Dear ExampleContactFirstName,

Globally, consumers have a growing awareness and demand for ecologically and socially responsible products. As a result, downstream producers are increasingly seeking assurances that the raw materials they purchase are mined responsibly. In British Columbia (BC), our mining industry's high environmental standards, low-GHG profile globally and commitment to reconciliation with Indigenous peoples has created a growing opportunity to position the province as a global supplier of choice and lay the groundwork to establish a credible BC brand to access the global rise in green investment.

We have identified you as a thought leader who can make important contributions to the conversation on this rapidly emerging movement. The British Columbia Ministry of Energy, Mines and Petroleum Resources invites you to attend a forum on responsible sourcing in the minerals and metals industry. Join us to share ideas on the future of responsible metals markets and help us chart the path forward in this space for British Columbia and beyond.

As you may know, the Ministry postponed a previous version of this event earlier in 2020 due to COVID-19. The BC Responsible Minerals + Metals Summit has now been reimagined as a 3-part virtual gathering where leaders from all areas of the mining value chain can convene to explore this emerging area of focus.

BC Responsible Minerals + Metals Summit

Session 1: A Vision for the Future - Understanding the increasing demand for responsible sourcing and the opportunity for British Columbia

September 9, 2020 8:00am – 10:00am (Pacific Time)

Session 2: Assessing Where We Are Today - Exploring key strengths, challenges, and enablers in our current environment

September 15, 2020 8:00am – 10:30am (Pacific Time)

Hello,

In July I registered Renaud Adams for this summit. Mr. Adams schedule has changed & he will not be able to attend; in his place, he would like John Ritter, General Manager at New Gold's New Afton Mine to attend. Can you please confirm that it is okay for Mr. Ritter to attend in Mr. Adams' place?

Thank you,
Corinne

I understood there was going to be an email regarding which breakout session we would like to be involved in at the next session.

I have not seen this.

The other question is that the Skeena team members will not be able to join until 9 a.m. – so I am not sure if is worth trying to join at that time?

Regards,
Sue Craig

Hello,

I am having trouble accessing the survey to select my breakout session, I am getting a response that I have taken the survey already (?).

Thanks,
Cheryl
