Hi Caelie – the attached NR about new protections for wildlife habitat features is signed off through Jen. Over to MGH for his review and approval. FLNRO is getting a quote from MDD, but I'd like to get this approved asap and then plug their quote in later.

As I gather the idea was to the announce this when MGH is in the Kootenays on Monday, we could try to pitch this to Bob Keating at CBC in that region and see if he'd like to chat up MGH. We'll need a time period that MGH could call him.

Thx,

Hello!

Do you miss us yet? ;)

I am needing your feedback on how you would like to handle Roundtable for the summer months. Your schedule Victoria days are already super jammed and these will not fit in.

A few options:

1. Hold roundtables as we have been but have you call in.
2. Use telepresence so that you can join from VCO
3. Put a hold on them for the summer

Please let me know how you like for us to proceed.

Subject: Funding Request for Roundtable on Women's Participation in Climate Change Solutions, June 21 SFU Wosk Centre for Dialogue

Attention:

Bobbi Plecas

Deputy Minister of Climate Change

Dear Ms Plecas:

I am writing to inquire about potential support from the BC Ministry of Environment & Climate Change for an upcoming roundtable on Women and Climate Change on June 21 at SFU's Wosk Centre for Dialogue. We are examining women's leadership in diverse sectors - urban design, agriculture, finance, government, consumption and production, communication and the role of elders (Suzuki Elders) and youth (City Hive) among others themes. We are particularly interested in strategies and methods to expand women's participation in climate change solutions.

Would the Ministry consider contributing $3000.00 towards this event?

I would be very happy to meet to discuss this further and to explore meaningful ways to involve the Ministry in the program as well.

Many thanks for your consideration.

Best regards,

Joanna Ashworth

The details are below:

A Roundtable Dialogue on the Research and Practice of Women's Participation and Leadership
in Climate Solutions
Thursday, June 21, 2018
9am to 3pm
Simon Fraser University's Wosk Centre for Dialogue

Background

There is a complex interplay between gender and climate change that impacts women in developing and developed countries in significant ways. Women are more vulnerable to the impacts of climate change, and subject to greater economic and employment disparities, and fewer training and career opportunities than men. They are also key agents of change for social, economic and environmental sustainability. In efforts to mitigate and adapt to the impacts of climate change (e.g., the transition to renewable energy, the drought, flood, agricultural failures, forced migration) additional impediments such as social status, economic marginalization, personal safety, access to credit, control and ownership over resources in the household, and the community and society place women in greater conditions of vulnerability. According to the Canadian Women's Health Network "research focused on understanding gendered differences in vulnerability to climate change impacts is sparse." Research on policy and leadership issues must consider approaches that can help surpass stereotypes of women's role in water security, especially women refugees, and women head of households, and help bring about true behavioural and policy changes" [1]. The 2016 global agreement to combat climate change signed at COP21 and the introduction of the UN Sustainable Development Goals, highlight the need to address gender inequality in economic, social and ecological development as interconnected. As Lauren Ravon of Oxfam Canada notes, "targeting adaptation to women can address both climate change and women's rights -- key priorities for this [Canadian] Government." A research and policy roundtable conference that critically examines both vulnerabilities and opportunities through an interdisciplinary lens is timely and relevant.

In Summer 2018 SFU's Faculty of Environment will partner with Women Transforming Cities, the Columbia Institute, BC Council for International Cooperation and others to host an invitational roundtable on Women and Climate Change. This session will convene researchers, graduate students and leaders from diverse sectors – universities, civic society, policy think tanks, government and funders – committed to intersectionality and innovation that takes into account the complex relationship between women and climate change. Through this roundtable we aim to share and mobilize knowledge about the participatory methods that foster women's leadership in climate change solutions.

Caelie,

The questions are highlighted below. Cameron Lewis provided response to the exercise question. MAG's LSB Gareth Morley provide response for Q2 and 3.

Reporter: Justine Hunter, Globe and Mail 250.220.2718

Deadline: 430pm today.

Request: to speak with MGH today.

