Hi PSRK,

Please see the attached correspondence and information note on the T'it'q'et notice of termination to Savona Specialty Plywood (Aspen Planers) at Lillooet Veener Plant Site.

I'm not sure if you have been briefed on this issue prior, but let me know if you would like a briefing on the most up to date work staff have done on this file.

“Production of polyurethane from bio-based organic feedstock rather than traditional petrochemicals”

Consolidated Biofuels Ltd. has the exclusive world-wide license for a patented method to prepare polyurethane from bio-based rather than fossil-based oils. The company is proposing to build and operate a plant in Delta, BC, to demonstrate the economic viability of the process for producing bio-based polyols from Canola oil. The product will be used to develop and demonstrate the properties of “green” urethane end-use products, beginning with a durable road marking coating which will be applied along a portion of the Alaska Highway in BC, and supported in part by the Build in Canada Innovation Program. s.13; s.17
