Dear Minister Heyman,

First off, congratulations on your appointment as Minister of Environment and Climate Change Strategy.

I'm getting in touch to request a meeting with you on behalf of Leadnow. Leadnow has 5399 members who live in Vancouver Fairview, and we'd like to sit down with you to share some of the Leadnow community's top priorities for the new government.

There will be 1-2 Leadnow staff, and 1-2 Leadnow members who are constituents in Vancouver Fairview who would be joining the meeting.

Let us know when you will be in the riding, and available to meet.

Thanks!
Jolan

Hi Kirsten

Is it possible to meet with the Minister when he is Vancouver? Getting to Victoria is a bit challenging.

Best,

Lyndsay

xic fish farms are putting BC's wild salmon at risk.

now and call on John Horgan to get fish farms out of BC waters.

BC's wild salmon are in danger.

Fish farms in the Broughton Archipelago are poisoning vital water sources and spreading deadly diseases to wild salmon -- putting Indigenous communities and over a hundred species at risk. [1][2]

The BC government has the power to stop this. They control land tenures for fish farms, and could cancel permits or refuse to renew leases with fish farm owners. [3] But so far, they haven't taken any concrete action.

Our friends at Cleansing Our Waters have launched a petition calling on Premier John Horgan and BC Minister of Agriculture Lana Popham to cancel all fish farm permits in the Broughton Archipelago. They're going to deliver the petition directly to John Horgan tomorrow, but before they do, we need as many people as possible to sign on and support their call to remove open-net fish farms from their waters.

With every day that passes, diseases and viruses from fish farms spread to more and more wild salmon. Sign the petition now, and call on the BC government to end open-net salmon farming in the Broughton Archipelago before it's too late.

SIGN NOW

The Mamalilikala, Namgis, and Musgamagw Dzawada'enuxw do not consent to the operation of fish farms in their territories. For months, salmon protectors have been peacefully occupying fish farms, facing massive storms, corporate intimidation and even legal challenges. [4]

This week, they have a meeting with the BC NDP to discuss the future of fish farming in their waters. If they can show the government that they have the support of thousands of people across BC, it could be enough to tip the scales, and force the government to shut the fish farms down altogether.

Over 5,000 people have already signed, and we have one last shot to make this petition as big as possible before it's delivered tomorrow.

Will you sign the petition now, and call on the BC NDP to take action before any more salmon are infected?

SIGN NOW

When the BC NDP were elected, they promised to uphold the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples -- but granting licenses to fish farm owners without the consent of Mamalilikala, Namgis, and Musgamagw Dzawada'enuxw communities is in direct violation of it.

[6] Talk is cheap, and the BC government needs to take action now to protect wild salmon and Indigenous rights.
