Opioid guidelines

RED FM – 1pm, 2pm News

SPICE RADIO – 2pm, 3pm News

- Vancouver Coastal Health says it is developing a first-of-its-kind guideline as the health authority takes the lead in fighting opioid addictions.
- The guideline is aimed at improving physicians' knowledge of the many new treatments available for addiction to painkillers, in hopes of stemming the growing problem of fentanyl or other opioid overdoses.
- A health authority spokesman says doctors are advised to begin treatment with a range of new, less toxic opioid replacements before trying methadone, which is effective but has many side effects.
- The guideline also underlines the importance of recovery programs, recommending that initial treatment is not complete if follow-up care is absent.

Seniors care projections

RED FM – 3pm News

- Spending on seniors' health care across all provinces is projected to increase six fold by the year 2046.
- According to the latest finding from the Conference Board of Canada, that would be up to $177b.
- VP of public policy Louis Theriault projects BC spending on seniors care will skyrocket from just over $2b now to almost $15b in three decades.
- The older seniors, the 85-plus, is growing more quickly in BC, which will make the overall growth in spending for seniors in BC among the fastest in Canada. In fact just Alberta is ahead.

HLTH/JAG

Care home homicide

RED FM – 1pm, 2pm News

- For the third time in the past two years, the BC Coroner's Service has declared a death at an Interior seniors' facility a homicide.
- Eighty-four-year-old Emily Houston died on July 15, ten days after she was attacked by a fellow resident.

- Kamloops RCMP investigated but decided against charges.
- Houston's daughter, Nancy Bradley, says the woman who hit her mother was suffering from dementia, but that wasn't clear when she first got the bad call.
- Nancy Bradley: I was quite upset. I just thought she had fallen like they told me on the phone, that she fell because she wasn't using her walker. But when she told me right away when I saw her that this woman had actually punched her in the chest and then pushed her into this metal doorway, of course I was just beyond anger. I was furious.
- In August of 2013, 85-year-old Bill May was killed by his roommate in a Vernon residential care facility. Two months earlier, a resident-on-resident attack at the Overlander extended care facility in Kamloops resulted in the death of 79-year-old Jack Shippobotham.
- Bradley's calling on Kamloops Seniors Village and other care homes to increase their staff-to-resident ratios.

VPD chief looks at hiring more officers

RED FM – 2pm, 3pm News

- VPD Chief Constable Adam Palmer says the force is looking at hiring more officers.
- He says the VPD is looking for a status quo budget for 2016, so they are looking to not have any further cutbacks and keep the budget where it is at.
- As far as increasing the number of officers in the VPD, Palmer says they are going to do some pretty intensive research on that.
- The City of Vancouver's 2015 budget shows the VPD didn't fill 59 vacancies, in a bid to save money.
- The VPD's total budget is $257 million.

Restaurant robbery

RED FM – 3pm News

- Vancouver Police are asking for the public's help to identify three masked men who robbed staff and patrons at a Vancouver restaurant.
- Shortly before 9:00pm on September 12, the three men entered the Phoenix Garden Restaurant, located near Nanaimo Street and Broadway.
- One of the men was waving around a pistol and pointing it at the staff and customers. A second man was in possession of a machete.
- The three demanded wallets, watches and valuables before running off to a waiting car in the back parking lot.

Deleted emails report

SPICE RADIO – 1pm News

- British Columbia's former privacy commissioner, David Loukidelis, has 45 days to develop an action plan on a scathing report criticizing the BC government's access to information practices.
- Loukidelis has until December 15 to complete a report that advises the government on addressing recommendations and five findings made by Information and Privacy Commissioner Elizabeth Denham.
- Denham's report highlighted a failure by the government to keep adequate e-mail records or document searches and the willful destruction of records in response to a freedom-of-information request.
- NDP technology critic Doug Routley says he doesn't believe Liberals because he says they (Lib) will continue hiding information.

Dear Minister Virk:

The Business Council of British Columbia's third annual BC Business Summit, BC 2035: Forging British Columbia's Economic Future, is taking place on Thursday, November 19th at the Vancouver Convention Centre West. The Summit will be the launching pad for a year-long conversation over the course of 2016, BCBC's 50th anniversary year, in which we will be engaging our members and the broader public in a discussion regarding the opportunities and realities impacting British Columbia's economy moving into the future.

I am pleased to extend an invitation for you to attend as our guest. RSVP and registration details are included below and in the attached document.

Our economy is undergoing a transition amid increasing global competitiveness and rapid rate of change brought on by exciting new technological developments, demographic shifts, information transfers and global economic change. In this environment, it is important that we take steps today to prepare for the future. So, at this year's BC Business Summit, the Business Council is asking: what type of British Columbia do you want in 2035?

The Summit programme will include keynote addresses by George Cope, President and Chief Executive Officer, BCE Inc. and Bell Canada and Andrew Ramlo, Executive Director of Urban Futures Inc. The Summit will also present panel discussions that will explore these pressing challenges:

- What strategies are required to attract, develop and retain a talented labour force for the jobs and economy of BC's future? How do we attract and develop talent that will help to manage through future labour market transitions?
- How will new technologies and increased information sharing continue to integrate into—and change— our diverse economy? What is the role of business, markets, government and society to advance and adopt technological changes?
- British Columbia's land base is the primary source for economic growth and development throughout its history. How will the relationship between our economic development activities and the sustainability of the land base continue to unfold?

The BC Business Summit is one of our most popular events of the year and tickets are selling quickly. To confirm your attendance, please register at <http://www.BCBusinessSummit.com> and use code: BC_MINISTER to receive your complimentary registration. We hope you will join us. As in previous years, the audience will be comprised of senior business leaders with their hands on the levers of capital, elected and government officials from the provincial, federal and municipal governments, First Nations leaders and thought leaders.

Event details are as follows:

Thursday, November 19, 2015

7:15 am – Breakfast & Registration

7:45 am – Opening Remarks

9:45 am – Break

12:00 pm – Lunch & Closing Keynote Address

News You Can Use: Working with new federal government

Tomorrow, a new federal cabinet will be sworn in and British Columbia wishes the new government the best and looks forward to working with them on issues of importance to B.C. and Canada.

Five Key Priorities:

- Our government's five key priorities are:
  1. Softwood Lumber: Renewal of the Softwood Lumber Agreement is urgently important. We believe Ottawa needs to put its full focus and resources on engaging with the United States in negotiations that will protect our forest sector and the thousands of jobs it creates.
  2. LNG: We're looking forward to clear support in favour of LNG development, a new sector that will help us fight global climate change and create tens of thousands of jobs. In British Columbia we have worked hard to clear the runway for development, while creating the cleanest LNG sector in the world, and look forward to similar efforts from the federal government through the completion of the CEAA process.
  3. Trade: We're confident we share a commitment to trade and in increasing support for export-related Pacific Gateway infrastructure. Growing the national economy means being able to get goods to market and the Port of Vancouver is the busiest in Canada and continues to grow. B.C. is currently investing more in infrastructure than any previous government and the federal government's increased support in this area is welcome.
  4. Immigration: Canada has been blessed by millions of immigrants since our founding and a thriving Canada depends on our ability to welcome many more who can join us in building our economic future. B.C. looks forward to working on establishing stronger immigration policies.
  5. First Nations: British Columbia is home to 203 First Nations, the majority of which have never concluded treaties with Canada. We are determined to ensure First Nations are fully included in our larger economy and welcome increased engagement at treaty and other negotiating tables and look forward to working with our federal partners.
- British Columbia and Canada are stronger when we work together. As always, we look forward to working with the federal government and ensure we make Canada even stronger.

B.C. Liberal inaction as violent crime stats increase in Surrey

SURREY - New Democrat Public Safety spokesperson Mike Farnworth is calling on the B.C. Liberal government to finally take real action after RCMP statistics show another large jump in violent crime in Surrey over last year.

"Data released Friday by the Surrey RCMP show that violent crime is now up 40 per cent over last year with a whopping 188-per-cent increase in attempted murder," said Farnworth.

"But residents of Surrey don't need statistics to know they are living through a crisis in public safety. They unfortunately have seen the evidence of gun and gang violence all around them, in bullet-riddled schools and cases of homeowners being forced to defend their own houses."

The Surrey RCMP posted the third quarter crime statistics report on their website. The report found that along with the near tripling of attempted murders in Surrey, there were also large increases in robbery, assaults, sexual assaults, and kidnappings.

"Ensuring the public safety of its citizens is one of the most fundamental duties of the provincial government, and New Democrats have offered concrete solutions but the B.C. Liberals' response has been entirely inadequate, making the occasional piecemeal announcement but failing to take real action. "

"The people of Surrey deserve better than a government that treats an increasing wave of violence as status quo. "

The list of prior recommendations would come from the ministry. However, we have some highlights the QA doc as well, for messaging purposes.

Bette-Jo mentioned that you were going to follow up with her office to confirm if the topics would be same or if there were any changes. If you could let me know, then I'll make sure the right info is in the meeting note.

Hi Bette-Jo,

As it happens, as a result of parliamentary procedure, there is no record of the yeas and nays on Bill 5. This is not uncommon, as it turns out.

The Bill is described as having been "Passed without a standing vote" which means that, when the motion was presented to pass the bill, the members simply call out "Aye" or "Nay" and if no member calls out "Division" then no standing, recorded vote is taken.

In the case of Bill 5, no one called 'division,' and the bill simply passed.

Stamped transitory as a defense?

On individual has stamped confidential and transitory - that's contradictory. Stamping doesn't make it so. This culture of deceit, denial and delete goes to many levels of govt. Not confident other than we will get another report for 50k.

Denham has made numerous report - each has highlighted deficiency. They've claimed to get to bottom of it. Seems to me, if you have coordinators telling people how to behave. Virk in spring - said only public servants manage these requests and we have one of those saying stop stamping.

Talk to Maurine. stone had been saying communities had not been clamouring yet they did say otherwise.

When we ask for one copy we get no documents found. When we asked health for records and all we get is records below executive letter.

Health report - Judy would be better. Committee would move adoption. Govt received report. Judy wanted to adopt. Any precedent? Our view that adoption was appropriate course of action. Our view that it should be adopted.

Summary: Judy Darcy

Committee has been deliberating for months. Submissions supported dying with dignity. Last week we approved a report and last minute they decided to table and not adopt.

I have only been here for two years and new to me. Bipartisan committee - we reached consensus so it was a complete shock that it would not come forward.

Specific - one member who voted against at committee...pulling it today was made clearly by caucus.

Report says the Supreme Court has ruled and not up to us. They gave governments a year to come into compliance. A Health service under certain conditions. Ensure access. Public health authorities to provide info and an approval process. Federal government has decision to make. Different scope than provincial government. Given until Feb 16. 87 percent support die with dignity. Feb 16 -- committee decided to give relationship.

How many nahs?
Did not catch.

Federal election? Have to ask with Lib caucus. The report is public - received...you can read it...but not adopted.

Could health minister adopt the concepts? Yes he could. We spent months working on report. Supreme Court has ruled. There is no appeal. Provinces need to do their part.

Emotional about this?

Every BCian is emotional about this issue. Bipartisan committee -- compromise and reach consensus and we did that. We came up with thoughtful recs and govt thru it away. Afront to those who gave us their opinions.

Any NDP say nay?

No. We discussed in caucus and fully aware.

Contention?

No. It says need to have access to services.

- Minister Letnick says he is waiting for an action from the college and the deadline is this Thursday.
- He repeats there is no place for racism and discrimination in BC.
- The host praises Minister Letnick for his efforts against racism.
- Audio of the interview included.

SeaBus fare

OMNI TV (Nov 2) – Punjabi Show, 8pm

- The City of North Vancouver is calling on TransLink to include SeaBus in one zone fare policy for buses.
- The mayor of North Vancouver says his residents pay double fare for traveling by SeaBus when it's half if they travel by bus.
- Darrell Mussatto says people have started realizing buses are cheaper than the SeaBus and now they are using buses more and SeaBus less.

Floodplain maps

OMNI TV (Nov 2) – Punjabi Show, 8pm

- A recent report done by the BC Real Estate Association is highlighting the lack of floodplain maps in British Columbia's cities.
- Flood-management specialist Tamsin Lyle says the documents are crucial to avoiding worst-case flood scenarios and would also save money in the long run.

- Lyle calls them a basic tool necessary for effective emergency management.
- Just 21 per cent of communities surveyed confirm they have updated their floodplain maps in the last decade.

Nurse shortage postpones surgeries

RED FM – 8am News

RED FM – Harjinder Thind Show – 8:44am

- A shortage of about 30 operating room nurses at Vancouver General Hospital is being blamed for hundreds of surgery postponements over the next five months.
- A memo to hospital staff and surgeons says some operating rooms will close on a certain number of days each month, but the total number of postponed surgeries could be less than one per cent of the 30,000 cases performed each year.
- One per cent equates to 300 cases.
- The action means that patients scheduled or waiting for scheduled (non-emergency) operations, including such things as repair or removal of hernias, tonsils, thyroids, spines, skin, eyes, knees, shoulders, hips and gallbladders will have to wait longer.
- Vancouver Coastal Health spokeswoman Anna Marie D'Angelo says to minimize the number of postponements, we are relocating some VGH cases to UBC Hospital and some UBC cases to private surgery centres.
- She says there are 13 job postings for OR nurses at VGH but there are fewer postings than vacancies because it takes six months to train nurses for OR work.
- VCH refused to divulge what or how private clinics are paid.
- The host says on one hand the government is trying to shut down private clinics but at the same time it's paying private clinics for surgeries.
- According to the Canadian Institute for Health Information report, there were 1,307 nursing grads in 2013, compared with 1,534 in 2012.

Offshore home ownership

RED FM – Harjinder Thind Show – 8:25am

- The host says a report – noting millions of dollars are flowing from China into Vancouver's overheated real estate market and sending prices soaring – is not a good idea because it's targeting one community only.
- He says the report is prepared by the NDP MLA David Eby and he calls Eby the 'Poster Boy of NDP.'
- Vancouver Mayor Gregor Robertson also has taken the notice of that report.
- The host says instead of criticising foreign based homeowners we should fix our own loopholes.
- The host says although Robertson and Eby are concerned about affordable housing but both are seeing offshore homeownership as an issue.
- He says Finance Minister Mike de Jong has repeated that he's looking at adjusting the existing property transfer tax, hinting the revenue could provide some relief for middle-income buyers.

