Hi Peter,

Thanks for joining the call with the shake and shingle folks this afternoon, especially on short notice. They asked for contact from us on next steps; would that fall to you and/or your team?

I was glad to have heard the association offer some thoughts for how to address this problem. Are any of them feasible? Are there other options? Note the minister's question about facilitating business-to-business relationships, but is that a reasonable potential solution to this problem?

Any other thoughts on their presentation would be appreciated.

Hi Kevin,

The minister met with MLAs Ellis Ross and John Rustad last week about a bridge washout on the Copper River Road. They say there is work equipment trapped behind that washout and there is no ability to get that equipment out.

Can you give me an update on that situation? Is there any contingency for a temporary crossing to be installed? Is that even one of our roads?

Yes one contractor for Coast Tshimshian Resources has a couple pieces of equipment behind the washout. The road is under permit to CTR and they are responsible to repair it. However they can't afford the full costs and are asking for assistance. The ministry can't afford to fix it and it is outside policy to find repairs to an industry held road.

The district is looking at options to let him build a trail to bypass the washout. I can give you an update in a week if you like but for now I think we are looking at solutions.

Sincerely,
Kevin Kriese, Assistant Deputy Minister

U.S. Panel Ruling on Softwood Lumber Completely Without Merit BC Lumber Producers Will Appeal Ruling And Vigorously Defend Industry

VANCOUVER, B.C. – Susan Yurkovich, President of the BC Lumber Trade Council made the following statement today on the affirmative injury decision issued today by the U.S. International Trade Commission [ITC] on softwood lumber.

“The ruling today, while not unexpected, is completely without merit. The ITC finding of ‘injury’, despite the current record-setting profitability of the U.S. lumber industry, makes it very clear that this was not an objective evaluation of the facts.

There can be no doubt that this process is biased in favour of the U.S. industry. To our knowledge, the ITC has never before reached an affirmative decision of injury when an industry was enjoying the most profitable period in its history, which is the case today for the U.S. lumber industry.

The fact is, there is no injury to U.S. producers and we are fully prepared to fight this egregious decision. We will initiate appeals as soon as possible and, working with both federal and provincial governments, we are confident that the ITC decision will be overturned. It is noteworthy that in both Lumber 3 and Lumber 4, not one of the decisions issued by the ITC survived independent appeals, before both NAFTA and WTO panels.

We are confident that this latest decision by the ITC will again be reversed. The U.S. Coalition's claims of injury ring particularly hollow given the extraordinary financial performance that the U.S. lumber industry is enjoying, and given that Canadian imports are at a lower level today than at the levels deemed non-injurious under both the 2006 Softwood Lumber Agreement and by the ITC itself in the last round of litigation."

B.C. is the largest Canadian exporter of softwood lumber to the U.S. The B.C. forest industry is a major contributor to the provincial economy and supports approximately 145,000 direct and indirect jobs in the province. The BC Lumber Trade Council is the voice on trade matters for companies in British Columbia representing the majority of B.C. lumber production.
