NEWS RELEASE
B.C. prepares to return to the Panda bond market

VICTORIA - British Columbia has returned to China's bond market today, ensuring continued access to the third-largest capital market in the world, announced Finance Minister Carole James.

"Raising capital in the Chinese market helps to strengthen our international trade and financial profile," James said. "Diversifying our financial, trade, and export relationships can translate into jobs here at home for B.C. businesses."

A Panda bond is a colloquial term used for a bond that raises funds in Renminbi (RMB) denominations from onshore Chinese investors. The Province is issuing a three-year bond for RMB 1 billion, or about C$192.5 million, with the final coupon to be set in the early morning hours of Nov. 22, 2017.

B.C. is the first foreign government to establish a Panda bond program. In 2015, the Province received approval for a 6 billion RMB program, including pre-approved conditions on subsequent bonds to a maximum of 3 billion RMB each, and terms of up to 10 years. The program expires on Dec. 3, 2017.

The joint lead managers for the bond will be the Bank of China and HSBC, which were the leads on the Province's first Panda bond.

Quick Facts:

- * In the first three quarters of 2017, exports to mainland China from British Columbia grew by 12.7%.
- * In the same period, exports to Hong Kong from British Columbia grew by 14.6%.
- * In 2016, some of B.C.'s key exports to China include agrifood and seafood products, lumber exports, copper and coal.
- * In addition to growing B.C.'s natural resources and agrifood sectors, the Government of B.C. will help to diversify B.C. exports to Asia and China by focusing on technology and innovation in sub-sectors that include digital media and information and communications technology; clean technology; life sciences; aerospace and ocean technologies.

Sam,

Attached is the final draft OSA as promised. You will note that we state the definition of which table games will be "high limit " will be defined in policy versus the contract in order to allow for improvements in the way we track this over the 20 years of the contract.

This also enables us to ensure we can consult with service providers on the most effective operational considerations of tracking high limit table play.

Let me know if you have questions.

Cheers,

To reiterate:

The request is for briefing notes and issues notes in relation to four quarterly reports. This is not for a year's worth of correspondence. The request was intentionally narrow to begin with.

Issues notes and briefing notes are created and stored electronically. Issues notes and briefing notes are catalogued electronically. These records were created since last year. As such, it should take minutes, not hours, to find the records. There should be no fee.

To threaten a fee is to tacitly admit that someone in the ministry is embarrassed by public scrutiny of money laundering at B.C. casinos, and someone in the ministry may have failed in their duty to uphold the laws of B.C.

John Mazure, the head of GPEB, admitted in internal correspondence that money laundering at B.C. casinos is a viable threat to public safety. Therefore, section 25 of FIPPA should apply and the records should be released immediately.

Sincerely,

"This apparent lack of accountability for criminals that have ruined the lives of many vulnerable British Columbians through financial fraud is part of a disturbing picture emerging of the previous government's indifference to BC's growing reputation as a haven for white collar crime and money laundering.

"As Attorney General, I've been faced with addressing serious and credible allegations of organized crime using BC casinos as a laundromat to wash hundreds of millions of dollars over a period of years, unlimited political donations flowing in to provincial politicians from around the world, and a hidden $900m deficit at a publicly owned company.

"My colleague the Finance Minister has had to grapple with the fact that we don't actually know who owns almost half of the most valuable residential properties in Vancouver under our current land title and corporate registry systems, provincial financial subsidies being paid to a firm named as a trans-national criminal organization by the United States government, and now, reports that the Securities Commission doesn't have the resources or ability to enforce penalties related to white collar crime.

We're rolling up our sleeves to correct this disturbing trend, and we have a lot of work ahead of us. To address some of these issues we have:

- Passed legislation reforming political donations, banning donations unions and corporations, as well as donations from outside the province, and limiting donations from individuals to $1200
- Launched an independent investigation by a former senior RCMP officer into allegations of transnational money laundering at BC casinos
- Cancelled the "Advantage BC" program that, among other things, paid public subsidies to PacNet, an international firm described as a "Trans national criminal organization" by the Obama Administration
- Exposed to the public a previously undisclosed $900m deficit at the publicly owned auto insurer ICBC and launched an internal review to reform the company.
- Initiated a review of the Securities Commission to implement reforms to increase collection of penalties and proceeds of crime.

Morning,

Thank you to everyone for your continued work on OIC appointments.

It has come to my attention that there are additional concerns for Ministers who are responsible for appointments within other ministries. With this in mind, I ask that all Ministerial Assistants work together to ensure that both Ministers are comfortable with any decision being made. MA's are required to cooperate with one another to ensure that all impacted Ministers understand the decision and are in agreement before it is put forward.

Again, thank you for your work on this important file.

Hi,

Re. FIRE (This is our acronym for the initiative, Fraud in Real Estate) and our discussion about DAG's bullets and your next steps. I chatted with MDE about our meeting and he has a very clear sense of what 'the problem is' and suggests the most efficient way forward would be a quick meeting with him to discuss. I will ask Tanera to set that up, and invite the DAG. Anyone else that should be there?

Before we meet if you could track down the composition and work done to date by the MOF Task Force on this issue that would be appreciated. Let me know if you need help with that and I can reach out to my colleagues in the MOF's office.