Did we ever did get the details from KM on the spill response plans, and is BC is content with the regulation here? Might be a chance to point out that regulation of the pipeline will be untouchable if it becomes a federally owned Crown pipeline on the Canadian side. Does BC currently have more authority on regulation now?

<https://www.desmogblog.com/2015/02/12/what-kinder-morgan-keeping-secret-about-its-trans-mountain-spill-response-plans-and-why-it-s-utterly-ridiculous>

The concerns from the post mortem (May 2017 spills exercise) were around lack of response to this simulated cross-border incident from BC: (Report attached)

“The assignment of responders in Operations to focus on non-floating oils was useful and a best practice. It is unclear why the non-floating oil detection tactics developed for the U.S. side of the spill scenario were not also planned for the Canadian side.”

The post mortem also noted that the tactics meeting should have but didn't do enough to pin BC down on its resources for spill response: “It should not be a presentation, but instead an engaged interactive meeting. For example, this would have been an opportunity to talk about why the non-floating oil tactics planned on the Washington side of the river were not also planned for British Columbia, as well as to discuss the sourcing and type of the equipment resources that were planned for use on the British Columbia side.”

So ministry of environment was involved in the May 31, 2017 exercise.

What was BC's role in this exercise;

What powers does BC have now to regulate the pipeline on this side, and; Are those powers reduced if the pipeline becomes a federal Crown.

Suggested response:

What was BC's role in this exercise;

BC was initially invited to observe an exercise Kinder Morgan was conducting as part of their regulatory requirements in Washington State. The scope of this exercise increased during the planning stages and BC was invited to participate in the response scenario. BC staff participated in the mock Incident Command Post and during the hotwash debrief immediately following the exercise.

New requirements for testing spill contingency plans came into effect in April of this year for pipelines. A fact sheet on these requirements is available here:

https://www2.gov.bc.ca/assets/gov/environment/air-land-water/spills-and-environmental-emergencies/docs/materials/testing_spill_contingency_plans_fact_sheet.pdf

The exercise also provided an opportunity for BC to see Washington's State's exercise evaluation process in progress. Given the maturity of Washington's regulatory regime, BC has been working closely with our counterparts in Washington State as we build our new regulations and legislation.

What powers does B.C. have now to regulate the pipeline on this side?

- It's B.C.'s position that our regulations apply to federal lands so long as they do not conflict with federal law or impair core federal authority.

Are those powers reduced if the pipeline becomes a federal Crown?

- Our position is that it doesn't change Provincial authority if the pipeline is owned by a federal Crown Corporation.

Subject: Mt. Elphinstone Park management issues still unresolved since 2003

Dear Minister Heyman,

As we patiently wait to hear back from your office regarding a meeting to discuss how to capture more of the biodiversity values for these low elevation forests on the Elphinstone slopes, I think its important to look back at the 2003 Park Management Plan and recognize that the way the park was initially set-up did not meet best practices for how to form a park and in fact contained an error that still has not been redressed.

Please note below in bold (c/p from the BC Parks' own web site) what it has to say about the park so you can read it directly in this email.

As a response I've made comments in relation to the 3 issues raised:

- Item #1 regarding Site 2 refers to the fact a logging cutblock occurred in the previously agreed to protected boundary. A "boundary adjustment" to add lost intact forest to Site 2 never happened. A nearby forest area would have been an excellent candidate to add to Site 2 but was log in 2016. That logging resulted in a 2 month road blockade and split the community apart.
- Having a park divided into 3 separate sites with logging occurring in between them is just poor conservation planning and as far as I can tell there is no other provincial park divided into separate zones. Connectivity is a priority to link up the parks and yet BCTS continues o push ahead with a cutblock in the Clack Creek Forest that would break an opportunity to connect up Site 2 with Site 3. Previously, this government has stated that they will address the long over due connectivity issue, however will not consider a moratorium on proposed cutblocks.

- Unauthorized mountain bike trailbuilding continues at a rapid pace and our complaints to the local Conservation Officer has not deterred trailbuilders. On any given weekend, the park is crowded out with bikers from the Lower Mainland and Pacific Northwest states. In the mountain biking world you do Whistler, North Shore, Moab, Utah and then Elphinstone. This is great for local tourism, however hard on the ecology and needs to be regulated.

