Hi Gala,

Your office admin team should be able to assist with this.

You can also try this:

To get started, you need to set up your security profile:

Use Internet Explorer to log on to the Workstation Services website at <https://77000.gov.bc.ca>. You will need to enter your IDIR and password.

After logging on to the site, set up your security profile:

1. Click "Update GAL Info" on the left side of the Welcome Page
2. Read the statement on the privacy page.
 - If you choose "Decline", you will be returned to the Welcome page and you will not be able to manage your GAL information. You may come back at any time to accept the statement.
 - If you choose "Accept", you will proceed to "Update GAL Info and Set Up Security Profile."
3. Answer a short series of questions to complete your profile.

(Note: You will need to remember the answers to these security questions.)

Subject: An urgent call for help from BC's Craft Distilling Sector (Farm-to-Flask 100% BC)

Hello again Attorney General David Eby, Ministerial Assistant Gala Milne, Agriculture Minister Lana Popham, and Deputy Minister Wes Shoemaker,

As you are likely aware, I was one of the members on the government's Business Technical Advisory Panel (BTAP) tasked with offering the government balanced recommendations on liquor policy reform. Now that we have completed and sent you the panel recommendations, I am writing to you to kindly and urgently request a meeting at your earliest convenience.

As I pointed out to each of you at our last meetings, the Craft Distilling industry is urgently in need of help, and is right now at the brink of being irreparably harmed if immediate action is not taken. Action that will benefit not just the distilling sector, but even more profoundly will bolster the Agricultural sector and increase revenues for the LDB and the province of BC.

Urgent and immediate action is required on the following:

1. Elimination of the Hangman's Clause on page 1 of the Craft Distillery Policy, which states, "When a distiller grows to a production level greater than 100,000L they will no longer be considered a craft distiller. Therefore, the distillery will no longer be entitled to the reduced mark-up on their products and will no longer be entitled to direct sales to restaurants, bars, and private retail stores." This is an industry killer and absolutely has to be removed (this clause was also in an old version of the craft brewers production agreement and was removed due to its harmful affects) as it will hinder all craft distilleries from being able to grow, and if they do, they will be forced to revert to using no BC agricultural inputs (we would have to switch to buying pre-made alcohols (NGS)) like the non-craft guys, and also necessitate laying off approximately 90% of staffing just to survive as it is their only economical model to move forward). At the 100,000L mark a distillery would then be without their direct delivery and would not have the mark-up benefit on the first 50,000L escalating up to 100,000L, and thus because none of us presently sell through the LDB, due to their crushingly high mark-ups, we would be left with having to let all of our existing accounts know that they can no longer purchase through us, and would now have to go only through the LDB, a place which most of us would have no products listed. This request for reform had unanimous support from the liquor advisory panel BTAP but was too specific in nature to have it included as a specific recommendation in the BTAP report. Instead it is referred to in Recommendation 16, stating the “urgent and immediate” need to engage with local producers to remedy the inequities and imbalances in their production agreements.

2. Secondly, increasing the ridiculously low mark-up exempt production limits imposed by the previous government. As discussed before, this volume was decided upon without consultation or understanding of the industry, and therefore, what we are requesting now, is for you to release the pressure on the industry with an immediate increase to 500,000L (this may sound like a large request but it is honestly really quite modest...literally we are asking for the ability to grow to literally half the size of Gray Monk or Quails Gate before being negatively affected by escalating mark-ups at which point we can more realistically afford to do so)! We further ask that you strongly consider making this increase effective immediately, even prior to an omnibus full scale review recommended by the panel so that distilleries can make business expansion decisions and not further contract back inwards on themselves while they wait for eventual sensible change. (We are worried that a full scale review will once again lead to years of delays without action.)

To illuminate how these two unnecessary road blocks are already negatively affecting the Craft Distilling sector in BC; My family's own Okanagan Spirits Craft Distillery (BC's Original Farm-to-Flask Distillery) is already s.21

s.21 For a business that has worked so hard to build up not only our Family Distillery, but also to pioneer the entire Craft BC spirits sector, we find this as extremely disheartening and entirely avoidable. We sincerely implore this government to finally take action through swift, progressive change and long overdue change. (We have been engaging government on these issues now for over 5 years without any help on these issues despite promises)

Without immediate help on these issues, more unnecessary harm will be done to this wonderful agri-tourism/agri-production BC Based sector.

Please unshackle this sector, and allow us to help you drive our economy forward by helping small business succeed, and agricultural based industry thrive in this province.

There are other issues of great concern to our industry in balancing the unfairness and inequity in the BC alcohol production sector, but none as pressing and urgent as these two issues.

Please help us,

Tyler

Ps. I would also like to re-extend the invite to come and witness first hand how much BC's Original Farm-to-Flask distillery powers the local agri-production industry in the Okanagan at our Flagship Distillery in Vernon.

There been a government working group reviewing recommendations from the report. Ginger is here on behalf of the communities of Lake Babine and Nak'azdli which Firelight partnered with to put this report together for the previous government.

This a great opportunity to hear about community concerns and solutions when it comes to decisions about resource development.

CASHRA Speaking Notes Outline - 31MAY18 DRAFT.DOCX

Hello!!

Framework for your speech at the CASHRA conference in Yukon is attached below. I think it looks good but here are a few additional questions:

1. Is there anything else you'd like them to include before they start writing?
2. The current schedule for the event is a 30-minute speech and a 15 minute QA. Would you prefer a 15 minute speech and 30 minute QA?
3. Would you like Renee Mulligan and Carmen Zabarauskas to also be available to participate in the QA portion to support? If so I will schedule a quick briefing with you beforehand.
4. Are there specific details or information that you would like addressed in a QA document for participants (largely people who work with and for human rights commissions throughout Canada)?

Also – there appears to be an event being planned for the opening of the Delta LDB warehouse in mid-July. Is this something you'd like to attend for ribbon cutting?

June 20 – All good for Hicken report date.

June 26 – CASHRA

- Outline for speech looks good
- Yes to shorter speech and longer QnA
- Yes to having Carmen and Renee attend the QA for any technical questions.
- No need for any QA document to be created for public distribution.

Mid July – LDB Warehouse in Delta

- MDE would like to attend if possible. Please keep us posted on a date.

Subject: Latest: June/July announcements

Hi – here is a look ahead at a few comms activities with questions for you. Thanks

June 13 – reminder you have provincial court judge appointment IB for approval. DAG will be adding effective dates.

June 14 – ICBC estimators NR. HQ is holding Thursday at 8:30 a.m. for NR release. Following up with D. Scott on where approval is at and will have to you early tomorrow.

June 20 – Hicken. HQ has confirmed this date with a 9:30 a.m. info bulletin release. Does this work for you? I'll follow up with Michelle for the report so we can prepare IB, QAs.

June 20 onward – cannabis. Michelle informed us the interactive information portal launch should happen June 20 or later and that she'll have draft to your office for review by end of week. LDB expects to be ready to announce e-commerce details and supplier agreements around that time as well, if we want to do in one release.

June 24-25 – ICBC. Don't be confused if you see this ICBC conference (International Cannabis Business Conference) promoted in Vancouver for June 24-25. ICBC's lawyers have again sent a cease and desist letter to the group re: copyright infringement.

June X – German

June 26 – SNs for Canadian Association of Human Rights Agencies, Whitehorse (June 26) – JSB and staff here have drafted an outline for the remarks, with a few questions for MO before drafting. Can you please take a look and add any notes?

<< File: EP - Surrey Courthouse and PLC opening - 28May18 - DRAFT.DOCX >>

July – Online Divorce. We will find a date in July for this and change plans to a NR only. Materials coming your way.

July 9-13 – Surrey Courthouse walk-through. Tanera, can you please confirm a time that would work in the Minister's schedule for this event, between July 9-13? Revised EP attached, with input from CITZ.

<< File: 2018-06-XX IB - Three Prov. Court Judges - 13JUN2018 - DRAFT.DOCX >>

July 9-13 – Abbotsford courthouse ground-breaking. Tanera, same question here. The project board recommends this timeframe if the Minister is free. We'll have an event plan your way by Weds.

Mid July – Delta LDB warehouse opening – Pls advise which government rep, if any, may take part.

Unless the Minister's Office would like me to provide a substantive reply I am going to respond to Mr. Geoghegan's e-mail to advise that "I cannot speak to priorities on behalf of the minister."

However, this will probably lead him to follow-up on his e-mail with you. s.13

Good afternoon Gala,

Hope you enjoyed your recent time in Ontario.

I am hopeful I can reconnect with you over the next few weeks to go over some craft beer developments.

The Alberta AIT appeal will be public on Monday and I believe it represents a great opportunity to resolve one of the major industry frustrations and impediments to growth.

If you have some time over the next few weeks I would love to meet with you in Vancouver or Victoria.

Have a great evening,

Craig

Your email of November 26, 2017, addressed to the Honourable Mike Farnworth, Minister of Public Safety and Solicitor General, concerning the bail application granted to Mr. Albert Giesbrecht, has been referred to me.

I understand that after you sent your email, Mr. Giesbrecht was taken back into police custody, and at the time of this writing, he has not applied for release.

It may assist you to know that, as Attorney General, it is generally not my role to become involved in individual prosecution cases, nor can I comment on the circumstances of a case that is currently before the court.

Accused persons, even those facing serious charges, have the right under the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms not to be denied bail without just cause. Section 11 (d) of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms also guarantees any person charged with an offence the right to be presumed innocent until proven guilty according to law in a fair and public hearing by an independent and impartial tribunal.

Justices can release an accused on conditions which are intended to protect the public, and impose terms that ensure a close monitoring of the accused through bail supervisors, police and/or a surety. Which form of bail is used in a particular case will depend on the nature of the offence the accused is alleged to have committed, the background of the accused and the risk presented. Non-compliance with a term of bail can result in a new charge and/or a revocation of the bail. As a general rule, careful thought is given to the question of release and the decision-makers do their best to balance the relevant considerations in a principled, informed manner.

I hope that this background information regarding the judicial process is helpful.

Thank you for taking the time to write and share your concerns.

Hi Linda, Thanks for your message. Is there something we can do to move this along? Seems to us all that it needs to move in a more firm direction to the other Ministries as the messages to guide dog users coming from Mike Farnworth's ministry and the Security Division are still conflicting and lacking action. We are concerned that yet another month will go by and no changes at all. Regards. Graeme.

Hi everyone,

Just letting you all know that I have had two good meetings with folks from SG and I am hoping to get to speak with someone from Transportation this week to set up a larger meeting in mid-June. I want you to know that we are moving in the right direction.