- But the provincial government shows no desire to give local governments increased powers over the sector.
- The host says on one side Canadian government is apologizing for mistakes and discrimination done in the past but now we are opening another chapter against some names.

BC hires former privacy czar

RED FM – 8am News

- A former privacy czar has been hired to tell the British Columbia government how best to implement recommendations in a stinging report that said officials – including those in the premier's office – routinely deleted information.
- David Loukidelis has until December 15 to complete a report that advises the government on addressing recommendations and five findings made by Information and Privacy Commissioner Elizabeth Denham.
- Denham's report highlighted a failure by the government to keep adequate e-mail records or document searches and the willful destruction of records in response to a freedom-of-information request.
- NDP technology critic Doug Routley says he doesn't believe Liberals because he says they (Lib) will continue hiding information.

BC Liberals' rule change protects staffers who destroy records

June 1, 2015

Posted in: Accountability, John Horgan, Liberal Mismanagement

16

VICTORIA – Two days before last week's disclosure about deleted FOI emails on the Highway of Tears, the BC Liberals changed the rules to protect staff who destroy documents.

"It is very disturbing that minister's staff deleted information requested about missing women in British Columbia," said New Democrat leader John Horgan. "It strikes to the core of this government's integrity. Knowing that there are no criminal penalties for these actions is even more troubling."

Two days before the NDP revealed allegations by former executive assistant Tim Duncan that he had been directed to illegally destroy documents, the BC Liberals passed the new Information Management Act. Section 18 changes the law so that staff who improperly destroy documents will not face charges under the Offence Act.

"There are families in British Columbia looking for answers about their missing loved ones, and they want to know what action their government has taken," said local lawyer and Carrier Sekani Tribal Council Women's Advocate Mavis Erickson. "Where is the respect for people? If this was taken seriously, then breaking the rules would come with serious penalties."

"A government that removes penalties for hiding information is not trying to be open," said New Democrat FOI Spokesperson Doug Routley. "I spoke against this section in the legislature and tried to amend it. But the BC Liberals were apparently determined to take the teeth out of this law."

"Government's work should not be secret," said NDP democratic reform spokesperson Gary Holman. "As part of our democratic reform legislation, public servants would have a duty to document their actions and decisions. It would also protect whistleblowers like Tim Duncan from the wrath of an embarrassed government.”

FOI

- We recognize the public's desire to fully understand what took place in regard to the 2012 data breach and subsequent dismissals. That's why the matter was referred to the Ombudsperson for investigation.
- That investigation has begun, and given its broad scope, I expect all pertinent questions will be answered through that process – on any issue the Ombudsperson feels is relevant to the matter at hand.
- As far as records management, it is an expectation that appropriate government documents and records be retained according to the appropriate retention schedule outlined in legislation.
- Government has asked David Loukidelis to advise government on how to address the recommendations from the most recent report of the Information and Privacy Commissioner, as well as FOI training for staff.
- We now need to let those processes unfold.

Secondary -- records already released:

- In fact a large number of documents have been made available through the FOI process and are publicly available online.
  - In total more than 40 packages of information comprising more than 4,500 pages have been released under FOI.
  - OF THIS NUMBER: 28 packages consisting of more than 2,000 pages are posted publicly on Open Information.

- For example, some of these packages may contain personal information, which cannot be posted online.
- In a review conducted last year, Ms McNeil reviewed thousands of pages of the records related to the investigation and termination process.
- Her review found that the documentation in the process didn't meet best practices from a labour relations and human resource management perspective and that better documentation is necessary. Government has addressed this finding to ensure the proper documentation of disciplinary decisions.
- The documents that Ms. McNeil reviewed, and a large volume of others, are being made available in their entirety to the Ombudsperson in support of the work he will undertake.
- Where we can make documents available through the FOI process, we have done so and will continue to do in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act.

If asked why records have not been released already:

- We have released a large volume of records related to this matter already.
- I'm advised that government staff continue to process a substantial number of FOI requests – these are still underway.
- These are complex documents, reviewed by public servants to ensure government meets its obligations under the FOI Act.
- We understand the public's desire for clarity on this matter.
- The Ombudsperson has been tasked with a comprehensive review, with the full authority of his office.
- We are cooperating fully with that review.

If asked if coroner wiped <sup>s.22</sup> computer:

- My understanding is that the BC Coroners Service never had access to the contents of s.22 laptop in electronic format.
- The only content they reviewed was provided to them in hard copy by the police technological crime unit.
- Going further, I'm informed that neither the Coroners Service nor police deleted any material from the laptop at any point.

Gentleman,

MTICS has proclaimed National Technology Week Nov. 1 - 7.

We have a spot on Corporate Calendar tomorrow a.m. bright and early (8 a.m.) for the attached IB – which DM has approved. Because that doesn't give you much time to review, there is also a spot at 10 a.m. tomorrow that we could get this out.

Are you ok with 8 am? Nothing to worry about here, mostly just facts.

Geoff

Nick –

With respect to plugging other MOs into changes – that should come from your office as lead (MO to MO discussion)

In doing so – know that while Nov 19th appears to be target date for VC piece – specific timing/logistics have yet to be nailed

With respect to products, MIT will have a draft NR for initial round of consideration on Thursday – and expect next iteration of tech strategy this week (specific timing not yet known) and we will get those in front of ministers when possible

48 Hours in the Valley Companies Selected for December Cohort

During my time as Executive Director of the C100, I have realized that one of the only things better than doing what you love is having the ability to help others to do the same. Twice a year, the C100 hand-selects a small group of the most impressive Canadian startups for a program that builds a bridge between their home and, arguably, the most innovative technologically driven ecosystem on earth - Silicon Valley.

Silicon Valley has historically been known as the best place to build companies, disrupt technologies and scale rapidly. The C100 provides the selected Canadian startups exclusive access to its rich network of extremely successful Canadian Ex-pats who will ensure that the startups receive all of the necessary tools they need to build a world-class organization.

The 48 Hours in the Valley program is about more than introductions, networking, mentorship and investor meetings. While these are valuable and instrumental to offering the insights and resources exclusive to Silicon Valley, this program is designed to allow the C100 to introduce the world to what makes Canadian entrepreneurs so unique. At a time when Canada is making a greater impact than ever before with massive billion-dollar valuations, IPOs, and game-changing companies, 48 Hours in the Valley allows us to help build the world's next wave of Canada's elite startups.

"The startup community is an ecosystem and the C100 gives you access to an amazing group of minds. The 48hrs in the Valley event can be a defining moment for your company - it certainly changed things for us."Casper Wong, COO, Financit

After over five years and 200 successful alumni companies, it is with great pride that I introduce 17 more of the most innovative and exciting Canadian startups to join us in December and become a part of this member-driven community.

Congratulations to BONE Structure, CareGuide, Community Sift, CrowdRiff, Flatbook,Foko, Graphite Software, LoginRadius, MappedIn, PostBeyond, Roadmunk, Sensibill,Sharethebus, Statflo, Storybird, ThinkData Works and Vantage.

Welcome to the C100! We can't wait to be a part of your journey and help in any way we can to connect you with the people and resources who will make your dreams a reality. Our goal is to support the next generation of successful Canadian entrepreneurs and to help you as you build your startup into a global company. In order to do so, we rely on the input, support and generosity of the people who have already realized the potential of this profoundly rich ecosystem.

The Silicon Valley bar is quite high, as is the caliber of the startups selected to be a part of this curated program. The C100 wouldn't exist today if it weren't for the people who make all of this possible. If you're a current Charter Member, we remain dependent upon your dedication to further the Canadian entrepreneurial ecosystem. If you're a partner of the C100, you allow us to make these founder's dreams a reality. If you're an entrepreneur, well, without you we wouldn't have a reason to be here at all. 48 Hours in the Valley will be held December 8th & 9th in San Francisco at New Relic, and at Cooley LLP in Palo Alto.

See the full list with company descriptions at <http://www.thec100.org/48hours-december-15>. C100 Association is generously supported by many partners including our Premier Partners: RBC, KPMG Canada, BDC Capital, Rogers Communications and D+H.

With Lindsay Kines and Dirk Meissner

Show intent to deceive. Comes from PO. Don't prejudge info as transitory.

Using as transitory to what? Avoid transparency and how decisions are made. Co-chaired committee to review previously. Duty to document, preservation of documentation all ignored. No reason to think gov will take committee seriously. Undermining officer of legislature. Bringing in Loukidelis not helpful and doesn't get us further.

Liberal free ride? Found to transgress act. Creation of oral government, ignoring committee advice. Given themselves a free pass. Refused to pay their dues.

Faith they might change? No. Consistently ignore ruling. Developed a way to further ignore committee findings.

Summary QA

Time that we engage and define technology changes and public expectations, define record management system. Loukedilis how moving forward we can increase efficiency.

Won't be presumptuous. Will make report public.

Broad use of term? Will add further clarity on records management as a whole - what is kept and not kept.

Terms say cabinet minister will be included - expect ministers to know rules? Expect ministers to follow legislation. Retraining required.
L will break down and committed to act on recommendations.

Required to take course? Will act on recommendations by Dec 15. Premier asked that while he conduct advise, all sent emails by staff be retained.

Duty to document not in terms? Two recommendations by Denham refer to legislative changes.

Goal to get something in legislation? Won't presume work of committee. Review and report.

Agreeing to implemnt all loukidelis recommendations? Committed to take action on all denham recommendation. Asking him to provide expert advice. He has been ebged. Considerable expertise. After Dec 15, we have committed that we want FOI to be transparent.

"As for the tech thing we really need to talk. We are developing world leading high tech equipment for steep slope logging all targeting getting the man out of the danger zone. We have hosted three very successful conferences in Surrey and Vancouver. Our next event is November 15 at the Terminal City Club will be SheTalks Technology.

SheTalks Technology inspires connection through real women with real stories. You will hear 8 minute stories, not speeches, from women who've accomplished incredible tasks through adversity and challenge.

In recognition of SFU's leadership in technology development and technology education we would offer an opportunity for SFU students to feature their technological innovation though exhibition space.

Our mission for SheTalks is to inspire connections amongst women through telling our stories. SheTalks Technology will involve technology stories from industry, education, health, communications and beyond. Our definition of technology is broad and inclusive beginning with the literal meaning of the application of science to practical purposes.

Share this event on Facebook and Twitter

We hope you can make it!

Cheers,
SheTalksGlobal

The detailed stakeholder list – for post Nov 19 – is undergoing significant edits to get rid of duplications

Just wanted to share this email re Strathcona RD meeting. There weren't any Network BC team members in attendance at that meeting so aren't able to provide a followup letter confirming discussion that took place.

I am not sure what next steps would be on this one. Please advise.

There are still a few of the other letters to come through.

PTC has a full Board meeting on November 25th.
Their thinking right now is that they'd like a more indepth meeting with the Minister on the 25th, with a 'quick' meeting on the 17th—possibly a call for the pre-launch session.
Would you mind pls checking on the Minister's availability / preference for meeting with the PTC Board on the 25th in Vancouver.

Hi everyone,

At our last Chiefs of Staff meeting the question was asked if satellite phones work overseas. The short answer is it depends where in the world you are, as parts of Africa, South America and SE Asia are not covered.

Your best bet is to check in with me before your trip, and I can find out if the phone works in your destination.

Also, I have had only one office get back to me on whether their minister has a satellite phone and if they do, confirming it is in good working order. If you could let me know that would be great.

Thanks all,
Matt

This incoming was forwarded to me from AVED asking who was taking the lead.

Kevin Butterworth explained that this issue actually falls under Health and they should take the lead. Health has now come back saying our Ministry should take the lead.

Kevin Butterworth is happy to write a response, but he would like Geoff and Nick's input to make sure that they do want a response from our Ministry and not Health.

Thanks!

Yes, we're trying to figure out a couple of options.

- 1) Looking into possibility of having this meeting on the 17th about 7 pm
- 2) Just checked out the telepresence availability. s.15 are available on the 18th late afternoon. Maybe one or two from BCTIA can be here in person with MAV with John and the rest in Vancouver.

Susan will be running these options by BCTIA shortly to see what could work.

Hi John,

Attached is the latest. I've been on the phone all morning getting the meetings scheduled.

Other notes:

- Richard P has provided an updated NDA
- BCTIA will invite a few additional board members

S.13

- Minister briefing requirements are being scoped out today
- Still required:
  - Launch information from GCPE that will be part of the Minister briefing packages
  - Need to determine how information will be shared at prelaunch meetings: handouts, powerpoint or discussion only – we should have this nailed down in the 1:00pm ADM Working Group session

- A video recording has surfaced, showing the governing body didn't change its behaviour.
- It's has become a hot issue in the BC Legislature once again and Minister of Agriculture says he will do something in this case.
- Harry Bains, NDP MLA for Surrey Newton: (QP) This is the dithering and flip-flopping by this minister are the reasons why the college continues to engage in the same tactics that were found to be discriminatory. question to the minister is this. They have ignored the ruling of the tribunal. They have been ignoring the minister's direction. Tomorrow, if they try to ignore to do the right thing, to implement the tribunal's ruling.... What is the minister going to do to make sure that the laws of the land are enforced immediately?
- Norm Letnick, Minister of Agriculture: (QP) Indeed, if the member did his research properly, he would have found out that the complainant to the issue was getting support by the government through their lawyers that are appointed by government. So I ask the member to wait until tomorrow. Then, as all members of the House will see, we will do something if the college does not meet the decision of the Human Rights Tribunal.
- Indo-Canadian veterinarian Dr. Hakam Bhullar says now the ball is in the court of the BC government and only the government can solve the problem now.

- Dr. Bhullar: We have met with the College on the advice of the Minister after winning the case in the human rights tribunal on October 8. The college board members, on the one side trying to shake hand with us but at the same time they hired a top notch BC investigator against the Punjabi doctors to prepare another case against them. The investigator, Hudson Andrew, is pressurizing our former employees to give any statement against the Punjabi doctors and finally the doctors had a sting operation on the investigator. In the 55-minute video, the investigator is using very abusive, racial and discriminatory language against the Indo-Canadian doctors. The HRT has delivered the ruling. It's crystal clear now and the minister of agriculture and minister of justice also have confirmed they agree to the decision. Now they want us again to sit with the racist body. We have started doubting if we are living in Canada of any other country. Not only the Punjabi doctors who are majority foreign trained, but the college is also discriminating with some of white doctors too.
- Bhullar says the college should be careful about practice standards and equipment the doctors have, not about how much they charge to their clients. He says not only the Punjabi doctors but many other doctors also charge fewer fees to clients and it's not an issue.
- Bhullar says they are hopeful that the minister will take an appropriate action against the college in the wake of racism.