The longer our meeting is delayed and a resolution to the 3 Management issues are addressed the ecology of the area will diminish.

Mount Elphinstone Provincial Park Purpose Statement and Zoning Plan Primary Role

The primary role of Mount Elphinstone Provincial Park is to protect a mixed old growth and second growth forest and the very diverse and rich fungi populations associated with the forest. The park protects a relatively undisturbed lower elevation forest in three separate sites and provides the biogeoclimatic conditions appropriate for extensive fungi populations. Secondary Role: The secondary role is to provide local and regional recreation opportunities for fungi interpretation and viewing, hiking and mountain biking.

Known Management Issues Response:

- 1. The boundary of Site 2 of the park was incorrectly identified during the designation process and needs to be readjusted. Environmental Stewardship is now discussing a boundary adjustment with Ministry of Forests and will work towards a legislative change.
- 2. All three of the park sites are relatively small and could be impacted by adjacent development or forestry activities. Work with adjacent management agencies and land owners to protect park values.
- 3. Unauthorized trail developments could negatively impact natural values in the park. Ensure local community and organizations are aware of park boundaries and mandate, work with local groups to prevent

Request

I wondered if you folks had put out an updated statement over the weekend on the Trans Mountain spill outside Kamloops.

I also would like to know if we would work out 5 or 10 minutes in the minister's schedule today for a brief interview. There's a lot of curiosity about how this unfolded and we'd like to get a better understanding of the spill reporting process and why it took almost two weeks to get a better understanding of the spill's volume and/or consequences. And I'd like to get a better sense of how the ministry responds when a spill like this is reported.

Recommendation (email response below attributed to the Ministry)

At approximately 5am on May 27, 2018, Kinder Morgan notified the ministry of an oil spill at their Darfield Pump Station near Barriere, B.C. The Kinder Morgan initial report indicated approximately 100 litres of light crude oil had leaked from a flow meter. The leak was reported by Kinder Morgan and they indicated it was contained within their property and no waterways were affected. The company's emergency response was activated and spill clean-up was initiated. .

Regulatory notifications to First Nations, neighbours and other stakeholders in the vicinity were completed at the time of the spill. Under provincial regulations, 100 L is the minimum threshold that needs to be reported. Later, on the day of the spill, Kinder Morgan issued a public statement indicating clean-up was underway, they were investigating and there was no specific estimate of volume spilled available.

On June 1, 2018, Kinder Morgan revised the spill volume from 100L to 4800L.

Ministry officials have communicated with Kinder Morgan the importance of accurate and timely volume reporting.

