Hi Tricia, as per our call just now, I sent the email below on Friday afternoon and am following up to see if Dr Henry has had an opportunity to review the draft and if she has changes or if it's approved. I believe she received the NHL proposal late last week.

Once I hear back from your office IGRS will connect with the PO before sending the letter.

Please call if you have any questions.

Subject: Vancouver Hub City Plan

Hello everyone.

On behalf of our team, please find attached our updated Vancouver Hub City Plan. This plan includes details for both Canucks training camp (NHL's phase 3) and the Hub City games (NHL's phase 4). It could also be extended to include Phase 2 should we elect to re-open Rogers Arena for that purpose.

The health and safety of the public and everyone involved is paramount and any testing must not reduce public access or put strain on resources. Our operations will carefully follow and be in compliance with local Provincial Health Officer and government guidelines. We welcome your continued input and advice. We look forward to working closely with you throughout the ongoing development of these plans and during any period of hockey being played in our province.

There are two documents in this email. 1) Our Vancouver Hub City plan, which proposes a modified quarantine. 2) the NHL's Return to Sport Protocol, which outlines the detailed medical and testing protocols for phase 2. This detailed and thorough NHL document should be considered incorporated by reference in our plan. Our expectation is that the same, or similar, protocols will be mandated by the NHL for Training Camp (Phase 3) and the Hub City games (Phase 4). We would strictly adhere to the NHL's protocols, and any additional protocols recommended or mandated by the Provincial health authorities, along with input from our infectious disease consultant, throughout the period when Canucks players and /or other NHL teams are in Vancouver.

Finally, given the fluidity of the pandemic, the medical and testing protocols in this plan will continue to evolve based on guidelines and advice from health officials, government and the NHL.

We look forward to discussing more tomorrow. Thank you for your support, and please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,
Chris

Hi everyone – as you may seen, today the NHL announced its four-phase Return To Play Plan<<https://media.nhl.com/public/news/13995>> for the 2019.20 season that will culminate in a modified competitive format, in which 24 teams will return to play and vie for the Stanley Cup later this summer. For the Canucks, the highlights included:

- * The Canucks will face the Minnesota Wild in a best-of-5 qualifying series.
- * Vancouver is one of the 10 locations being considered as an NHL “hub city.”
- * The 2019.20 regular season is now officially complete.

Specific to the Hub City concept, the NHL said they hope to have a decision in the next 3-4 weeks. One storyline that got a fair amount of focus in Canada was the 14-day quarantine and the potential challenge it poses. I have pasted below one piece of the transcript where Deputy Commissioner Bill Daly references it, as well as the discussions that are ongoing with the federal government. There are several other tweets and stories that also reference it.

Now that this is official, I expect we will learn more tomorrow on what next steps we need to take with our plan so it can be presented to the NHL as well as yourselves, the Ministry of Health and the Provincial Health Officer. Please let me know if you have any questions. I’m available any time tomorrow if you want to connect.

Thank you again for all of your support.

On behalf of our team, please find attached our updated Vancouver Hub City Plan. This plan includes details for both Canucks training camp (NHL's phase 3) and the Hub City games (NHL's phase 4). It could also be extended to include Phase 2 should we elect to re-open Rogers Arena for that purpose.

The health and safety of the public and everyone involved is paramount and any testing must not reduce public access or put strain on resources. Our operations will carefully follow and be in compliance with local Provincial Health Officer and government guidelines. We welcome your continued input and advice. We look forward to working closely with you throughout the ongoing development of these plans and during any period of hockey being played in our province.

There are two documents in this email. 1) Our Vancouver Hub City plan, which proposes a modified quarantine. 2) the NHL's Return to Sport Protocol, which outlines the detailed medical and testing protocols for phase 2. This detailed and thorough NHL document should be considered incorporated by reference in our plan. Our expectation is that the same, or similar, protocols will be mandated by the NHL for Training Camp (Phase 3) and the Hub City games (Phase 4). We would strictly adhere to the NHL's protocols, and any additional protocols recommended or mandated by the Provincial health authorities, along with input from our infectious disease consultant, throughout the period when Canucks players and /or other NHL teams are in Vancouver.

Finally, given the fluidity of the pandemic, the medical and testing protocols in this plan will continue to evolve based on guidelines and advice from health officials, government and the NHL.

We look forward to discussing more tomorrow. Thank you for your support, and please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Hi David, hi Lorie,

We have drafted the attached BN for PJH's call with NHL Commissioner Gary Bettman tomorrow.

Can you please review the relevant sections on pages 1 and 2 to make sure we've captured our conversations correctly.

Ideally we could have this back by end of day to get over to the PO today.

Thanks in advance,
David

Resumption of Play for the National Hockey League (NHL)

Briefing Note

What:

Phone call with NHL about Vancouver hosting the remainder of the 2019/20 season for the League's Pacific Division.

Who:

Gary Bettman, Commissioner of the National Hockey League.

Executive Summary:

Their criteria to host and B.C.'s capacity to meet those criteria are:

Current COVID context

Note: League may be looking for most recent COVID statistics in B.C. during the call.

