Dear Ryan,

The short answer is that we will be working with the Ministry of Energy, Mines and Petroleum Resources to improve access to EV charging across BC for both personal and commercial vehicles as well as measures to increase conversion to zero emission vehicles. Our new Climate Solutions and Clean Growth Advisory Committee will be helping us define and implement priorities on this and other climate actions.

Best regards

Hey George,

Weren't we just talking about this :)! The answer we want to give on this question is YES! There should be a committee struck to explore how $10 million could build 100 level 3 chargers a year in BC.

I know this is a tough time to talk to BC Hydro about anything but I would like to believe there is someone over there who would welcome a new funded program that is going to be a cash cow for them down the road.

MP Richard Cannings informed me that there is $80 or $90 Million available from the Feds for this nationally.

How do we kick start the process before it becomes an idea owned by the Green Party.

Cheers!

Ryan

December 7, 2017

Dear Premier John Horgan, Minister of Environment George Heyman and Andrew Weaver, Leader of the Green Party

With December 1st marking the end of grizzly bear hunting in the Great Bear Rainforest (it should be extended to the whole province), hopefully a new era has dawned in British Columbia, and I thank you for bringing it about. However, another dark cloud looms on the horizon for those who love wildlife. You are planning to use conservation officers to police the new regulations which I guess are being drawn up. They have to be policed by someone and I suppose conservation officers are the logical choice – except that some of these officers I'm told happen to be trophy hunters. As well, the recruitment ad is designed to appeal to the love of killing that some people have. And 500 bears (grizzly and black) being killed as "nuisance bears" is way too many. I would consider this akin in some ways to the way some police officers have been killing young black men in the United States. For this reason, any one applying for the job as "conservation (?) officer" must be thoroughly vetted to make sure s/he is not this kind of person.

The second issue seems to be that there is no real enforcement of the laws against improper food handling, a major factor in wildlife getting into trouble with humans. This includes careless disposal of garbage, failure to pick up fruit from fruit trees, not properly fencing in or otherwise protecting cattle and other livestock – and, in some cases, deliberate feeding. Conservation officers would be making better use of their time monitoring these things and prosecuting violators with hefty fines or even jail time. And proper wildlife etiquette should be taught in schools. Too much attention has been given to dead politicians and not enough to the live things around us, human and non human.

Many of us voted for both your parties in hopes that you would give more attention to wildlife and the environment, as stated in your campaigns. Please do not disappoint.

The best way to protect people from being harmed by wildlife is to protect wildlife from being harmed by people. Please make this a cornerstone of your wildlife policy.

Thank you.

PREPARED FOR: Honourable George Heyman, Minister of Environment

DATE AND TIME OF MEETING: 2:30 PM, January 24, 2018

ATTENDEES: MLA Sonia Fursteneau representing the Green Party caucus

ISSUE: Update on Revitalization

BACKGROUND:

- Government has committed to fully implementing the United Nations Declaration on Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP), the recommendations of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission Report (TRC), and the Tsilhqot'in Nation v BC decision of the Supreme Court of Canada.
- In Fall 2017, the Environmental and Land Use Committee (ELUC) endorsed the Minister of Environment and Climate Change Strategy to work collaboratively with Indigenous groups to identify priority Environmental Assessment (EA) Revitalization recommendations to pursue and implement government's commitments.
- The three objectives of EA Revitalization were confirmed to be:
 - Enhance public confidence
 - Pursue reconciliation
 - Protect the environment while supporting sustainable economic growth

DISCUSSION:

- The Environmental Assessment Office (EAO) has been working collaboratively on behalf of the Minister with the First Nations Energy and Mining Council (FNEMC) to develop a process for reaching consensus on recommendations for a revitalized EA process.
- This process would be jointly administered by the EAO and FNEMC, to inform the Minister and the First Nations Leadership Council (FNLC) in making decisions on proposed changes to the EA process.