There was a shooting involving a Canadian Pacific Railway police officer in Mission yesterday. The RCMP contacted the IIO, who said that it has no jurisdiction over the CP Police Service.

The reporter would like to know:

- 1) Is this something the province is considering changing?
- 2) Should the IIO have jurisdiction over the CP Police Service?
- 3) Are there other police department/agencies in B.C. that the IIO does not have jurisdiction over?

Background - <https://globalnews.ca/news/3875089/police-involved-shooting-in-mission-sends-one-man-to-hospital/>

Recommendation – Provide background

- The IIO has jurisdiction to investigate incidents of death and serious harm involving police officers and special constables appointed under the B.C. police act.

- That does not include officers of the CP Police Service.
- The CP Police are governed by federal legislation.
- Besides the CP Police, the IIO has no jurisdiction over any federal officers except the RCMP who are appointed as either provincial or municipal police officers in BC.
- The Ministry is not reviewing a change to the IIO's jurisdiction at this time.

Distracted driving technology pilots for British Columbians

With insurance rates in B.C. under escalating pressure from the rapidly increasing number of crashes occurring on our roads, the provincial government, ICBC and police are launching two pilots to explore how technology can help combat distracted driving in our province.

Phone apps paired with telematics on B.C. roads

The first pilot – a partnership between government and ICBC – will include up to 200 customers using phone apps paired with telematics. Telematic technology involves fitting a vehicle with a small device that communicates with an app installed on the driver's cellphone. The app works to block the use of a handheld device when the in-vehicle technology senses that the vehicle is being driven.

The combination of telematics with phone apps typically has allowed insurers to collect driving behaviour data, such as kilometres travelled and average speed. However for this pilot ICBC is interested in the user's experience with telematics in their vehicle.

Findings from the pilots will be used to inform future decisions around distracted driving prevention and enforcement, as well as changes to improve the fairness of how insurance rates are set.

In the coming weeks ICBC will confirm two to three vendors whose technology will be used during the pilot, which is set to launch in January with results prepared in the spring of 2018. The technology to be used in the pilot was determined to be the most promising based on a review of submissions from a Request for Information ICBC issued in the spring.

For the pilot, ICBC will recruit volunteers from its customer advisory panel. Customers are encouraged to join ICBC's customer advisory panel through icbc.com for an opportunity to participate in this pilot and future e-surveys to share opinions about ICBC products, services and policies. ICBC is looking for participants ages 19 years and up, from all across B.C.

Police test Bluetooth-enabled distracted driving scope

Government and ICBC will also be working in partnership with police to conduct an additional pilot to test a new distracted driving enforcement technology beginning in the spring of 2018. A Bluetooth-enabled scope will be the latest tool police will have on-hand to capture distracted driving. Units will be tested by police in varying weather and traffic conditions for usability and effectiveness. The scope will capture an image and then send it via a secured and instant method to other officers in the immediate area. That officer will then have the ability to show the image to the distracted driver. These pilots are some of the many actions that government, ICBC and B.C. police are taking to reduce crashes caused by distracted driving.

Quotes:

David Eby, Minister responsible for ICBC and Attorney General

“Distracted driving is a high-risk behavior that jeopardizes the safety of drivers and pedestrians alike. These pilots are the first step in a thoughtful examination of the role technology can play in preventing distracted driving. I look forward to the results to help us better understand their potential to influence driver behaviour and inform changes so insurance rates are set fairly.”

The reporter would like to know if there has been an update on the second wave of FOIs and court action concerning the Great Canadian Gaming Corp.

Background

This is a follow-up to a media request from November 14, 2017.

REQUEST:

The reporter would like background on the Great Canadian Gaming Corp. appearing in court today to ask for an order to stop government from releasing documents to the media unless it is consulted.

The reporter would like to know if Great Canadian is appearing before a judge today or is simply filing a request. The reporter would also like any other relevant information.

RESPONSE:

Provided Background

Government is working with our legal counsel to review the suit filed by Great Canadian Gaming Corporation (GCGC) to BC Supreme Court on Thurs., Nov. 9, 2017. In terms of the release of information, the government will defend and act on the public's right to ~~as~~ have full information as is legally possible on the alleged money laundering connected to B.C.'s gaming industry. Counsel for GCGC appeared in court today and the application injunction was adjourned generally. It would be inappropriate for the government to comment further until the matter is resolved.

The B.C. casino industry is currently the subject of an independent review being conducted by Peter German who has been appointed by the Attorney General.

Recommendation – provide on background from Ministry

“There are a number of required consultations that must be completed prior to releasing the documents. We are working to meet those obligations and release the documents as soon as possible.”

The city says the event cannot be approved due to zoning laws. The reporter would like to clarify with LCLB why the event was actually cancelled.

Background: LCLB does not work directly with the local government on these applications, but if the event is large enough, the SEP will go to local police for their approval. This SEP was approved by LCLB but not issued because the application fee was not paid and the licensed establishment where the SEP was to take place had not applied to temporarily delicense to allow for the SEP. Thanks, Neil. That is what we expect.

On another matter, I'm getting media calls. My instructions were to "abstain from public comment or academic research related to the B.C. government's survey methodology, survey results or consultation process."

Can you offer any further guidance? Am I free to comment on the larger referendum process provided I do not reveal any information concerning the preparation and implementation of the survey? For example, someone from media wants comment on whether the current debate is more partisan than in previous referenda. I assume that I'm fine to respond to such a request. He also wants to know about my advisory role, and I assume my answer is that I'm not at liberty to discuss that.

