Subject: Date options for Teck Trail Operations construction milestone event

Hi James and Melissa,

Just want to touch base on this to see if you have or can work with Minister Conroy's office to determine suitable dates for MMM and MKC to attend a construction milestone event at Teck's Trail Operations.

Event is to mark the halfway point for completion of Teck's new No. 2 Acid Plant at the smelter.

The new acid plant will reduce downtime and maintenance costs and also enhance environmental performance. It will reduce SO2 emissions by a further 5% in addition to the 15% reduction in emissions realized from the installation of the No. 1 Acid Plant in 2014. The new plant will replace an existing plant and will be a replica of the No. 1 Acid Plant, using the best commercially available technology.

Thanks,

Glen

Subject: CN Rail- Meeting Request

Dear Ms. Sanderson,

On behalf of CN Rail I would like to formally request a meeting with you in Victoria on the week of November 27th to discuss CN Rail's current operations in B.C.

Spanning three coasts, CN is the only transcontinental railroad in North America offering a unique network reach. CN offers integrated transportation services including rail, intermodal, trucking, freight forwarding, and transloading and distribution. CN's team of approximately 23, 000 railroaders transport goods worth hundreds of billions annually for a wide range of business sectors. Serving nearly 75% of the U.S. population and all major Canadian markets, CN is a true backbone of the Canadian economy- a vital component to the entire supply chain and the millions of Canadians who rely on it. In British Columbia specifically, CN services both the Port of Vancouver and the Port of Prince Rupert.

This year marks the sixth consecutive year CN's sustainability practices have earned the company a place on the Dow Jones Sustainability World Index- the first global index to tracking the leading sustainability- driven companies. CN's commitment to delivering responsibly means not only moving goods safely and efficiently, but constantly innovating to deliver more environmentally sustainable transportation, remaining committed to the health and development of employees, and helping to build stronger and safer communities.

Your government's support is critical to ensuring that international trade thrives and continues to provide thousands of family-supporting jobs in B.C. I look forward to hearing from your office about a convenient meeting time for an introductory discussion.

Thank you,

Subject: Media Request: Osoyoos Today on FortisBC rates...

Les suggests that we direct the reporter to FortisBC regarding implications of yesterday's announcement for their rates.

Reporter: Andrew Stuckey, Osoyoos Today

Deadline: 4 p.m. today.

Request: With regards to the BC Hydro rate freeze, how does the announcement impact FortisBC customers?

Recommendation: Have GCPE provide information on background by email.

Response:

- We suggest that you contact FortisBC regarding implications of yesterday's announcement for their rates.

FYI for the MO: GCPE-SDPR provided the following to this reporter Oct. 30, 2017 – GCPE-EMPR provided the first three bullets in the response regarding two-tiered rates.

Regional District of Okanagan-Similkameen CAO Bill Newell spoke to Minister Simpson at UBCM re: the impact those on rural properties are facing with the 2 tier billing.

Q: Is this something the new ministry will be looking at?

- The B.C. Utilities Commission (BCUC) reviewed Fortis BC's and BC Hydro's two-tiered rates system in response to concerns from customers that their electricity bills are too high.
- Almost 700 customers and groups, many of them members of the public, participated in the review.
- After listening and reviewing everyone's concerns, the BCUC determined the two-tiered rate system is fair and balanced, and that the vast majority of low-income customers benefit from two-tiered rates compared to a flat rate.
- That said, our government is developing a Poverty Reduction Strategy – starting with a public consultation process that will begin before the end of the year.
- We appreciate there are still concerns about two-tiered rates for those on fixed incomes – especially as we approach winter when heating costs increase.
- We understand that utilities are significant expense for those on modest incomes. We will be asking the Poverty Reduction Advisory Forum to give us advice related to the costs of essential services such as utilities as part of our overall poverty reduction strategy
- We welcome individuals who are impacted by the two-tiered billing to continue to share their experiences through the poverty reduction public consultations and online engagement.

