Hi Kieran,

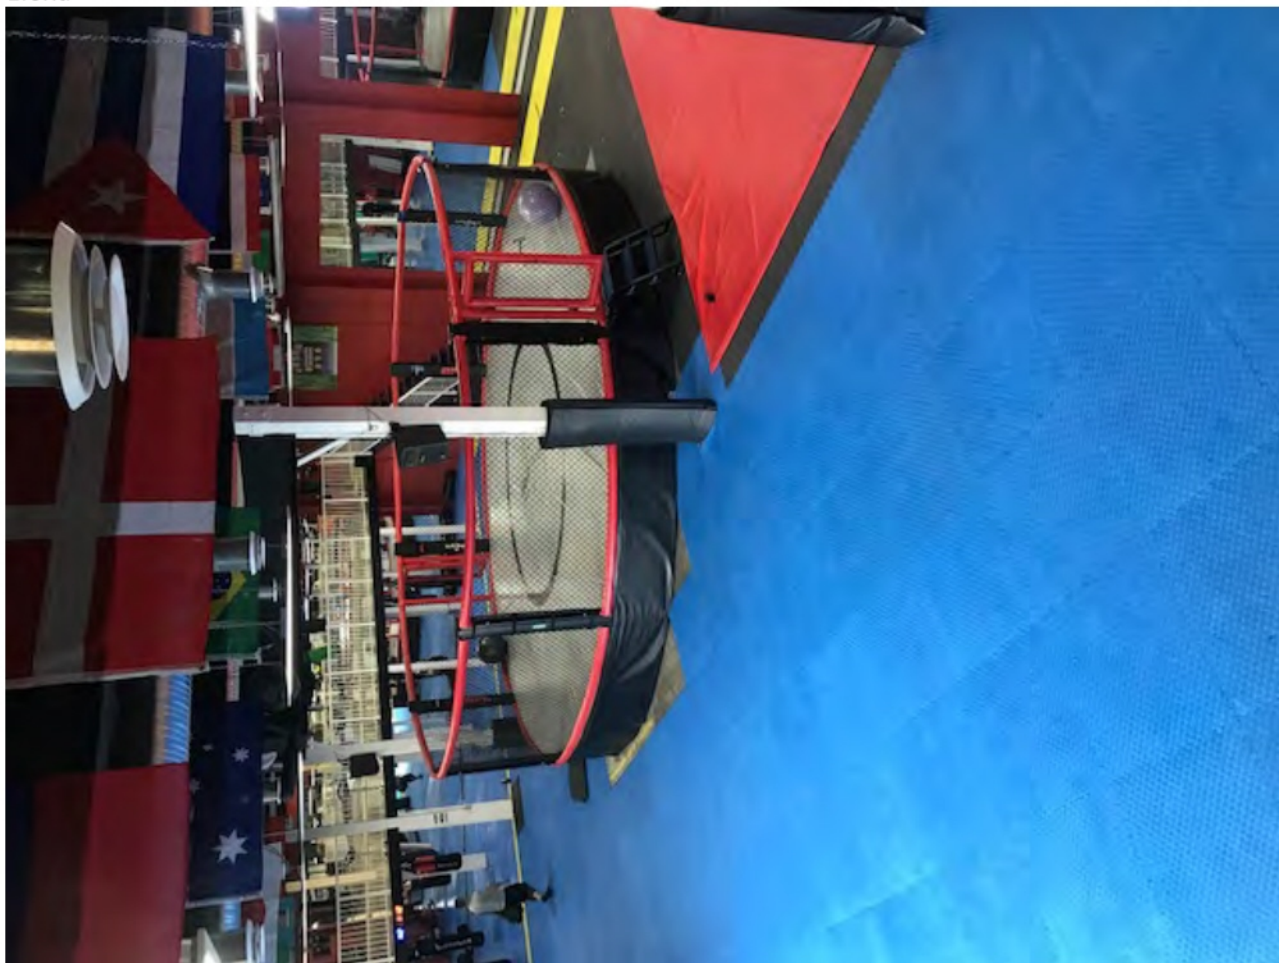

Everything went well at the site visit, it's going to make a great backdrop to the event. I've attached some photos. The netted ring in the pic will be moved over and they'll place a boxing ring there. We're thinking to place the podium in front of the ring on the floor, and have fighters sparring in the background during the speeches. And it sounds like things are on track for getting fighters there to participate.