Proposed Schedule:

- February to April;
 - First Nations engagement – the EAO and FNEMC will host regional workshops, providing an opportunity for all 203 First Nations to participate in EA Revitalization.
 - EA Advisory Committee – the EAO and FNEMC will establish an EA Advisory Committee to advise on the EA Revitalization goals of enhancing public confidence, protecting the environment and supporting economic growth.
 - Other engagements – the EAO will seek input from stakeholders groups, government agencies, local governments and the federal government.
- May: Draft issues paper for public comment, based on engagements.
- June: Public Comment Period – public engagement and submissions on issues paper.
- Summer: Draft “what we heard” document and Intentions Paper on proposed changes to revitalize the EA process;
 - Joint report to Chiefs-Cabinet table on proposed reforms.
 - Presentation at First Nations Gathering on proposed reforms.
 - Development of Request for Legislation.
- Target date for introduction of a new legislative/regulatory framework proposal is Fall 2018.

Dependencies:

- Continued need to align with processes for other Provincial mandate priorities (e.g. land use planning; species at risk legislation and climate action plan).
- Continued need for flexibility in timeline to ensure that all First Nations, local communities and governments and the broader public are provided with an opportunity to meaningfully engage in, and influence the EA.

Subject: Scrap-It and Electric Vehicles (EV) meeting with MLAs Adam Olsen and Sonia Furstenau on January 24 at 4:00pm

Issue/Background:

- The purpose of the meeting is to discuss electric vehicle incentives and accessibility of the BC Scrap-It Program to independent EV dealers.
- The Ministry of Energy, Mines & Petroleum Resources (EMPR) is responsible for the Clean Energy Vehicle (CEV) Program and it is intended to accelerate the adoption of CEVs in BC. It is recommended that related inquiries be addressed to Minister Mungall as well.
- Issues raised by MLA Olsen are:
 - The limited availability of the Scrap-It program, making it a barrier for people to make a shift to EV vehicles.
 - The fact that many retailers are not eligible for the program, concentrating the market on just a few dealerships.
- The BC Scrap-It Program is a not-for-profit society, not a provincial program. The original program design (back in 1996) did not involve provincial government funding.
- When the program initially searched for partners that would provide funding the New Car Dealers Association (NCDA) was one of the few entities or associations that chose to be a part of the program.
- Scrap-It also receives financial support from carbon credits allocated to them by a legal agreement between a fuel supplier (Shell) and EMPR. This is a mechanism fuel suppliers can use to comply with BC's Low Carbon Fuel Standard (LCFS) under the Renewable and Low Carbon Fuel Requirements Regulation. However, Scrap-It GHG reductions resulting from their program are low and not necessarily meeting the intentions of the LCFS.
- According to Scrap-It, they can only allocate 1,000 incentives for new cars and only 250 for used cars. There are approximately 125 NCDA dealers that sell used cars.

- The provincially funded CEV program only provides incentives for new cars.

s.13

- The independent dealership at MLA Olsen's riding (Motorize) is not eligible for the program as they are not a member of the NCDA.
- The Province is aware of the challenges encouraging the development of the CEV market and is taking action to address them. Challenges include the limited supply of CEVs, current incentive programs being oversubscribed, and the need to encourage more regional supply from dealers to increase sales.
- Both the Pan Canadian Framework (PCF) and the Federal Budget 2017 include commitments with respect to CEV.
- The National ZEV strategy has a scrappage program as an option for consideration.
- The Province is currently working on identifying investment opportunities under the PCF and federal budget that support CEV infrastructure.
- EMPR is also exploring options to have a Provincial fleet initiative to encourage CEV adoption; and along with partners at the Pacific Coast Collaborative (PCC), is analysing the development of investment criteria to inform new EV charging infrastructure decisions.
- In the September 2017 Budget Update the Province committed $40 million to continue the CEV Program. This funding will support fuelling and charging infrastructure, research, public awareness, and incentive programs for CEVs.

Dear Minister Heyman,

I am writing you today regarding incentives for electric vehicles. Currently British Columbia has the SCRAP-IT program, which is a voluntary early retirement vehicle program that provides incentives to help British Columbians replace higher polluting vehicles with cleaner forms of transportation. This is administered through a not-for-profit society and is only available in a limited quantity at specific dealerships.

For consumers purchasing an electric vehicle can be more cost-effective than maintaining a gas-powered vehicle and have a positive impact on the environment. Many British Columbians would like to switch to an electric vehicle, but find cost to be a barrier. Because of the limited availability of this incentive program, people are not able to make the switch unless they live near one of the dealerships included in the program.