I need to let you know, however, that it will take some time to figure out what we can do within existing resources right now and perhaps what next steps could be taken in the future. As expected, there are several pressing issues and everyone is going flat out right now so I am doing the best I can and recognize there is some urgency to this issue. FYI that I am away all of next week in Ottawa for federal, provincial and territorial human rights meetings so please be patient and know that we are doing what we can.

I will keep you posted on key developments. For now, we have your valuable list of concerns and will work with that until such a time we may need further input or advice.

Hi Linda,

We feel there is some urgency regarding educating other Ministries over guide dogs, especially to do with access and provincial registration. Our members are still receiving inappropriate responses to their concerns from Mike Farmworth's office suggesting we can always turn to the human rights tribunal? Our rights are protected and should be honoured, without the need to struggle through a human rights two year process? Could you please give our request your full efforts and if you require support or advice we are willing to assist.

Hi Gala - good Q. We decided to link to the landing page instead of directly to the report, as the landing page provides some extra context about Mark Hicken. The report is linked in the third paragraph as well as the first standalone link lower down on the page ("Business Technical Advisory Panel (Liquor Policy) Report and Recommendations").

If you'd prefer that we link directly to the report PDF, I can ask that we update the link on the newsroom (<https://news.gov.bc.ca/releases/2018AG0046-001253>), but at this point we can't change the release that's gone out to media.

Going forward, we can be sure to always link directly to the PDFs of reports if that's the preference.

Thanks!

Cadence

Hi Richard

Thank you so much for your email and for sharing this additional material with our office. We will get started on organizing a follow up meeting that includes the BC Prosecution Service as soon as possible. My colleague Tanera will be in touch about this to determine dates that work for you. Will you be in Vancouver again soon?

Sincerely,

Gala

Subject: following up regarding HIV criminalization and prosecutorial guidance in BC

Dear David, Gala (and Tanera):

Somewhat later than planned, I'm following up on our discussions at the end of April regarding HIV criminalization, with two purposes:

- (1) I wanted to provide you with some additional material as discussed; and
- (2) I wanted to inquire about getting scheduled soon the follow-up meeting that we discussed. As you can appreciate, the window for making positive and necessary change on this front is open now, and we should not miss the opportunity to rectify a long-standing and ongoing injustice against people living with HIV.

(1) Materials

During the course of our discussion, we said that we would share with you a number of documents that would be helpful in taking up the task of improving BC's prosecutorial stance vis-à-vis allegations of HIV non-disclosure. Therefore, I am attaching the following:

- Canadian scientific consensus statement: This statement was authored by 6 leading HIV scientists in Canada (including Dr. Julio Montaner) and endorsed by more than 70 others and the Association of Medical Microbiology and Infectious Disease, and published in 2014 in the peer-reviewed Canadian Journal of Infectious Diseases and Medical Microbiology. It was written specifically because of the concern that the criminal justice system's "poor appreciation of the science" is leading to over-application of the criminal law and miscarriages of justice. It has been used in numerous cases to secure a withdrawal or reduction of charges originally laid, and as an adjunct to the testimony of scientific experts (some of them authors/endorsers of the statement) in prosecutions. Note that the scientific case for limiting the application of the criminal law has only grown stronger in the 4 years since that statement was published, given additional research studies that have reported results. I should note that, as mentioned at our meeting, next month, in conjunction with the International AIDS Conference (AIDS 2018) in Amsterdam, an updated, international scientific consensus statement, co-authored by 20 of the world's leading HIV scientists, will be released in the Journal of the International AIDS Society, with endorsement by many other scientists, UNAIDS, the International AIDS

Society and the International Association of Providers in AIDS Care (IAPAC), reflecting a global consensus among key experts and agencies regarding the need to limit overly broad HIV criminalization.

- Also attached is a briefing note prepared recently for a ministerial roundtable held here in Ontario with the Attorney General, representatives from some other relevant ministries and a number of key community stakeholders, scientific experts and HIV clinicians, etc. It was prepared by the Canadian HIV/AIDS Legal Network and the HIV & AIDS Legal Clinic Ontario (HALCO) for the Ontario Working Group on Criminal Law and HIV Exposure (CLHE). It provides the most current summary of the state of the law and prosecutions in Canada, the many concerns with the overly broad state of that law, the developments that have happened recently, and lays out what needs to happen next – including with 12 recommendations to the Province of Ontario. We submit all of those recommendations are also entirely relevant to all other jurisdictions in Canada, including BC.
- Attached is the original report of the CLHE in Ontario, based on consultations around the province, with numerous recommendations for the development of guidelines for prosecutors in that province – it is a more detailed document providing more detailed rationale for the various recommendations. Again, much of the substance would be applicable in any province.
- I’m also attaching both the 2012 report of the UN’s Global Commission on HIV and the Law (see Chapter 2 for the discussion of, and recommendations regarding, overly broad HIV criminalization), and the subsequent 2013 Guidance document from UNAIDS laying out the various scientific, medical and legal considerations about limiting overly broad HIV criminalization, which provides much more detailed guidance on translating those recommendations into law and policy.
- Let me also draw these important cases to your attention, that have been decided since the Supreme Court of Canada’s 2012 ruling in R v Mabior (links provided below):
 - 2 separate rulings in proceedings involving an HIV-positive teenager in Nova Scotia, not least because of their reasoned critique of the Mabior ruling’s defects and a sensible interpretation of that decision’s “realistic possibility of transmission” test for conviction:
 - R. v. J.T.C., 2013 NSPC 105 (Acquittal; unprotected sex with an undetectable viral load) (also see Summary)
 - R. v. J.T.C., 2013 NSPC 88 (Condom use; low viral load; critical analysis of R. v. Mabior)
 - R. v. C.B., 2017 ONCJ 545 (CanLII) (acquittal, condomless sex with undetectable viral load)
 - R v. Thompson, 2016 NSSC 134 (condom use or low viral load or no ejaculation), and then the appeal before the NS Court of Appeal correcting the error by the trial court regarding the issue of “harm”: R. v. Thompson, 2018 NSCA 13
- Attached is the updated Ontario policy guidance issued on December 1, 2017 – which was then also distributed by the Attorney General to all police services across the province. Note the highlighted portion that represents the clear statement by the Attorney General that prosecutions will not proceed in cases where the person living with HIV has a suppressed viral load for at least six months.

- You may also be interested in this recent study indicating the harmful public health impact in Ontario of overly broad HIV criminalization, including by deterring some people from seeking HIV testing – an impact that of course flies directly in the face of efforts, in which BC has been a leader, to connect people to testing and to ARV treatment not only for their own well-being but also as a key element of effective HIV prevention.
- Lastly, I believe I shared this at the time it was published, but in case you didn't see it then, here is the link to our op-ed in the Vancouver Sun that appeared at the time we met outlining some of our critique of the very disappointing policy on HIV non-disclosure prosecutions issued by the BC Prosecution Service on March 1st:

"A chance to correct injustice — don't squander it"

Vancouver Sun, April 25, 2018

<http://vancouversun.com/opinion/op-ed/richard-elliott-a-chance-to-correct-injustice-dont-squander-it>

You can find much more useful information online here:

- Legal Network's webpage on HIV criminalization: www.aidslaw.ca/criminalization, and in particular this on-line resource kit for lawyers and other advocates has many elements in it that can be useful, including information about the science of HIV transmission, data about the harms of overly broad HIV criminalization, key court rulings, and various commentaries about the various reasons why overly broad HIV criminalization is bad public policy.
- Website of the Canadian Coalition to Reform HIV Criminalization: www.HIVcriminalization.ca
- Website of HIV JUSTICE WORLDWIDE, and in particular their toolkit for limiting unjust criminalization: <http://toolkit.hivjusticeworldwide.org/>
- The website of the Ontario Working Group on Criminal Law and HIV Exposure (<http://clhe.ca>) includes a timeline, with links to documents, of all correspondence and other relevant documentation regarding engagement with the Ontario Ministry of the Attorney General on this issue.

As discussed, it is profoundly disappointing that the new guidance adopted by the BC Prosecution Service on March 1, 2018 doesn't even clearly state – unlike the policy in Ontario – that there will be no prosecution against a person with a suppressed viral load. But as we stated in response to the new Ontario policy last December – see attached statement – that is just one very modest (and necessary) step that must be taken in modernizing prosecutorial policies in Canada. At the very least, as discussed at our meeting, any prosecutorial guidance in every jurisdiction in Canada should reflect the recommendations in the Justice Canada report released last December, including the following:

- Consistent with the relevant SCC jurisprudence, the criminal law should not apply to persons living with HIV who have engaged in sexual activity without disclosing their status if they have maintained a suppressed viral load (i.e., under 200 copies per ml of blood), because the realistic possibility of transmission test is not met in these circumstances. A person living with HIV who takes their treatment as prescribed is acting responsibly.
- The criminal law should generally not apply to persons living with HIV who: are on treatment; are not on treatment but use condoms; or, engage only in oral sex (unless other risk factors are present and the person living with HIV is aware of those risks), because the realistic possibility of transmission test is likely not met in these circumstances.

This position is also endorsed by (what is now) more than 160 organizations from the HIV sector and beyond from across Canada, in the Community Consensus Statement on ending unjust HIV criminalization. We shared a copy with you at the meeting, but I attach it again here for convenience, along with an FAQ document that provides a bit of background about how this consensus statement came to be.

We look forward to continuing to work together to ensure revisions to BC's prosecutorial stance to better reflect science, and to better respect human rights and protect public health.

(2) Follow-up meeting

From our discussion at our meeting at the end of April, I understood that you planned to have some further discussions with the BC Prosecution Service, in light of concerns raised about the current prosecutorial policy.

We also agreed that that a follow-up meeting involving community representatives and the BC Prosecution Service would be useful. I'd like to see if we could get that scheduled as soon as possible. We had talked about June or July as possibilities for this. I'd be grateful if we could try to nail down some dates and make this happen; I'd be happy to talk with Tanera about that.

(In the meantime, I did have a bit of follow-up discussion with colleagues locally in BC who work in the HIV sector about some key stakeholders that could be brought together for this discussion, including women living with HIV, and am happy to pick up those conversations with them and facilitate that once we can nail down some options for a meeting.)

Lastly, I did want to note that we all recognized that, as Attorney General, Minister Eby has the legal authority to issue a directive to BC prosecutors should the Prosecution Service be unwilling to adopt prosecutorial guidance that he feels is satisfactory. While we appreciate that it would be much preferable for the Prosecution Service to indeed adopt a much sounder policy, we also know from history that this may be very difficult to achieve – and certainly in a timely fashion. As noted above, we don't want to miss a window of opportunity that currently exists, with an Attorney General who understands the concerns, to get sound prosecutorial policy in place. (David, for a trip down memory lane: I stumbled upon this article from 2012 in connection with the Mabior case, in which you were commenting, as Legal Network president, about the need to not prosecute people who use condoms: <http://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/manitoba/supreme-court-hears-hiv-disclosure-case-1.1160825>.)

