VIA EMAIL: lesley@furbearerdefenders.com

Dear Ms. Fox:

Thank you for your email of October 23, 2015 and for expressing your concern for animal welfare on British Columbia's fur farms.

The BC Fur Farm Regulation under the Animal Health Act is aligned with the National Code of Practice for Mink Farming. With the new regulation in place every mink farm licensed in BC (19) will be inspected before it is relicensed for 2016.

During the meeting you stated that you were interested in learning more about improvements to mink farming in BC and an invitation to a fur farm and an upcoming mink farm producers meeting was extended. When these invitations were broached with the mink industry they steadfastly refused to support this.

You indicated in an email to Jane Pritchard that there are misconceptions floating around about each other's interests and that a meeting to chat simply about those would be beneficial. This would seem to be the most logical next step.

Fur Farming is a licensed agricultural activity in the province of BC. The province is committed to supporting the industry carry out this activity in a manner that aligns with the National Mink Farming Code of Practice and also with the BC Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act.

Thank you for writing and sharing your concerns with me.

Sincerely,

From: Lesley Fox

Dr. Pritchard,

I am extremely disappointed and disconcerted that you would make such bold offers to indicate transparency while in front of the Minister, however are unable to deliver when he isn't in the room. This is highly indicative of why we requested more transparency in the industry – our reasonable requests are met with sleight-of-hand and a lack of honesty. If the fur industry has pride in their work, they should want to showcase it – not hide it from those who have only seen the worst. When even conservative animal welfare organizations like the SPCA are being given this treatment by your department, it leads us to ask even more questions about professional integrity within the Ministry of Agriculture and what the fur industry has to hide. I don't understand.

My offer to meet and discuss this with representatives of the fur industry stand; as do all of my recommendations, regardless of who is in the room.

We are not an extremist or group, as the fur industry may imply. We are not affiliated with PETA or any animal rights organization; we also have a policy directly against breaking the law, regardless of whether it's a fur farm release or protest.

This is such a missed opportunity for both parties.

Lesley,

Sadly the industry is very opposed to you attending their meeting, even briefly. It would seem that there is a rather bad relationship between these two organizations that I would need some time to bridge.

I had not realized that there was that deep a level of distrust between the Association for the Protection of Fur-Bearing Animals and both the National and Provincial mink farming associations. Something to work on, many apologies for jumping the gun with the invitation. I am certainly very proud of the actions of the BC mink farmers and I believe that this meeting is representative of their proactive approach to the health and welfare of farmed mink.

Lesley,

We just finalized the BC Mink farmers agenda for the October 27th meeting. I am attaching it. Please let me know if you would be planning on attending the whole day, half day, etc. We need numbers for the catered lunch that is being provided by the industry.

At this time I have been unable to confirm a visit to a mink farm for you, the industry is quite skeptical of your intentions in all honesty. Any visit would require that you voluntarily hand over cell phones etc. and any other recording device for security reasons before visiting the farms. I think we will get there but the industry has been burned in this area a few times with PETA releases of mink. The mink that were released and could not be recaptured, by the way, have thrived in an environment that does not include water for swimming in, but does include backyard chickens that they have been regularly pillaging much to the chagrin of the neighbours that now suffer from that.

Dear Honourable Letnick,

This letter relates to our meeting held on Tuesday, October 12, 2015 regarding animal welfare concerns on BC's fur farms. As you may remember, Deputy Minister Derek Sturko, Executive Assistant Don Smukowich and Chief Veterinary Officer Dr. Jane Pritchard (on speakerphone) also attended. (To maintain full transparency/communication, I have also CC'd them on this message).

At the meeting Dr. Pritchard advised that adopting the Codes of Practice for the Care and Handling of Mink into law was not necessary as codes can 'become dated', but she offered reassurance saying that action has been taken to inspect and improve conditions on local fur farms. She even suggested that she was willing to personally escort me onto a local fur farm, and that I would be welcome to attend an upcoming industry meeting in Abbotsford. A bold gesture in front of you, Minister Letnick, to no doubt demonstrate a commitment to fully transparency and disclosure.

