Hi Tanera,

For your records,

Should we have Wolfgang log this meeting request and response?

Hi Rachel
Great to hear from you.

As you may have seen in the news release, the office of the Attorney General will remain neutral throughout the referendum process. Therefore we are unfortunately unable to meet with stakeholder groups like Leadnow regarding this process. ("The Attorney General will act as an independent official and refrain from engaging in debate, and will recuse himself from any cabinet or caucus discussion regarding the referendum.")
<https://news.gov.bc.ca/releases/2017AG0028-001683>)

However, our ministry is looking forward to launching the public engagement portion of the referendum in the coming weeks. This will give individuals from across BC an opportunity to provide input on how they best see the referendum moving forward.

I hope this is helpful and thanks again for reaching out!

Sincerely,

Gala

Hi David,

I'm getting in touch to request a meeting with you about the BC referendum on electoral reform, and Leadnow's recommendations for the process.

I've been in touch with your Constituency Assistant Anna Lindsay-Baugh, and we have a meeting scheduled in Vancouver for Sept. 15th. I'm wondering if there is an earlier date we could meet, and potentially in Victoria if that's more fitting for your schedule.

I'm sure you're getting many requests to meet! Leadnow has been working on electoral reform intensely on the federal level over the last 2 years, and the Leadnow community (125k in BC) are very keen on electoral reform for BC - I'm hoping we can arrange a time to meet soon.

Thanks!

Rachel