This raises an additional concern regarding dealers. In my riding electric vehicles, both new and used, are available through local, independent retailers. However, these retailers are not eligible for the SCRAP-IT program and are losing business to the larger corporations that are included. This is slowing the growth of electric vehicle owners by keeping the market concentrated on a few dealerships and pushing others out of the market.

I ask that you look at how to make incentives for electric vehicles accessible across the province and applicable at all licensed dealerships under the Vehicle Sales Authority of British Columbia.

Adam Olsen

ISSUE: Professional Reliance Review briefing with Green Caucus January 31, 2018

BACKGROUND:

The Ministry of Environment and Climate Change Strategy is conducting a review of the professional reliance model in the natural resource sector to ensure the highest professional, technical and ethical standards are being applied to resource management in BC. This review is a priority for government and is contained in the Minister's mandate letter, and in the Confidence and Supply Agreement with the Green Caucus.

The objectives of this review are to make recommendations on:

- Whether professional associations that oversee qualified professionals employ best practices to protect the public interest;
- Whether government oversight of professional associations is adequate, and;
- Conditions governing the involvement of qualified professionals in government's resource management decisions and the appropriate level of government oversight to assure the public and their interests are protected.

DISCUSSION:

This project consists of five components:

1. A compliance audit of professional associations;
2. Appropriateness and effectiveness assessments of natural resource regulatory regimes;
3. Public engagement;
4. A jurisdictional/sectoral scan; and
5. A final report with recommendations.

The compliance audit of the professional associations is looking at the Engineers and Geoscientists of BC, Association of BC Forest Professionals, BC Institute of Agrologists, College of Applied Biology, and the Applied Science Technologists and Technicians of BC. Final compliance audit reports are being developed for each of these associations based on day long interviews, association submissions, and other available information. Reports will be finalized by March 1, 2018.

The appropriateness and effectiveness assessments for 36 natural resource regulatory regimes where qualified professionals are relied upon is intended to evaluate whether there are decisions being made by qualified professionals that should be held within government, and if there are effective checks and balances to protect the public interest. The project team is currently conducting interviews with staff across the natural resource ministries as part of the assessment process. Assessments for all 36 high priority regulatory regimes will be complete by February 28th, 2018.

Public engagement through the EngageBC portal closed on January 19th, 2018. Submission numbers and results are still being finalized and collated to form a public engagement report, however currently, public engagement included:

- 9,500+ website visits including 500+ views of Minister Heyman’s video on professional reliance;
- 2,400+ public surveys completed;
- 100+ stakeholder submissions;
- 300+ citizen submissions.

Several engagement activities are still active include:

- A survey for qualified professionals that remains open until January 27th (1,600 responses to date);
- Ongoing stakeholder interviews (over two dozen completed to date);
- An invitation has been sent to every First Nation in the province to be interviewed by the project team (interviews currently being scheduled).

The Jurisdictional/sectoral scan is currently being conducted to identify best practices in professional reliance models in other jurisdictions and sectors. This scan will be complete by February 28th, 2018.

The final report with recommendations will be informed by the products from the other components of this review (five association compliance audits, appropriateness and effectiveness assessments of natural resource regulatory regimes, public engagement final report, jurisdictional/sector scan). The report will be completed by spring 2018 and submitted to Minister Heyman, and a release to the public.

NEXT STEPS:

- Compliance audit reports for the five professional associations in scope for this review will be complete by March 1, 2018.
- 36 appropriateness and effectiveness assessment will be complete by February 28, 2018.
- A public engagement final report will be complete by February 28, 2018.
- A jurisdictional/sectoral scan will be complete by February 28, 2018.
- A final report with recommendations will be complete by spring 2018.

Subject: RE: Green Q on Steelhead stocks
Date: Monday, February 19, 2018 09:11:13

This is what we have:

- COSEWIC (an independent science panel), has recently identified many salmon and steelhead populations in the Fraser River to be at risk of extinction.
 - We have begun planning for their recovery with FLNR and AGRI the federal government, and the people of BC.
 - My ministry has been working to provide science advice for informing management decisions on reducing impacts in the short-term, and understanding reasons for the decline and finding long-term solutions.
 - Recovery of the Thompson and Chilcotin steelhead, and the other salmon in the Fraser watershed will take effort from all of us over the long-term, as will the recovery of all the salmonids in the Fraser watershed.