- The health and safety of people has been our first priority throughout this pandemic and B.C. would put the same priority on protecting NHL players.
- B.C. is a low risk jurisdiction well suited to host the NHL with:
 - low transmission rates
 - the lowest mortality rate of comparable jurisdictions across North America and Europe
 - a flattening of the curve at a speed on par with Australia, New Zealand and South Korea

Support from province, health authorities and City of Vancouver

- B.C. and City of Vancouver enthusiastically support the Canucks proposal.
- Health authorities are working on the Canucks proposal and are supportive of the current approach to the health of players, staff and British Columbians.

Resumption of Play for the National Hockey League (NHL)

Testing and Monitoring program

- A B.C. public health official would work in collaboration with the NHL medical team to advise and help build the testing, monitoring, and medical protocols needed.
- B.C. has the capacity to provide the approximately 23,500 total daily tests that would be requested and those tests could be completed at one of the 9 labs near Rogers Arena.
- Provincial Ministry of Health Staff have confirmed that daily tests for NHL players, (at the NHL cost) staff and officials could be conducted without compromising the public's access to those tests.
- With proper testing and monitoring protocols for early identification of symptomatic staff, in place, health officials see the risk of infection or transmission as very low for players and their staff.
- Anyone associated with the League's play that became symptomatic after the arrival quarantine would need to self-isolate for an additional 10 days.

Arrival Quarantine protocols

- Anyone associated with the League's play that is crossing the border into Canada would need to quarantine for 14 days.
- Vancouver is one of 4 airports in Canada currently authorized to accept international passengers.
- There are stringent quarantine protocols in place at YVR to ensure the health of the visitor and the safety of the community.

Hosting Infrastructure

Resumption of Play for the National Hockey League (NHL)

- World-class city with Rogers Arena, numerous practice facilities and host to last June's NHL Entry Draft.
- Spectacular summer location for players, families and staff with opportunities on the ocean, golf courses, mountains and city.

Background:

- On March 12, 2020, National Hockey League (NHL) Commissioner Gary Bettman suspended the 2019/20 season indefinitely due to COVID-19.
- The NHL is currently seeking four cities – one for each of the league's divisions – to host play for the remaining 189 regular season games and the playoffs.
- The Canucks have raised the possibility that the NHL may propose moving straight into playoffs.
- The Vancouver Canucks have submitted a proposal to the NHL to host the NHL's Pacific Division, which includes the Calgary Flames, Edmonton Oilers, Los Angeles Kings, Anaheim Ducks, San Jose Sharks, Arizona Coyotes, Las Vegas Golden Knights, Vancouver Canucks.
- The province has written to both NHL Commissioner, Gary Bettman and Donald Fehr, Executive Director of the National Hockey League Players' Association (NHLPA) to show British Columbia's support to host the games.

The Right Honourable Justin Trudeau, P.C., M.P.

Dear Prime Minister,

The Vancouver Canucks are currently in discussion with the National Hockey League (NHL) for Vancouver to be a host city for the 2020 NHL playoffs. This letter is to confirm the Government of British Columbia's support for this proposal.

Our shared focus over the last few months has been to contain the COVID-19 pandemic. Through the dedicated efforts of our public health professionals and through British Columbians working together, we have successfully managed to suppress the spread of the novel coronavirus in British Columbia.

As a result, we are now in a position to consider new opportunities that would help revive economic activity and raise the morale of our residents, such as the Vancouver NHL Hub City Plan, prepared by Canucks Sports and Entertainment. British Columbia is strongly committed to the well-being of our residents through enforcement of the 14-day isolation requirement for arrivals to Canada. Our understanding is that the Vancouver Canucks and other NHL teams would be in complete compliance with these requirements through a modified quarantine regime that would involve isolation bubbles in accommodations and arenas, secure transport and testing protocols. This modified quarantine regime would enable NHL teams to resume playing without adverse effects on B.C. residents.

I would, therefore, respectfully request the support of the Government of Canada for the requisite exemptions and modifications to requirements pertaining to the entry of athletes, officials and staff to Canada. Thank you in advance for your consideration of this request.

Yours sincerely,

John Horgan

Dear Ms. Namiesniowski,

The Vancouver Canucks are currently in discussion with the National Hockey League (NHL) for Vancouver to be a host city for the 2020 NHL playoffs and this is very exciting news for B.C. and Canada as a whole.

My team and I have reviewed the Canucks Vancouver Hub City plan, which proposes a modified quarantine along with the NHL's Return to Sport Protocol, which outlines the detailed medical and testing protocols and we also had the opportunity for direct discussion with the Canucks medical team last week. Given this opportunity for review and discussion I am now comfortable indicating my support for this initiative as long as a very strict modified team quarantine and testing protocol as outlined in the plans is followed. In addition, the players would not be designated as essential workers.

Please feel free to contact me, if you require any further information.

Yours sincerely,

Bonnie Henry

Hi Shauna,

Thanks for the call. As we discussed, we would like to request formal approval that the Canucks can hold training camp in Vancouver next month as long as we follow the modified quarantine protocols outlined in our Hub City plan, and discussed on our call last week. Our players and coaches and small group of supporting personnel would all stay together within a bubble that includes the Parq Hotel and Rogers Arena. No family would be included. There would be no interaction with the community.

We also recognize that some of our players and coaches are traveling from the US and Sweden, which means we need federal clarity on the border.

If you need any other information, please let us know.

Thanks,

Chris