Do I have that right?

Subject: Call for Records MAG-2017-73940 Due December 6, 2017

Hello, I'm directing this Call for Records to:

- the DAG's office because the request mentions briefing notes;*
 - the Minister's office because the request mentions a meeting in other Ministers' calendars; wasn't sure if our Minister attended and/or might have records; and*
 - the Gaming Policy and Enforcement Branch as the topic is a gaming-related (BC Lottery Corp. Roundtable) for any records they may have on this roundtable.*
- please do let me know if you are aware of any other program areas that might have records, thank you.*

The Ministry of Finance also received this request.

Please find attached a Call for Records form that is electronic, fillable and saveable. The form has active links and pull-down menus. Please send your records in one PDF document, to the Justice/Social mailbox at justice.social.foi@gov.bc.ca. Thank-you.

Your Ministry has received a formal request made under the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIPPA). The request is for:

Regarding the Dec. 15, 2016, BCLC Roundtable and the Pre-Brief for BCLC Roundtable - as mentioned in calendars of Minister de Jong and DM Mentzelopoulos: The agendas and minutes, names and titles of invitees and attendees, all briefing notes, copies of presentation materials, handwritten notes, and the post-meeting report summary.

Please contact the analyst assigned to this request if you have any questions – Nicola Lutte (250) 387-2877.

What Do You Need to Do?

Please complete the attached Call for Records form.

- If search and retrieval time is anticipated to exceed 3 hours and/or the total volume of records exceeds 200 pages, complete only Sections 1 & 2 of the Call for Records Form as we may be in a position to issue a fee estimate. Then, return the form to the Justice/Social FOI Mailbox at justice.social.foi@gov.bc.ca by November 30, 2017. Please await further instruction from IAO as the records will not be required until the fee estimate process has been completed. Once fees have been paid or waived, you will be contacted to continue the call for records process. You will also be advised you if the request is abandoned and/or closed.
- If no fees apply then proceed with the call for records process. Please complete the attached Call for Records Form and return it to the Justice/Social FOI Mailbox at justice.social.foi@gov.bc.ca by December 6, 2017. Send records via email in PDF format. One PDF document is preferable. If email is not possible, please send the records in electronic format (CD, memory stick) via house mail with a copy of this note.

Reminder

You should be aware that FOIPPA obligates us to assist the applicant and to respond without delay, openly, accurately, and completely. In the event that the ministry must defend the adequacy of its search to the Information and Privacy Commissioner at Inquiry, those involved in searching for records may be required to sign affidavits confirming they have conducted an adequate search for relevant records.

Questions and Concerns

Please do not hesitate to contact your analyst noted on the attached Call for Records form to discuss:

- whether the records may be routinely releasable;
- whether the information is being prepared for public release or is already publicly available;
- ways in which an applicant may want to narrow/focus their request to reduce potential fees;
- and/or any other questions or concerns relating to this request.

Deadline 4 p.m. today

Request

The reporter has the following questions about the electoral reform engagement:

Recommendation – Provide on background from Ministry of Attorney General

Q1: Did the members of the panel of academic advisers provide their feedback in writing? If the Attorney General did not approve or sign off on the questions, who in the ministry did so?

- Ministry staff developed the questionnaire and submitted it to academic experts for review and input. Ministry staff then assessed all input and presented the questionnaire to the Attorney General for approval. Expert feedback was provided in writing to ministry staff.

Q2: Will the data collected from the survey be made public - how many answered, what were the numbers on each response and so forth - so it would be possible to gauge the level of support on each issue?

- The report will include a summary of what was heard throughout the consultation. The public engagement – including the questionnaire and the open-fields it includes to gather general commentary – is designed to stimulate consideration and gather input on many topics, including the values British Columbians hold for how ballots are structured, representatives are elected and governments are run. The questionnaire is designed to capture input on various voting systems used in B.C. and elsewhere in the world, and was informed by the design of other surveys, such as the Canadian Election Study, sponsored in part by Elections Canada.

Q3: The minister said that others will be consulted. Who will select those to be consulted, who will do the consultations, and how will that information be assembled and summarized?

- The online panel mentioned at the Nov. 23 media event is an additional method that Government's Citizen's Engagement unit uses to ensure it hears the views of British Columbians.
- The Ipsos Online panel will be made up of about 1000 citizens from around the province of varying age, gender and ethnicity who will respond to the questionnaire to ensure government hears the views and perspectives of people beyond just those who have chosen to take the questionnaire. The panel helps ensure that survey samples accurately reflect the makeup of the broader population based on Census and other reliable data.
- The panel will be administered by Ipsos through government's Citizen's Engagement team.
- This process is standard for many government public engagements.

Q4: Who will assemble the data, draw conclusions, and draft the final report to Cabinet on the public feedback?

- Government's Citizen's Engagement team will coordinate the preparation of the initial analysis of input gathered through the questionnaire, the questionnaire's open-commentary sections, and from submissions emailed by stakeholder groups, academics and citizens.
- A summary report will be provided to the Ministry of Attorney General for compilation in a report with recommendations, which will be presented to the Attorney General.
- The Attorney General will review and approve the final report and recommendations, which will be made available to the public and presented to Cabinet for debate and decision.
- The Attorney General will recuse himself from Cabinet debate and decision regarding the referendum.
- British Columbians will have the final say when they vote in the fall 2018 referendum.