Statement from Minister Virk:

"The allegation by the NDP is inaccurate and unfair, as shown by their unwillingness to repeat it outside of the protected confines of the house."

"Information and Privacy Commissioner Denham's report raises legal and human resourcing considerations and as such, we asked for extra time to respond to her report. The report contains personal information and findings of misconduct and we wanted to ensure that the legal rights of those individuals were being respected.

I asked David Loukidelis to advise government on how best to address the findings and recommendations in Information and Privacy Commissioner Elizabeth Denham's recent report and he has accepted. His advice and recommendations to Government will be made public and we anticipate Mr. Loukidelis reporting out by December 15, 2015."

Background: Reporter would like an interview with Minister Virk. She is following up on opposition claims made during QP on Wednesday. Victoria – Beacon Hill MLA Carole James claims lawyers were sent to Elizabeth Denham to try and stall the report in to FOI. ### News You Can Use: Increased Asset and Financial Gift Limits for People on Disability Assistance

Minister Stilwell was pleased today to announce significant changes to policies regarding assets and gifts for people receiving disability assistance in British Columbia. This change will remove more barriers to financial security for people on disability assistance.

Currently, people on Disability Assistance can have a maximum of $5,000 in assets, or their assistance may be affected. As of December 1, 2015, that limit will be raised to $100,000. For a couple or family where two people have the Persons With Disabilities designation, the asset limit will be raised from $10,000 to $200,000.

As well, Persons on disability assistance will be able to receive an inheritance or cash gifts without losing their assistance. The current policy only allows one-time cash gifts. The restrictions on the use of trust funds will also be eliminated.

These changes were requested during the Accessibility 2024 consultations, and government is responding in order to help people with disabilities save for the future.

Attached are the news release, a factsheet, and a document with key messages and Tweets.

Good morning Minister,

Min. Health is putting together an event in Surrey at the Jim Pattison Outpatient Centre on November 20th that I think you should be a part of.

It's a South Asian focused event about training the people at the Gurdwaras to refer congregations to supportive health services, and ideally they'd like to have you emcee and speak to the crowd in Punjabi for at least part of it.

Currently there is room in your calendar for it, but it may mean you can do less BCIC Start up meetings, because it takes place on the same Friday.

Thoughts?

Dear Nick,

Many Federal Government agencies have in the past made use of the facilities at the Pacific Region Training and Conference Centre in Chilliwack. As the Chief of Staff of the Ministry Of Technology, Innovation And Citizens' Services you may from time to time find yourself in need of training, conference or meeting facilities. As such I would like to introduce you to our facility.

The Pacific Region Training and Conference Centre is a first class hotel and meeting facility owned by the Federal Government. We offer over 25 state-of-the-art meeting and classrooms; all of which offer the latest in multimedia equipment and are well appointed to accommodate a variety of meeting set-ups. In the past this facility was exclusively used for RCMP training, but over the years other federal agencies such as the CBSA and the Ministry of the Environment have used the site for their training, meeting and conference needs.

In addition to our training and classrooms we also feature a full service hotel facility, operated by Executive Hotels and Resorts. The hotel features 221 well appointed rooms with all amenities you would expect in a 4-star hotel. Our room rates are competitive and included three meals per day for all guests. Meals are served in our Tivoli dining room and Johnny Mac Lounge offers a nice relaxed environment for your delegates to unwind at night. Should you require any catering, we can offer working luncheons served in your meeting room and special banquets can easily be arranged on request. By far one of the greatest features of our training facility is its private and serene setting as well as the inherent security that comes with the type of training we typically provide here.

Nick , I would be delighted to provide you with more information about our fine facility and will follow up with you in two weeks to see if we might be able to be of service to you

In the mean time please feel free to have a look at our website www.prtc-chilliwack.com or if you have any questions at all, please just call me.

Sincerely,

Carlo Elstak

CDRD Collaborating with University of Saskatchewan on a Blood Test to Diagnose Concussion

Testing of a protein biomarker that could contribute to a fast, effective and portable test for traumatic brain injuries, commonly known as concussions, is set to commence thanks to funding from the Centre for Drug Research and Development (CDRD) Saskatchewan Innovation Fund for research at the University of Saskatchewan (U of S).

“A meaningful, non-biased, and easy-to-use diagnostic tool is urgently needed,” said Changiz Taghibiglou, the pharmacology researcher in the U of S College of Medicine who is leading the effort, together with collaborators from Harvard University and the University of Toronto. “This is true not only for mild traumatic brain injury, but also to guide treatment strategies in moderate and severe cases where current methods don’t provide the physician with much guidance.”

The test is based on protein biomarkers Taghibiglou’s research team has identified as being closely associated with head trauma. Early studies indicate that high levels of one of these biomarkers, cellular prion protein (PrPC), show up in the blood soon after a concussion.

A test based on these biomarkers would detect a concussion early – perhaps even by paramedics at an accident scene or by a team physician on a sports field. This knowledge is critical, since patients can have few symptoms initially but still be at risk of dangerous complications or death if they don’t receive proper treatment, or worse, get hit again before they are fully recovered.

“Saskatchewan has a rich history of innovation, and that history continues today, with advancements being made in energy, agriculture, and health care,” Saskatchewan Minister Responsible for Innovation Jeremy Harrison said. “We are proud to support the CDRD Saskatchewan Innovation Fund that is investing in this important work, and look forward to many more health and technology advancements that are to come.”

Taghibiglou and his team have partnered with The Centre for Drug Research and Development (CDRD), Canada’s national drug development and commercialization centre headquartered in Vancouver, BC. Together, they will put the new blood test through rigorous validation to see if results from the early research can be replicated.

“The prevalence of traumatic brain injury is underestimated in our society, yet generates huge direct costs to our healthcare system and long-term costs to patients and their families,” said CDRD President and CEO Karimah Es Sabar. “We hope our work on this project will validate and expedite the research and make the blood test commercially available as soon as possible.”

Innovation Saskatchewan, on behalf of the Government of Saskatchewan, is among the consortium of the province’s leading innovation organizations that partnered with Canada’s national Centre for Drug Research and Development (CDRD) to create a new $2 million CDRD-Saskatchewan Innovation Fund. Other partners include the U of S College of Pharmacy and Nutrition, the Vaccine and Infectious Disease Organization – International Vaccine Centre (VIDO-InterVac) and Ag-West Bio Inc.

Taghibiglou’s project, which will receive $43,500, is the first to get backing through the fund, which supports development of health research innovations to the point where they can better attract investment to bring them to market and ultimately, help patients with new treatments.

China trade mission

Ming Pao A10, World Journal B2

- Premier Christy Clark and International Trade Minister Teresa Wat attended an event in Guangzhou to celebrate the 20th anniversary of sister-province relations between B.C. and Guangdong.
- Premier Clark also met with Guangdong Governor Zhu Xiaodan.
- (World Journal) Premier Clark and Premier Zhu released a joint-declaration on the 20th anniversary of sister-province relations between B.C. and Guangdong.
- They also signed an MOU on the cooperation on climate change and low carbon development.

Federal cabinet

Ming Pao A1-A6, Sing Tao A2/A4, World Journal A1/A2/B1

- Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau has been sworn in as Canada's 23rd prime minister by Gov. Gen. David Johnston.
- Three B.C. MPs have been appointed to the federal cabinet by Prime Minister Justin Trudeau today in Ottawa: Minister of Justice Jody Wilson-Raybould, from Vancouver Granville; Minister of Defence Harjit Sajjan, from Vancouver South; and Minister of Sport and Persons with Disabilities Carla Qualtrough, from Delta.
- There is no Chinese-Canadian MP appointed to the cabinet.
- (Ming Pao) British Columbia Premier Christy Clark is extending her congratulations to Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and his 30 cabinet ministers sworn-in this morning in Ottawa.
- In a release, Clark says she is pleased at B.C.'s strong representation on the front benches of the federal Liberal government, with three newly-elected Metro Vancouver MPs named to portfolios.
- Clark says she knows all three will be strong, passionate advocates for B.C.
- She says she is confident they will fight for provincial priorities such as a renewed Softwood Lumber Agreement, development of liquefied natural gas and the full inclusion of First Nations in the economy.
- The premier says she looks forward to working with Trudeau and his ministers to build a more prosperous country.
- (Sing Tao) Commentator Ken Tung says he's not surprised that no Chinese-Canadian MP is appointed to the cabinet.
- Tung says there's no Liberal MP in BC and although there are three in Ontario, but the competition there is fierce, adding experienced MP Arnold Chan is still recovering from cancer.

- Commentator K.K. Wan doesn't think it is racial discrimination that there's no Chinese in the new cabinet but he says it once again reflects the fact that Chinese-Canadians' voting rate has been low and they are not passionate in taking part in politics.
- (World Journal) Commentator B.C. Lee says it's a pity that there's no Chinese-Canadian MP appointed to the new cabinet.
- He says the number of Chinese-Canadians elected is relatively low, noting Chinese-Canadians should be encouraged to take part in politics so that more talents can be sent to Ottawa.

Massey Tunnel FOI

Ming Pao A9, Sing Tao A8, World Journal B2

- Ian Robertson, a retired professional engineer, wanted to know how the government chose a bridge to replace the Massey Tunnel over the four other options that were on the table.
- Premier Christy Clark made the bridge announcement at the 2013 Union of B.C. Municipalities convention, but when Robertson filed a freedom of information request he was stunned with the response that "no records were located."
- Delta South MLA Vicki Huntington said she was also told there were "no records" after her office made an FOI request to the Ministry of Transportation and Infrastructure for ten years of records relating to the Massey Tunnel replacement project.
- There have to be provincial government records of conversations and various documents related to the multibillion-dollar Massey tunnel replacement project, says Richmond's mayor.
- Malcolm Brodie says common sense tells us that it's impossible that there are no documents in support of the proposal at various stages for the replacement to Massey Tunnel.
- (Sing Tao) MLA Vicki Huntington raised the issue in the legislature but Minister Amrik Virk avoided to answer the question directly.

Six B.C. issues await Trudeau

Fairchild Radio News 8 am

- The Province asked local leaders for their assessments of Justin Trudeau's commitments to the West Coast.
- Trudeau promised to spend $20 billion over the next 10 years on rapid transit, leading to hopes that long-delayed Metro Vancouver projects would finally get started.
- "It's a very discouraging situation," said Richmond Mayor Malcolm Brodie. "It's not a matter of federal or provincial commitments. It's a matter of how you raise the local government commitment."
- Richmond Mayor Malcolm Brodie read the party's 88-page platform closely and came away with a sense that housing is not at the forefront of their agenda.
- Brodie called social housing a "big worry." "Federal money is being reduced gradually. The pressure to provide additional funds should be raised," he said.
- Burnaby Mayor Derek Corrigan said providing low-cost housing is expensive, even for the federal government.
- Trudeau promised to legalize marijuana and regulate its use. Legalized marijuana is coming to Metro Vancouver, but indications are the concept will not be welcomed everywhere.

- Storefront sales of marijuana have never been permitted in Surrey, for instance, but in Vancouver they have been openly encouraged.
- Richmond Mayor Malcolm Brodie thinks there are reservations in his city.
- No matter what the local opinion is toward legalized pot, the law will have to be obeyed, said Burnaby Mayor Derek Corrigan.
- Trudeau promised to reopen the Kitsilano Coast Guard station.
- "Reopening the station is a dream come true, but we don't know the fate of the marine communication centres in B.C., which were also cut," said Sara Kalis Gilbert, daughter of the late Pieter Kalis, a longtime Coast Guard captain at Kitsilano.
- Trudeau said the country's energy approval process needs to be "based on science, facts and evidence and serve the public's interests."

Senior care cost

World Journal B3

- The number of Canadian seniors requiring continuing care will rise by 71 per cent by 2026 and that will likely mean the provinces will face escalating costs to care for vulnerable people, according to a report from the Conference Board of Canada.
- The report suggests if the current level of continuing care is to be maintained, costs will rise from $28.3 billion in 2011 to $62.3 billion in 2026 and $177.3 billion in 2046.
- As the baby boom generation ages, the number of people needing support could grow to 2.4 million in 2026 and 3.3 million in 2046. That will place great pressure on volunteer caregivers and greatly boost the demand for labour in the continuing care sector, the report says.
- The Conference Board recommends policymakers begin thinking ahead about the changes and begin innovating in the community care sector.

Foreign ownership debate

World Journal B1

- UBC researcher Andy Yan released a study that looked at how many people with non-Anglicized Chinese names bought properties in three areas of the west side between September, 2014, and February, 2015, whether they got mortgages, and what they listed as their occupations.
- UBC law professor Margot Young said information about foreign capital is useful, but the ethnicity connected to that capital is not useful or relevant to Vancouver's problems with housing affordability.
- "It captures this discomfort some Canadians have with their Chinese neighbours. And there's a kind of hysteria, honestly, around the whole issue of housing prices."
- UBC geography professor David Ley has done extensive work in the city on the impact of "millionaire migrants" on Vancouver and its real estate, and he agrees.
- He said the circumstances in Vancouver make it seem like the issue is all about China. It makes him extra-cautious when writing about the situation.

Telus job cuts

Fairchild Radio News 8 am, 10 am

CHMB AM1320 News 9 am

- Wireless provider Telus Corp. is planning to reduce its workforce by 1,500 positions as it boosts dividend payments to shareholders.
- The Vancouver-based company said Thursday that the layoffs will save as much as $125 million each year.
- At the same time, Telus told shareholders it would raise their dividend payments by 10 per cent, to 44 cents per share, starting in January.

Viaducts removal poll

World Journal B2

- A new Insights West survey suggests that while one-third of residents support the demolition of the Georgia and Dunsmuir viaducts, 85 per cent are unsure the city will follow through with its promise to provide affordable housing in the area.
- About 70 per cent of those surveyed also believe the removal will increase traffic in the area, while 58 per cent expect it will make it more difficult to get to BC Place Stadium.

