I wonder if you could please meet/have a phone call with my constituents who are very articulate people and have some insight with respect to the illegal Airbnb situations where people are 'renting' multiple apartments/houses as 'renters' but in fact using them for Airbnb purposes. This is contributing to low rental vacancies.
My constituents have been trying to meet with you or your staff but have not been able to do so (see chain below). Their efforts with municipalities have also given them insights which might be helpful to you.
Could you please meet with them.
Many thanks,

Hi Lisa,

Thank you for your reply.

As the Minister is unable to meet with us, we would like to request to have this meeting with the next most appropriate staff member in the Minister's office.

We appreciate your recommendation to contact local governments. We have tried to connect with the municipalities whom we know have the largest number of illegal AirBnB's. We have learned during this process, that the municipalities do not have the capacity to deal with the problem effectively. We have also learned that one of their initiatives is to fine the landlords if/when an illegal AirBnB is identified. Unfortunately, this strategy applies no active deterrent for those operating the illegal AirBnB.

The Municipalities have gone public with this issue and make no secret about not having the resources to deal this issue in a proactive manner. As housing is a provincial matter, it would seem appropriate that the Ministry become acutely aware of the problem and any possible solutions.

Look forward to hearing from you.

Unfortunately, Minister Robinson is unable to attend a meeting at this time due to a large volume of meeting requests and an oversubscribed schedule. She would like to encourage you to contact your local government to discuss Air BnB units.

Hi Lisa,

In short, we wish to discuss with the Minister strategies on how we can help shut down the reported 21,000 illegal AirBnB's thus increasing the rental stock by 21,000 units.

We are currently working with some landlords and property managers but our reach could extend much further if we worked with the Ministry of Housing with a focused approach to resolve the issue potentially in partnership with the Municipalities.

The City of Vancouver has gone public with the problem and have acknowledged they do not have the resources to deal with it.