Q5: Will the final report be independently vetted before it is submitted to Cabinet?

- Non-partisan public service staff will prepare the report for the Attorney General.

Deadline: ASAP

Request: The reporter is looking for information on a Chase the Ace fundraiser that was to happen in a small community near Terrace. The group received a letter from the Laxgalts'ap First Nation saying that the RCMP and Gaming BC have been monitoring social media and saw that this group was holding a fundraiser without a licence, so the group cancelled it. The fundraiser was for a basketball team to go south for a tournament.

Questions:

- What is the threshold for a community fundraiser turning into a gambling event and needing a licence? When does a local fundraiser become a local or provincial government concern?
- Is there a limit to how much can be fundraised by a group like this?
- What makes the local government get involved in community activities like this?
- What do community groups have to do to abide by government rules?

Recommendation: provide on background from Ministry

What is the threshold for a community fundraiser turning into a gambling event and needing a licence? When does a local fundraiser become a local or provincial government concern? What makes the local government get involved in community activities like this?

- Any time an organization or individual wishes to fundraise through a gambling event, they require a licence from the Gaming Policy and Enforcement Branch (GPEB). An event with gambling involves prizes, games of chance and consideration (payment to play). Chase the Ace events are considered gambling events.
- Fundraising that does not involve gambling is not regulated by GPEB.
- Chase the Ace is not currently permitted in B.C. because it does not meet the requirements of B.C.'s Standard Procedures for Ticket Raffles. These standard procedures are in place to ensure raffles are conducted lawfully and with integrity, and to protect the raffle licensee and raffle participants.

Government is considering whether to implement Chase the Ace style draws in B.C.

- GEPB is aware of a number of the Chase the Ace events that are occurring across the province illegally. The branch has been reaching out to the organizations to ask them to stop operating these events and to support them in determining what they can do to fundraise legally.
- Questions about local government process or involvement as it relates to gambling should be directed to the local government, or local RCMP.

Is there a limit to how much can be fundraised by a group like this? What do community groups have to do to abide by government rules?

- An organization planning to hold a gambling event to fundraise for the purpose of benefiting the broader community may be eligible for either a Class A, B, or D gambling event licence.
- The class of licence needed for a specific event depends on how the organization is structured, how much money is expected to be raised, the value of the prizes and the price of tickets. Class A licences are issued to organizations with gross revenue over $20,000, Class B licenses are issued to organizations with gross revenue under $20,000, and Class D licenses are issued to organizations with gross revenue under $5,000.
- For a breakdown of licence classes and other details on how to obtain a gambling licence, go to: <https://www2.gov.bc.ca/gov/content/sports-culture/gambling-fundraising/gambling-licence-fundraising>
- Gaming Policy and Enforcement Branch staff are available to help eligible groups obtain the proper licence for eligible events.

Deadline ASAP to schedule

Request

The reporter (Kathryn Abbott) would like to schedule an interview with Minister Eby (or Farnworth) to discuss ICBC's distracted driving technology pilots. The interview would be Wednesday, Nov. 28 at either 7:20, 8:20, or 8:50 a.m.

Recommendation – schedule interview

Quinn Bender, Editor

Terrace Standard

quinn@terracestandard.com

Deadline: ASAP

Request: The reporter is looking for information on a Chase the Ace fundraiser that was to happen in a small community near Terrace. The group received a letter from the Laxgalts'ap First Nation saying that the RCMP and Gaming BC have been monitoring social media and saw that this group was holding a fundraiser without a licence, so the group cancelled it. The fundraiser was for a basketball team to go south for a tournament.

Recommendation: provide on background from Ministry

Q) What is the threshold for a community fundraiser turning into a gambling event and needing a licence? When does a local fundraiser become a local or provincial government concern? What makes the local government get involved in community activities like this?

- Any time an organization or individual wishes to fundraise through a gambling event, they require a licence from the Gaming Policy and Enforcement Branch (GPEB). An event with gambling involves prizes, games of chance and consideration (payment to play). Chase the Ace events are considered gambling events.
- Fundraising that does not involve gambling is not regulated by GPEB.
- Chase the Ace is not currently permitted in B.C. because it does not meet the requirements of B.C.'s Standard Procedures for Ticket Raffles. These standard procedures are in place to ensure raffles are conducted lawfully and with integrity, and to protect the raffle licensee and raffle participants.
- Government is considering whether to implement Chase the Ace style draws in B.C.
- GPEB is aware of a number of the Chase the Ace events that are occurring across the province illegally. The branch has been reaching out to the organizations to ask them to stop operating these events and to support them in determining what they can do to fundraise legally.
- Questions about local government process or involvement as it relates to gambling should be directed to the local government, or local RCMP.

Q) Is there a limit to how much can be fundraised by a group like this? What do community groups have to do to abide by government rules?

