Hello Lucy,

I would like to help Hegus (Chief) Clint Williams of Tla'amin First Nation (just outside Powell River) get a meeting with Minister Mungall about the interesting proposal described in the attached document. "The sooner the better" were the words of the Hegus when I asked about the urgency of the request. Could you ensure this gets into the right track? I will be happy to help arrange things.
Thanks,

Nicholas

Good Afternoon,

This is an email introduction to introduce Melissa Sanderson from the Ministry of Energy & Mines to Julia Ballantyne and Sandra Brynjolfson from Build Together.

Minister Mungall would like to offer you (Julia and Sandra) tickets to attend the Budget Speech at the Legislature in Victoria on February 20th.

I've checked with both your unions and they are happy to cover your travel expenses and lost wages.

Melissa - Can you please provide Julia and Sandra with the details? I hope you both are able to attend.

I'll also be in Victoria that day (in Budget Lock-Up) and perhaps we can get together after Budget for a meeting with the Minister.

Melissa - Please pass on our thanks to the Minister for the opportunity!

Melissa/James,

Attached is a message for the Minister's consideration. This was put together for a request from the Kamloops Exploration Group. Their 31st Annual KEG Conference & Trade Show is in mid-April. Provincial ministers have traditionally provided a message for the directory every year. Last year's directory is here for reference.

Note, the message includes mention of the MJTF. That group will most likely be announced before this message would be public but we have left things to interpretation some to play it safe.

OK to provide KEG with the message attached/below? We can discuss on the call tomorrow but the organizers have expressed interest in receiving this on Feb 10th.

KEG Message from Minister Mungall

British Columbia's new government is committed to a strong economy that works for everyone and to see people get ahead with stable, well-paying jobs. This government understands that exploration and mining have a key role in helping us meet these objectives.

B.C. has world-class mineral potential and infrastructure, which are key drivers for new investment and long-term industry activity. Our goal is to build on these key strengths by working with communities, First Nations, and the mining industry to create and sustain jobs for the people of all backgrounds across the province.

The Mining Jobs Task Force will provide us with ideas and recommendations on our level of competitiveness, potential financial incentive programs to attract more investment, skills training and development for long-term careers in the sector, and how we can increase public awareness of all that mining and mineral exploration does for people every day.

Mineral exploration, mining and related sectors in B.C. provide jobs for more than 30,000 people in communities throughout the province and adds over $6 billion to B.C.'s gross domestic product. More than 1,100 businesses in British Columbia provide supplies or services to mining operations.

There is also a critical link between mineral exploration and the green energy economy of tomorrow. British Columbia has a wealth of minerals and metals that are needed for electric cars, wind turbines and transit systems to support a global movement towards a low carbon future. It's because of exploration groups like yours that we are able to make new mineral discoveries to meet the growing demand for minerals that are the foundation of the green energy economy.

We are building on British Columbia's strengths to champion a stronger economy. The Mining Journal's 2017 World Risk Report awarded British Columbia the title of least risky jurisdiction in the world for investments in mining projects. In fact, our province is also one of the only seven jurisdictions to be AAA-rated on the Mining Journal's 2017 World Risk Report Investment Risk Index of the 85 jurisdictions it reviewed.

With global commodity prices rising, British Columbia's mineral exploration sector is improving and there are signs of a turnaround as investment capital increases. This is an exciting time for the mining industry and the provincial government is working to support the industry while concurrently respecting our commitments to the environmental and indigenous relations.

Our government is committed to strengthen and improve the mining industry in this province so that we can build a strong, sustainable, innovative economy that works for all British Columbians.