Since our meeting, both offers have been rescinded. Dr. Pritchard explained that she "had not realized that there was that deep a level of distrust between the Association for the Protection of Fur-Bearing Animals and both the national and provincial mink farming associations."

In an effort to repair the public image of fur farms and to build connections between organizations, including the Ministry of Agriculture, transparency and honesty is crucial. Broken promises simply continue to fuel speculation, mistrust and skepticism. Furthermore, Dr. Pritchard's efforts to continually safeguard and protect the industry against what is falsely perceived to be some kind of "radical" organization such as ours is grossly erroneous and offensive.

organization and our activities are completely within the law. We also represent the views of tens of thousands of tax-paying British Columbians who have legitimate and proven concerns about animals suffering on fur farms. Unproductive government meetings, broken promises, lack of transparency and failure to adopt the Code of Practices for the Care and Handling of Mink only magnify our concerns. The current Animal Health Act is insufficient, and I am still unclear if the Ministry is taking steps to appoint a 3rd party to regularly inspect (unannounced) and enforce animal welfare standards on fur farms.

In an effort to appease your voting public, manage media reports and to ensure the fur industry is fully compliant with the highest animal welfare standards possible, I encourage you to take immediate action to demonstrate a full commitment to involving all stakeholders in an ongoing, truthful and open dialogue about BC's fur farms. Failure to do so will only breed contempt.

I am extremely disappointed in the Ministry of Agriculture's overall response since footage of BC's fur farms were made public last fall.

I look forward to hearing from you and what actions you are going to take to rectify this situation.

Sincerely,

Hello all

We are well on our way to a spectacular mink meeting here at the lab on Oct 27!! Complete with catering ... and you might not know that the most difficult task for any meeting organizer is the estimate of people for the food!! We are currently contracting with the caterer for the meeting and I was hoping to get a pretty close count for her.

Could you please reply to me and let me know if you will be attending the meeting and if you know of other people who plan to attend. A list of names would be great if you are replying for others (thinking ^{s.2} here). And if attending, will you be present for the whole day (ie will you be present for the break and the lunch?)

Schedule is attached FYI.

Thanks so much and cheers

A bold gesture in front of you, Minister Letnick, to no doubt demonstrate a commitment to fully transparency and disclosure.

Since our meeting, both offers have been rescinded. Dr. Pritchard explained that she "had not realized that there was that deep a level of distrust between the Association for the Protection of Fur-Bearing Animals and both the national and provincial mink farming associations."

In an effort to repair the public image of fur farms and to build connections between organizations, including the Ministry of Agriculture, transparency and honesty is crucial. Broken promises simply continue to fuel speculation, mistrust and skepticism.

Furthermore, Dr. Pritchard's efforts to continually safeguard and protect the industry against what is falsely perceived to be some kind of "radical" organization such as ours is grossly erroneous and offensive.

The Association for the Protection of Fur-Bearing Animals is an above-ground organization and our activities are completely within the law. We also represent the views of tens of thousands of tax-paying British Columbians who have legitimate and proven concerns about animals suffering on fur farms. Unproductive government meetings, broken promises, lack of transparency and failure to adopt the Code of Practices for the Care and Handling of Mink only magnify our concerns. The current Animal Health Act is insufficient, and I am still unclear if the Ministry is taking steps to appoint a 3rd party to regularly inspect (unannounced) and enforce animal welfare standards on fur farms.

In an effort to appease your voting public, manage media reports and to ensure the fur industry is fully compliant with the highest animal welfare standards possible, I encourage you to take immediate action to demonstrate a full commitment to involving all stakeholders in an ongoing, truthful and open dialogue about BC's fur farms. Failure to do so will only breed contempt.

I am extremely disappointed in the Ministry of Agriculture's overall response since footage of BC's fur farms were made public last fall.

I look forward to hearing from you and what actions you are going to take to rectify this situation.

Sincerely,

Lesley Fox