- An organization planning to hold a gambling event to fundraise for the purpose of benefiting the broader community may be eligible for either a Class A, B, or D gambling event licence.
- The class of licence needed for a specific event depends on how the organization is structured, how much money is expected to be raised, the value of the prizes and the price of tickets. Class A licences are issued to organizations with gross revenue over $20,000, Class B licenses are issued to organizations with gross revenue under $20,000, and Class D licenses are issued to organizations with gross revenue under $5,000.
- For a breakdown of licence classes and other details on how to obtain a gambling licence, go to: <https://www2.gov.bc.ca/gov/content/sports-culture/gambling-fundraising/gambling-licence-fundraising>
- Gaming Policy and Enforcement Branch staff are available to help eligible groups obtain the proper licence for eligible events.

Recommendation – Provide Statement from Minister

- The idea that British Columbians will elect Nazis if the provincial voting system changes is absurd at best. At worst, it's an attempt to stop people from participating in the important policy discussion taking place in our province about how we elect representatives to go to Victoria.
- We have a very broad consultation underway with British Columbians about what the ballot question should be, and how the referendum should run.
- During the referendum itself, British Columbians will decide whether to keep our current system, or transition to a new system.
- I encourage all British Columbians to participate in the consultation process we have underway, to engage in debate about the benefits and drawbacks of different electoral systems, and ultimately, to vote in the referendum.

Minister Darcy,

My name is Francesca Marzari. We met many years ago when you were running to be our candidate in Vancouver Fairview. Much has changed since then, including the exciting creation of a Ministry of Mental Health and Addictions, and your appointment as its Minister.^{s.22}

As for me, I am still very much involved in the work of West Coast LEAF (I was president of this organization for a few years) and I am now on the Government Relations Committee of the Canadian Bar Association, BC Branch (CBA BC). It is in the latter capacity that I write to you to request a meeting to discuss legal aid with you.

The expansion of the legal aid program and its proper funding is not just an issue for the justice system. For many individuals with mental health and addictions issues, accessing the criminal court is not the problem, but finding justice is. Those members of our criminal defence bar willing to work within our entirely underfunded legal aid system are on the front lines of a crisis, and they are falling fast. I am not one of these lawyers (I act for local governments-a passion of my mother's as well) but I know that those who continue to do legal aid work do so only because they are passionate about ensuring that those who cannot afford legal counsel receive the advocacy they require. The number of hours and the hourly rate allocated for this work through legal aid (increased only once since 1991) does not come close to what is actually required to properly represent most of these individuals, and the system is not sustainable.

Legal aid child protection, criminal and family law clients are disproportionately First Nations as a result of poverty and other circumstances. Over 70% of family law clients are women. Many legal aid clients have mental health and addictions issues. Any strategy designed to address inequality, poverty, mental illness and addiction needs to also consider how these individuals interact with our justice system, and ensure that there is someone there advocating for them to get into rehabilitation programs, to have their First Nations culture and history recognized and considered, to find restorative justice solutions, and to support women and their children.

I would truly appreciate an opportunity to meet with you to discuss these priorities in the next few weeks. You can reach me at the above email address, at the office below, or on my cell at ^{s.22}

Please take a look at the highlighted changes below to make sure I understand what you had requested:

Government to undertake in-depth file review to identify waste and overbilling, find savings at ICBC

VICTORIA – The Government of B.C. has selected PwC Canada to lead an operational review of ICBC to identify waste, ways to prevent fraud and overbilling, and identify opportunities for business reform at the crown corporation. The review includes selecting 100 random files for a comprehensive review, similar to a financial audit, but directed at business practices and aimed at cutting out waste, overbilling, and poor cost controls.

“This is one of the many actions we are taking so that the people of B.C. can have confidence in and continue to benefit from ICBC, one of our most important public assets,” said Attorney General David Eby. “Surprisingly, this is the first review of ICBC we’re aware of that directs the reviewers to talk to front line employees about where they see waste, fraud, overbilling, or other opportunities for reform. We are leaving no stone unturned in this review.”

Following a competitive process, PwC Canada was selected to conduct an evidence-based operational review of ICBC to identify opportunities to reduce costs at the insurer, which lost almost half a billion dollars last year. Any recommendations PwC Canada makes in these areas are also to consider how to maintain or improve the quality of service levels for ICBC’s customers.

“The ICBC board and all senior management are committed to working alongside government to make sure action is taken as quickly as possible to bring about long-term, sustainable improvements at ICBC,” said ICBC board chair Joy MacPhail. “The resulting solutions we want to see must be focused on striking the balance between relieving the cost pressures on ICBC while ensuring improved services and affordable rates for all British Columbians.”

In conducting this review, PwC Canada will look at all previous reports and recommendations related to the financial management and reporting of ICBC from the last five years, and will review approaches in other jurisdictions and segments within the insurance industry related to ICBC’s various business lines.

“ICBC will not be back on the road to financial sustainability or in a position to provide affordable rates to British Columbians without major changes at every level. These are changes that the previous administration was afraid to confront, and now ratepayers are on the hook for losses in the hundreds of millions of dollars,” said Eby. “We must act urgently, because major rate increases are not an option.”

A final report will be submitted to Government in early 2018. The report will be made public at that time.

Can you please push ahead the announcement of Mark's appointment, wherever that is. He needs to be out of the closet, and it's something we're proud of doing to improve industry/government relationships and policy reform. I'm worried I'll have to announce him in QP in response to a Comeau question. It would be good too if you could work with him to develop stakeholder outreach plan so that industry stakeholders get personal calls from him so that they know what we're doing on this file to ensure industry voices are heard.

