100 since last September! I make no comment on whether I believe that is good, bad or neutral.

Hi David, the housing file is fairly busy and we don't always get a lot of advance notice.

Since last September, we've done about 100 housing announcements.

Thanks
Darren

I replaced some instances of the alphabet soup with “queer and trans” etc... I find the alphabet soup a bit much to repeat so frequently. Also added a specific line about trans folk s.22 s.22

Hope this helps

Hi JJ,

Sorry to toss this to you on a Friday afternoon. Can you look at the Vancouver pride statement? Your statement from last year was great, and light-hearted.

The question is: should we have a lighter tone this year? Is it more about strengthening LGBTQ2S+ rights, tackling discrimination and prejudice, etc.

Do you have time to look at this and work some magic? Alternatively, maybe you can come by and give me some verbal feedback?

Thank you kindly!

Warmly,

Subject: Themes for town halls

Here are the broad themes – (titles and ministers not finalized) for UBCM Cabinet Town Halls, that we agreed to move forward with today.

We went with 4 town halls instead of three because the rooms are smaller and in order to fit a public safety themed town hall in.

MO and Marlene confirmed these buckets fit the kind of requests that are coming in from communities, and the group as a whole agreed that the goal here is primarily to offer communities an opportunity to discuss items that are top of mind for them.

I understand Robb Gibbs didn't want to finalize the approach to these without considering a strategic communications plan for the event as a whole.

I'm working on that right now, and expect to have something for folks to discuss on Monday.

Overall, the group as a whole agreed that we need to firm up the names of the town halls and their composition by end of next week.

- Growing Prosperity. Suggested ministers: Agriculture, Forests Lands and Natural Resource Operations, Environment.
- Investing in People. Suggested ministers: Health, Advanced Education, Children and Families.
- Building a Better B.C. Suggested ministers: Municipal Affairs and Housing, Transportation and Infrastructure, Jobs, Trade and Technology.
- Safe communities. Suggested ministers: Attorney General, Public Safety and Solicitor General, Parliamentary Secretary for Emergency Preparedness.

NEWS RELEASE

New hospital will help people in the Cowichan Valley access quality health care

NORTH COWICHAN - To provide better health care for a growing region of the province, the B.C. government has greenlit a new hospital for the Cowichan Valley.

"People who live in the Cowichan Valley have waited a long time for the hospital they deserve, and that wait will soon be over," said Premier John Horgan. "The new hospital we're announcing today will serve people in the valley for decades to come, meaning better health care in their own backyard."

The existing Cowichan District Hospital was opened in 1967, and has 134 beds. Since the hospital's opening, the valley's population has more than doubled, and is expected to grow by another 20% over the next few decades.

"Cowichan District Hospital is 50 years old. The capacity issues it faces on a daily basis are frustrating for patients and the hospital's dedicated health professionals. It was critical that we take action," said Adrian Dix, Minister of Health. "We received a concept plan, and approved it within months, so work could get going as soon as possible, and people could have a new hospital."

In February 2018, a concept plan for the new hospital was submitted to the Ministry of Health. It was approved in June 2018, clearing the way for further work.

Construction of the new hospital is expected to begin in 2021, and is expected to be nearly triple the size of the current one.

The details, such as scope, budget and procurement method, will be finalized in the business plan stage. This stage will take approximately 12 to 18 months. Upon approval of the business plan, the project will proceed to procurement, and then to construction.

The planning for a replacement hospital has been a collaborative effort between the Government of B.C., Island Health, Cowichan Valley Regional District, Cowichan Valley Regional Hospital District, the municipalities of Duncan and North Cowichan, local First Nations and local stakeholder groups.

Quotes:

Doug Routley, MLA for Nanaimo-North Cowichan -

"Cowichan District Hospital holds a special place in my heart, as well as many other people and health-care workers throughout the region. The new, modern hospital will continue the tradition of providing quality care for generations to come."

Jon Lefebure, chair, Cowichan Valley Regional Hospital District -

"We are pleased to see this important project move forward and will continue to work with the Province and Island Health to see it come to fruition. A new hospital is a major investment, by both the Province and local taxpayers, in the long-term sustainability and resiliency of our region."

Leah Hollins, board chair, Island Health -

"Having a new hospital, with modern technology and advancements, will do a great deal to support patients and their families in the Cowichan Valley. It will also help attract quality medical professionals, who are in high demand across the province and the country."

Quick Facts:

* Opened in 1967, the current Cowichan District Hospital has 134 beds, and provides a range of inpatient and outpatient services: emergency care, surgery, obstetrics/gynecology, pediatrics, medical imaging, acute psychiatric services, Indigenous health services.

* All new hospitals in B.C. are planned to a LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) Gold standard.