Transit police now deployed to six major hubs in Metro Vancouver

Sing Tao A8

- Transit Police spokesperson Anne Drennan says officers are now posted to six so-called "deployment hubs" along the Skytrain, Millennium and Canada lines.
- They're at Metrotown, Surrey Central, Waterfront, Bridgeport, Lougheed, Broadway and Commercial-Broadway.
- Drennan says officers are spread out throughout the entire system and it means officers can be centrally deployed and deployed more quickly, from these locations to incidents that happen within the area they're working in.
- There are 167 transit police officers in all.
- The Evergreen Line scheduled to open in fall 2016 but Drennan says there are no plans to hire more officers unless more cash comes in.

Airport intends to make expansion decision next year

Ming Pao A10, Sing Tao A8, World Journal B3

- The Vancouver International Airport terminal will reach full capacity in about five years, according to current projections, and officials say decisions in 2016 will play a big role in determining how the facilities are expanded to meet demand.

- The Vancouver Airport Authority said it will decide by the second quarter of 2016 how the passenger terminal will be expanded to increase its capacity from the current figure of 25 million passengers annually.

It was great to see the Minister at our Crusaders of the Lost Idols launch party the other week.

The videographer posted this up. I saw there was an email that went to a general account for the Minister's office but I thought I would send it to you direct in case it takes a while to wend through the system.

Hi Jordan,

Hope this finds you well.

Not sure if you recall, we invited Premier Clark to our open house last October (see correspondence below), she wasn't able to attend, but when I ran into her at Zahra Mamdani's dinner, the premier promised to try and make our event this year. Last year's event was a huge success, we had Minister Andrew Wilkinson as guest speaker and really wanted Premier Clark to be part of the celebration of our tech community in BC.

This year, we're inviting Minister Amrik Virk, a few other dignitaries and about 200 business leaders / executives from the tech and financial communities, we would absolutely love to have Premier Clark join us and address the crowd. Can you make it happen?? The event is planned for Thursday November 26th from 6 to 9 pm, even a brief appearance would be amazing!!

I look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards,
Faiz

BC Government Caucus
News Release

Nov. 5, 2015

CAN THE NDP SAY YES?

Energy Minister Bill Bennett is calling on BC NDP leader John Horgan to keep his promise and reveal his energy scheme to create jobs now and in the future.

"When he was first elected leader, John Horgan said he would talk about the economy and jobs and that simply hasn't happened," says Bennett, the MLA for Kootenay East. "When the BC Liberals recently showed in the Legislature how vehemently the NDP opposes Site C, Mr. Horgan promised reporters he would unveil an energy plan. I'm fascinated to see it – as this party is on record against Site C, opposes independent power producers and is even against transmission lines. In the face of that negativity, I can't wait to see how the NDP will create an energy policy without actually saying yes to anything."

Bennett notes the NDP leader has been very successful in saying no, though.

"The Site C project, as it passes its 100th day of construction, will create 10,000 jobs and a decade of economic spinoffs for B.C. workers and businesses. It's never easy to say yes to economic development but we get elected to make positive decisions, to find ways to make projects work for the majority of people. Mr. Horgan has said in the past he supports the project but most recently says he does not. That's not the strong leadership B.C. needs," says Bennett.

Horgan also dismisses private renewable power from clean run of river, wind and solar technologies as "junk power" – even though the sector is now a $50 billion industry.

And to top it off, he opposed the Northwest Transmission Line, which he characterized it as a "power line to nowhere". Without this nation-building project, the Red Chris mine would not be operating today with 350 workers and $1 billion in investment and neither would Altagas have invested $1 billion into their run of river projects that feed clean energy into the project. The Tahltan First Nation support this development because of the employment it has created for Tahltan and other people. To dismiss it as a power line to nowhere, shows just how out of touch Mr. Horgan is from working men and women.

"In just those three examples, the NDP has opposed 20,000 good-paying, community-building jobs," says Bennett. "These investments are important now for the jobs they create and for the jobs we will have by powering every part of the province."

"That's the difference between us and the NDP – we are prepared to make the difficult decisions and find ways to say yes for the benefit of the majority, while the NDP is constrained by their special interest internal politics and always end up saying no. So unless Horgan pulls a flip-flop on issues and goes against his caucus and his special interest lobbies, he will remain Dr. No when it comes to economic development," Bennett added.

Subject: new request for tomorrow at 10am: Tech Strategy Stakeholders

Good afternoon everyone,

Thank you for responding so quickly with your stakeholder names. I really appreciate everyone's time to get the lists ready and submitted before the deadline.

There are two areas where ministry expertise is required to fill gaps. Please review the version attached for:

1. Government Lead to Contact the Stakeholder.

- a. If your ministry should be/would like to be involved in reaching out to the stakeholder, please add the ministry representative's name in the appropriate column under approach or government lead (the headings are slightly different in the various tables) If several names come back for the same stakeholder, I will add them all to the master for further discussion. If there are errors in the names currently slotted in, please strike them out.

2. Other Interested Parties.

- a. I didn't receive many names for these lists. Please consider whether there is anyone we should talk to prior to the various launch activities because they may have different expectations about content or timing.

Please use red font for anything you add so I can find it easily and add it to the master version. If you see errors or duplications, I would very much like to hear about it by email. Please do not delete or move anything in the tables or I won't be able to keep track!

I am hoping you can send this information back to me by tomorrow morning at 10am. This timing would allow me to compile the information so it can be added to the first draft of the GCPE briefing binders.

Regards,
Danielle

Response below – let me know if anything else is needed.

->We are required to upgrade the mainframe early in the new year. Health believes CPIM will no longer function after the upgrade, and OCIO is working with Health to mitigate and migrate.

OCIO believes that there is a low risk that CPIM may fail after the upgrade. The low assessment is based on CPIM surviving several upgrades without incident. Also worthy of note the technology CPIM utilizes has been out of support for about 6 years. Low risk means that there exists a risk that CPIM may fail the upgrade.

Why/what are we upgrading in the mainframe ? The mainframe Operating System that all applications depend upon is required to be at a current version to get support from IBM should issues arise. There dozens 3rd party software titles that are used on the mainframe – these all depend upon a current version of the operating system for their upgrades and again we can not obtain support for these titles unless they are current. Client applications then depend on a supported infrastructure to run their applications. Ontop of those dependencies security patches are made to current supported versions – in order to ensure security on this platform we need to remain current.

- > what won't work in CPIM ?

We can only tell this once we upgrade....that being said we have made the offer to Health assist them to test CPIM in a non-production environment early in the new year to determine if we will have any issues with CPIM or not. Health is considering this offer – I would recommend we do perform the testing.

- > who's cost ?

All costs are Health's costs. It has been known for many years this was an issue and Health had previously struck a project to address this issue many years ago then shelved the project. I am not aware of the reasons for this.

Morning Bette-Jo,

Following up from a previous conversation:

The Health CPIM system is a legacy mainframe system that resides on the corporate mainframe.

We are required to upgrade the mainframe early in the new year. Health believes CPIM will no longer function after the upgrade, and OCIO is working with Health to mitigate and migrate.

- Commissioner Denham released an in depth report and her recommendations provide remedies appropriate to the findings, and we are acting on them.
- British Columbians need to be confident that their government is open and transparent. We are committed to ensuring that it is.
- Government has asked former BC Privacy Commissioner David Loukidelis to advise government on how to address the recommendations from the most recent report of the Information and Privacy Commissioner, as well as FOI training for staff.
- We are taking Ms. Denham's report very seriously, that is why on Friday October 23rd the Premier sent a directive to all ministers and political staff instructing them to keep all sent emails, regardless of whether they are transitory or not, until Mr. Loukidelis' work is complete.
- This will be done by December 15th. Once received, Mr. Loukidelis' report will be made public.
- There was an interpretation in the past however as technologies change and expectations change, government needs to change.
- That's why we have brought in David Loukidelis to help us with that.
- Government has successfully responded to more than 43,000 FOI requests over the last five years and we continue to strengthen and improve our performance.
- In fact in 2013/14 BC received 9,611 requests compared to 7,973 for Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba combined.
- BC is also one of the few jurisdictions in Canada where Ministers Offices are subject to FOI legislation.
- All that being said, it is our expectations that FOI policies and procedures of government are followed every time, without exception.

Hi there – we have a media inquiry from the Sooke Voice News, which would like to do an article on National Technology Week and is looking for additional info. Answers below have been approved by DM.

Deadline @ November 4, 5:00 PM

Media: Sooke Voice News

Reporter: Mary Brooke, Phone: 250-642-7729, Email: editor@sookevoicenews.com

Topic: National Tech Week in B.C.

Background: Reporter responding to our IB on National Technology Week (Nov. 1-7). Wants some more details.

Suggested Response:

* Technology is responsible for 6.5% of B.C.'s GDP. Everyone uses technology, so in a sense technology is responsible for 100% of GDP. In that context, what sort of companies are included in this figure, and/or how are you defining 'technology'? Is it just companies producing high-tech equipment, or??

- When calculating the overall 'Technology Industry' BC Stats uses the same guidelines as the federal government.
- This consists of a group of various types of occupations, businesses and activities listed under the North American Industry Classification System (NAICS). For example:
  - Radio, Television Broadcasting & Wireless Communications Equipment
  - Semiconductor and Other Electronic Components

- Software Publishers
- Environmental Consulting
- Aerospace Products and Parts
- Medical Equipment and Supplies
- The complete list includes about 40 different industry groupings – the economic data from these groups are added together and that total equals approximately 6.5% of B.C.'s GDP.

* Some of the most advanced next-generation quantum computers used by Google and NASA are designed and built in B.C. What sort of computers (and software too?) are developed and built in BC? How much of that is on Vancouver Island vs the mainland? Names of some of the companies? [Any photos?]

- The world's most advanced commercial quantum computers are manufactured by D-Wave Systems, located in Burnaby.
- A quantum computer is many times more powerful than a regular computer as it uses quantum bits which can have multiple values instead of the simple binary (on – off) bits in traditional computers to make calculations.
- It's like a jet engine versus a propeller engine for a plane.
- There is a strong software development industry in many areas of the province, including Vancouver Island, which can boast a growing video game industry. For example, Cloudhead Games in Qualicum Beach and Disney Interactive in Kelowna.
- Victoria has 19 game development studios, including Codename Entertainment, which just launched the very successful game, "Crusaders of the Lost Idols" this past summer.
- Other local game developers include Tiny Mob, Game House and Metalhead Software.

Also:

* The Government of B.C. has committed over $2 billion in direct funding for scientific research, helping to make British Columbia a world-class centre for science. Over what period of time? Funding issued to universities as well as companies? Types of research being done?

- Since 2001, government has provided over $2 billion in direct funding, and has attracted (leveraged) an additional $1 billion for a total of $3 billion for scientific research.
- Funds are distributed through programs such as the BC Knowledge Development Fund and goes to post-secondary institutions and research groups such as the Michael Smith Foundation for Health Research or Genome BC.

Hi there – we have a media inquiry from the Sooke Voice News, which would like to do an article on National Technology Week and is looking for additional info. Answers below have been approved by DM.

Deadline @ November 4, 5:00 PM

Media: Sooke Voice News

Reporter: Mary Brooke, Phone: 250-642-7729, Email: editor@sookevoicenews.com

Topic: National Tech Week in B.C.

Background: Reporter responding to our IB on National Technology Week (Nov. 1-7). Wants some more details.

Suggested Response:

* Technology is responsible for 6.5% of B.C.'s GDP. Everyone uses technology, so in a sense technology is responsible for 100% of GDP. In that context, what sort of companies are included in this figure, and/or how are you defining 'technology'? Is it just companies producing high-tech equipment, or??

- Premier Clark and Vancouver mayor are happy with those appointments.
- (SPICE) BC Premier Christy Clark is extending her congratulations to Trudeau and his 30-member cabinet.
- In a release, Clark says she's pleased at BC's strong representation on the front benches of the federal Liberal government, with the three newly elected Metro Vancouver MPs named to portfolios.

Massey Bridge project

RED FM – 2pm News

- The promised new bridge over the Fraser River to replace the aging Massey Tunnel is luring commuters for the last two years. But with construction set to start as soon as 14 months from now, it seems the province doesn't have a single document supporting the massive project.
- A number of freedom of information requests have turned up virtually nothing.
- Delta South MLA Vicki Huntington, who made two of the FOI requests herself, questions how a premier can make a decision to spend $3 billion with no supporting information?
- The business plan for the bridge was initially promised for the spring of 2014 and it is now 18 months overdue.

- It's not the first time questions have been raised about the proposed bridge.
- The Auditor General announced in the summer that she would conduct an audit of the project to evaluate the quality of evidence used to justify the new crossing.

On missing women's inquiry and highway 16

Minister provided information on what ministry has done to improve public safety.

- Since 2009, we have taken steps to add a significant amount of new cellular coverage – nearly 170 kilometers – to Highway 16.
  - o In fact, over the last five years, we've increased coverage from 48% to 71% currently (almost a 50% increase). This means drivers and people can use their cell phones to call for emergency services and support if they are needed.

All,

At our recent quarterly meeting we wanted to find out what had been invested

The Advanced Systems Institute (ASI) had put in CAN $75,000 by 2004. ASI received CAN $46,445 in royalties for a net of CAN $28,555.

The proceeds 11 years later are US $122,282.80 or CAN$ 160,900.

So, $28,555 in and $160,900 out. Equivalent to a 17% compound rate of growth or a 5.5x multiple over 11 years.

Hi Keith,

Thanks very much for letting us know – the "10 year overnight successes" are always a big surprise. I've cc'd Jennie Choboter, our CFO and who will be in touch with you, and Dr. Kevin Butterworth at the Ministry of Technology, Innovation and Citizens' Services.

I want to offer you and all the team at Genologics Life Sciences Software Inc. my hearty congratulations, this is a wonderful outcome. I am a Victoria resident and remember when James De Greef had "an idea", so long ago. Cheers.

Hi Greg,

I think we've met at one of the recent tech events, and I just wanted to drop you a line that I'm sure will make your day.