Subject: ILP: FLIGHT DETAILS

Hello there,

Regarding your flights to London, we have identified the following flight as probably being the best option:

LEAVE: Saturday Jan. 13

British Airways 84

9:10 PM – 2:30 PM (9h 20m flight) – Sunday pm arrival

RETURN: Wednesday Jan. 24

British Airways 85

5:30 PM – 7:10 PM (9h 40m flight)

Unfortunately, because of the time difference, leaving on a Saturday does mean that you won't arrive until Sunday. You'll have a few hours to rest before the dinner and, hopefully, might get some sleep on the flight too. Would these flights work for you? If so, we'll go ahead and make the booking.

Hi Minister Eby

I have a constituency case that I have been working on for the past few months but am unable to access the information required.

Basically there is a drug house in my community that has in Civil Forfeiture but for some reason has case has been cancelled and no new date for the hearing has been set. I have included some details in the PDF included and have a lot more details if required.

I have tried to handle the case the best I can from my end but really could use your or your EA's assistance. Please take a minute to review the PDF as it best explains the situation.

Please see below for latest draft. Minister Heyman is reviewing it simultaneously.

Nancy Brown and both Comms have made edits:

Government to participate in NEB hearing regarding City of Burnaby

VICTORIA – The government will appear before the National Energy Board (NEB) on constitutional issues relating to Trans Mountain work at the Burnaby and Westridge Marine Terminals. Trans Mountain is asking the NEB to approve commencement of terminal work notwithstanding Trans Mountain has not obtained preliminary plan approvals under Burnaby's zoning bylaw or a tree cutting permit under Burnaby's tree bylaw, as currently required by conditions on federal approvals of the project.

"While this is a direct matter between the company and the City of Burnaby, the constitutional issues raised may result in restricting the B.C.'s involvement in defending provincial interests in the future," said Attorney General David Eby. "That is why we have advised the NEB that the Province of B.C. will be participating in this hearing."

Thomas Berger, QC, on behalf of the government, has asked the NEB to dismiss outright Trans Mountain's suggestion of abridged timelines for future applications by Trans Mountain to challenge decisions of municipalities and the Province in relation to permits for the project. This position is taken to ensure the Province has adequate opportunity to defend its decisions in future.

"We have been clear and consistent that we will use every tool available to defend B.C.'s coast; and that is what we're doing", said Environment Minister George Heyman. "One of our first steps was to appear as interveners in the Federal Court of Appeal hearing. We've also passed initial regulations to increase responsibility, transparency and accountability for those who move potentially dangerous liquid petroleum products through our province. We will continue to pursue ways to defend the interests of British Columbians against this unnecessary project".

A date for the NEB hearing has not yet been set.

Blain,

I was just made aware that one of our employees has miscommunicated the "Spec Delivery" holiday timelines. Based on this incorrect interpretation of information shared at the Able Conference, I understand this has caused quite a bit of unnecessary noise for the BCLS wholesale channel. I wanted you to be aware that I am treating this matter seriously and have addressed the seriousness of the issue directly with my management team and the employee in question. We have reissued the correct information to the customers she previously contacted, and I see through Able you have done the same.

On behalf of our company I would like to apologize for this miscommunication and ensure you it will not happen again.

Over the last 6 months we have developed a strong partnership with Todd and his team and have made a lot of strides forward through strong collaboration. We remain committed to our partnership with BCLS wholesale.

If you would like to discuss this matter further do not hesitate to reach out directly.

My sincerest apologies.

Request

Would like information about the Family Rules Project, where it stands, background. Also if there is a reaction to the open letter to the AG from Battered Women's Support Services.

Recommendation: Provide on background

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->The Ministry of the Attorney General, in collaboration with the Office of the Chief Judge of the Provincial Court, is working to reform the Provincial Court Family Rules, their processes and forms.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->When the Family Law Act (FLA) was enacted, the Provincial Court (Family) Rules were amended to bring them in line with the provisions of the FLA. The amendments to the rules at that time did not reform the family court rules or family court processes beyond the minimum necessary to align the rules with the new Act.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->The Ministry at the time along with the Provincial Court committed to a second phase of family court rules reform to encompass a more wide-ranging review. This commitment was the impetus for the Provincial Court (Family) Rules Reform Project

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->The purpose of the project is to transform the family court process, rules and forms to embrace the vision and direction articulated in the National Action Committee on Access to Justice Report on Access to Civil and Family Justice.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->Specifically, the project aims to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the family court process for people who take their legal issues to family court, and to reflect that process in court rules and forms that are easy for the public to understand and use.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->As part of this process, a conceptual model has been developed and draft rules are being prepared.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->The Ministry invited Battered Women’s Support Services (BWSS), along with others to join in the dialogue through an early engagement process.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->This will be followed by broader public consultation when the draft rules are complete.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->The Minister has reviewed the concerns raised by BWSS, and will be requesting a meeting with them to discuss those concerns further.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->The Ministry welcomes all feedback to ensure that the opinions of everyone who works in the field will be represented.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->We will continue to work with all groups and communities to ensure the development of a model that is accessible and safe for the families of British Columbia.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->? <!--[endif]-->We must ensure that families have available to them appropriate ways of resolving their disputes and that our court system is fair, timely and available to those that need it most.