I've copied my colleagues Ryan (from HALCO) and Nick (from the Legal Network) here; as you recall, they were at our meeting.

I look forward to hearing from you about how we can move quickly to ensure greater justice for people living with HIV in British Columbia.

Warm regards,
Richard

Improving efficiency of government and business interactions in British Columbia liquor law and policy

In late 2017, Mark Hicken was appointed as the Ministry of Attorney General's Liquor Policy Advisor to advise on possible law and policy reforms for government to improve efficiency and outcomes for business and government in relation to government responsibilities, regulations and oversight roles that intersect with the activities of B.C.'s private liquor businesses.

Mr. Hicken is a British Columbia lawyer with expertise in provincial law and policy related to liquor.

Liquor Policy Advisor Mark Hicken has presented government with a report that includes 24 recommendations that aim to improve efficiency and business relations between government and B.C.'s liquor industry. Hicken chaired a panel of industry representatives that met with stakeholders and health and labour experts to provide recommendations that reflect industry consensus.

Government would like to thank the panel for this report and acknowledge the time and effort spent developing recommendations that reflect the knowledge and perspective of this important B.C. industry.

The report sets out possible regulatory and policy reforms to improve efficiency and outcomes for business and government in relation to government responsibilities, regulations and oversight roles that intersect with the activities of B.C.'s private liquor businesses. Government will review each recommendation over the coming months to analyse and consider the potential health, public safety, social, financial and labour impacts of implementation, as well as ensure that any actions taken in response to the recommendations are compliant with British Columbia's trade obligations. This analysis will require additional engagement with public health experts and labour representatives.

Government will be focusing its resources on assessing the panel recommendations, and will not be entertaining other industry requests for law and policy reform until the assessment and determination of next steps is complete.

Subject: Taxation of Craft Cider

Dear Attorney General David Eby,

I am a partner with a small law firm in Squamish, B.C. I am also a partner in a small craft cider start-up in Squamish, named Northyards Cider Co. Ltd. We are anticipating opening our doors in July 2018. I hope it is ok that I have reached out to you directly. I was not able to attend the session you held earlier in the year to discuss liquor policy and I would like to add some more context to the issue.

On April 16, 2018, two other small producers and I submitted a position paper to the Business Technical Panel on Liquor Law and Policy (attached here for your reference). As we get closer to opening our doors, I am becoming more and more anxious with respect to how the current taxation policy will affect our business, which is why I am writing to you today.

Below is a brief summary of the issue:

- cider is treated as wine for the purposes of licencing and taxation;
- wineries are either land based (and grow a percentage of their fruit) or commercial;
- land based wineries do not pay a provincial mark-up;
- commercial wineries are further divided into VQA and non VQA wineries;
- VQA commercial wineries enjoy a tax break as they use 100% BC fruit (and pay VQA membership fees); and,
- there is no VQA equivalent for cider which is, we are advised, the reason why commercial cideries are subject to the 72% mark-up on top of cost and profit regardless of the origin of the fruit.

I believe the last bullet point is the flaw in the current policy. Our cidery will use 100% B.C. fruit because we are committed to buying local and supporting the B.C. economy. Under the current policy, there is no incentive to buy B.C. fruit and, in fact, we could access cheaper fruit and a greater variety of apples if we bought our juice/apples from Washington State. Notwithstanding, we have an agreement with a orchardist in Lake Country, B.C. Our farmer, s.22 manage their own small orchard as well as a few other small orchards near their land. Prior to working with us, they sold their apples and apple juice at farmers markets in Vancouver. We purchased 25,000 litres of juice from John in 2017 (and froze it). Our 3 year plan is to purchase at least 100,000 litres annually. This results in significant cash flow to the farmer with less effort than selling his products at farmer's markets.

For the purpose of collecting tax, a distinction should be made between commercial cideries who use 100% B.C. fruit and those who import fruit and/or use additives. The Federal Excise Tax law makes this distinction between wine (cider) producers who use 100% Canadian fruit and those who don't. We will not pay any Excise Tax as long as we use 100% Canadian fruit. The federal government has strict reporting guidelines designed to monitor the origin of the producer's fruit.

I am not a tax expert, however, my lay-person opinion is that it seems lowering the mark up on cider producers could have the following positive effect on small business and the B.C. economy overall:

- allow farmers to expand their operations and give them access to a more efficient income stream;
- allow our business to hire more employees and to expand faster, increasing revenue;
- put us on a more competitive pricing model with craft beer (cider is consumed like beer but made like wine making it more expensive);
- expand the cider producer market – 100 producers paying, for example, a 12% mark-up will likely result in more revenue to the Province than a small number of producers struggling to make a profit and paying the 72% mark-up.

The land based producers are opposed to a tax break to commercial producers. The argument being that they have taken on the additional work of becoming farmers and that there should be incentive to run an agribusiness. With respect, commercial producers are also supporting agribusiness by opening new markets for fruit. As long as we are using B.C. fruit, we are supporting B.C. farmers.

A distinction can easily be made between small craft producers and those large producers who are calling themselves craft. The large producers are manipulating the product by distilling the juice and adding sugar, water, fruit flavouring, grain alcohol etc. in order to be profitable. We are committed to a true craft beverage and will only use 100% fruit. Our inputs are expensive but we believe this makes a superior product.

At the outset I mentioned being anxious about how this tax will affect our new business. We have invested s.22 s) in this enterprise between purchasing our commercial unit and outfitting the manufacturing space. You may be asking yourself why I did this knowing the current mark-up makes it close to impossible to be profitable. First, we are passionate about this business and believe it will be good financially for our families, will create jobs and will contribute to the growing craft beverage and tourism industries in Squamish (there are currently three breweries with several more brewery applications in place as well as two additional cideries and a distillery). Next, we took a risk that the taxation model would likely change based on the modernization to the beer, wine and distilling taxation policies. I think there is good evidence to support the change in policy so that the taxation is fair in the growing cider sector.

I thank you for taking the time to read my email and I would be very happy to speak to you further about this should you have any questions.

Yours truly,
Kathleen van der Ree

For public interest reasons and to further the reporter's research, specifically which gaming service provider is referred to, and if possible, can the ministry provide investigation documentation?

Background

This is a follow-up to a media request from June 13, 2018.

REQUEST:

The reporter clarified that the evidence he obtained refers to the investment and involvement of s.22 of the New World Development conglomerate and a major investor in s.22 casino conglomerates in Hong Kong.

The reporter would like the ministry to amend the original answer to refer to s.22 alleged involvement. According to international and Canadian law enforcement, s.22 and s.22 are closely related so the issue remains the same but the involvement of s.22 is the focus of the story. s.22 is the silent partner of s.22 a Great Canadian director and investor, on the Hong Kong floating casino venture, the China Sea Discovery.

RESPONSE:

Provided statement and response

Recommendation – provide background

- Due to the complexity of the request, it is critical to ensure that any information the ministry provides is accurate and as complete as possible.
- Because the information requested is detailed and contains possible privacy risks, the best way to obtain this information is through the FOI process for public release.

Request

Following up on his previous request, the reporter would like clarification on the following responses:

1) "GPEB has no record of s.22 _ or any company named in the inquiry from the reporter applying for registration in B.C."

For his accuracy purposes, the reporter needs clarification on whether this answer includes registration of participation or investment contributions that are significant for regulatory purposes, in the Great Canadian joint venture China Seas Discovery business of 2000 to 2001, which is documented as having occurred (and Great Canadian does not deny that it was involved and in fact reached a settlement with partner Allegiance, in BC courts) -- involving any of a) s.22 ; b) Kam Hon Travel; or c) MexTeam?

2) "A proposed acquisition of a B.C. gaming service provider in 2007 included a group of investors from Australia and Hong Kong."

For public interest reasons and to further the reporter's research, specifically which gaming service provider is referred to, and if possible, can the ministry provide investigation documentation?

Deadline to conduct Thursday, June 21, 2018 3:00 PM

Request

The reporter would like to schedule a phone interview with Minister Eby to discuss the distribution of cannabis by the LDB. The reporter wants to know how the process is going, what steps have been taken to be ready by Oct. 17, and how many applications have been received through the portal.

The interview would be 10-15 minutes long. He is available until 3 p.m. to conduct the interview. He will not accept a statement or background information.

Recommendation – Provide background

- Recommend informing the reporter that an announcement is expected to be made tomorrow about LDB's readiness for Oct. 17th.
- Schedule interview for after 11:30 a.m. when the news release goes out with Minister Farnworth or a representative from the LDB.
- Verbally communicate that the portal has not launched yet therefore applications are not available. More information on that will be available soon.

Hi Samantha,

We have been contacted by a constituent who is concerned that the Province did not pursue prosecution for the Mount Polley tailings spill and would like an explanation for that decision. I believe they are referring to the decision of the Province on Jan 30, 2018 to halt the private prosecution launched by Bev Sellars (grandmother and former chief of the Xat'sull First Nation).

Any information that you are able to provide would be greatly appreciated.

Thanks for your help on this and please let me know if you have any questions.

Good Morning, Kurt

Our Board released the attached blog/newsletter to keep our stakeholders and partners up to date on what is happening at the Board and what we are working on for the future. I thought this might be of interest to you and perhaps the Attorney General.

You will read about the 20th anniversary of the use of alternate dispute resolution at the Board as well as our efforts to improve and innovate to make our processes more efficient and accessible. In this regard, I am pleased to announce our new website, launched May 31, 2018 : <http://www.assessmentappeal.bc.ca/> . This is the website's first phase with more improvements to come in the future. I can endeavor to keep you informed of those and other improvements.

If you have any questions or comments (or feedback) on any of these efforts, please don't hesitate to contact me,

Subject: Heads up: inaccuracy in Vancouver Sun

Good morning – following up on my messages yesterday regarding Vancouver Sun's policy about only quoting individuals and not organizations (such as ministries), our PAO Liam Butler is quoted below as 'speaking for the attorney general's ministry'.

Penner is inaccurate in stating that the announcement today is about provincial licensing. This did not come from Liam, who told Penner (on background) to expect an announcement tomorrow about LDB's readiness for Oct. 17th, and that LDB is available for an interview tomorrow after the news release goes out. He also verbally communicated that the portal has not launched yet therefore applications are not available, and more information would be available soon.

FYI, today's LDB news release, going out at 11:30 a.m., lists LDB's Viviana Zanoocco as the media contact, so they will get the bulk of media inquiries.