We act for Genologics Life Sciences Software Inc. and it was recently sold to Illumina, Inc. BCIC owns 441,176 Common shares in GenoLogics that were originally purchased by a BC Government entity back in 2004 (The British Columbia Advanced Systems Foundation). Those shares were transferred from the BCASF to BCIC in September of 2007, and there is currently US $122,282.80 earmarked for BCIC and sitting in an account with the Depositary, Computershare.

Computershare is waiting for BCIC to provide a signed copy of a Transmittal Letter, so that it can disburse those funds to BCIC, but the correspondence that we've sent to BCIC (at 9th Floor, 1188 West Georgia Street, Vancouver, BC, V6E 4A2) has not been returned. Accordingly, please let us know who we should send the Transmittal Letter to for completion.

Thanks, and all the best.

Keith

We (MTICS) are required to upgrade the mainframe early in the new year. Health believes CPIM will no longer function after the upgrade, and OCIO is working with Health to mitigate and migrate.

The following statement from Premier Clark on the appointment of the new federal cabinet has been released.

"On behalf of the Government of British Columbia, I want to congratulate Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and his newly appointed cabinet ministers.

"I am pleased to see British Columbia will be well represented at the cabinet table. I know ministers Jody Wilson-Raybould, Harjit Sajjan and Carla Qualtrough will be strong, passionate advocates not just for our province, but for our shared priorities, like renewing the Softwood Lumber Agreement, LNG development, increasing support for international trade, investing in infrastructure and immigration, as well as fully including First Nations in our diverse economy.

"Working on these priorities will ensure British Columbia continues to create jobs and grow its substantial contribution to confederation.

"I am looking forward to working with Prime Minister Trudeau and his cabinet as we continue to build a stronger, more-prosperous Canada and British Columbia."

Hi Katherine,

Sorry that I missed you yesterday. I wanted to follow up on Day 2 of programming. As far as I'm concerned I'm moving ahead at this point, but you and I didn't discuss it in quite as much detail so I was just looking for a sanity check. No worries though. We can connect next week if that makes more sense for you.

Tasha, Katherine asked that I add Minister Virk to the website. Are you the correct person to ask for his photo & bio?

Best,

Tiffany

A quick scan results in: "We both look forward to meeting with you at your earliest convenience to discuss our governments' respective priorities..."

But signed by three ministers. Letter needs to be written to reflect # of Minister's signing.

Hi Sarah,

IGRS is hoping to send this letter out this afternoon.

John has approved , Minister Wilkinson has approved and Minister Bond has approved. IGRS would like MAV to approve asap. Is there any way he can approve electronically? I know he's travelling, so I'm not sure if this is a possibility, or if it will have to wait until Monday.

Thanks!

Hello,

IGRS had advised that AVED and JTST Ministers send a joint sig letter to new Federal Minister Bains, Innovation, Science and Economic Development.

However, because BC Knowledge Development Fund is mentioned, it was advised that Minister Virk should sign as well.

Could you please have your DMO approve this letter? It has been approved by JTST and AVED DMs, and it has been requested to be sent out ASAP.

Please let me know if you have questions or need clarification.

Thank you!
Charlene

John,

On October 27, Greg Caws sent you a BN to apprise you of some irregularities in the delivery of the Venture Accelerate Program at Kamloops Innovation (attached).

In response to this Greg has developed a course of action which is outlined in the attached draft letter. Prior to sending this out, Greg would like to ensure that you're comfortable with this approach.

Any comments or suggestions?

Richard

Dear Dr. Butterworth,

Can you please review and circulate for input as necessary. I will await your go-ahead prior to sending, however, we should treat this with urgency.

No doubt this will rapidly escalate, however, there has been a lapse of judgement regarding the allocation of the BC Innovators Skills Initiative funds by Kamloops Innovation. I've concluded that the Kamloops Innovation Board Chair has a clear conflict-of-interest with three ISI grants allocated to businesses of which he is an officer; we stopped a fourth just prior to execution. The Executive Director of Kamloops Innovation must take remedial action immediately.

While BCIC completely understands the potential effect on Kamloops Innovation and the local eco-system, we cannot tolerate conflict of this sort under any circumstance. Kamloops Innovation has created a situation where they are outside the terms of their contract and they must be held accountable.

Please direct all enquiries to myself. I would like to send this out as soon as possible.

Issue Alert – Federal Impacts on Coastal B.C.

Today, Prime Minister Trudeau issued mandate letters to his ministers and two items have specific impact on British Columbia's coast:

1. In a letter to the Fisheries and Oceans minister, there is a directive to reopen Vancouver's Kitsilano Coast Guard station.
2. In another letter, he directs ministers to formalize the moratorium on crude oil tanker traffic on British Columbia's North Coast.

Lead: Minister Polak

On Kitsilano Coast Guard station:

- We welcome the decision to reopen the station
- We fought to keep it open and welcome any actions that strengthen our coastal response

On tanker traffic:

- The province looks forward to working closely and collaboratively with the new federal government on a range of issues that affect British Columbians.
- Coastal marine waters are federal jurisdiction, and the commitment to impose a moratorium on crude oil tanker traffic was in the federal Liberal party's election platform, so we were not surprised.
- We have been clear that, as one of our five conditions, a world leading marine spill response system must be in place before we would support any new heavy oil pipelines.
- We look forward to working with our federal partners to ensure an effective marine spill response is in place along our entire coastline.

No tension Nick...we've got the pieces lined up. Most critical point is managing the pre-briefs and ensure we paint the appropriate positive story re the delay.

Let us know when you'll be contacting BCIC, BCTIA and PTC as we are also reaching out to them on the pre-brief sessions. PTC's face to face meeting is on the 25th of November and we'd like to cluster pre-briefs around this time if possible. This however puts pressure on pre-briefs to be 1 week + ahead of the event.

Working date is just after the first week of Dec, but that's barely in pencil at this time.

I understand the added tension this shuffle brings, goal will be 2-4 days notice as we do want there is be excitement around the announcement; rather than a poorly kept secret.

MCFD

MCFD investigation

Fairchild Radio News 8 am

- The review into the death of a BC teen has been completed, but it's illegal to make the report public.
- Nick Lang died in June after 5 days in government care while seeking treatment for a methamphetamine addiction.
- His father, Peter, says the review was highly inadequate.
- He says the person who did the review was a contractor and his paycheck depends on getting future contracts, so he's going to please whoever's signing his paycheck.
- Lang says he hopes an independent investigation will now take place to look into the circumstances of his son's death.
- He hopes a full-blown investigation by the province's Child and Youth Advocate, Mary Ellen Turpel-Lafond, can get to the bottom of his son's case.

Water restriction fines

CHMB AM1320 News 8 am

- The water restrictions this summer across Metro Vancouver resulted in roughly 10,000 warnings and 1,500 fines.
- The fines varied among municipalities ranging from $50 to $500.
- The question now is, should the fines be bumped up next summer in hopes of better compliance.
- North Vancouver City Mayor Darrell Mussatto heads Metro's Utilities Committee and says at this point nothing is being ruled out.
- He says a better option might be having restrictions last longer by moving towards the earlier regulation dates in May and going longer into October.
- Mussatto says the public will have a chance for input before a final decision is made.

Funding for school upgrade

Ming Pao A13

- Schools throughout the province are going to get revamped, updated and upgraded thanks to more than $35 million in provincial funding, Education Minister Mike Bernier announced yesterday.
- Students, teachers and staff at schools throughout the province will benefit from a variety of improvements under the Province's Routine Capital Program.
- Announced in August as a $20-million program, it was expanded with an extra $15.3 million after districts brought forward a large number of projects where the life of the school could be extended.
- In total, 109 projects are being funded under the expanded Routine Capital Program. Projects were chosen based on need, priority and supporting student learning.

- The plan will see the resort's footprint increase from 350 hectares to more than 6,000 acres, and will see an additional 20,000 bed units and 23 lifts added over 60 years.
- The plan also includes waterfront development on Harrison Lake, to include a marina and a First Nations-themed village.
- Phase 1 will cost $500 million and an estimated 1,153 full-time jobs will be created.

Subject: Grants in Lieu

Hi Nick – as discussed, here is a summary of grants in lieu. Let us know regarding timing of provincial release.

The B.C. government will distribute approximately $17.3 million in compensation for municipal property taxes to 56 communities around the province.

Grants-in-lieu of property taxes are distributed every November and reimburse municipalities for services that benefited government properties, such as municipally run sewers, roads and fire protection.

Grants are issued in accordance with the Municipal Aid Act and are payable on land owned by the provincial government such as courthouses, provincial government office buildings and warehouses.

Schools and hospitals are exempt from paying municipal property taxes and are not part of the grant-in-lieu calculation. Other provincial assets such as highways, forests, parks or land under the control, management or administration of a Crown corporation are also excluded from compensation under the Act. BC Emergency Health Services is responsible for grants-in-lieu payments for ambulance stations.

Since 2002, the government of British Columbia has distributed more than $237 million as grants-in-lieu to B.C. communities. A portion of the funds are paid by each community to its regional district, and both levels of local government use grants to help pay for local services.

This years' payment from the Ministry of Technology, Innovation and Citizens' Services is $167,000 more than last year's total of $17.1 million. The increase is attributed to a number of factors, including fluctuations based on property assessments as well as the sale and purchase of government properties around the province.

Hello,

IGRS had advised that AVED and JTST Ministers send a joint sig letter to new Federal Minister Bains, Innovation, Science and Economic Development.

However, because BC Knowledge Development Fund is mentioned, it was advised that Minister Virk should sign as well.

Could you please have your DMO approve this letter? It has been approved by JTST and AVED DMs, and it has been requested to be sent out ASAP.

Please let me know if you have questions or need clarification.

Thank you!
Charlene

Categories: GCPE

Hi Nick – as discussed, here is a summary of grants in lieu. Let us know regarding timing of provincial release.

---

The B.C. government will distribute approximately $17.3 million in compensation for municipal property taxes to 56 communities around the province.

Grants-in-lieu of property taxes are distributed every November and reimburse municipalities for services that benefited government properties, such as municipally run sewers, roads and fire protection.

Grants are issued in accordance with the Municipal Aid Act and are payable on land owned by the provincial government such as courthouses, provincial government office buildings and warehouses.

Schools and hospitals are exempt from paying municipal property taxes and are not part of the grant-in-lieu calculation. Other provincial assets such as highways, forests, parks or land under the control, management or administration of a Crown corporation are also excluded from compensation under the Act. BC Emergency Health Services is responsible for grants-in-lieu payments for ambulance stations.

Since 2002, the government of British Columbia has distributed more than $237 million as grants-in-lieu to B.C. communities. A portion of the funds are paid by each community to its regional district, and both levels of local government use grants to help pay for local services.

This year's payment from the Ministry of Technology, Innovation and Citizens' Services is $167,000 more than last year's total of $17.1 million. The increase is attributed to a number of factors, including fluctuations based on property assessments as well as the sale and purchase of government properties around the province.

You're invited to the inaugural Surrey Social Summit on November 24, 2015, the first in a series of annual meetings aimed at engaging the community with all of its talent, resources, energy and creativity, to foster and grow a progressive city. A city that is ready, willing and able to tackle the issues and opportunities that will influence its future and that of its citizens. As one of Canada's fastest growing cities, with a thousand new residents each and every month, Surrey recognizes that breaking down old silos between government, citizens, not-for-profits, academia and business is key to finding practical and sustainable solutions to many of the issues facing modern cities and local neighbourhoods.

From economic development, the environment, to affordable housing, poverty, health and safety, modern cities need creative solutions that transcend yesterday's thinking. The first annual Surrey Social Innovation Summit will begin that dialogue and search for better solutions to come of the significant issues that face today's urban centres.

Every great city is a work in progress and Surrey is no different. We are bigger, more diverse and very different than we were a generation ago. Ours is the Surrey of

One look at today's Surrey and it's easy to see why we are such a fast-growing community. From our welcoming neighbourhoods and local employment opportunities, to our tomorrow, and we are eager to move forward. But, like all cities, we now face challenges that require modern solutions. Government alone is not the answer. Instead, we must call upon the unique talents and ideas of our student, business, citizen and not-for-profit communities, collectively. This is precisely where the Surrey Social Innovation Summit will bring together a myriad of voices and perspectives in one room, all of them committed to building a better Surrey.

Mayor Linda Hepner

parks and public amenities, Surrey is definitely a place to call home. As a result, our citizens are counting on us to continue shaping the kind of community that generates and implements real solutions to the issues that come from being a modern city. The first Surrey Social Innovation Summit is a unique opportunity to hear from local, regional and national voices with a wealth of on-the-ground experience, as well as the creativity to look at even common concerns with new eyes and a fresh approach. It is also the start of a much broader community conversation that will be shaped over the coming months and years, one that will help our city and its leaders at every level to reach beyond traditional approaches that have been tried and found wanting when it comes to solving persistent social issues that need both attention and sustainable solutions.

Councillor Vera LeFranc

Here is the latest version of the stakeholder narrative that ministers will be using for stakeholder briefings.

They were developed with Susan and Bindi – and I would like to get your input on it – whether we need to add more or have less.

Nick – could you kindly distribute to Jenn at Av-Ed for MAW's input?

John – I would appreciate getting your feedback as well let me know if you'd like to talk it through at some point later today/tomorrow morning?

If I could get feedback please by tomorrow @ noon that would be most helpful as this will inform a minister binder that will be used for the 4:30pm briefing on Monday.

Thank you,

We have added Jerome Nycz (BDC) and Alison Nankivel (BDC), Joe Garcia, Keith Spencer, Hector MacKay-Dunn, Sven Milelli and Vincent Yip to the pre-launch stakeholder list.

lculbert@vancouver.sun.com

Topic: MCFD Case/FOI

Background: Reporter seeking phone interview with Minister Virk about FOI concerns raised by S.22 mother of 19-year-old S.22 who jumped off the Lions Gate Bridge in Dec. S. made a presentation yesterday to the all-party legislature committee dealing with FOI, saying she couldn't get info about her own daughter under FOI privacy restrictions, that there were no notes kept at meetings, that the files were redacted, and other concerns. She said she was unable to get S.22 records under FOI because the ministry said she had not proven releasing the records would not subject a public body to scrutiny or be in the public interest. She asked for better balance between the privacy rights of the deceased and the family's right to get info.

Questions: What is the ministry's response to S.22 call for better balance between the privacy rights of the deceased and the family's right to get info?

