product was an innovative solution to the headaches and costs of the past.

The Board also felt that it would have been appropriate for you to speak to them directly about this. I do know that that would not have changed anything. It is what it is, and Saanich will rebound.

The Minister may receive a letter in this regard from the Board and I believe that our Board Chair will do a press release.

For now we will begin packaging up our code, because the core module is complete and marketable.

Best wishes,
Nancy

MINISTRY OF EDUCATION BRIEFING NOTE

PREPARED FOR: Honourable Peter Fassbender, Minister of Education for Information
by the Deputy Minister of Education

SUBJECT: openStudent Information Campaign

BACKGROUND:

In early 2010 the Saanich School District announced its intent to develop a new student information system as an alternative to BCeSIS or its replacement. Their product, openStudent, is based upon open source software tools.

Saanich has prepared a high-level *openStudent Business Plan*¹ and solicited support from other school districts to fund the development of openStudent. To date, three² districts (Comox Valley, Vancouver Island North and Powell River) have indicated support for the initiative and are working with Saanich to create a non-profit society to promote its development. The first components of openStudent were completed in May 2013 and piloted in twenty elementary schools. The full production version of the software, which includes support for secondary schools, is not scheduled to be available until the fall of 2015.

The estimated development cost of openStudent is $3.90M. Saanich school district has invested $1.46M from capital reserves and anticipates raising an additional $2.44M through investments by other school districts and sales outside of British Columbia.³

In November 2013, after a comprehensive procurement process, the Ministry of Education entered into a contract with Fujitsu Consulting (Canada) to offer MyEducation BC, a hosted service based upon the Aspen SIS software from Follett School Solutions Inc. Several school districts have begun the implementation process and it is expected that the service will replace BCeSIS in 720 schools by September 2014. Deployment across the province will be completed in 2015/16 and BCeSIS will be decommissioned in March 2016.

Forty-seven districts, representing 85% of the public school population, have committed to implementing MyEducation BC. Additionally over 80 independent schools (an additional 12,000 students) have also committed to MyEducation BC. Four districts currently use CIMS, but are considering moving to MyEducation BC. Five districts have not yet declared their intentions regarding BCeSIS replacement.

DISCUSSION:

It has come to the Ministry's attention that Saanich and openStudent representatives have been approaching Boards of Education and local teacher associations directly and encouraging them not to implement MyEducation BC and in some cases to unilaterally withdraw from a signed Memorandum of Understanding. This often includes misleading statements that misrepresent Ministry plans and could put districts at risk, including:

Saanich was not permitted to participate in the RFP process.

² The group originally also included Cowichan Valley, but they have since signed a MOU for MyEducation BC.

³ Further information about the openStudent can be found in Cliff 170663.

Government procurement requires that all large scale procurements include a Request for Qualifications stage. The Saanich Board of Education did have an opportunity to participate in the qualification stage but was not successful in meeting the required qualifications.

Aspen SIS is an unfinished product.

Aspen is a mature product that has been installed in more than fifty jurisdictions in the United States and United Kingdom. Aspen was selected through a rigorous procurement process because it best satisfied the requirements of schools in British Columbia, right out of the box. The service will go into production in April 2014 and all enhancements and customizations for BC will be completed in August 2014. MyEducation BC will be implemented in more than 700 schools by September 2014.

- School districts should defer their implementation decisions until 2016 so that openStudent can be considered when it becomes available.

OpenStudent is an untested product that is being developed in phases and the complete production version of the software will not be available until the fall of 2015. This is a major risk for schools that must transition from BCeSIS before it is decommissioned in early 2016.

- There are significant financial savings by developing a product in BC (openStudent) rather than purchasing a commercial of the shelf service (MyEducation BC).

These claims are based upon inaccurate comparisons with BCeSIS. The business plan for openStudent, as described in published documents, is incomplete and does not accurately account for all ongoing development and hosting costs.

The openStudent financial model requires substantial uptake by schools in order to be viable. A Ministry review of the business plan indicates that openStudent systems would need to contain more than 100,000 active student records to reduce annual school district costs to $10/student, the annual usage fee for MyEducation BC. The total enrolment for the four districts that have indicated support for openStudent is only 23,600 students which would cause their annual usage cost to exceed $27.50/student. If all five remaining uncommitted districts also choose to implement openStudent (which is highly unlikely) the cost would still be more than $14.85/student. An analysis based on information from their own business plan shows that openStudent will cost districts significantly more than MyEducation BC.

- The Ministry is developing a “BC common platform” that will allow openSchool to plug-in and exchange student records with other student information systems.

This is contrary to public statements made by the Assistant Deputy Minister and information contained in the Request for Proposals. The Ministry is not developing a platform for connecting disparate district-based student information systems. MyEducation BC is a complete student information service and no provision is being made for interfaces with other SIS systems. Schools that use openStudent will not be able to easily share records with schools using MyEducation BC.

- OpenStudent is on the Ministry of Education list of approved software.

The Ministry only supports MyEducation BC and does not have a list of approved student information system software.

- OpenStudent is “open source” and can be customized locally.

While this approach does have merit for some classes of software it has not been shown to be effective for developing complex administrative systems, such as student information systems. Saanich frequently cites the Kuali project, a collaborative development effort by a consortium of post secondary institutions, as a model for “open source” development for the K-12 sector. However UBC, one of the founding members of the Kuali Student project, has withdrawn from the initiative due to escalating costs, excessive overhead, lack of responsiveness and unacceptable delivery schedules. In the Gartner Report, analysts were unable to identify any examples where open source has been used successfully to create student information software for complex jurisdictions. The “partner” districts will be dependent upon Saanich for support.

The Ministry of Education is making a major investment in MyEducation BC with the goal of establishing a high-quality service that will support school operations and the BC Education Plan. This effort is being systematically undermined by Saanich’s campaign of misinformation. School districts need to understand the risks and costs of adopting openStudent. An external review of their business model might give a more realistic assessment of actual costs and capacity.