Thanks,

Cadence

On the section below:

MDE notes that later in the document there is a section on Employee Registration and Training. Therefore, could this bullet link to that section rather than state it will be available later?

9 Register and train employees

- All employees must be registered with the province before they can be employed in a non-medical cannabis store. Local governments may also have business licence requirements regarding employees.
- More information about registration and training will be available soon.[\[AKC1\]](#)

Also just noting that in section 5, the acronym "LCRB" is left hanging at the end of the paragraph and probably just needs to be deleted.

dear minister, david, s.22 at the canadian HIV/AIDS legal network's 25th anniversary reception in june, ontario had recently revived its prosecutorial guidelines around HIV disclosure. they accepted the long standing scientific evidence that if an HIV+ person had been on HAART and had an undetectable viral load for at least 6 months that they no longer had to disclose their "status" to sexual partners. the reasoning behind this is that with long term undetectable viral load, one can no longer infect a partner, or U=U.

you hoped that your prosecutorial service in BC would reach that same conclusion. in the 2 months that have passed, they have not. i call upon you to live up to the promise you made to us that evening. if they did not act you would. David, i have had an undetectable viral load for almost 23 years. despite being undetectable and uninfected, i still have to hear "i'm HIV-;you be too". i am tired of this unnecessary stigma which has no basis in scientific fact.

NDP, mla leonard krog has recently announced that he will give up his seat in the legislature to run in the contest for mayor of Nanaimo. his withdrawal from the current government will put it at great risk. a defeat in the by-election would probably cause the government to fall. in that case you will no longer be able to actualize the science of transmission you claim to support.

i ask you to make good on your promise to bring into effect prosecutorial guidelines that absolve people who have undetectable viral loads for at least 6 months from the requirement to disclosure their HIV status. the time to act is literally now. U=U, that is scientific fact regardless of which party controls our provincial government. you are in position to apply that fact to lives of HIV+people who adhere to an often unpleasant HAART regime and reduce unscientific, fear based demonizing stigma. david, the time to act is now.

I received word via Kurt from James that there is a discrepancy between the chart and the briefing note relating to the ministry's legislative plan. I looked through it again and think it must be that the note said the s.13 As the AG has apparently signed off on the chart but not the note, I have changed the note to reflect the chart so the amendments are reflected as high priority in both places.

Subject: Annual Report - Answers to Questions

Hi Gala,

In answers to your questions.

For Courts capital expenditures, the Annual Report shows $2.64 million in Actuals, $0 for Budget (which is called "Total Estimated" column) and a variance between Actuals less Budget of -$2.64 million. For AG, like all other ministries in government, for the Estimates Budget, capital is budgeted at the ministry operations level plus the other non-ministry operations lines (Judiciary, IIO and PGT). The capital budget for all of ministry operations all shows up under Executive & Support Services. ESS shows a positive variance of $3.111 million and Court Services and other branches show a negative variance. For the total ministry, there is a zero variance for capital, so the ministry as a whole is on budget for capital. During the year, capital budget is allocated at the working budget level to the branches, but in the Annual Report they report against the initial Estimates Budget. $2.0 million of Court Service capital budget relates to vehicles and the remainder is specialized equipment (video conferencing, security equipment and radios).

For Executive and Support Services operating, for AG, the majority of the overage relates to systems. For PSSG, it is people, as I said. For both, the original source of the issue is the $10 million budget reduction five years ago, where the sector has not been able to meet those savings and maintain operations.

If you have any questions, please give me a call.

Good afternoon, Tanera.

Attached please find five annual service plans for the Minister's review/approval.

Please note that the sector report also requires the Minister's permission to insert his electronic signature.

Also, the LSS report requires his signature on the briefing note please.

The ministry is required to submit the final, signed off plans by Friday, June 22nd.

Please call me should you have any questions or concerns.

Hi Gala,

In answers to your questions.

For Courts capital expenditures, the Annual Report shows $2.64 million in Actuals, $0 for Budget (which is called "Total Estimated" column) and a variance between Actuals less Budget of -$2.64 million. For AG, like all other ministries in government, for the Estimates Budget, capital is budgeted at the ministry operations level plus the other non-ministry operations lines (Judiciary, IIO and PGT). The capital budget for all of ministry operations all shows up under Executive & Support Services. ESS shows a positive variance of $3.111 million and Court Services and other branches show a negative variance. For the total ministry, there is a zero variance for capital, so the ministry as a whole is on budget for capital. During the year, capital budget is allocated at the working budget level to the branches, but in the Annual Report they report against the initial Estimates Budget. $2.0 million of Court Service capital budget relates to vehicles and the remainder is specialized equipment (video conferencing, security equipment and radios).

FYI as background for CKNW's request to interview the minister Monday morning. Sam Cooper comments on the Research Co polls and calls for a public inquiry.

Sam is fairly measured but conveys the gravity of the criminal activity going on. He references Quebec's Charbonneau Commission into corruption as an example of a provincial public inquiry into a similar topic.

They will be stopped at reception and I will bring them into the office. Our offices are located on the main floor of the Main Administration Building at 2071 2nd Ave. When you enter the building from 2nd Ave, once through the doors, you will see a large set of stairs, go around them and to the right, there will be large glass windows with a receptionist behind them and a sign saying, "Cabinet Office." Have them check in and I will come out to greet them.

I received word via Kurt from James that there is a discrepancy between the chart and the briefing note relating to the ministry's legislative plan. I looked through it again and think it must be that the note said the s.13 As the AG has apparently signed off on the chart but not the note, I have changed the note to reflect the chart so the amendments are reflected as high priority in both places.

See the attached revisions here. The revised note with attachment will make its way up officially tomorrow. Please let me know if there were other or different concerns.

Subject: Week in Review: June 18-21

Hi everyone,

Here are just a few things our government has announced this week -

Province opens the door to housing investment on reserves

- Housing affordability affects us all and, for too long, the impact of B.C.'s housing crisis on Indigenous peoples was ignored. With these new provincial housing funds, our government is taking a major step forward in making sure Indigenous peoples everywhere in British Columbia have access to the safe and secure housing they need.
- British Columbia will become the first province in Canada to invest provincial housing funds into on-reserve housing. Through the new Building BC: Indigenous Housing Fund, the British Columbia government will invest $550 million over the next 10 years to build and operate 1,750 new units of social housing for projects, both on- and off-reserve. Click here to learn more about this announcement.
- "Everyone in British Columbia deserves a good home, including people who live on-reserve," said Premier John Horgan on Monday, June 18. "That's why we're opening the door to all Indigenous communities to join us as we make housing better and more affordable for people in every part of the province."

Family-and-friend caregivers to received much-needed relief with expanded supports

- The previous government failed seniors and their families by making home and community care visits too short, rushed and stressful. We are doing things differently and improving the services that help seniors stay at home longer while reducing stress experienced by family members, friends and other caregivers.
- The Ministry of Health is investing $75 million to expand respite care and adult day programs, helping both seniors and their loved ones, announced Adrian Dix, Minister of Health. Over the next three years, the Province will improve and strengthen respite services and adult day programs to support seniors and their family-and-friend caregivers. The number of respite beds will be increased, and overnight care at home will be made more accessible. In addition, the number of adult day program spaces will be increased, and the hours of operation will be expanded to provide services on evenings and weekends.
- "Many B.C. seniors count on their spouses, children and close friends to help them stay at home, and cope and manage chronic conditions," said Minister Dix on Monday, June 18. "Caregiving without adequate supports can impact the whole family, particularly a person's ability to live at home, which is what most seniors and their loved ones want. Giving seniors better options and supporting unpaid caregivers to take time for themselves is a necessity."

Students to benefits from more classrooms in Surrey and a new school in Vancouver

- The previous government caused years of instability in our classrooms, making it harder for kids to thrive at school. We're upgrading and building new schools to make sure students are safe and growing communities have places for kids to learn.
- Students at Sullivan Heights Secondary school are getting a bigger, better school, with the Government of British Columbia investing in a new 700-seat addition, click here to see the release. The Ministry of Education is also providing $79.3 million to fully replace Eric Hamber Secondary — the largest seismic project in Vancouver's history (click here for more information).
- "Vancouver students and their families have been waiting for schools that will be safe in the event of an earthquake," said Rob Fleming, Minister of Education on Tuesday, June 19. "Today's announcement moves us one step closer to achieving our goal of ensuring all British Columbian students can receive a quality education in a state-of-the-art, safe and healthy school."

Government cracking down on hidden ownership of real estate

- The B.C. government is taking steps to end the hidden ownership of real estate to make sure people are paying their share of taxes, as part of its 30-Point Plan for Housing Affordability. The Province is establishing a new, publicly accessible registry of who owns real estate in British Columbia. It will be the first registry of its kind in Canada, and will improve transparency in the real estate market. It will provide tax auditors and law enforcement agencies, as well as federal and provincial regulators, with information that will assist with their investigations.
- “British Columbia has developed a reputation as an attractive place to anonymously invest and hide wealth. Right now in B.C., real estate investors can hide behind numbered companies, offshore and domestic trusts, and corporations,” said Carole James, Minister of Finance on Wednesday, June 20. “Ending this type of hidden ownership in real estate will help us fight tax evasion, tax fraud and money laundering. Our goal is to return fairness to the housing market.”

B.C. government announces new approach to salmon farm tenures

- For far too long, the previous government ignored concerns about the impacts of open net salmon farming on our environment and on wild salmon. We are taking steps to transition to a sustainable industry that respects wild salmon, embraces reconciliation with First Nations and protects jobs.
- The Government of British Columbia will establish rigorous new rules and expectations for the renewal of salmon farm tenures in B.C. waters. Effective June 2022, the Province will grant Land Act tenures only to fish farm operators who have satisfied Fisheries and Oceans Canada (DFO) that their operations will not adversely impact wild salmon stocks, and who have negotiated agreements with the First Nation(s) in whose territory they propose to operate.
- “The challenges facing our wild salmon have been ignored for far too long,” said Lana Popham, Minister of Agriculture on Wednesday, June 20. “That’s why we are putting in place a new approach to provide clarity and outline our expectations moving forward for a sustainable industry that protects wild salmon, embraces reconciliation, and provides good jobs.”

Public consultation begins on revitalizing B.C.’s environmental assessment process

- From now until July 30, 2018, British Columbians have an opportunity to shape the future of how major projects are assessed in B.C., by providing feedback on recommended changes to B.C.’s environmental assessment (EA) process. Click here to learn more about B.C.’s environmental assessment revitalization, including the proposed changes and how you can share your thoughts.
- “We’ve worked extensively with First Nations, stakeholders and community representatives throughout B.C. to ensure the proposed changes to B.C.’s environmental assessment process do a better job of protecting British Columbians’ natural environment, health, heritage and societies, while continuing to attract investment and sustainably growing our economy,” said George Heyman, Minister of Environment and Climate Change Strategy on Monday, June 18. “I’m looking forward to hearing from British Columbians from every corner of the province on the proposed changes, so we can be sure we get it right.”