Suggested Response:

- The Ministry of Children and Family Development often deals with cases involving intensely personal information, and it is critical that we comply with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act and the Child, Family, and Community Service Act to ensure we maintain the privacy of an individual's personal information.
- FOI requests are processed by trusted professional public servants, whose decisions and actions are guided by the Freedom of Information and Privacy Protection Act. Government strives to balance open government and personal privacy.
- If someone disagrees with a decision about the release of information, they can ask the Office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner to conduct a review of the decision to withhold information.
- The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act is currently in a review cycle right now and we're confident the all-party special committee will work carefully to identify where the legislation can be updated. Once the committee's report is complete, Government will review the recommendations in an effort to continually improve the act.

Information we provided to Van Sun:

- Section 5 of the Offence Act does not apply to the new Information Management Act.
- This is common legislative practice; most, if not all, BC legislation drafted in the last 20 years has excluded the application of section 5 of the Offence Act due to the sweeping and serious nature of the penalties.
- It is important to reinforce that this does not in any way remove other legal remedies the ability to discipline an individual who has knowingly removed or destroyed documents, including those subject to an FOI request.
- These actions include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.

Additional background information:

- A 1985 Supreme Court of Canada ruling stated that it is unconstitutional to have a “no-fault offence” with a penalty of imprisonment, which in this context means that it wouldn’t be appropriate to have every technical breach of the act be an offence that could result in such severe penalties.

Provided to reporter on Oct. 30/15

- On February 12, 2015, B.C. introduced new information management legislation to replace the 1936 Document Disposal Act. The legislation received Royal Assent on May 28, 2015, and is scheduled to be brought into force in early 2016.
- The Information Management Act modernizes B.C.’s approach in a digital era and brings the Act to today’s standards.
- The Information Management Act will:
  - Streamline approval processes for the retention and disposal of information.
  - Move government towards a digital-only storage environment.
  - Establish a Digital Archives to ensure the preservation of valuable government information and facilitate access by public (e.g., Open Data)
  - Establish a Chief Records Officer with authority to approve schedules governing the retention and disposal of government information, manage the digital archives and provide oversight.
  - Continue to govern the retention and disposal of court information as originally set out in the Document Disposal Act.
- Government consulted with the Office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner and strengthened the clarity and oversight of the new legislation.

Duty to Retain Records

- The Information Management Act clarifies that information that documents key decisions as well as information that documents or supports government’s organization, policies, procedures, transactions and operations must be retained in accordance with information schedules approved by the Chief Records Officer.

- This will ensure that information is kept for an appropriate period of time for operational and accountability purposes and is available to the public, subject to limited exceptions, under freedom of information legislation.

Penalties

- There are no penalties in the Document Disposal Act.
- There have been no changes to the actions available to government in responding to the rare circumstance where an employee willfully disregards the requirements of the Act.
- These actions include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.
- The new Information Management Act excludes coverage by section 5 of the Offence Act, which is common legislative practice. Most, if not all, legislation drafted in the last 20 years has excluded the application of the Offence Act.
- In the rare circumstance where an employee willfully disregards the requirements of the Act, government actions may include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.

Hi John and Kim – for your awareness, I wanted to share the below news release that came out from Shenzhen late last week, which was mentioned in the Premier's news release yesterday about her trade mission. It provides a bit more colour about the "5G Living Lab" and how our fibre build in Vancouver supports these kinds of initiatives.

BC Premier Christy Clark visits Huawei headquarters in China to witness deal to help bring the world's most advanced telecommunications technology to Vancouver

SHENZHEN, CHINA, Nov. 6, 2015 /CNW/ - Huawei, one of the world's largest telecommunications and ICT suppliers, today announced a memorandum of understanding with TELUS, Canada's fastest growing national telecommunications company, to establish a "5G Living Lab". This innovative new project will test approaches to deliver a next-generation converged fibre-wireless network in downtown Vancouver. The announcement was made on the occasion of the visit of the Premier of British Columbia, Christy Clark, to Huawei's headquarters in Shenzhen.

To support this "Living Lab", Huawei will be making a significant investment to design, test and deploy ground-breaking new technologies, leading towards the development of next-generation 5G based telecommunications networks.

This agreement follows TELUS' recently announced $1-billion investment to expand its fibre optic network in Vancouver, which will ultimately provide the backbone to support highly efficient and lightning-fast wireless speeds as the development road maps for wireless and wireline networks converge around 5G concepts. Together, Huawei and TELUS are helping the City of Vancouver deliver upon its goal of becoming the world's greenest city by 2020 through providing network capacity and speed that will enable "smart city" and other sustainability-focused technology initiatives.

"TELUS is recognized globally as one of the world's most advanced telecommunications operators" said Ken Hu, Co-CEO, Huawei. "The opportunity to partner with TELUS to deploy innovative new technologies is critical to our global 5G research and development process and positions TELUS on the leading edge of next-generation telecommunications technology deployment."

"This project will bring some of the most cutting-edge telecommunications technology available today to Vancouver, building upon our recently announced billion dollar investment to introduce fibre optic technology and further reinforcing our commitment to the city," said Eros Spadotto, Executive Vice President of Technology Strategy for TELUS. "Working with Huawei, our efforts will lay the groundwork for delivering a converged fibre-wireless network with the potential to deliver dramatically faster wireless speeds, thereby improving citizens' lives and generating significant new social, educational and economic opportunities. In addition, it will help all levels of government to build a greener, more inclusive and globally competitive Vancouver."

"There is a natural partnership between British Columbia and Shenzhen," said Premier Clark. "We both host thriving tech and communications sectors, and are fortunate to work with companies like Huawei and TELUS on investments to expand and upgrade ICT infrastructure with the latest technology."

About Huawei

Huawei is a leading global information and communications technology (ICT) solutions provider. Huawei's 177,000 employees worldwide are committed to bringing advanced communications technologies to operators, enterprises and consumers around the world. Huawei's innovative ICT solutions, products and services have been deployed in over 170 countries and regions, serving more than one third of the world's population. Founded in 1987, Huawei is fully owned by its employees, and was recently named again by Interbrand as one of the world's top 100 brands – the first Chinese company to receive this recognition.

Huawei Canada has been in operation since 2008. Subject: Capasiti Report - Commissioned by the Premier's Technology Council
Attachments: PTC Exports Report 2015 - FINAL - Aug 18.pdf

Hello Everyone,

I am pleased to attach a copy of the Capasiti report for your attention. We would appreciate keeping the report's contents internal within government.

The Premier's Technology Council (PTC) has been concerned for some time that the value of exports from BC's tech sector (cleantech, life sciences, software, hardware, telecoms, mobile devices, digital media and gaming) is being undercounted. In part this can happen because many of the tech sector's revenues come from software and services, which can be difficult to track.

To address this issue, the PTC commissioned research from Capasiti Consulting. Capasiti received information from 266 BC companies, representing 3% of the 9,000 tech sector companies in BC, 37% of the tech sector's employees and 20% of the sector's revenues.

The research shows that:

- BC's tech sector revenues are largely service driven, with 71% of total revenues coming from software and software services;
- Data from BC Stats shows that export revenues of the tech sector amounted to $4.4 billion in 2013. However, the Capasiti research for the PTC indicates that tech sector export revenues range between $7 billion and $11.7 billion.
- Export revenues of $11.7 billion amount to 55.7% of tech sector revenues, suggesting that BC's tech sector export performance is comparable to the 53% of export revenues enjoyed by all of BC's manufacturing businesses.

Please let me know if you have any questions about this report and its conclusions.

Best wishes

Louise

China trade mission

Sing Tao A2 (November 8)

- Premier Christy Clark joined approximately 1,500 participants, including members of the Canadian business community, for the Terry Fox Run in Hong Kong as part of her trade mission to China.
- Clark witnessed the MOU signing between HQ Vancouver and Poly Culture in Beijing and she also attended the opening of Gold Mountain Dream! Exhibition at the Guangdong Museum of Chinese Nationals Residing Abroad in Guangzhou.
- In Shenzhen, Clark met with Ken Hu, Co-CEO of Huawei and witnessed the MOU signing of Huawei and TELUS to establish a "5G Living Lab" in Vancouver.
- Minister of International Trade Teresa Wat witnessed the signing ceremony between WhiteWater West and Ocean Park Hong Kong while on a trade mission with Premier Christy Clark to China.

NDP op-ed by John Horgan: Premier Clark fails in her basic duty to public safety in Surrey

World Journal B2 (November 8)

- Attempted murders, assaults, sexual assaults, robberies, even kidnappings – no community should have to endure these kinds of horrific crimes. And yet this violence continues to rise in one of B.C.'s largest cities.
- The numbers released by the Surrey RCMP detachment earlier this month paint a grim picture – a 40 per cent increase in violent crime over the previous year, including a near-tripling of attempted murders. By any reasonable measure, this a public safety crisis. The people of Surrey deserve the full attention and maximum effort of their government to stop this violence. Unfortunately, the response from Premier Christy Clark has been woefully inadequate. While the premier and her attorney general have been happy to drop in for photo opportunities, they have failed to take real action on the most urgent issue this region faces.
- I have repeatedly called on Premier Clark to act. She should immediately request that the RCMP redeploy its officers into Surrey to restore safety, set up a task force to address the city's gang violence, and finally deliver on the often-repeated, still-unfulfilled promise of putting 100 more officers on the streets.
- These are immediate steps that the premier could take today. But that's just a start. Ever since Julie Paskall's shocking murder outside Newton Arena, New Democrat MLAs in Surrey – Sue Hammell, Harry Bains and Bruce Ralston – have been working to develop a long-term solution to street violence in Surrey. We have worked in collaboration with educators, police, community leaders and other levels of government. It's called the Surrey Accord, and we continue to reach out to Premier Clark and her colleagues to support it.

- Clearly the first priority must be to increase the number of police officers on our streets. But we also need to address crime prevention, and make sure that families and teachers have the resources and supports they need to intervene if they see a young person heading down the wrong path.
- The provincial government needs to move aggressively back into the regulation of recovery houses. Many facilities do important work in addictions recovery. However, unscrupulous and predatory operators continue to cause problems for Surrey neighbourhoods.
- Surrey needs an affordable housing strategy and a mental health. Everyone in Surrey knows that gangs prey on people trapped in poverty, often with untreated mental health. Helping these people is not only the right thing to do, it's an essential part of ending street violence.
- Federal, provincial, and local governments must work together. We must give the police and the courts the resources they need, but we cannot ask law enforcement to deal with complex social problems alone. These challenges require resources, cooperation, and above all, political will.
- Keeping people safe is the first and most important duty of government, and it's clear that today, Premier Clark's government is failing the people of Surrey.

PREM

NDP leadership

Ming Pao A10, Sing Tao A6, World Journal B2 (November 8)

- BC New Democrats have voted to keep John Horgan as their leader heading into the 2017 provincial election.
- 95 per cent of the ballots voted in favour of Horgan.

CSC/ NGDH/ MSD/ ITAM

Chinatown gentrification

Sing Tao A2, World Journal B1

- Community organizers in Vancouver's Downtown Eastside will go to battle this week over plans for a gleaming 12-storey rental building in the impoverished neighbourhood.
- Wall Financial Corp. has proposed a 172-unit rental development at 288 East Hastings St.
- It sits in the Oppenheimer District, where new zoning rules require 60 per cent of units to be social housing and the remainder secured market rentals.
- Architect Endall Elliot Associates' design would bring 104 units of nonmarket rental units to the neighbourhood, all micro-suites averaging 255 square feet in size.
- The building's six top floors would be market rentals ranging from 360 square-foot studios to 840 squarefoot two-bedroom units.
- But the Carnegie Community Action Project fears the development would only push low-income residents out of the neighbourhood and gentrify the area.
- CCAP's Jean Swanson, a veteran housing activist, said a requirement for only one-third of the non-market units to be rented at the $375 shelter rate - equating to 20 per cent of the overall number of units - does little to help all those struggling on a $610 welfare cheque.

- (Sing Tao) In an interview with Sing Tao Daily, King-mong Chan, an organizer with the Chinatown Concern Group of Carnegie Community Action Project, said the project is changing Chinatown to a more trendy kind of neighbourhood similar to Yaletown and Chinatown will lose its characteristics.
- But Willie Chan of the Vancouver Chinatown Merchants' Association said his group is supportive of the project, noting the new development will bring in more high quality residents and benefits Chinatown's economy.

E-cigarette

World Journal B3

- The rising popularity of e-cigs and vaporizers has spawned a new industry in BC but now the government is moving in.
- Health Minister Terry Lake said they are trying to protect particularly young people and they are essentially treating these products like tobacco.
- In draft regulations, scheduled to come into effect early next year, the government has told the vapour shops they will no longer be allowed to demonstrate their products in their stores.
- It's a move that will drive many shops out of business, predicts Dylan Godfrey, founder and vice-president of the B.C. Vapour Alliance.
- Godfrey is another former hard-core smoker. He said he tried everything to quit smoking but the only thing that worked for him was the vaporizer.
- He said the government's proposed regulations will hurt people like him instead of helping them.

ITAM/ TCIZ

TPP privacy concern

Fairchild Radio News 8 am

- Opponents of the Trans-Pacific Partnership came out swinging on Thursday after the full text of the trade agreement, negotiated in secrecy over five years, was finally released.
- Intellectual property and protection of Canadians' private information emerged as issues of widespread concern, and drew demands for further study and public input before the deal is ushered through Parliament.
- The language in the e-commerce chapter "fuels uncertainty" over Canadians' privacy, says Michael Geist, a University of Ottawa law.
- Provinces such as British Columbia and Nova Scotia have laws to keep government information (such as health data) and personal information within the country to keep people's information safe.
- The TPP language may limit the ability of governments to mandate local data storage.

MJAG

Crime prevention funding

Ming Pao A10 (November 8)

- B.C. recognized five community crime fighters yesterday with Community Safety and Crime Prevention awards, and announced that applications open Monday for this year's civil forfeiture grant funding – a boost to those striving to combat crime and address violence against women.