Hi Lucy. Just a couple of updates regarding the conference and the MOU. If Minister is not able to attend/speak at the conference, Dave will. Regarding the MOU, Les mentioned there is nothing new to it as they haven't met recently and CEBC is awaiting the Site C Decision. There are no current plans to renew the MOU at this time. Thanks.

Hi Melissa,

I hope you are well.

Our new Executive Director, Jae Mather, is planning to be in Victoria on November 9. Would Minister Mungall or yourself have time to meet? Clean Energy BC, BC Hydro, and the BC Government have an MOU that is set to expire on December 31, 2017. It is important to meet to talk about the future of the MOU. Moreover, Clean Energy BC is keen to discuss the Standing Offer Program and opportunities to support the government's PowerBC plan.

CEBC's Generate 2017 conference is coming up on November 27-28, 2017, and we would love for Minister Mungall to speak. We understand that the legislature may rise early, so we are hoping that your office can keep this event on Minister Mungall's radar. We traditionally have the Minister of Energy speak at Generate and it would be an excellent opportunity for Minister Mungall to introduce herself to the sector. We would also like to extend an invitation for Minister Mungall to attend the Generate Chairman's Welcome reception on Sunday, November 26 between 5-7:30pm at the Hyatt in Vancouver.

Thanks!

Request

I see the BCUC is procedural hearing later this month to see whether it will grant the minister's request for a rate freeze, as gov previously announced.

Going to write something up about it, on how this shows that the rate freeze is anything but a done deal.

Any comment from minister and/or ministry?

Specifically, wondering why gov didn't just pass a cabinet order directing the BCUC to accept the zero rate, and if it's willing to do that should the BCUC reject Hydro's application?

Recommendation – statement from Minister Mungall as follows:

“We have to go through the B.C. Utilities Commission first. We value the input that the BCUC has in our rate-setting process. We value the input that they have overall in managing our public utility from an independent, expert body looking out for the interests of the public. So we feel that the appropriate process, as defined in legislation and regulation, is to go through the B.C. Utilities Commission first and foremost. We will see what their decision is.”

Deadline: 4 p.m. today.

Request: Can you please confirm Ministers Mungall and Fraser were warned about a potential $1 billion lawsuit in meetings with West Moberly and Prophet River FN last week, and please provide a response from the ministers? Please see below: <https://www.sagelegal.ca/news-blog-1/2017/11/20/west-moberly-and-prophet-river-warn-ministers-of-billion-dollar-lawsuit>

Recommendation: Have GCPE provide a statement for attribution to MMM.

Response:

- The provincial government will make a decision on Site C that works for families, First Nations, businesses and the sustainability of our environment and economy.
- As part of that commitment, British Columbia met directly with Treaty 8 members, including West Moberly and Prophet River First Nations, last week.
- We attended meetings to listen, and to discuss issues as they relate to Site C.
- We are bringing First Nations perspectives back to the provincial cabinet. The Treaty 8 meetings were only part of our work to evaluate a very difficult decision that needs to be made – one we anticipate making by the end of the year.

Hi Dave,

Wondering if BC Hydro will be responding to this release from the West Moberly and Prophet River First Nations: <https://www.sagelegal.ca/news-blog-1/2017/11/20/west-moberly-and-prophet-river-warn-ministers-of-billion-dollar-lawsuit>

Specifically the notion that the dam will violate treaty rights, and that has yet to be tested in court

Thank you

Subject: Your Approval Required (Attributable Quote)

Minister,

I don't know if this will reach you in time for the 4pm deadline, but are you happy with this below quote they want to attribute to you for Rob Shaw?

Reporter: Rob Shaw, Vancouver Sun

Deadline: 4 p.m. today.