Subject: Green Q on Steelhead stocks

The Greens are going to ask about what the government is doing to respond to the COSEWIC conclusion that steelhead trout in the Thompson and Chilcotin river systems are seriously threatened and should be listed under the federal Species at Risk Act.

Do we have any background we could use in crafting a response?

Not sure which Minister will take the Q yet.

COSEWIC release (Feb 13): <https://www.newswire.ca/news-releases/emergency-assessment-concludes-that-bcs-interior-steelhead-trout-at-risk-of-extinction-673950263.html>

Olsen also sent the attached letter to FLNRORD, MOE, MA and MIRR on the topic in December.

Would we have materials prepared for a response?

Date: Monday, February 19, 2018 10:37:09

Hi,

Just wanted to confirm the actions I had noted from RT this morning. Does this reflect what you heard as well?

1. Friday, Feb 23 - 70th Annual Forestry Conference & AGM re: Professional Reliance

- MZ and/or JLM to potentially take this on behalf of MGH – Caelie/Eveline to confirm if this is a go
- If MGH will speak, briefing to be set up with JLM on what the conference is and what to expect (discussion was somewhat had on this at RT so not sure if it's needed)
 - MGH requested a few examples to use during his speech. Crebo/Jennifer to work on that.
- MGH would like a briefing set up with Mark Haddock (no timeline mentioned of when he would like that)

2. Intensions Paper re: Spills Announcement

- Technical briefing with Greens to be set up – MO to arrange

3. Professional Reliance – Draft Professional Accountability Policy

- MGH to review – Karla to arrange with staff

4. Scientific Advisory Panel

- MGH would like a briefing from Mark. MO to arrange

Date: Monday, February 19, 2018 14:00:10

Good afternoon, Caelie --

The Green Caucus is interested in learning more about the Protected Areas of British Columbia Act coming forward this session from your Ministry to determine their level of interest in engagement and consultation. This is further to the Confidence and Supply Agreement commitment to consult with the Green Caucus on legislation to be introduced in the House. Don Wright has alerted Deputy Ministers that the CASA Secretariat will be working with MAs to schedule any leg consultation meetings requested by the Green Caucus.

Could you please work with your Ministry staff to provide one paragraph or 3-5 bullets on the intent of the proposed legislation at your earliest convenience.

Appropriate information can simply be cut and pasted from the Request For Legislation. We will share this information with the Green Caucus to determine whether consultation is requested, and we'll confirm next steps with you as soon as possible. Confidentiality undertakings have been signed by all Green Caucus MLAs and staff, and are in effect. Note that draft legislation will not be shared with the Green Caucus at any time.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions.

Thank you,

B.C. Green caucus calls on province to establish secretariat responsible for wild salmon

VICTORIA, B.C. – The B.C. Green caucus is calling on the government to immediately establish a secretariat responsible for wild salmon. The caucus' call comes after a week of questioning the government over its plans to protect wild salmon.

“Wild salmon are a foundational B.C. species of vital importance to our economy and to our communities,” said Adam Olsen, spokesperson for natural resources and agriculture. “The MLAs that now sit on the government side of the house are well aware of the risks facing this species, having often drawn attention to this issue when in opposition. It is time to move beyond words and take action. There is absolutely no reason to delay taking action to help restore B.C.’s wild salmon stocks to levels that support a healthy environment and a thriving wild salmon fishery.”

Andrew Weaver, leader of the B.C. Green Party, added that the Premier’s response today strengthens the case for a secretariat: “Even the Premier acknowledges that the questions posed to his government this week demonstrate serious inter-jurisdictional and cross-ministerial challenges. As Adam argued today, secretariats have been created to respond to issues like climate change and conflict of interest. A dedicated, empowered secretariat would ensure this issue of importance to so many British Columbians, and especially coastal First Nations, is given the prioritization it deserves.”

To be effective, the secretariat responsible for wild salmon would need to be granted adequate funding and authority. A wild salmon secretariat could streamline and coordinate all the work being done and stand as a united representative in negotiations with DFO.

“At present, responsibility for steelhead and wild salmon is split among six government ministries in addition to the federal Department of Fisheries,” added Sonia Furstenu, spokesperson for environment. “It has become clear that this confusing, inefficient system is not making headway on the policy changes that are needed to promote healthy levels of wild salmon stocks. I am proud to stand with my colleagues in calling for this much-needed office.”