IIO allegedly suspends senior director for 'insensitive' Halloween party gag

Sing Tao A4

Ming Pao A7 (November 8)

- B.C.'s civilian-led police watchdog is remaining tight-lipped over reports that one of its most senior directors has been suspended for what appears to have been a Halloween gag gone sideways.
- Clinton Sadlemyer, the director of legal services for the Independent Investigations Office and, until recently, its acting chief civilian director, is alleged to have been suspended for two weeks following an incident last week during the office's Halloween party.
- This is according to Leo Knight, a former police officer and media commentator who runs the website Prime Time Crime.
- In a Thursday blog post, Knight wrote the suspension was the result of an investigation launched after Sadlemyer showed up at the party wearing a Guy Fawkes mask.

NGDH/ MSD/ CSC

Balmoral Hotel SRO

Sing Tao A6

- Tenants of a Downtown Eastside SRO are being forced to use the stairs after spending yet another weekend without a working elevator.
- The lift at the Balmoral Hotel went down sometime late Friday night or early Saturday, and residents have been told it won't be fixed until Monday at the earliest.
- 66-year-old resident Rosemary Brown told Sing Tao reporter that there's no refrigerator in her room and so she has to go out to buy grocery every day.
- Brown, who walks with a walker, said since last Friday, she's been trapped in her room.
- David Laing, who lives on the eighth floor of the SRO, said the lift has broken down 25 times since August 3.
- He said he has filed a complaint with the Residential Tenancy Branch hoping he would get a compensation of $5 a day.
- Sing Tao reporter called the landlord of Balmoral Hotel Prakash Sahota on Sunday. Sahota just said "the lift has not broken down" and then hung up.
- Vancouver councillor Geoff Meggs urges the provincial government to put in more funding to upgrade and repair SROs.

TRAN/ CSC

Compass card tap out

Ming Pao A5, Sing Tao A5, World Journal B1 (November 8)

- TransLink is reminding new Compass card users to "tap out" of the transit system, after hundreds were charged this week for more zones than they travelled.

- Thursday, 700 of 2,000 calls to the Compass card service desk required fare adjustments, with most coming from one-or two-zone monthly pass holders who had been charged too much because they didn't tap out at the end of their trip.
- Over the course of this week, TransLink made 2,960 adjustments for people who failed to tap out, refunding a total of $7,094.

TRAN/ MJAG

Missing women

Fairchild Radio News 8 am, 9 am

- Members of BC's coalition on missing and murdered indigenous women and girls have called a news conference in Vancouver this morning to criticize the province for dragging its feet.
- The coalition says the province has failed to implement recommendations from the Missing Women Commission of Inquiry.
- Members will also call on the newly-elected federal government to act quickly on a pledge to launch a national inquiry on missing women and the coalition will offer several recommendations about what it would like to see included in the national probe.
- The BC coalition includes family members and more than 35 advocacy and support organizations working in Vancouver's Downtown Eastside Vancouver and around Highway 16, the Highway of Tears, between Prince George and Prince Rupert.

B.C. documents on Highway of Tears open wounds as missing women inquiry looms

Sing Tao A4, World Journal B2

- At least 18 women went missing or were murdered along Highway 16 and the adjacent Highways 97 and 5 since the 1970s. Most cases remain unsolved, though investigators don't believe a single killer is responsible.
- The sorrow deepened recently with a damning report over deleted Transportation Ministry emails about the highway and its missing.
- Transportation Minister Todd Stone has said he agrees with the opinions of some locals that a shuttle bus service along the route isn't practical.
- However, the Opposition New Democrats say recently released documents contradict Stone and highlight the concerns of local officials who say a bus service should be considered.
- Stone said his ministry is holding a transportation symposium in Smithers Nov. 24 to discuss practical, affordable and sustainable solutions for communities along Highway 16.
- Opposition New Democrat Jennifer Rice, whose North Coast riding includes a section of Highway 16, said she has not been invited to the symposium but plans to attend.

Minister Virk:

I'd like to thank you for your time and attention in visiting with Launi Skinner, Bryan Tisdall and me last Friday at Science World. We are committed to working with your government to pursue our mutual priorities to support science and technology in communities across British Columbia, and we welcome your counsel on how we can further our case to secure renewed funding from the government. We also appreciate your offer to encourage Minister Bernier to meet with us in the near future (we do have a meeting request in to his office); I'll ask Bryan to connect with Geoff to follow-up on this meeting and your suggestion regarding a presentation to caucus.

Please contact me at any time with questions or advice on our initiatives.

Thank you.

Walter

Sorry that I missed you yesterday. I wanted to follow up on Day 2 of programming. As far as I'm concerned I'm moving ahead at this point, but you and I didn't discuss it in quite as much detail so I was just looking for a sanity check. No worries though. We can connect next week if that makes more sense for you.

Tasha, Katherine asked that I add Minister Virk to the website. Are you the correct person to ask for his photo & bio?

Best,

I'll update asap – and will be contacting BCIC, PTC & BCTIA personally regarding the 17th/19th.

Working date is just after the first week of Dec, but that's barely in pencil at this time.

I understand the added tension this shuffle brings, goal will be 2-4 days notice as we do want there is be excitement around the announcement; rather than a poorly kept secret.

Hi...

Are we completely locked and loaded that the launch will be delayed?

Do we have a new working date of December 7th or 8th?

We need to start rebooking pre-briefs today – would prefer not to rebook more than once :)

Thanks,

Susan

Attached is the comparison with last year.

The B.C. government will distribute approximately $17.3 million in compensation for municipal property taxes to 56 communities around the province.

Grants-in-lieu of property taxes are distributed every November and reimburse municipalities for services that benefited government properties, such as municipally run sewers, roads and fire protection.

Grants are issued in accordance with the Municipal Aid Act and are payable on land owned by the provincial government such as courthouses, provincial government office buildings and warehouses.

Schools and hospitals are exempt from paying municipal property taxes and are not part of the grant-in-lieu calculation. Other provincial assets such as highways, forests, parks or land under the control, management or administration of a Crown corporation are also excluded from compensation under the Act. BC Emergency Health Services is responsible for grants-in-lieu payments for ambulance stations.

Since 2002, the government of British Columbia has distributed more than $237 million as grants-in-lieu to B.C. communities. A portion of the funds are paid by each community to its regional district, and both levels of local government use grants to help pay for local services.

This years' payment from the Ministry of Technology, Innovation and Citizens' Services is $167,000 more than last year's total of $17.1 million. The increase is attributed to a number of factors, including fluctuations based on property assessments as well as the sale and purchase of government properties around the province.

Thank you for meeting with Jonathan and me while we were in Victoria last week. We were glad to have the opportunity to brief you on the Institute for Advanced Medical Isotopes (IAM I), and we greatly appreciated your feedback and guidance on the proposal.

As a next step, would it be possible to find time in the coming weeks for us to brief Minister Virk on this opportunity? Please advise.

In the meantime, if you have any questions regarding IAM I, or any other aspect of TRIUMF's program, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Thank you again for your time, and I look forward to speaking with you again soon.

Information we provided to Van Sun:

- Section 5 of the Offence Act does not apply to the new Information Management Act.
- This is common legislative practice; most, if not all, BC legislation drafted in the last 20 years has excluded the application of section 5 of the Offence Act due to the sweeping and serious nature of the penalties.
- It is important to reinforce that this does not in any way remove other legal remedies the ability to discipline an individual who has knowingly removed or destroyed documents, including those subject to an FOI request.
- These actions include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.

Additional background information:

- A 1985 Supreme Court of Canada ruling stated that it is unconstitutional to have a “no-fault offence” with a penalty of imprisonment, which in this context means that it wouldn’t be appropriate to have every technical breach of the act be an offence that could result in such severe penalties.

Provided to reporter on Oct. 30/15

- On February 12, 2015, B.C. introduced new information management legislation to replace the 1936 Document Disposal Act. The legislation received Royal Assent on May 28, 2015, and is scheduled to be brought into force in early 2016.
- The Information Management Act modernizes B.C.’s approach in a digital era and brings the Act to today’s standards.
- The Information Management Act will:

- Streamline approval processes for the retention and disposal of information.
  - Move government towards a digital-only storage environment.
  - Establish a Digital Archives to ensure the preservation of valuable government information and facilitate access by public (e.g., Open Data)
  - Establish a Chief Records Officer with authority to approve schedules governing the retention and disposal of government information, manage the digital archives and provide oversight.
  - Continue to govern the retention and disposal of court information as originally set out in the Document Disposal Act.
- Government consulted with the Office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner and strengthened the clarity and oversight of the new legislation.

Duty to Retain Records

- The Information Management Act clarifies that information that documents key decisions as well as information that documents or supports government's organization, policies, procedures, transactions and operations must be retained in accordance with information schedules approved by the Chief Records Officer.
- This will ensure that information is kept for an appropriate period of time for operational and accountability purposes and is available to the public, subject to limited exceptions, under freedom of information legislation.

Penalties

- There are no penalties in the Document Disposal Act.
- There have been no changes to the actions available to government in responding to the rare circumstance where an employee willfully disregards the requirements of the Act.
- These actions include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.
- The new Information Management Act excludes coverage by section 5 of the Offence Act, which is common legislative practice. Most, if not all, legislation drafted in the last 20 years has excluded the application of the Offence Act.

- In the rare circumstance where an employee willfully disregards the requirements of the Act, government actions may include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.

Hello Everyone,

I am pleased to attach a copy of the Capasiti report for your attention. We would appreciate keeping the report's contents internal within government.

The Premier's Technology Council (PTC) has been concerned for some time that the value of exports from BC's tech sector (cleantech, life sciences, software, hardware, telecoms, mobile devices, digital media and gaming) is being undercounted. In part this can happen because many of the tech sector's revenues come from software and services, which can be difficult to track.

To address this issue, the PTC commissioned research from Capasiti Consulting. Capasiti received information from 266 BC companies, representing 3% of the 9,000 tech sector companies in BC, 37% of the tech sector's employees and 20% of the sector's revenues.

The research shows that:

- BC's tech sector revenues are largely service driven, with 71% of total revenues coming from software and software services;
- Data from BC Stats shows that export revenues of the tech sector amounted to $4.4 billion in 2013. However, the Capasiti research for the PTC indicates that tech sector export revenues range between $7 billion and $11.7 billion.
- Export revenues of $11.7 billion amount to 55.7% of tech sector revenues, suggesting that BC's tech sector export performance is comparable to the 53% of export revenues enjoyed by all of BC's manufacturing businesses.

Please let me know if you have any questions about this report and its conclusions.

Best wishes

Louise

Many emails are transitory in nature such as those that are routine, duplicate or draft, and should be deleted as part of good records management practices.

Depending on how often individuals manage their email records, different people may very well have different records responsive to an FOI request – and that would be expected.

It's unnecessary to keep transitory records, but if they are kept, they would be included in response to an FOI request.

VICTORIA – Two days before last week's disclosure about deleted FOI emails on the Highway of Tears, the BC Liberals changed the rules to protect staff who destroy documents.

"It is very disturbing that minister's staff deleted information requested about missing women in British Columbia," said New Democrat leader John Horgan. "It strikes to the core of this government's integrity. Knowing that there are no criminal penalties for these actions is even more troubling."

Two days before the NDP revealed allegations by former executive assistant Tim Duncan that he had been directed to illegally destroy documents, the BC Liberals passed the new Information Management Act. Section 18 changes the law so that staff who improperly destroy documents will not face charges under the Offence Act.

I'll comb through and see if there is anyone we need to pull forward based on their feedback.
The detailed stakeholder list – for post Nov 19 – is undergoing significant edits to get rid of duplications
Let me know if you need anything...I'll have more info on Monday.

Hi Rebecca,

This incoming was forwarded to me from AVED asking who was taking the lead.

Kevin Butterworth explained that this issue actually falls under Health and they should take the lead. Health has now come back saying our Ministry should take the lead.

Kevin Butterworth is happy to write a response, but he would like Geoff and Nick's input to make sure that they do want a response from our Ministry and not Health.

Thanks!

Hi there,

This request was clarified from the JAG file, and the updated wording has been applied across the requests.

The new, revised wording for this request is:

officials related to the draft and/or final version of the report. (Date Range for Record Search: From 10/12/2015 To 10/26/2015)

Please see details below regarding this formal request made under the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIPPA):

*Any correspondence between staff from the Ministries and the Information and Privacy Commissioner related to the report "Access Denied: Record Retention and Disposal Practices of the Government of British Columbia" including but not limited to emails and letters from government officials related to the draft and/or final version of the report. Hi Nick,

I hope this email finds you well.

Today, I had a meeting with Greg Caws with BCIC and he suggested that I reach out to you to arrange a meeting with Minister Virk as soon as possible.

I would like to discuss Innovation Island and SquareOne, the tech incubator building in Nanaimo created with Nanaimo Economic Development Corporation. I shared with Greg some of the challenges and opportunities Innovation Island is facing and he encouraged me to connect with you to arrange a meeting with Minister Virk.

My preference is to make my way to Victoria to meet with Minister Virk about this matter if possible. My schedule is flexible.

Thanks Nick and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Minister Virk is also invited to the private dinner from 7-9:30 pm.

BCIC is hosting this event in partnership with COSIA, Alberta Innovates - Energy and Environment Solutions (AIESS), Climate Change and Emissions Management Corporation (CCEMC), Canadian Oil Sands Innovation Alliance (COSIA), Natural Resources Canada (NRCAN) and Sustainable Development Technology Canada (SDTC).

We believe this is an excellent opportunity for Minister Virk to share greetings from the BC government among a group of people who are actively working to advance our province's cleantech sector. Please contact me if you require further details.

Subject: new request for tomorrow at 10am: Tech Strategy Stakeholders

Good afternoon everyone,

Thank you for responding so quickly with your stakeholder names. I really appreciate everyone's time to get the lists ready and submitted before the deadline.

There are two areas where ministry expertise is required to fill gaps. Please review the version attached for:

1. Government Lead to Contact the Stakeholder.

- a. If your ministry should be/would like to be involved in reaching out to the stakeholder, please add the ministry representative's name in the appropriate column under approach or government lead (the headings are slightly different in the various tables) If several names come back for the same stakeholder, I will add them all to the master for further discussion. If there are errors in the names currently slotted in, please strike them out.

2. Other Interested Parties.

- a. I didn't receive many names for these lists. Please consider whether there is anyone we should talk to prior to the various launch activities because they may have different expectations about content or timing.

Please use red font for anything you add so I can find it easily and add it to the master version. If you see errors or duplications, I would very much like to hear about it by email. Please do not delete or move anything in the tables or I won't be able to keep track!