New grants have potential to create new child care spaces

- For too many people, child care is nearly as expensive as housing and even harder to find. We are taking action to support child care providers and increase access to the kind of quality care our kids deserve so that there are more affordable options available to everyone.
- Families searching for quality, licensed child care in their communities will have hundreds more options through a new grant program. Eligible unlicensed child care providers – who are currently limited to providing care to a maximum of two children unrelated to them, or a sibling group – can now apply for financial assistance to become licensed family or in-home multi-age (IHMA) child care providers. Becoming licensed allows child care providers to care for seven or eight children, depending on their license. To help providers switch over, the Province is investing $750,000 in the program per year, over the next three years.

- “Thousands of parents, providers and educators have told us that the availability of quality child care is the number one concern for them,” said Katrina Chen, Minister of State for Child Care on Wednesday, June 20. “This grant program will offer providers a new source of funding to become licensed, and it – along with other initiatives – will help to further enhance the quality of programs.”

The reporter would like an update on whether or not Rich Coleman may be examined under oath in Ted LeRoy et. al vs TimberWest et. al. He would also like any update on the hearing and its result.

Background

This is a follow-up to a media request from June 14, 2018:

RESPONSE:

1. Why is a lawyer from the ministry of the Attorney General representing Mr. Coleman?
 - It is common for the Province to provide legal representation to public servants acting in the course of their employment.
2. Why is that government lawyer putting forward a position opposed to having Mr. Coleman examined in person?
 - It helps ensure the fair treatment of public servants and the effective management of government.
3. Some will argue it's because the government does not want the relationship between cabinet and the bclMC examined. What comment can you provide on that?
 - Legislation precludes government from speaking to the details of any individual indemnities, including whether anyone has applied for, been granted, or been denied an indemnity.
4. Wouldn't it be more normal for Mr. Coleman to find his own lawyer and then apply for an indemnity? Why isn't that what's happening in this case?

- Whether an employee applies for or receives coverage for legal expenses is personal and privileged information.
5. Anything else you can tell me about the case and the government's role in it?
- Since the matter is before the courts, we cannot provide further comment in this case.

Hi Derrick and Gala – we’re touching base with BCLC communications later today and they had left a few questions with me last week. Seeking your advice on how to respond:

- They are wondering what the AG’s stance is on accepting the recommendations – okay to share in general terms?
- Will BCLC receive an embargoed NR in advance of the event?
- Is BCLC’s official response letter to the German report being made public?

Feel free to call to discuss. Thanks,

Cadence

Hi Gala,

I wanted to bring to your attention materials that were circulated to conference attendees who selected the workshop on service dog handlers (Session 2, Option A) tomorrow, which you may or may not have received already.

It appears that these are documents from the BC Coalition of People Who Use Guide Dogs and the Canadian Federation of the Blind, including a letter dated June 20, 2018 to the Minister and Minister Farnsworth at their constituency offices, which has not yet worked its way through our correspondence unit. The letter raises issues with the way the Guide Dog and Service Dog Act is being implemented by public establishments.

Linda Canham is working with staff in the ministries of Transportation and Public Safety and Solicitor General to develop a Briefing Note for the Attorney General and response letter to the issues raised by the Canadian Federation of the Blind. The June 20th letter repeats the concerns that this organization has previously been raising.

If the Minister is questioned about this, staff are reviewing the issues raised by the CFB internally with the ministries affected to prepare a formal response. This work is in progress.

All the best,
Renée

Thanks Renee this is really helpful. Do you know if these documents were circulated by the event organizers? Or by this marketing group? Or is the marketing group acting on behalf of the conference.

Subject: Meeting on Recognition Framework / Réunion sur le Cadre de reconnaissance

Colleagues,

We wanted to make sure that you were aware that the Minister of Crown-Indigenous Relations and Northern Affairs (CIRNA) intends to convene a meeting with provincial and territorial ministers responsible for Indigenous affairs, justice and intergovernmental affairs, to discuss the Recognition and Implementation of Indigenous Rights Framework. We understand that CIRNA is planning to hold these meetings on either July 11, 12, or 13 in Ottawa; grateful if you could let us know by Wednesday if there are any specific preferences among these dates.

We recognize that this is just prior to the meeting of the Council of the Federation, and that this will be a particularly busy time for your governments. However, as we discussed in the spring, CIRNA is intensifying its work on the Framework, and we recognize that this will include the need for political discussions.

As we stressed during our discussions on the Framework a few weeks ago, collaboration with provinces and territories will be essential to make meaningful change that recognizes and implements Indigenous rights. And, while the Framework will ensure that the recognition and exercise of Indigenous rights will be consistent with the Canadian constitution, the Framework could have impacts on provinces and territories and your relationships with Indigenous peoples.

To that end, we hope you will encourage ministerial participation in these upcoming meetings. This will be an important opportunity to ensure that the views of provinces and territories are heard and considered.

Hélène Laurendeau

Deputy Minister, Crown-Indigenous Relations and Northern Affairs

Nathalie Drouin

Deputy Minister, Justice and Attorney-General of Canada

Christiane Fox

Deputy Minister, Intergovernmental Affairs and Youth

Collègues,

Nous voulions nous assurer que vous aviez pris connaissance de l'intention de la ministre des Relations Couronne-Autochtones et des Affaires du Nord (RCAAN) de coordonner une réunion avec les ministres provinciaux et territoriaux responsable pour les affaires Autochtones, la justice, et les affaires intergouvernementales, pour discuter du Cadre de reconnaissance et de mise en œuvre des droits des Autochtones. Nous comprenons que RCAAN prévoit tenir ces réunions le 11, 12 ou 13 juillet; svp indiquez d'ici mercredi, s'il y a des préférences de ses ministres parmi ces dates. Nous reconnaissons que ces réunions précèderaient de très près la réunion du Conseil de la fédération, d'autant plus que ce sera une période particulièrement chargée pour vos gouvernements. Cependant, comme nous en avons discuté au printemps, RCAAN intensifie son travail sur le Cadre et nous reconnaissons que cela inclura le besoin de discussions politiques.

Comme nous l'avons souligné lors de nos discussions sur le Cadre il y a quelques semaines, la collaboration avec les provinces et territoires sera essentielle pour apporter des changements significatifs qui reconnaissent et mettent en œuvre les droits des Autochtones. De plus, même si le Cadre garantira que la reconnaissance et l'exercice des droits autochtones seront conformes à la constitution canadienne, il pourrait avoir des répercussions sur les provinces et territoires, ainsi que sur vos relations avec les peuples autochtones.

À cette fin, nous espérons que vous encouragerez la participation ministérielle à ces prochaines réunions. Ce sera une occasion importante de s'assurer que les points de vue des provinces et des territoires soient entendus et pris en considération.

Request

The reporter would like to know how the money laundering recommendations/changes already imposed have played out at the casinos. He would like an outline of what government has already done and what effects those changes are having on money laundering.

Background

This is a follow-up to a media request from June 25, 2018.

REQUEST:

The reporter would like to schedule a phone interview with Minister Eby today to discuss B.C.'s money laundering situation and the upcoming release of Dr. German's report. The reporter is doing an "advancer" today ahead of the release, looking at the issue and what the report could help remedy.

The reporter is available until 3 p.m. to conduct the interview.

RESPONSE:

Scheduled Interview

Recommendation – provide information on background

What has government already done and what effects have those actions had on the money laundering problem?

- In December 2017, Dr. German provided two interim recommendations that were approved by the Attorney General.
- On Jan. 10, the BC Lottery Corporation (BCLC) implemented the first recommendation that requires casino customers to complete a Source of Funds Declaration for cash deposits of $10,000 or more. If a customer does not provide the required information, the service provider must refuse the transaction, document it, and notify BCLC.
- At the peak of money laundering in B.C. casinos in July 2015, $20 million went through B.C. casinos in suspicious cash transactions in a single month. In March, the most recent month for which we have statistics, there was $200,000 in suspicious cash transactions.
- The second recommendation required that government regulators have a presence on-site and are available to service providers throughout the day and during peak hours.
- After seeking clarity from Dr. German on this recommendation, the Gaming Policy and Enforcement Branch (GPEB) is ensuring regulators are present when and where they are most needed.
- GPEB is increasing the regulator's presence at five high-volume casinos, including at the Hard Rock Casino in Vancouver, Starlight Casino in New Westminster, River Rock Casino & Resort in Richmond, Grand Villa Casino in Burnaby, and Parq Vancouver during peak activity.
- The plan uses existing GPEB investigators to provide an increased presence at high-volume casinos in the short term, while hiring additional investigators to fully meet the recommendation.
- GPEB has recently hired four additional investigators, and recruitment efforts to seek additional temporary staff continue.

The next issue of The Advocate will be published in September, with drafts due in mid-July. Please let me know if the AG has any suggested topics or preferences for the September issue. We could do something on Indigenous justice (following up on the summit and the Indigenous justice strategy under development). Or maybe use the Advocate article to elaborate on BC's approach to cannabis legalization? Or link to something like the UN International Day of Democracy (September 15) to highlight BC's achievements around democratic reform and the referendum? Your ideas are welcome! Many thanks.

Subject: Meeting on Recognition Framework /
Réunion sur le Cadre de reconnaissance

Colleagues,

We wanted to make sure that you were aware that the Minister of Crown-Indigenous Relations and Northern Affairs (CIRNA) intends to convene a meeting with provincial and territorial ministers responsible for Indigenous affairs, justice and intergovernmental affairs, to discuss the Recognition and Implementation of Indigenous Rights Framework. We understand that CIRNA is planning to hold these meetings on either July 11, 12, or 13 in Ottawa; grateful if you could let us know by Wednesday if there are any specific preferences among these dates.

We recognize that this is just prior to the meeting of the Council of the Federation, and that this will be a particularly busy time for your governments. However, as we discussed in the spring, CIRNA is intensifying its work on the Framework, and we recognize that this will include the need for political discussions.

As we stressed during our discussions on the Framework a few weeks ago, collaboration with provinces and territories will be essential to make meaningful change that recognizes and implements Indigenous rights. And, while the Framework will ensure that the recognition and exercise of Indigenous rights will be consistent with the Canadian constitution, the Framework could have impacts on provinces and territories and your relationships with Indigenous peoples.

To that end, we hope you will encourage ministerial participation in these upcoming meetings. This will be an important opportunity to ensure that the views of provinces and territories are heard and considered.

