Subject: Press Gallery - device-friendly TNO Morning Report

Good day,

I am planning to give the press gallery access to the device-friendly version of TNO's Morning Report.

Everyone in the gallery currently receives the desktop version of the report, this will just give them improved access.

Several members of the gallery have contacted me in recent days highlighting issues with the limited access they currently enjoy.

Advantages

Improved access for gallery members

Desktop version contains no new information

Disadvantage

Easier for gallery members to redistribute some or all of the report with impunity

Please let me know if you have any concerns or objections. I currently plan to make the change on Saturday (March 2nd).

Evan and team,

Don and I have discussed that it would be useful to have a call to debrief from the meeting yesterday to discuss next steps/approach to the comprehensive communications plan, as well as internal processes for development, review and approval of comms materials.

I will ask Arielle to find us 30 minutes, ideally today, so that Darren can get some clear direction on the plan and the processes can be communicated prior to the end of the week.

Arielle, please include everyone on the "to" line on this email.

Thanks,
Michelle

Further to last month's email on translation, I am sending an update regarding how the process is working.

While we now have a more systematic structure in place, leading to more timely and relevant translation of materials, there are areas where further refinement is required.

Timelines:

- Communications shop need to provide timeline information or a deadline (if applicable) to translators.
- Whenever possible, at least one day's notice on request to review translated materials is required. There are exceptions in terms of unexpected events and/or media announcements.

Edits:

- Communications shops are asked to avoid asking for multiple changes to releases, especially with limited or minimal notice as this slows down the process with little value added, while adding to the time and cost.

Translation & Distribution:

- There is now a tag for translation(s) in the Corporate Calendar. Please be sure to include this in your calendar entry.

Release ?

Origin:	<input type="text"/>
Distribution:	<input type="text"/>
Translations Required:	<input type="text"/>
Themes:	<input type="text"/>

- Connect with Lele Truong or Shruti Joshi to seek their advice on whether materials need to be translated and which translators to use.
- Requests should be made to Lele and/or Shruti regarding distribution to community specific media outlets. They have an op-ed distribution scheduled every Thursday/Friday. If they know ahead of time, they can schedule the distribution accordingly.
- Generally, the translators we are using do not have high res BC government logos/artwork, therefore, they are unable to set the release in the required format. Please provide xx Lindsay, can we discuss.
- Translated releases do not need a release number.

Any questions, please contact Lindsay Byers or myself.

This doc should include an ex summary given its length.

While the strategy is solid, we need to emphasize the need to shape the communications agenda through a proactive approach that is coordinated, focussed and rapier like in addressing misinformation.

We either shape the agenda or we will be playing catch up and responding.

Media Release

RCMP's Role in Enforcing Injunction Order

Maple Ridge, B.C. – Ridge Meadows RCMP's role in enforcing injunction order.

The Ridge Meadows RCMP is aware of the BC Supreme Court order granted to the City of Maple Ridge and the City of Maple Ridge Fire Department dated February 8, 2019, in relation to the St. Anne's land and Anita Place Camp.

The current civil injunction Court order is granted on the issue of fire safety. The RCMP are hopeful that those residing on the St. Anne's lands will obey the court order. The RCMP will continue to maintain their keep-the-peace duties during the civil injunction process.

Since the establishment of the camp on May 2, 2017 police have responded to six-hundred-sixty-nine (669) police reports relating to the camp. These reports include eighty-one (81) weapons calls, forty-four (44) assist with medical overdoses, fifty-seven (57) recovered stolen items, and eighty-two (82) arrests.

Police take action on a case by case basis with a focus on enforcement if there are criminal activities that pose a threat to the safety of individuals or property or reports of individuals violating a court ordered injunction.

There are no safe havens in Canada from the Criminal Code and law enforcement.

As always, the primary concerns of police are public safety, police officer safety, and the right to peaceful, lawful and safe protest, within the terms set by the Supreme Court in the injunction.

All questions relating to the City of Maple Ridge's Court Injunction process should be forwarded to communications@mapleridge.ca or visit www.mapleridge.ca/2215 for more information.

This is helpful basis to build on Brad.

What I'm after is a communications document that both outlines the key sectors (i.e. mining or construction) and then aligns them with corresponding provincial investments and strategic support activities (i.e making the flow-thru tax credit permanent for mining, or investments in affordable housing). In short, I'm looking for a document that consolidates these activities in one place. It does not have to be exhaustive, but the more the better.

Make sense?

Hi Don,

Please find attached a draft NR that we plan to send out on Sunday. MLP will be in Vancouver to wish a bon voyage to an international team of scientists boarding a research vessel to conduct the first comprehensive study of Pacific salmon in the Gulf of Alaska.

AGRI has provided $75,000 in provincial funding to assist with the data analysis and management, shipping of equipment and samples, and modifications to the research vessel for sampling equipment.

We are working with our MO to identify a validator for a quote in the NR.

At some point in Feb/early March, I would like to have a debrief & evaluation on the new translation process. For example, how is it working so far? What works & what does? Lessons learned..etc.

Also, I think it's helpful to develop some guidelines/protocols in situations where translation is not required such as the City of Vancouver (for example, email enclosed below).

I will tell Leanne that no translation is required on this particular announcement. It is not a topic of great interest in the broader Chinese community,

Good morning – do you think translation will be needed for this release? See attached draft for details.

Note: City of Vancouver is a close partner on this project. I checked on their protocol and they generally don't translate media materials unless a certain population is specifically affected – not the case here.

I've got a very tight approval timeline which has the NR landing at the MO on Feb 12 and any translation would have to be a rush request.

Thanks – appreciate the help.

Hi folks, I am cancelling the 9:30 a.m. call this morning given weather conditions and the fact we have a 10:00 a.m. event at the press theatre.

I'll try to set something up for later in the day or tomorrow.

If you have anything pressing, please call me.

Hi don,

I'm at Braefoot this morning, events starting at 9:30 s.22
s.22

I'm still waiting on the Throne NR so I can send it off for translation, but all translators are on standby this weekend, which is a relief.

I'll see you when I get in this morning and we can chat.

Hi Don,

Evan Leeson has requested face-to-face meetings with Cindy Dan, Ajaib Sidhu, Shruti Joshi and Lele Truong as part of his review of existing TNO services as he plans the application's technical future.

I am in the process of booking the meetings for this Friday (February 8th) s.22

Let me know if you have any questions and if you approve of the flight over and back