I am hoping you can send this information back to me by tomorrow morning at 10am. This timing would allow me to compile the information so it can be added to the first draft of the GCPE briefing binders.

Regards,
Danielle

- Commissioner Denham released an in depth report and her recommendations provide remedies appropriate to the findings, and we are acting on them.
- British Columbians need to be confident that their government is open and transparent. We are committed to ensuring that it is.
- Government has asked former BC Privacy Commissioner David Loukidelis to advise government on how to address the recommendations from the most recent report of the Information and Privacy Commissioner, as well as FOI training for staff.
- We are taking Ms. Denham's report very seriously, that is why on Friday October 23rd the Premier sent a directive to all ministers and political staff instructing them to keep all sent emails, regardless of whether they are transitory or not, until Mr. Loukidelis' work is complete.
- This will be done by December 15th. Once received, Mr. Loukidelis' report will be made public.
- There was an interpretation in the past however as technologies change and expectations change, government needs to change.
- That's why we have brought in David Loukidelis to help us with that.
- Government has successfully responded to more than 43,000 FOI requests over the last five years and we continue to strengthen and improve our performance.
- In fact in 2013/14 BC received 9,611 requests compared to 7,973 for Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba combined.
- BC is also one of the few jurisdictions in Canada where Ministers Offices are subject to FOI legislation.
- All that being said, it is our expectations that FOI policies and procedures of government are followed every time, without exception.

Hi there – we have a media inquiry from the Sooke Voice News, which would like to do an article on National Technology Week and is looking for additional info. Answers below have been approved by DM.

Deadline @ November 4, 5:00 PM

Media: Sooke Voice News

Reporter: Mary Brooke, Phone: 250-642-7729, Email: editor@sookevoicenews.com

Topic: National Tech Week in B.C.

Background: Reporter responding to our IB on National Technology Week (Nov. 1-7). Wants some more details.

Suggested Response:

* Technology is responsible for 6.5% of B.C.'s GDP. Everyone uses technology, so in a sense technology is responsible for 100% of GDP. In that context, what sort of companies are included in this figure, and/or how are you defining 'technology'? Is it just companies producing high-tech equipment, or??

- When calculating the overall 'Technology Industry' BC Stats uses the same guidelines as the federal government.
- This consists of a group of various types of occupations, businesses and activities listed under the North American Industry Classification System (NAICS). For example:
  - Radio, Television Broadcasting & Wireless Communications Equipment
  - Semiconductor and Other Electronic Components
  - Software Publishers
  - Environmental Consulting
  - Aerospace Products and Parts
  - Medical Equipment and Supplies
- The complete list includes about 40 different industry groupings – the economic data from these groups are added together and that total equals approximately 6.5% of B.C.'s GDP.

* Some of the most advanced next-generation quantum computers used by Google and NASA are designed and built in B.C. What sort of computers (and software too?) are developed and built in BC? How much of that is on Vancouver Island vs the mainland? Names of some of the companies? [Any photos?]

- The world's most advanced commercial quantum computers are manufactured by D-Wave Systems, located in Burnaby.
- A quantum computer is many times more powerful than a regular computer as it uses quantum bits which can have multiple values instead of the simple binary (on – off) bits in traditional computers to make calculations.
- It's like a jet engine versus a propeller engine for a plane.
- There is a strong software development industry in many areas of the province, including Vancouver Island, which can boast a growing video game industry. For example, Cloudhead Games in Qualicum Beach and Disney Interactive in Kelowna.
- Victoria has 19 game development studios, including Codename Entertainment, which just launched the very successful game, "Crusaders of the Lost Idols" this past summer.
- Other local game developers include Tiny Mob, Game House and Metalhead Software.

Also:

* The Government of B.C. has committed over $2 billion in direct funding for scientific research, helping to make British Columbia a world-class centre for science. Over what period of time? Funding issued to universities as well as companies? Types of research being done?

- Since 2001, government has provided over $2 billion in direct funding, and has attracted (leveraged) an additional $1 billion for a total of $3 billion for scientific research.
- Funds are distributed through programs such as the BC Knowledge Development Fund and goes to post-secondary institutions and research groups such as the Michael Smith Foundation for Health Research or Genome BC.

Morning Bette-Jo,

Following up from a previous conversation:

The Health CPIM system is a legacy mainframe system that resides on the corporate mainframe.

We are required to upgrade the mainframe early in the new year. Health believes CPIM will no longer function after the upgrade, and OCIO is working with Health to mitigate and migrate.

- > why/what are we upgrading in the mainframe ?

- > what won't work in CPIM ?

- > who's cost ?

Anything else I may want to be aware of?

The proceeds 11 years later are US $122,282.80 or CAN$ 160,900.

So, $28,555 in and $160,900 out. Equivalent to a 17% compound rate of growth or a 5.5x multiple over 11 years.

Hi Keith,

Thanks very much for letting us know – the "10 year overnight successes" are always a big surprise. I've cc'd Jennie Choboter, our CFO and who will be in touch with you, and Dr. Kevin Butterworth at the Ministry of Technology, Innovation and Citizens' Services.

I want to offer you and all the team at Genologics Life Sciences Software Inc. my hearty congratulations, this is a wonderful outcome. I am a Victoria resident and remember when James De Greef had "an idea", so long ago. Cheers.

Subject: Contact Information for BCIC and Disbursement of Proceeds from sale of shares of GenoLogics Life Sciences Software Inc.

Hi Greg,

I think we've met at one of the recent tech events, and I just wanted to drop you a line that I'm sure will make your day.

We act for Genologics Life Sciences Software Inc. and it was recently sold to Illumina, Inc. BCIC owns 441,176 Common shares in GenoLogics that were originally purchased by a BC Government entity back in 2004 (The British Columbia Advanced Systems Foundation). Those shares were transferred from the BCASF to BCIC in September of 2007, and there is currently US $122,282.80 earmarked for BCIC and sitting in an account with the Depositary, Computershare.

Computershare is waiting for BCIC to provide a signed copy of a Transmittal Letter, so that it can disburse those funds to BCIC, but the correspondence that we've sent to BCIC (at 9th Floor, 1188 West Georgia Street, Vancouver, BC, V6E 4A2) has not been returned. Accordingly, please let us know who we should send the Transmittal Letter to for completion.

Thanks, and all the best.

Keith

Heard back from clerk's office:

As it happens, as a result of parliamentary procedure, there is no record of the yeas and nays on Bill 5. This is not uncommon, as it turns out.

The Bill is described as having been “Passed without a standing vote” which means that, when the motion was presented to pass the bill, the members simply call out “Aye” or “Nay” and if no member calls out “Division” then no standing, recorded vote is taken.

In the case of Bill 5, no one called ‘division,’ and the bill simply passed.

They did put out a NR about the lack of the offence section within the IMA.

Hey Southern,

Sorry for the haphazard nature of the email, we're still very much chasing.

Reporter noted (based on his background conversation with the MTICS program lead) that in 1985, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that it is unconstitutional to levy an offence against someone, without their being a defence of due diligence. .

Also noted by reporter is that the Offence Act is an absolute liability, if someone fails to do it, they have committed an offence. For that reason no legislation written in B.C. in last 20 years that has included section 5 of Offence Act.

s.13

Reporter would like statement that affirms it would unconstitutional to include the Offence Act in the new IMA.

Answer:

- Section 5 of the Offence Act does not apply to the new Information Management Act.
- This is common legislative practice; most, if not all, BC legislation drafted in the last 20 years has excluded the application of section 5 of the Offence Act due to the sweeping and serious nature of the penalties.
- It is important to reinforce that this does not in any way remove other legal remedies the ability to discipline an individual who has knowingly removed or destroyed documents, including those subject to an FOI request.
- These actions include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.

Additional background information for reporter:

- A 1985 Supreme Court of Canada ruling stated that it is unconstitutional to have a "no-fault offence" with a penalty of imprisonment, which in this context means that it wouldn't be appropriate to have every technical breach of the act be an offence that could result in such severe penalties.

Provided to reporter on Oct. 30/15

- On February 12, 2015, B.C. introduced new information management legislation to replace the 1936 Document Disposal Act. The legislation received Royal Assent on May 28, 2015, and is scheduled to be brought into force in early 2016.
- The Information Management Act modernizes B.C.'s approach in a digital era and brings the Act to today's standards.
- The Information Management Act will:
  - Streamline approval processes for the retention and disposal of information.
  - Move government towards a digital-only storage environment.
  - Establish a Digital Archives to ensure the preservation of valuable government information and facilitate access by public (e.g., Open Data)
  - Establish a Chief Records Officer with authority to approve schedules governing the retention and disposal of government information, manage the digital archives and provide oversight.
  - Continue to govern the retention and disposal of court information as originally set out in the Document Disposal Act.
- Government consulted with the Office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner and strengthened the clarity and oversight of the new legislation.

Duty to Retain Records

- The Information Management Act clarifies that information that documents key decisions as well as information that documents or supports government's organization, policies, procedures, transactions and operations must be retained in accordance with information schedules approved by the Chief Records Officer.
- This will ensure that information is kept for an appropriate period of time for operational and accountability purposes and is available to the public, subject to limited exceptions, under freedom of information legislation.

Penalties

- There are no penalties in the Document Disposal Act.
- There have been no changes to the actions available to government in responding to the rare circumstance where an employee willfully disregards the requirements of the Act.
- These actions include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.
- The new Information Management Act excludes coverage by section 5 of the Offence Act, which is common legislative practice. Most, if not all, legislation drafted in the last 20 years has excluded the application of the Offence Act.
- In the rare circumstance where an employee willfully disregards the requirements of the Act, government actions may include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.

Topic: Information Management Act

Background: Reporter spoke with MTICS program lead (for background information) regarding the new Information Management Act and the fact that it does not contain provisions for applying penalties; specifically excluding Section 5 of the Offence Act.

Reporter noted (based on his conversation with the MTICS program lead) that in 1985, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that it is unconstitutional to levy an offence against someone, without their being a defence of due diligence.

Also noted by reporter is that the Offence Act is an absolute liability, if someone fails to do it, they have committed an offence. For that reason no legislation written in B.C. in last 20 years that has included section 5 of Offence Act

Reporter would like statement that affirms it would unconstitutional to include the Offence Act in the new IMA.

Suggested Response:

s.13

Provided to reporter on Oct. 30/15

- On February 12, 2015, B.C. introduced new information management legislation to replace the 1936 Document Disposal Act. The legislation received Royal Assent on May 28, 2015, and is scheduled to be brought into force in early 2016.
- The Information Management Act modernizes B.C.'s approach in a digital era and brings the Act to today's standards.
- The Information Management Act will:
  - Streamline approval processes for the retention and disposal of information.
  - Move government towards a digital-only storage environment.
  - Establish a Digital Archives to ensure the preservation of valuable government information and facilitate access by public (e.g., Open Data)
  - Establish a Chief Records Officer with authority to approve schedules governing the retention and disposal of government information, manage the digital archives and provide oversight.
  - Continue to govern the retention and disposal of court information as originally set out in the Document Disposal Act.
- Government consulted with the Office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner and strengthened the clarity and oversight of the new legislation.

Duty to Retain Records

- The Information Management Act clarifies that information that documents key decisions as well as information that documents or supports government's organization, policies, procedures, transactions and operations must be retained in accordance with information schedules approved by the Chief Records Officer.
- This will ensure that information is kept for an appropriate period of time for operational and accountability purposes and is available to the public, subject to limited exceptions, under freedom of information legislation.

Penalties

- There are no penalties in the Document Disposal Act.
- There have been no changes to the actions available to government in responding to the rare circumstance where an employee willfully disregards the requirements of the Act.
- These actions include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.
- The new Information Management Act excludes coverage by section 5 of the Offence Act, which is common legislative practice. Most, if not all, legislation drafted in the last 20 years has excluded the application of the Offence Act.
- In the rare circumstance where an employee willfully disregards the requirements of the Act, government actions may include disciplinary sanctions, contractual penalties and, in extreme cases, criminal proceedings.

Hey guys,

I hope our shops have coordinated, just want to make sure you have our latest – particularly the numbers around volume of documents already released around the firings.

Thanks E

FOI (UPDATED)

- We recognize the public's desire to fully understand what took place in regard to the issue of the health firings. That's why the matter was referred to the Ombudsperson for investigation.
- That investigation has begun, and given its broad scope, I expect all pertinent questions will be answered through that process – on any issue the Ombudsperson feels is relevant to the matter at hand.
- As far as records management, it is an expectation that appropriate government documents and records be retained according to the appropriate retention schedule outlined in legislation.
- Government has asked David Loukidelis to advise government on how to address the recommendations from the most recent report of the Information and Privacy Commissioner, as well as FOI training for staff.
- We now need to let those processes unfold.

Secondary:

- In fact a large number of documents have been made available through the FOI process and are publicly available online.
  - In total more than 40 packages of information comprising more than 4,500 pages have been released under FOI.
  - OF THIS NUMBER: 28 packages consisting of more than 2,000 pages are posted publicly on Open Information.
    - For example, some of these packages may contain personal information, which cannot be posted online.
- In a review conducted last year, Ms McNeil reviewed thousands of pages of the records related to the investigation and termination process.
- Her review found that the documentation in the process didn't meet best practices from a labour relations and human resource management perspective and that better documentation is necessary. Government has addressed this finding to ensure the proper documentation of disciplinary decisions.
- The documents that Ms. McNeil reviewed, and a large volume of others, are being made available in their entirety to the Ombudsperson in support of the work he will undertake.
- Where we can make documents available through the FOI process, we have done so and will continue to do in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act.

If asked why records have not been released already:

- We have released a large volume of records related to this matter already.
- I'm advised that government staff continue to process a substantial number of FOI requests – these are still underway.
- These are complex documents, reviewed by public servants to ensure government meets its obligations under the FOI Act.

- We understand the public's desire for clarity on this matter.
- The Ombudsperson has been tasked with a comprehensive review, with the full authority of his office.
- We are cooperating fully with that review.

If asked if coroner wiped s.22 computer:

- My understanding is that the BC Coroners Service never had access to the contents of s.22 laptop in electronic format.
- The only content they reviewed was provided to them in hard copy by the police technological crime unit.
- Going further, I'm informed that neither the Coroners Service nor police deleted any material from the laptop at any point.