Hélène Laurendeau

Deputy Minister, Crown-Indigenous Relations and Northern Affairs

Nathalie Drouin

Deputy Minister, Justice and Attorney-General of Canada

Christiane Fox

Deputy Minister, Intergovernmental Affairs and Youth

Collègues,

Nous voulions nous assurer que vous aviez pris connaissance de l'intention de la ministre des Relations Couronne-

Autochtones et des Affaires du Nord (RCAAN) de coordonner une réunion avec les ministres provinciaux et territoriaux responsable pour les affaires Autochtones, la justice, et les affaires intergouvernementales, pour discuter du Cadre de reconnaissance et de mise en œuvre des droits des Autochtones. Nous comprenons que RCAAN prévoit tenir ces réunions le 11, 12 ou 13 juillet; svp indiquez d'ici mercredi, s'il y a des préférences de ses ministres parmi ces dates.

Nous reconnaissons que ces réunions précèderaient de très près la réunion du Conseil de la fédération, d'autant plus que ce sera une période particulièrement chargée pour vos gouvernements. Cependant, comme nous en avons discuté au printemps, RCAAN intensifie son travail sur le Cadre et nous reconnaissons que cela inclura le besoin de discussions politiques.

Comme nous l'avons souligné lors de nos discussions sur le Cadre il y a quelques semaines, la collaboration avec les provinces et territoires sera essentielle pour apporter des changements significatifs qui reconnaissent et mettent en œuvre les droits des Autochtones. De plus, même si le Cadre garantira que la reconnaissance et l'exercice des droits autochtones seront conformes à la constitution canadienne, il pourrait avoir des répercussions sur les provinces et territoires, ainsi que sur vos relations avec les peuples autochtones.

À cette fin, nous espérons que vous encouragerez la participation ministérielle à ces prochaines réunions. Ce sera une occasion importante de s'assurer que les points de vue des provinces et des territoires soient entendus et pris en considération.

Hi Gala,

Thanks for the talk this morning. Please find attached the letter and proposal that was sent to the Attorney General and Legal Services Society regarding legal aid for independent legal advice for individuals when they are detained under the Mental Health Act.

As Sam Godfrey and I had discussed, independent legal advice for detainees would be a fast, straightforward, and non-controversial legislative change which other provinces already have in their Acts that ensures that the legal aid will be protected by legislation into the future.

I have discussed this with staff at the Ministry of Mental Health and Addictions, but with it being a legal aid issue, I think it would be productive to have a meeting with staff at the Attorney General along with any other relevant people to discuss implementing this change.

Please feel free to let me know if you have any questions,

Hi Gala,

Are we okay to send digital copies to reporters from outside Victoria? Marielle has raised the following concern regarding sharing hard copies in Vancouver:

In terms of getting paper copies to the Vancouver media attending in Vancouver it might not look very good optics wise if they are arriving at the event with the report in hand already while others have to wait for the event to begin to get the report. Not sure how we could get around this.

Also, Sam Cooper may be calling in from Ontario so would need a digital copy if he is to get one in advance.

New direction on this. The minister would prefer that paper copies would be made available and that the reporters could receive an embargoed copy an hour in advance in person.

Hi all,

I spoke with Gala and here is the new plan.

- 1) An embargoed copy (print) of the report will be available to interested media one hour before the event begins in Vancouver. Media must come in person and agree to the embargo and not leave the location. Materials are embargoed until the Minister speaks.

*this information should be communicated on the call around today

 Marielle, can you make sure your staff are there to hand out the copies, monitor at this earlier hour, please.

- 2) Print embargo copies will be available to press gallery for pick up in Victoria one hour before the event begins at selected location. Under embargo until the Minister speaks.

*Marielle, please revise your note to gallery to reflect this.

Sound good?

Hi Marielle – Gala's informed me that the minister would prefer that paper copies would be made available and that the reporters could receive an embargoed copy an hour in advance in person.

List still TBC but will likely be:

- Press gallery
- Sam Cooper
- Kathy Tomlinson
- Bob Mackin
- Jon Woodward

I'll confirm the list as soon as I can.

Best,

Cadence

Hi Candice and Wolfgang

I want to introduce you to Marielle Tounsi cc'd here. Marielle is on our media relations team and will be in our office tomorrow morning at 8:30am to provide reporters with an embargoed copy of the Peter German report. The Minister will be releasing this report at the media release tomorrow at 9:30am in Vancouver.

Just wanted to let you know so that you aren't alarmed tomorrow morning to see Marielle and a number of the legislative reporters stopping by the office!

Sincerely,

Hi all,

Sam Cooper made the below request last week and the minister asked for a briefing from GPEB to learn more. We now have more info from the acting ADM at GPEB but want to clarify whether the minister is seeking a briefing from GPEB before we provide a proposed response or if he would like us to craft a response based on the new information we have. Can you advise?

Request

Following up on his previous request, the reporter would like clarification on the following responses::

1) "GPEB has no record of ☺ ☺ _ or any company named in the inquiry from the reporter applying for registration in B.C."

For his accuracy purposes, the reporter needs clarification on whether this answer includes registration of participation or investment contributions that are significant for regulatory purposes, in the Great Canadian joint venture China Seas Discovery business of 2000 to 2001, which is documented as having occurred (and Great Canadian does not deny that it was involved and in fact reached a settlement with partner Allegiance, in BC courts) -- involving any of a. s.22 b. Kam Hon Travel; c MexTeam?

2) "A proposed acquisition of a B.C. gaming service provider in 2007 included a group of investors from Australia and Hong Kong."

For public interest reasons and to further the reporter's research, specifically which GSP is referred to, and if possible, can the ministry provide investigation documentation?

Deadline ASAP

Request

The reporter would like to schedule a phone interview with a ministry representative to discuss a recent Stats Canada report related to the incarceration of Indigenous people and the increase in their over representation across all categories (male, female, adult, youth). The report can be found here: <https://www150.statcan.gc.ca/n1/en/catalogue/85-002-X201800154972>

The reporter is specifically interested in the jump that occurred among female youth from 2006/07 to 2016-17. The numbers go from 32% to 60%. The reporter would like to know what is being done in B.C. to address the over representation, particularly among Indigenous youth and girls.

Background – PSSG and MCFD did not wish to comment on incarceration rates but did review the response. MIRR has reviewed as well.

Recommendation - Statement from Minister Eby:

“Our government is committed to renewing the justice system so that it supports access to justice for all British Columbians.

“In partnership with The BC Aboriginal Justice Council and Indigenous communities, we are developing a strategy to improve how Indigenous people interact with and are treated in the justice system. This includes setting targets and taking action to reduce the over-representation of Indigenous people in the justice system.

“Working with the BC Aboriginal Justice Council, Indigenous leaders and community members, the ministry is developing a strategy that includes culturally-appropriate programs and services, including improved access to Indigenous Courts and alternatives to traditional courts; support of Legal Services Society (LSS) and the Ministry of Children and Family Development in reforms to the justice system relating to child protection; improved access to justice services for Indigenous people, including legal aid and other supports, especially in remote communities; improved processes to ensure that Gladue principles are respected; and preventing and responding to violence against Indigenous people, especially women and girls.

“I am confident that with the budget commitments we have made, we are taking long overdue steps to address the overrepresentation of Indigenous people in the justice system, by improving First Nations legal services, dispute resolution services for families and poverty law services to increase access to justice.”

Topic: BC Cannabis Stores employees

Background: He's doing a story about companies that are setting up both public and private retail cannabis stores to learn more about their respective plans to train employees to sell non-medical cannabis. He said he's talked to one private company that is already beginning to train new staff for its anticipated stores. Many of the attendees are employees of illegal dispensaries in Vancouver that hope to make the transition to selling cannabis legally. Would like to interview someone for a clip to add to story that is running Friday.

Questions:

1. Have you started training employees for the government-run retail stores? If not, what plans are in place to train them?
2. Will the LDB train them or will it be a third-party company?

Subject: Date confirmation: DELTA Warehouse Tour and media event

Hi Gala – LDB has proposed the following date and agenda for the Delta warehouse tour. Please confirm whether this works for the minister.

Confirm: Wed. Sept. 19, 1 p.m. – 2:30 p.m.

Draft agenda:

- 1 pm – MDE arrives at Delta warehouse for briefing on agenda; LDB's Blain Lawson and Todd Cooper to greet
- 1:15 pm – Todd delivers welcome message and introduces MDE, Blain and Delta Mayor Lois Jackson
- 1:20 pm – Speeches by MDE, Blain and Mayor Jackson (five minutes each)
- 1:35 pm – Ribbon-cutting ceremony with MDE, Blain, Todd and perhaps Mayor Jackson
- 1:40 pm – Media availability for MDE and Blain (senior warehouse staff will be on hand to answer technical questions)
- 1:55 pm – Todd and Blain lead MDE on tour of warehouse
- 2:30 pm – End of event

FYI on this project from CSB mentioned in a JTT NR today on the STIR program:

Ministry of Attorney General

Court Services Branch

The Ministry of Attorney General's Court Services Branch is looking to transform and modernize court administrative services by moving its paper-based court interpreter scheduling and payment processes online. The solution will incorporate the existing directory of court interpreters and enable interpreter clerks throughout the province to schedule and pay interpreters through an integrated online system.

Subject: Ridesharing Insurance

Gala,

It's been a little bit since we last connected. Your Minister has been super busy lately!

Hopefully you'll get some time over the long weekend.

A lot of work is being put in by a whole host of stakeholders to ensure that government has clear information on its options for ridesharing. From recent conversations, there seems to be a bit of a disconnect between what ICBC had historically told us and what we are hearing is government's current understanding of the situation and potential for ridesharing insurance.

I was wondering if you, or the relevant political staffer, ICBC and any relevant officials would have time to connect in the next couple of weeks to discuss ridesharing insurance. I think it would be useful to have a big group for the discussion, but happy to have it at a smaller table first if you prefer. We would touch on the insurance structure we are seeking, the benefits, and how ICBC outlined it could be protected from losses.

Is that something you could help arrange?

We are trying to help solve challenges for the government by outlining solutions that ensure appropriate coverage for riders/drivers, minimize risk to ICBC, and enable ridesharing. We are confident that there are solutions to the insurance matter that could get us on the road this fall, if the government so chooses, and we would greatly appreciate a group discussion to lay out that option for Ministers.

Look forward to connecting.

All the best,

Michael

Bob Mackin, Reporter

Freelancer

bob@thebreaker.news

604-982-9130 c: s.22

Deadline Thursday, June 28, 2018 4:30 PM

Request

The reporter would like to know the status of the BCLC board, as there are several vacant directorships. He would also like to know when John Mazure tendered his resignation and when his last day of works was, as well as in the interim head of GPEB.