Dear Planners,

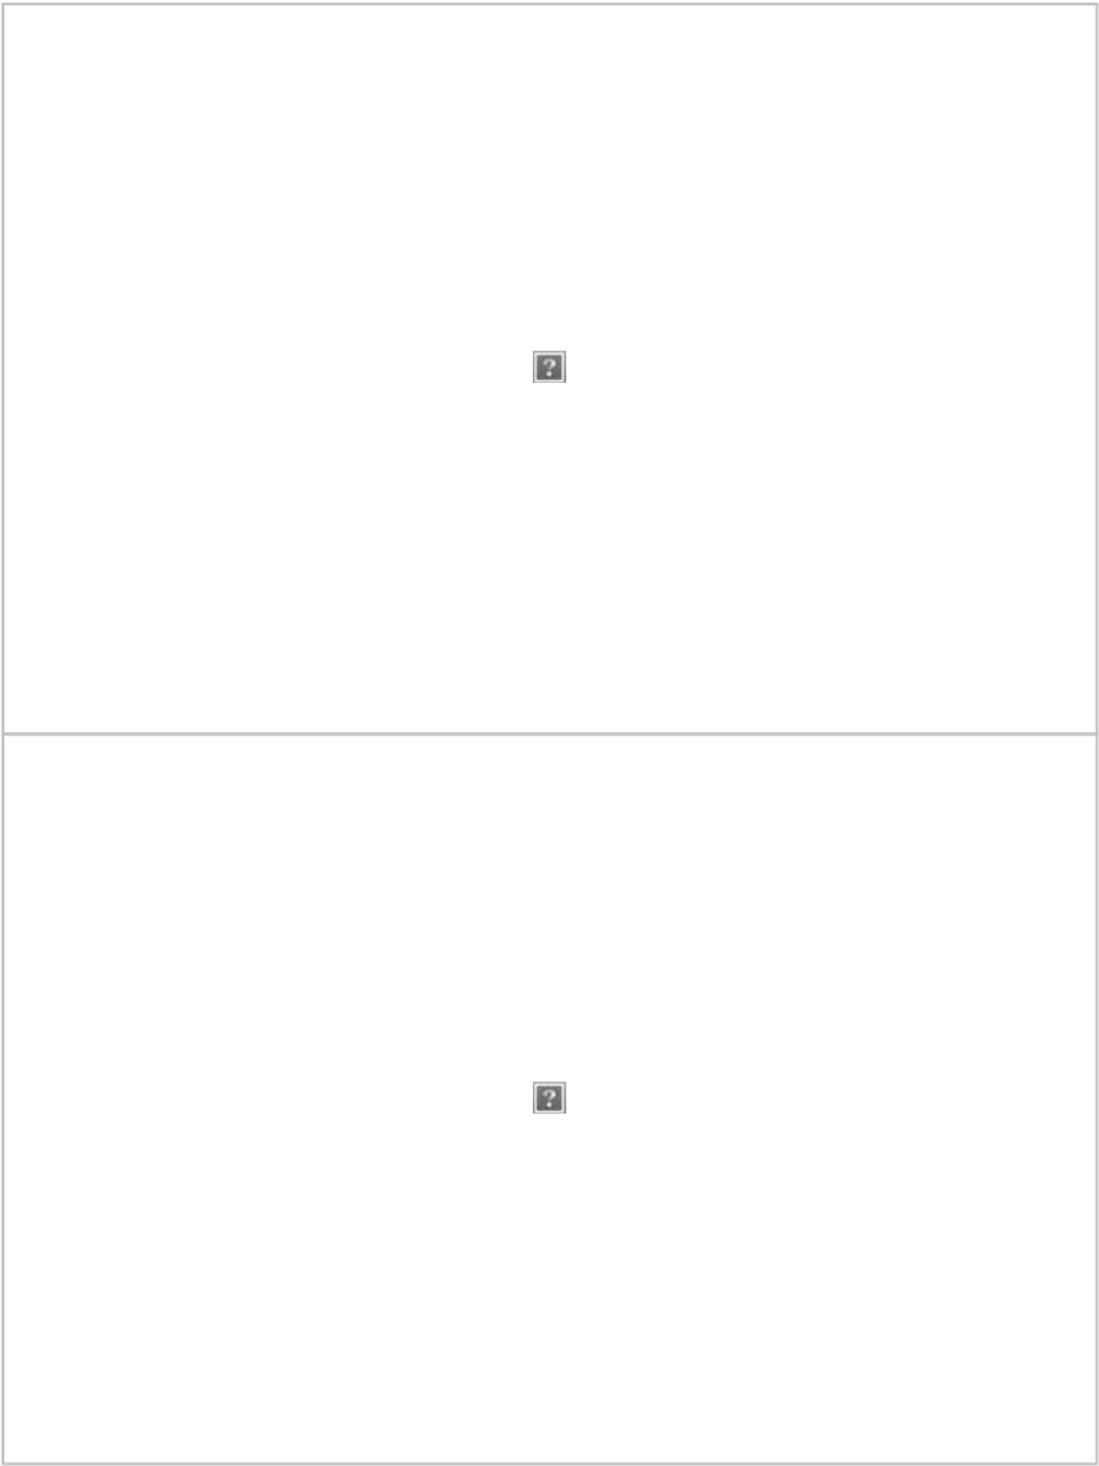

See attached a letter that lists several concerns around a BCTS blk in the West Sechelt area, Sunshine Coast.

