Hi Jason,

We have the below news release set for tomorrow at 1pm for approval please, timing is in advance of the Seafood Festival which runs from the 7th-16th, I

Funding for BC's oyster farmers helping sector keep shucking

More than 100 oyster farmers from British Columbia's coastal communities replenished their stocks through the BC government and the BC Shellfish Growers Association's (BCSGA) efforts to help ensure BC oysters are available this summer and beyond.

"Living in B.C. means proximity to the ocean, delicious fresh shellfish, and a whole range of innovative and amazing chefs and recipes," said B.C. Agriculture Minister Lana Popham. "A visit to the BC Seafood Festival is a fun and tasty way to connect with the sustainably produced and harvested options from our waters, and offer more ideas and motivation to #BuyBC shellfish and seafood year round."

Farmers received up to $10,000 each from the BC Oyster Recovery

Fund to restock their beds with oyster seed. The restocking supported ongoing oyster production, as well as employment and economic activity in their communities. The Fund provided a total of $860,000 in oyster seed support.

“There are endless ways to enjoy oysters grown by BC’s farmers, whether served fresh or prepared by renowned chefs, BC oysters are sure to please. “ said Darlene Winterburn, executive director of the BC Shellfish Growers Association. “Join us at the BC Seafood Festival and BCSGA gala dinner to eat, share and enjoy the best shellfish available anywhere.”

About one third of the farms that received support through the Fund are in Baynes Sound, with others near Cortes Island, Okeover Inlet, Lemmens Inlet, Barkley Sound and Nanoose Bay.

“The Oyster Recovery Fund was seen as a positive step and concrete action towards recognizing the value of the shellfish industry by Minister Popham and the BC Government,” said Erin Latham of K'awat'si Shellfish. “As a new shellfish farm and as a new business of the Gwa'sala-'Nakwaxda'xw First Nation, K'awat'si Shellfish is also developing a research program, as well as improving transportation to get our GwiGwi oysters to the local BC seafood market.

The B.C. Oyster Recovery Fund was announced in June 2018 to provides short-term relief funds to oyster growers to purchase oyster seed and support production continuity. The fund covered 75% of the cost of oyster seed purchased after January 1, 2018, to a maximum of $10,000 per license holder.

Quick Facts:

- B.C.’s farmed shellfish harvest totalled 7,700 tonnes in 2017, and made more than 1/3 of the provincial shellfish harvest.
- Oyster sales in B.C. represented about half of the shellfish aquaculture industry’s value in 2017 and generated $29 million in wholesale value.