Recommendation – provide on background

Regarding the BCLC board:

- The BCLC board has the members needed to fulfil its responsibilities to BCLC and the Province of B.C.
- The new chair will be working with government to determine how best to fill current vacancies in the best interest of the corporation and the people of B.C. in the context of the German report publicly released on June 27.
- The Lieutenant Governor in Council appoints the directors of BCLC and sets the terms of appointment of each member.

Regarding S.22

- The ministry can confirm S.22 is no longer with the Public Service. For privacy reasons, government cannot offer any further information.

Deadline Friday, June 28, 2018 3:30 PM

Request

The reporter would like to schedule a phone interview with the Attorney General to discuss the sentencing of Winston Blackmore to six months of house arrest. The reporter claims this sentence is a slap on the wrist as there are not any conditions that would sanction his earlier behaviour. The reporter would like Minister Eby's reaction and if any changes to the sentence are being contemplated.

The interview would be 15 minutes. She would like to conduct the interview Tuesday, July 3.

Recommendation – Provide statement from the Attorney General

"I am aware of the sentences handed down to Mr. Blackmore and Mr. Oler.

"Our Government takes very seriously the safety and well-being of women and children, regardless of religion or circumstance. We are committed to creating a province where all women have the services and supports they need to help prevent and escape from difficult domestic situations. Through our government's most recent budget, we have invested an additional $18 million over the next three years, to better meet the demand for programs and services such as counselling, outreach, and crisis support for women and children who experience domestic violence, sexual assault, and other crimes.

"All further questions about this case and the likelihood of an appeal should be directed to the BC Prosecution Service."

Topic: Hiring for cannabis division

Background: Preparing a feature article on how far along each of the provinces are in their respective recruitment processes.

Questions:

- How many administrative/coordination/distribution (i.e. non-customer facing) positions are being created to handle recreational cannabis distribution/sales?
 - How many of those positions have already been filled?
 - How many of those positions have yet to be posted/advertised publicly?
 - How many of those positions do you expect will be filled by Oct 17?
- Of the total number of administrative positions being created, how many are at a senior level (i.e. "manager"-level or above)?
 - How many of those positions have already been filled?
 - How many of those positions have yet to be posted/advertised publicly?
 - How many of those positions do you expect will be filled by Oct 17?

Subject: Release of Professional Reliance Final report - 2:30pm June 28, 2018

Hello DMs,

Please find attached the following documents in anticipation of the news release this afternoon at 2:30pm :

- News Release
- Final PR Report
- Key Messages
- Questions and Answers
- Redline version of the report

We have conducted pre-notification briefings (yesterday – June 27) with the following parties of the pending news release:

- First Nations – Splatins and Ktunaxa (Malahat was invited and did not participate) ...these nations provided feedback on the draft report
- Industry – AME, COFI, BCBC, and MABC (Teck, CAPP and ACEC were invited and did not participate)
- Unions – PEA and BC GEU
- Professional regulators – BCIA, CAB, ABCFP, EGBC, ASTTBC
- ENGO's – Ecojustice and Organizing for change

The following parties will receive today embargoed information: a copy of the News Release, redline version of the report and a final report. Redline versions were only provided to parties* who provided fact verification comments on the final draft.

- First Nations – Squamish Nation, Secwepemc Nation, Nuxalk Nations, TNG, Kitsumkalum Indian band, Splatins Nation*, Bonaparte Indian band, Taku River Tlingit, Nooaitch Indian band, Cheam Nation, Lhtako Dene Nation, Halfway River First Nation, Malahat First Nation, Ktunaxa Nation*
- Industry- AME, COFI*, BCBC*, MABC*, CAPP*, Teck*, ACEC
- Unions – PEA and BC GEU
- Professional regulators – BCIA*, CAB*, ABCFP*, EGBC*, ASTTBC*
- ENGO's – Ecojustice and Organizing for change

Emails will be sent later today following the news release to about 250 parties who provided information during the EngageBC consultation process for the PR Review; the email will provide notice that the final report has been posted.

Emails will also be sent to Indigenous nations regarding the next steps in engagement on recommendations 1 and 2 (establishing an independent oversight office for the professional regulators, and umbrella legislation for the 5 professional regulators).

Should you have any questions regarding this information, happy to provide additional information.

Hi Gala,

We draft a weekly op-ed for the Premier for small community paper.

This week the topic is the German report.

Do you or Minister Eby have any concerns about this coming from the Premier?

We'll send a draft to you for a look once it's written.

Thank you,

Danielle

I confirmed that Hicken outlines the policy direction of government as we evaluate the proposals put forward through the public health/economic impact/trade lens. Can you please get correspondence underway to ABLE from me that confirms our (frequently stated) ongoing public health and trade position on the following points:

- Continuing the existing moratorium on new licenses in the province
- No plans to change the 1km rule
- No plans to expand the supermarket program that is currently the subject of two ongoing trade challenges

Hi Gala,

Thanks for the talk this morning. Please find attached the letter and proposal that was sent to the Attorney General and Legal Services Society regarding legal aid for independent legal advice for individuals when they are detained under the Mental Health Act.

As Sam Godfrey and I had discussed, independent legal advice for detainees would be a fast, straightforward, and non-controversial legislative change which other provinces already have in their Acts that ensures that the legal aid will be protected by legislation into the future.

I have discussed this with staff at the Ministry of Mental Health and Addictions, but with it being a legal aid issue, I think it would be productive to have a meeting with staff at the Attorney General along with any other relevant people to discuss implementing this change.

Please feel free to let me know if you have any questions,

Hi Ravi: In our telephone conversation of April 26, 2018, I was asked to provide a list of persons who could be consulted on the issue of an apology to the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor Children (referred to as "New Denver Survivors" in the letter from s.22 Please find attached two documents.

The first is a list of the persons we think were in New Denver. There were approximately 200 children in New Denver between 1953 and 1959. The list is not complete and may not be entirely accurate because the New Denver institution did not keep completely reliable records. Some of those in New Denver would have died before the list was compiled and others since it was compiled. As well, this list was compiled over 5 years ago so the contact information will have changed for some. The list shows that most reside in the Kootenays. No one on this list should be contacted without an introduction from someone in the community.

The second list ("Various Contact Information") is a list of client contacts, government witnesses (including two Doukhobors who were in New Denver) and others who were involved in some way with the human rights complaint brought by Walter Swetlishoff on behalf of the New Denver Survivors' Collective. In particular, Linda Neville (formerly with the AG) and Greg Cran (an expert on Doukhobor history) would be good persons to start with for further background information and insight into the complexities of negotiating with this community. If you want to speak to Linda or Greg I'd be happy to make the connection for you.

Please let me know if I can be of further assistance.

From: Kathleen van der Ree [mailto:k.vanderRee@raceandco.com]
Sent: Tuesday, June 12, 2018 3:31 PM
To: Minister, AG AG:EX
Subject: Taxation of Craft Cider

Dear Attorney General David Eby,

I am a partner with a small law firm in Squamish, B.C. I am also a partner in a small craft cider start-up in Squamish, named Northyards Cider Co. Ltd. We are anticipating opening our doors in July 2018. I hope it is ok that I have reached out to you directly. I was not able to attend the session you held earlier in the year to discuss liquor policy and I would like to add some more context to the issue.

On April 16, 2018, two other small producers and I submitted a position paper to the Business Technical Panel on Liquor Law and Policy (attached here for your reference). As we get closer to opening our doors, I am becoming more and more anxious with respect to how the current taxation policy will affect our business, which is why I am writing to you today.

Below is a brief summary of the issue:

- cider is treated as wine for the purposes of licencing and taxation;
- wineries are either land based (and grow a percentage of their fruit) or commercial;
- land based wineries do not pay a provincial mark-up;
- commercial wineries are further divided into VQA and non VQA wineries;
- VQA commercial wineries enjoy a tax break as they use 100% BC fruit (and pay VQA membership fees); and,
- there is no VQA equivalent for cider which is, we are advised, the reason why commercial cideries are subject to the 72% mark-up on top of cost and profit regardless of the origin of the fruit.

I believe the last bullet point is the flaw in the current policy. Our cidery will use 100% B.C. fruit because we are committed to buying local and supporting the B.C. economy. Under the current policy, there is no incentive to buy B.C. fruit and, in fact, we could access cheaper fruit and a greater variety of apples if we bought our juice/apples from Washington State. Notwithstanding, we have an agreement with a orchardist in Lake Country, B.C. Our farmer,  manage their own small orchard as well as a few other small orchards near their land. Prior to working with us, they sold their apples and apple juice at farmers markets in Vancouver. We purchased 25,000 litres of juice from John in 2017 (and froze it). Our 3 year plan is to purchase at least 100,000 litres annually. This results in significant cash flow to the farmer with less effort than selling his products at farmer's markets.

For the purpose of collecting tax, a distinction should be made between commercial cideries who use 100% B.C. fruit and those who import fruit and/or use additives. The Federal Excise Tax law makes this distinction between wine (cider) producers who use 100% Canadian fruit and those who don't. We will not pay any Excise Tax as long as we use 100% Canadian fruit. The federal government has strict reporting guidelines designed to monitor the origin of the producer's fruit.

I am not a tax expert, however, my lay-person opinion is that it seems lowering the mark up on cider producers could have the following positive effect on small business and the B.C. economy overall:

- allow farmers to expand their operations and give them access to a more efficient income stream;
- allow our business to hire more employees and to expand faster, increasing revenue;
- put us on a more competitive pricing model with craft beer (cider is consumed like beer but made like wine making it more expensive);
- expand the cider producer market – 100 producers paying, for example, a 12% mark-up will likely result in more revenue to the Province than a small number of producers struggling to make a profit and paying the 72% mark-up.

The land based producers are opposed to a tax break to commercial producers. The argument being that they have taken on the additional work of becoming farmers and that there should be incentive to run an agribusiness. With respect, commercial producers are also supporting agribusiness by opening new markets for fruit. As long as we are using B.C. fruit, we are supporting B.C. farmers. A distinction can easily be made between small craft producers and those large producers who are calling themselves craft. The large producers are manipulating the product by distilling the juice and adding sugar, water, fruit flavouring, grain alcohol etc. in order to be profitable. We are committed to a true craft beverage and will only use 100% fruit. Our inputs are expensive but we believe this makes a superior product.

At the outset I mentioned being anxious about how this tax will affect our new business. We have s.22 in this enterprise between purchasing our commercial unit and outfitting the manufacturing space. You may be asking yourself why I did this knowing the current mark-up makes it close to impossible to be profitable. First, we are passionate about this business and believe it will be good financially for our families, will create jobs and will contribute to the growing craft beverage and tourism industries in Squamish (there are currently three breweries with several more brewery applications in place as well as two additional cideries and a distillery). Next, we took a risk that the taxation model would likely change based on the modernization to the beer, wine and distilling taxation policies. I think there is good evidence to support the change in policy so that the taxation is fair in the growing cider sector.