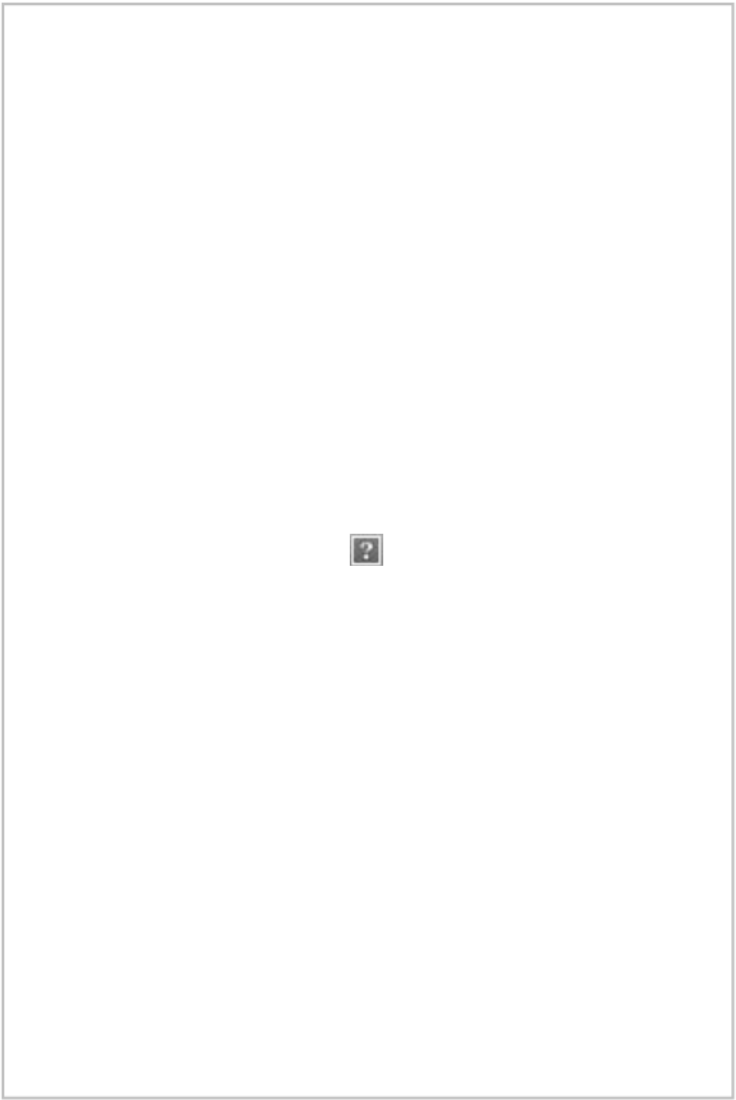

In summary, our assessment of the forest (CWHxm1) indicates it has a well established structure and plant community providing old-growth functions and thus should be set aside as an OGMA to capture these rare ecological values.