Wilkinson (Quilchena) – Same day as your speech –

“Of course, the benefits spin out of this in large numbers. These have already been alluded to, but they never will suffer from repetition. Royalty revenue of $3.64 billion; LNG income taxes, nearly $700 million; carbon taxes of $1.16 billion; corporate income tax of $1.2 billion; provincial sales tax of $1.26 billion; motor fuel tax of $462 million; and property tax of $253 million. Let’s not forget that these are recurring. That property tax is paid every year into communities along the pipeline routes.

Throness – Same day as your speech on Pacific LNG (now cancelled)(

We’ve addressed construction and operation costs as the first great $46 billion Canadian benefit. As the second great benefit to British Columbians as part of this deal, allow me to talk for a moment about revenue. In addition to construction and operation, there will be a stream of revenue made up of taxes and royalties over the next 15 years right through to 2030. We can estimate how much that will be. Officials have projected it, and the amount is $8.6 billion over that period of time.

That amount alone would pay off a quarter of our taxpayer-supported debt. That’s a massive amount of revenue. Taken year over year, it would be about $575 million per year. It’s approaching the amount we take in from forestry every year and much more than we take in from mining, for instance, or natural gas revenues every year.

It would be my preference, of course, in the future that we reduce public debt with the majority of that money. But think of the immense and wonderful things that we could do with that kind of revenue right through to 2030.

AGRI's lines for Thursday

- Since I was appointed the new agriculture minister in July, I have been clear that we need to look at levelling the playing field for B.C.'s alcohol producing sectors.
- Preserving B.C.'s Agricultural Land Reserve for farming is a top priority. At the same time, we want to look at innovative opportunities to support and grow our province's emerging craft alcohol sector.
- Small businesses are the heart and soul of our province and I have heard directly from the owners of breweries, distilleries and meaderies looking to have parity with their colleagues in the sector.

- s.13

DRAFT: Even field for ALR alcohol producers opens the door to more BC farming

VICTORIA – A change in regulations has all alcohol producers in the Agricultural Land Reserve operating under the same rules, and offers new support for B.C. brewers, meaderies and distillers, as well as new opportunities for B.C. farmers.

“These changes reflect our commitment to make B.C. better for farmers and food and beverage makers,” said Minister of Agriculture Lana Popham. “We have heard loud and clear from local governments, the B.C. Chamber of Commerce and industry that these changes were needed to make things fair and equitable, and to support opportunities for growth in B.C. agriculture.”

The updated regulation results in all alcohol producers operating in the ALR being required to at a minimum, source at least 50% of the primary farm product used in their alcohol (grapes for wine, barley for beer) from their and other B.C. farms, which could create demand for more B.C. barley, honey, and grains.

Quote from Chamber of Commerce

Minor amendments made to the Agricultural Land Reserve and Subdivision Regulation require breweries, distilleries, meaderies, wineries and cideries operating in the ALR to either (a) produce at least 50 percent of the primary farm product used to make the alcohol on the farm where the production facility is located; or (b) if the farm on which the facility is located is at least two hectares in area, produce at least 50 percent of the farm product on that farm and/or under a three-year minimum term contract with another B.C. farm. Businesses who do not meet the Regulation's requirements can still submit an application to the Agricultural Land Commission for consideration.

Quote from Ken Beattie –Craft Brewers Guild

The change amends 2015 legislation which created different rules for wineries and cideries than other alcohol producers, and led to calls for policy change from the B.C. Chamber of Commerce, the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, and the Craft Distillers Guild.

Subject: WCCAS Members Meeting - Vancouver - 25 November 2017

Dear Ms. Nanninga:

At Jonathan Eades' suggestion, I am writing to extend an invitation to the Attorney General to attend the 2017 members' meeting for the Western Canada Commercial Arbitration Society (WCCAS). I currently serve as President of WCCAS, and for the last several years we have been privileged to have the prior Attorney General as well as Ms. Eades join us for a portion of our annual members' meeting. WCCAS typically organizes a public arbitration-related conference every May in Calgary, plus a members and guests only meeting in Vancouver every November. This year's members' meeting has been set for Saturday, 25 November 2017, at the Fairmont Waterfront Hotel in Vancouver.

We are expecting another good turnout of the leading commercial arbitrators in Western Canada, and look forward to a stimulating program that touches on current issues in both domestic and international commercial arbitration. Some additional background on WCCAS may be found on its website here: <https://wccas.ca/>.

It would be wonderful to have the Minister or Mr. Eades or both join us for as much of the day as they are able. The first hour or so of the day is devoted to member business – financials, new members, etc. – but the Minister and Mr. Eades would be welcome for the balance of the day thereafter. We do have a dinner in the evening as well, and should one or both be willing to attend as our guests they would also be most welcome. We certainly appreciate that in these early days the Minister is very busy and has an important agenda that may not emphasize arbitration to an extent that would warrant his attendance. If this is not the year to host him, we will hope to do so in future years. But if either he or Mr. Eades (or both) are interested in attending, we would welcome their participation.

Perhaps you could let me know the Minister's thinking once he has had a chance to consider. It remains early days in terms of putting the program together and so if there were topics or speakers that would increase the chances of coaxing the Minister and Mr. Eades across the water do please let me know.

Thank you in advance and I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,

Angus M. Gunn QC

That's strange that the location is not showing up.....although I just received and added those details in yesterday.