I thank you for taking the time to read my email and I would be very happy to speak to you further about this should you have any questions.

Yours truly,

Kathleen van der Ree

Subject: FW: following up regarding HIV criminalization and prosecutorial guidance in BC

Hi Connie,

The below request came in from Richard Elliot. Minister Eby does not wish to meet but has asked me to see if Crown Prosecutors will arrange a meeting with Mr. Elliot.

Cliff number is 550724. What's the best route to take? Would you like me to refer to CCU, the DAG or to CJB?

Cheers,

Tanera Nanninga

Administrative Coordinator to the Honourable David Eby, QC

Attorney General and Minister responsible for Liquor, Gaming, and ICBC

Subject: following up regarding HIV criminalization and prosecutorial guidance in BC

Dear David, Gala (and Tanera):

Somewhat later than planned, I'm following up on our discussions at the end of April regarding HIV criminalization, with two purposes:

- (1) I wanted to provide you with some additional material as discussed; and
- (2) I wanted to inquire about getting scheduled soon the follow-up meeting that we discussed. As you can appreciate, the window for making positive and necessary change on this front is open now, and we should not miss the opportunity to rectify a long-standing and ongoing injustice against people living with HIV.

(1) Materials

During the course of our discussion, we said that we would share with you a number of documents that would be helpful in taking up the task of improving BC's prosecutorial stance vis-à-vis allegations of HIV non-disclosure. Therefore, I am attaching the following:

- Canadian scientific consensus statement: This statement was authored by 6 leading HIV scientists in Canada (including Dr. Julio Montaner) and endorsed by more than 70 others and the Association of Medical Microbiology and Infectious Disease, and published in 2014 in the peer-reviewed Canadian Journal of Infectious Diseases and Medical Microbiology. It was written specifically because of the concern that the criminal justice system's "poor appreciation of the science" is leading to over-application of the criminal law and miscarriages of justice. It has been used in numerous cases to secure a withdrawal or reduction of charges originally laid, and as an adjunct to the testimony of scientific experts (some of them authors/endorsers of the statement) in prosecutions. Note that the scientific case for limiting the application of the criminal law has only grown stronger in the 4 years since that statement was published, given additional research studies that have reported results. I should note that, as mentioned at our meeting, next month, in conjunction with the International AIDS Conference (AIDS 2018) in Amsterdam, an updated, international scientific consensus statement, co-authored by 20 of the world's leading HIV scientists, will be released in the Journal of the International AIDS Society, with endorsement by many other scientists, UNAIDS, the International AIDS Society and the International Association of Providers in AIDS Care (IAPAC), reflecting a global consensus among key experts and agencies regarding the need to limit overly broad HIV criminalization.

- Also attached is a briefing note prepared recently for a ministerial roundtable held here in Ontario with the Attorney General, representatives from some other relevant ministries and a number of key community stakeholders, scientific experts and HIV clinicians, etc. It was prepared by the Canadian HIV/AIDS Legal Network and the HIV & AIDS Legal Clinic Ontario (HALCO) for the Ontario Working Group on Criminal Law and HIV Exposure (CLHE). It provides the most current summary of the state of the law and prosecutions in Canada, the many concerns with the overly broad state of that law, the developments that have happened recently, and lays out what needs to happen next – including with 12 recommendations to the Province of Ontario. We submit all of those recommendations are also entirely relevant to all other jurisdictions in Canada, including BC.
- Attached is the original report of the CLHE in Ontario, based on consultations around the province, with numerous recommendations for the development of guidelines for prosecutors in that province – it is a more detailed document providing more detailed rationale for the various recommendations. Again, much of the substance would be applicable in any province.
- I'm also attaching both the 2012 report of the UN's Global Commission on HIV and the Law (see Chapter 2 for the discussion of, and recommendations regarding, overly broad HIV criminalization), and the subsequent 2013 Guidance document from UNAIDS laying out the various scientific, medical and legal considerations about limiting overly broad HIV criminalization, which provides much more detailed guidance on translating those recommendations into law and policy.
- Let me also draw these important cases to your attention, that have been decided since the Supreme Court of Canada's 2012 ruling in R v Mabior (links provided below):
 - o 2 separate rulings in proceedings involving an HIV-positive teenager in Nova Scotia, not least because of their reasoned critique of the Mabior ruling's defects and a sensible interpretation of that decision's "realistic possibility of transmission" test for conviction:
 - R. v. J.T.C., 2013 NSPC 105 (Acquittal; unprotected sex with an undetectable viral load) (also see Summary)
 - R. v. J.T.C., 2013 NSPC 88 (Condom use; low viral load; critical analysis of R. v. Mabior)
 - o R. v. C.B., 2017 ONCJ 545 (CanLII) (acquittal, condomless sex with undetectable viral load)
 - o R v. Thompson, 2016 NSSC 134 (condom use or low viral load or no ejaculation), and then the appeal before the NS Court of Appeal correcting the error by the trial court regarding the issue of "harm": R. v. Thompson, 2018 NSCA 13
- Attached is the updated Ontario policy guidance issued on December 1, 2017 – which was then also distributed by the Attorney General to all police services across the province. Note the highlighted portion that represents the clear statement by the Attorney General that prosecutions will not proceed in cases where the person living with HIV has a suppressed viral load for at least six months.
- You may also be interested in this recent study indicating the harmful public health impact in Ontario of overly broad HIV criminalization, including by deterring some people from seeking HIV testing – an impact that of course flies directly in the face of efforts, in which BC has been a leader, to connect people to testing and to ARV treatment not only for their own well-being but also as a key element of effective HIV prevention.

- Lastly, I believe I shared this at the time it was published, but in case you didn't see it then, here is the link to our op-ed in the Vancouver Sun that appeared at the time we met outlining some of our critique of the very disappointing policy on HIV non-disclosure prosecutions issued by the BC Prosecution Service on March 1st:

“A chance to correct injustice — don't squander it”

Vancouver Sun, April 25, 2018

<http://vancouversun.com/opinion/op-ed/richard-elliott-a-chance-to-correct-injustice-dont-squander-it>

You can find much more useful information online here:

- Legal Network's webpage on HIV criminalization: www.aidslaw.ca/criminalization, and in particular this on-line resource kit for lawyers and other advocates has many elements in it that can be useful, including information about the science of HIV transmission, data about the harms of overly broad HIV criminalization, key court rulings, and various commentaries about the various reasons why overly broad HIV criminalization is bad public policy.
- Website of the Canadian Coalition to Reform HIV Criminalization: www.HIVcriminalization.ca
- Website of HIV JUSTICE WORLDWIDE, and in particular their toolkit for limiting unjust criminalization: <http://toolkit.hivjusticeworldwide.org/>
- The website of the Ontario Working Group on Criminal Law and HIV Exposure (<http://clhe.ca>) includes a timeline, with links to documents, of all correspondence and other relevant documentation regarding engagement with the Ontario Ministry of the Attorney General on this issue.

As discussed, it is profoundly disappointing that the new guidance adopted by the BC Prosecution Service on March 1, 2018 doesn't even clearly state – unlike the policy in Ontario – that there will be no prosecution against a person with a suppressed viral load. But as we stated in response to the new Ontario policy last December – see attached statement – that is just one very modest (and necessary) step that must be taken in modernizing prosecutorial policies in Canada. At the very least, as discussed at our meeting, any prosecutorial guidance in every jurisdiction in Canada should reflect the recommendations in the Justice Canada report released last December, including the following:

- Consistent with the relevant SCC jurisprudence, the criminal law should not apply to persons living with HIV who have engaged in sexual activity without disclosing their status if they have maintained a suppressed viral load (i.e., under 200 copies per ml of blood), because the realistic possibility of transmission test is not met in these circumstances. A person living with HIV who takes their treatment as prescribed is acting responsibly.
- The criminal law should generally not apply to persons living with HIV who: are on treatment; are not on treatment but use condoms; or, engage only in oral sex (unless other risk factors are present and the person living with HIV is aware of those risks), because the realistic possibility of transmission test is likely not met in these circumstances.

This position is also endorsed by (what is now) more than 160 organizations from the HIV sector and beyond from across Canada, in the Community Consensus Statement on ending unjust HIV criminalization. We shared a copy with you at the meeting, but I attach it again here for convenience, along with an FAQ document that provides a bit of background about how this consensus statement came to be.

We look forward to continuing to work together to ensure revisions to BC's prosecutorial stance to better reflect science, and to better respect human rights and protect public health.

(2) Follow-up meeting

From our discussion at our meeting at the end of April, I understood that you planned to have some further discussions with the BC Prosecution Service, in light of concerns raised about the current prosecutorial policy.

We also agreed that that a follow-up meeting involving community representatives and the BC Prosecution Service would be useful. I'd like to see if we could get that scheduled as soon as possible. We had talked about June or July as possibilities for this. I'd be grateful if we could try to nail down some dates and make this happen; I'd be happy to talk with Tanera about that.

(In the meantime, I did have a bit of follow-up discussion with colleagues locally in BC who work in the HIV sector about some key stakeholders that could be brought together for this discussion, including women living with HIV, and am happy to pick up those conversations with them and facilitate that once we can nail down some options for a meeting.)

Lastly, I did want to note that we all recognized that, as Attorney General, Minister Eby has the legal authority to issue a directive to BC prosecutors should the Prosecution Service be unwilling to adopt prosecutorial guidance that he feels is satisfactory. While we appreciate that it would be much preferable for the Prosecution Service to indeed adopt a much sounder policy, we also know from history that this may be very difficult to achieve – and certainly in a timely fashion. As noted above, we don't want to miss a window of opportunity that currently exists, with an Attorney General who understands the concerns, to get sound prosecutorial policy in place. (David, for a trip down memory lane: I stumbled upon this article from 2012 in connection with the Mabior case, in which you were commenting, as Legal Network president, about the need to not prosecute people who use condoms: <http://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/manitoba/supreme-court-hears-hiv-disclosure-case-1.1160825>.)

I've copied my colleagues Ryan (from HALCO) and Nick (from the Legal Network) here; as you recall, they were at our meeting.

I look forward to hearing from you about how we can move quickly to ensure greater justice for people living with HIV in British Columbia.

Warm regards,
Richard

Dear David and Gala:

Thanks for joining at the reception last night and for the kind remarks about the Legal Network. And, of course, thanks for the meeting in the morning to talk about the BC Prosecution Service directive. I'll be following up with you soon with some additional material and to see about getting the meetings set up as we discussed.

Warm regards,
Richard