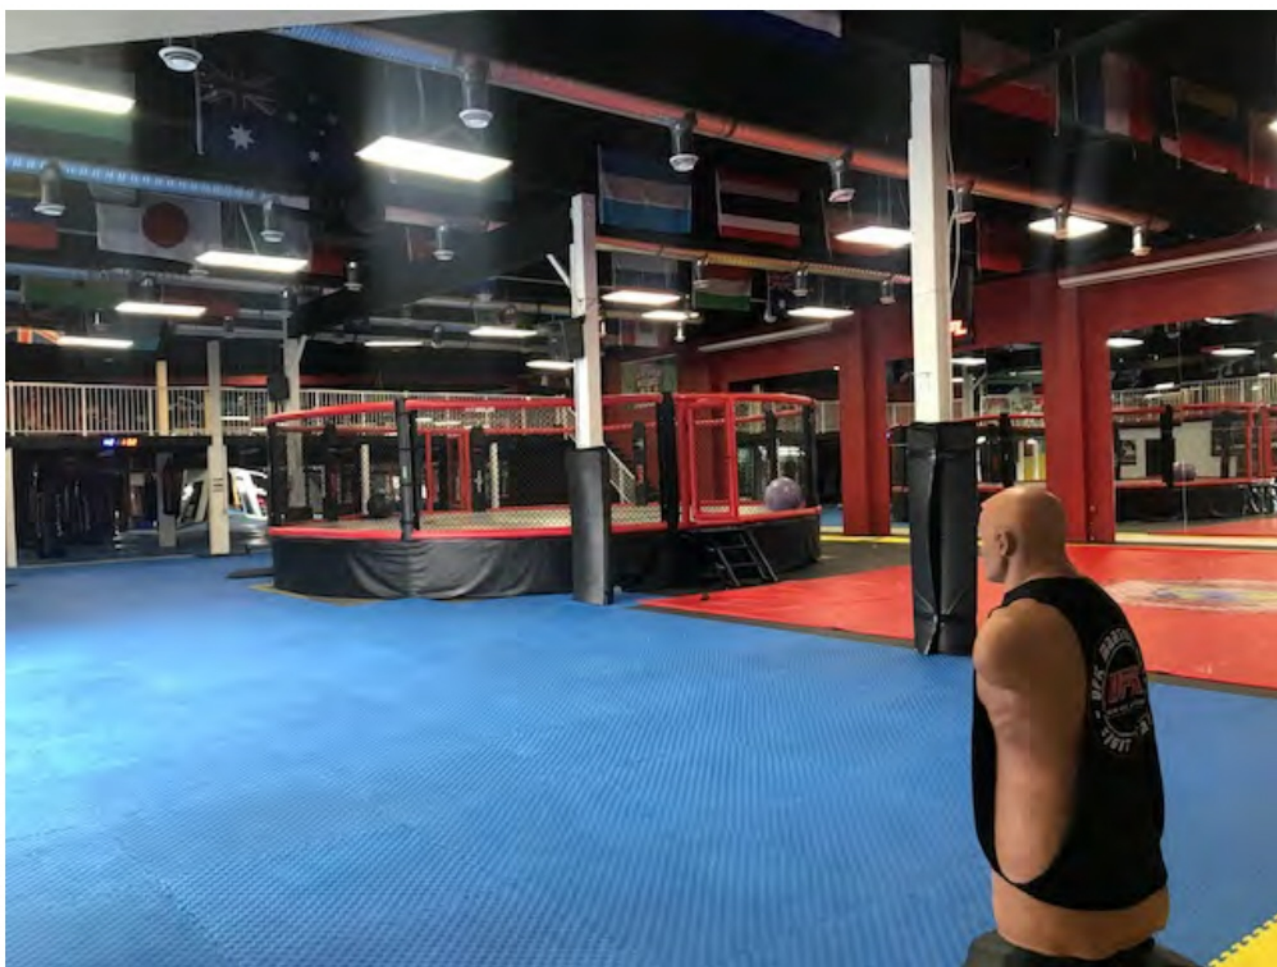

There's a parking lot for use out front, and the pre-brief will be in an upstairs meeting room.

Could you confirm the start time of the event? I heard 1:45pm but just want to make sure.

Let me know if you have any questions or need more details on the space.

Thanks,
Elena

Hi Carla,

This all looks good to me! I definitely like having the speakers introduce each other - for smaller events like this, an emcee isn't really necessary so this works great.

There is a good-sized parking lot at the gym, so there should be ample parking for the Minister and guests.

The pre-brief will be in a meeting room on the second level of the gym.

Any thoughts on a podium sign for this one? Perhaps just a BC ID?

Thanks,
Elena

Location: World Champion Fight Club 12851 No.5 Rd Richmond, B.C.	English Media Spokesperson: Minister Lisa Beare
	Multicultural Media Spokesperson: N/A
Author: TAC	Communications Manager Signoff: _____
Version #: v1	Date: Aug 12, 2019

THE EVENT

PROACTIVE ANNOUNCEMENT

The ministry and the BC Athletic Commissioner will hold a joint event to announce the BCAC's decision to allow professional kickboxing as a provincially-recognized sub-group of mixed martial arts (MMA).

This first announcement will allow the promotion of professional kickboxing, with the introduction of professional kickboxing in B.C. to follow in 2020.

The event is an opportunity to highlight the work government is doing to strengthen safety for athletes and to increase access to competitive and training opportunities across all levels of ability, including those wanting to compete professionally.

EVENT DETAILS

Minister Lisa Beare and BC Athletic Commissioner Kelly Gilday will make the announcement on August 27, 2019 in Richmond, BC. It will consist of a media announcement including a group photo with Minister Beare, Commissioner Gilday, other speakers and sport sector reps.

The event will be hosted at a large sports gym in Richmond, World Champion Fight Club. It will have a kick boxing ring and MMA cage set with fighters sparing in the background.

WHO'S ORGANIZING? (Specify lead individual and coordinates)

GCPE events (Sian Madoc-Jones) and TAC GCPE (Sonja Zoeller and Kieran Joyes) BC Athletic Commissioner

BACKGROUND NOTES

While kickboxing is already allowed as an amateur sport in British Columbia, it remains unsanctioned at the professional level. B.C. kickboxers face the choice of either transitioning into the professional MMA discipline or working their way through the amateur ranks and then leaving the province to compete professionally. Many kickboxing athletes who have left the province to pursue professional opportunities have been petitioning the BC Athletic Commissioner to allow kickboxing as a subset of MMA and remove the barrier to provincial competition.

The BC Athletic Commissioner has ruled to allow the promotion of professional kickboxing matches and will look to implement full oversight of the sport in 2020, starting with striking a committee of kickboxing leaders to help with implementation. As part of a multi-year review process, the commission has looked at MMA and the connection it has with other combat sports, including kickboxing. The review has shown that kickboxing is a central component to MMA and kickboxers often compete in MMA events. However, some MMA submission or grappling moves can put kickboxers at a disadvantage and can increase the risk of injury. Aligning kickboxing with MMA will increase athlete safety by integrating training practices and standardizing techniques amongst participants.