Let me know if they still aren't showing up for you...might be a glitch in the event and I can delete and redo. I've had that happen before where attachments won't show up and Brett says sometimes there is a glitch and you just have to delete it and create a new one.

Dear Mr. Horgan

As a follow-up to my earlier email, I thought it would be helpful to provide you with our research on Site C.

In addition to the 5 reports available on our website, our team has made 5 submissions to the BCUC Site C Inquiry (available at <http://www.sitecinquiry.com/submissions-and-comments/>), all of which indicate that Site C is significantly more expensive than the alternatives (notably wind and solar).

Our research also indicates that Site C is not "cleaner" or "greener" than the alternatives. Specifically: our research finds that the alternative portfolio (which includes wind energy) presented by BC Hydro would produce no more greenhouse gas emissions than the Site C project while having significantly lower environmental impacts. (<https://watergovernance.ca/files/2017/03/Report-4-Site-C-Comparative-GHG-analysis.pdf>)

I would be happy to discuss this research with you or your colleagues, and I've included some more details below.

Best,

Karen

Our report finds that the alternative portfolio (which includes wind energy) presented by BC Hydro would produce no more greenhouse gas emissions than the Site C project while having significantly lower environmental impacts.

(<https://watergovernance.ca/files/2017/03/Report-4-Site-C-Comparative-GHG-analysis.pdf>)

An earlier report we did compared Site C's environmental impacts (as determined by the Joint Review Panel) to all other projects ever approved under the history of the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act. That analysis found that Site C had the highest number of impacts since the inception of CEAA (1992). This includes impacts on dozens of species, aquatics, vegetation, wildlife, Aboriginal use of lands and resources, and cultural heritage.

(<https://watergovernance.ca/files/2017/03/Briefing-Note-2-Site-C-Environmental-Effects.pdf>)

Why is this significant? You may remember that the previous government stated that the unprecedented number of significant adverse environmental effects from Site C was justifiable, in part, because the project delivers energy and capacity at lower GHG emissions than the available alternatives. Our analysis indicates this is not the case. In summary, the Site C Project is not "cleaner" or "greener" than the alternatives.

Our analysis uses data prepared by BC Hydro and compares the difference in greenhouse gas emissions between the Site C Project and an optimization of an Alternative Portfolio initially put forward by BC Hydro (which includes wind energy). The difference in lifecycle greenhouse emissions is estimated to be significantly less than 1% of BC's current emissions.

Note: the Joint Review Panel commissioned by the federal and provincial governments to conduct an environmental assessment of the Site C Project was not able to conduct a comparative analysis of greenhouse gas emissions because of limited time and resources. Our report thus fills an important information gap.

Our report also questions the potential for exporting Site C energy to Alberta. The relatively high cost of Site C energy (compared to other renewables such as wind and solar) is likely dampen export opportunities, particularly given the rapidly declining cost of other renewables. Site C is simply too expensive when compared with cheaper alternatives that Alberta is now pursuing, including wind and solar.

The report was independently reviewed by leading academics: Dr. Arthur Fredeen (UNBC) and Dr. Norman Mousseau (Université de Montreal).

Hello, please note that the Ministry of Citizens' Services and the Ministry of Finance also received this request.

Please find attached a Call for Records form that is electronic, fillable and saveable. The form has active links and pull-down menus. Please send your records in one PDF document, to the Justice/Social mailbox at justice.social.foi@gov.bc.ca. Thank-you.

Your Ministry has received a formal request made under the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIPPA). The request is for:

Regarding the quarterly reports to the Minister on implementation of the government's anti-money laundering strategy: All briefing notes and issues notes related to the reports. (Date Range for Record Search: From 10/01/2016 To 10/11/2017).

Please contact the analyst assigned to this request if you have any questions – Elizabeth Horn (250) 387-9172.

What Do You Need to Do?

Please complete the attached Call for Records form.

- If search and retrieval time is anticipated to exceed 3 hours and/or the total volume of records exceeds 200 pages, complete only Sections 1 & 2 of the Call for Records Form as we may be in a position to issue a fee estimate. Then, return the form to the Justice/Social FOI Mailbox at justice.social.foi@gov.bc.ca by November 22, 2017. Please await further instruction from IAO as the records will not be required until the fee estimate process has been completed. Once fees have been paid or waived, you will be contacted to continue the call for records process. You will also be advised you if the request is abandoned and/or closed.
- If no fees apply then proceed with the call for records process. Please complete the attached Call for Records Form and return it to the Justice/Social FOI Mailbox at justice.social.foi@gov.bc.ca by November 28, 2017. Send records via email in PDF format. One PDF document is preferable. If email is not possible, please send the records in electronic format (CD, memory stick) via house mail with a copy of this note.

Reminder

You should be aware that FOIPPA obligates us to assist the applicant and to respond without delay, openly, accurately, and completely. In the event that the ministry must defend the adequacy of its search to the Information and Privacy Commissioner at Inquiry, those involved in searching for records may be required to sign affidavits confirming they have conducted an adequate search for relevant records.

Questions and Concerns

Please do not hesitate to contact your analyst noted on the attached Call for Records form to discuss:

- whether the records may be routinely releasable;
- whether the information is being prepared for public release or is already publicly available;
- ways in which an applicant may want to narrow/focus their request to reduce potential fees;
- and/or any other questions or concerns relating to this request.