Request: I'm going to do a column on the transcript from the BCUC rate review preliminary conference Thursday. It says that a decision won't be made until probably mid-late January, depending on the questions written to Hydro and so on. I'm wondering what the minister thinks of this timeline? Does that not run right up to the provincial budget? Are there no budget implications for Hydro or government in not knowing if the rate hike will be allowed until that late? And what is the backup plan if the BCUC does not allow it - anything? Is government considering a cabinet order to require the BCUC to approve it, and spare two months of written back and forth on the issue?
Would prefer minister but if all there is a statement, I guess that will have to do.

Recommendation: Have GCPE provide a statement attributable to MMM by email.

Response:

"We respect the British Columbia Utilities Commission's role as the province's independent energy regulator, while following through on our commitment to freeze hydro rates and make life more affordable for British Columbians.

"BC Hydro has requested approval from the BCUC to change next year's rate increase from three per cent to zero per cent. The rate freeze will give government and BC Hydro the time necessary to undertake a comprehensive review of BC Hydro. That review will identify savings and changes we can make to keep rates low and predictable in the future while ensuring BC Hydro has the revenue it needs to provide safe, reliable and affordable electricity to British Columbians. We are confident that BC Hydro will identify savings and changes that will help to address BC Hydro's revenue gap.

The proposed statement below is the same as provided to CBC and DeSmog Canada on Nov. 6 except for the addition of the highlighted sentence: Industry activities will continue during the review period.

We think it might be a good add as this is an industry publication and stakeholders are attentive to the content here.

We can always remove the addition if preferred.

Reporter: Richard Macedo, Daily Oil Bulletin

Deadline: 10:30 a.m. today

Request: I read Minister Mungall's comments in the Vancouver Sun yesterday regarding the fracking review. Can you confirm what the government is doing with the hydraulic fracturing review? Is the government conducting a scientific review, but not banning the practice of hydraulic fracturing?

Recommendation: Have GCPE provide a statement attributable to MMM by email.

Response:

“The provincial government is attentive to the concerns expressed about hydraulic fracturing in British Columbia, and we respect the diversity of opinions shared with us by third parties and stakeholders.

“We will act on our commitment and appoint a scientific panel to review hydraulic fracturing in British Columbia. This will include looking at impacts on water and the relationship to seismic activity. Industry activities will continue during the review period. Further details will be announced in the near future.”

Subject: BC Expert Reports Outline Why Site C Must Proceed

Good afternoon Melissa,

As cabinet debates the future of the Site C project, we would like to share with your Minister some important information for their consideration.

The Allied Hydro Council has partnered with leading Hydro experts in BC to review the project and provide several very strong arguments on why the project must proceed.

Marvin Shaffer is a leading economist and adjunct professor in the Public Policy Program at Simon Fraser University. He has held senior positions with the Government of British Columbia including head of the Crown Corporations Secretariat and Chief Executive Officer of the British Columbia Transportation Financing Authority.

Jim Quail is a veteran energy lawyer and expert. Lorne Sivertson served as the CEO of the Columbia Power Corporation.

Their reports (attached) make a very compelling argument for proceeding with the Site C project.

We are available to answer any questions your minister may have as they continue their deliberations.

Thank you,

Julianne Losito for CHRIS FELLER, PRESIDENT

I'm not providing them numbers today. Just an ETA when the next round of numbers will be available. Which I will say early next week. BCH posts the numbers on their website first week of the month. We could expedite to end of this week but lets just stay with current protocol.

I don't have any real concerns, I just want to make sure we have the absolute most recent from BCH. Would this be a questions better suited for BCH?

All - Both Keith and Justine requested updated job numbers. Latest are from Sept. I'll have updated numbers by the end of the week. BCH usually publishes first week of the month and I expect they'll likely be a bit low due to seasonal layoffs. Normally I'd just tell them but given the sensitivities want to canvass. Just to be clear there is a lag month. For example the updated numbers will be for the month of Oct. Any concerns me letting them know by end of week.