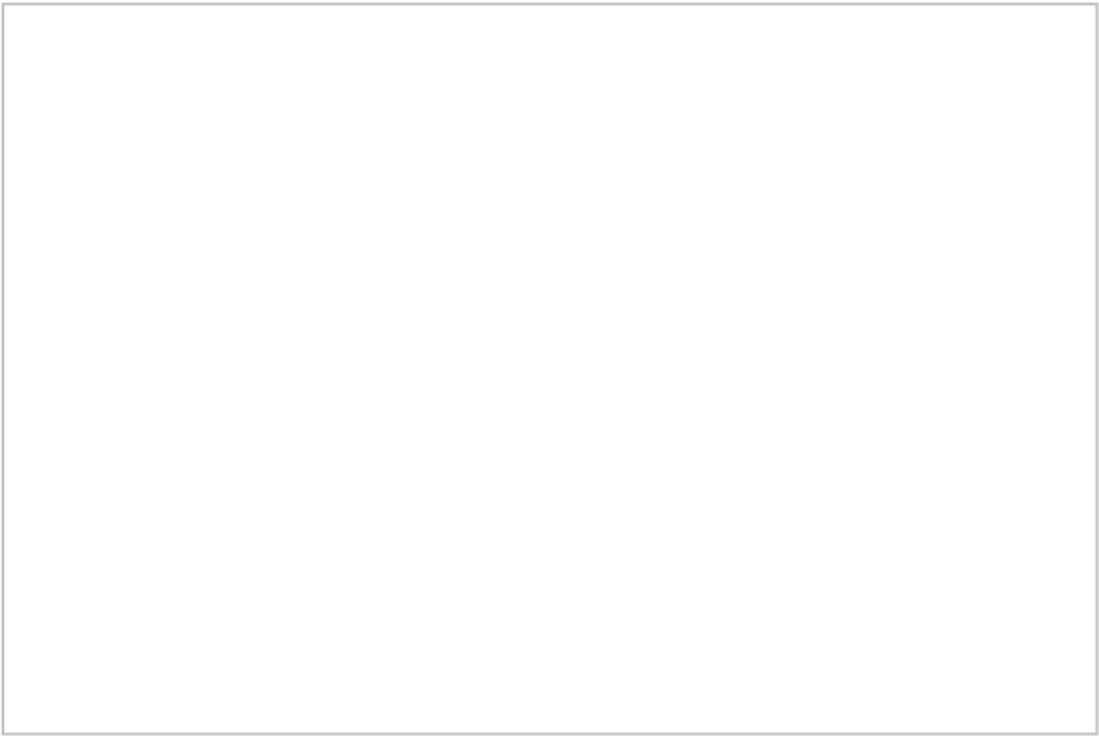

Look forward to your comments.

I regularly see the research and results for which you are collectively responsible, and without which I would not even come close to doing a credible job as minister.

We are very fortunate to live in a Province that provides us with an abundance of opportunities to explore and enjoy our natural environment and heritage – so much of that is because of your collective efforts whether on planning, conservation, recreation, regulation, climate, or administration. "We hope a new generation of young people will form a lifelong attachment to our province's diverse and rich natural environment."

Also, the speaking notes (your audience being grade 2 and 3 students) is attached for your review. I've made some edits and think it looks fine.

We do have an MOU with Parkbus, and have worked collaboratively with them – but we have not provided any financial assistance to date. Parkbus have been running their shuttle bus to several parks in the Sea to Sky over the past couple of years. They are very innovative, collaborative and from overall a great partnership Good for Minister to attend.

Dear Minister Heyman (and his wonderful team!)
We would like to invite you to a photo-op/media event launching free shuttle service that will connect Vancouver to Golden Ears Provincial Park. Funded by MEC and TD, it will connect thousands of Vancouver residents to the park at no cost to them, make the outdoors more accessible, and help promote responsible and safe park use through our on-board education programmes.

Media photo-op will be followed by optional media fam tour in the park (with guided hike). The outline of the event is attached (start at 9:30 am on July 4 @ 130 W Broadway pickup location)

Our charity BEST (Better Environmentally Sound Transportation) is located in your riding just down the street, and we actually got a letter from you recently! Please let me know if you have any questions, and we look forward to hearing back from you soon!

Taking a Look at Ec Dev in B.C.

From emerging technologies and innovative resource development, to small business and tourism – each community in B.C. is unique in the way they approach economic development. But the bottom line is the same – in all the work we're doing – a growing economy supports a Better B.C. The ministry of Jobs, Trade and Technology is taking a broader approach to economic development with a focus on prosperity. We're creating an emerging economy task force, working cross-government on a provincial economic development strategy, promoting international investment; highlighting technology as an enabler and a game changer; taking a comprehensive and robust approach to measuring progress that looks at social, environmental and economic wellbeing; consulting with small businesses to ensure we're doing what we can to support success; negotiating trade agreements to ensure fair and equitable results for the province, and so much more.

Yes - sometimes it is just always hard to find the right temperature for everyone, especially as this room is big and air conditioned.

Good morning,

Can you please list the author's names who help write this report.

Again, we had hoped that Ministry of Environment (BC Parks) would have been equal contributors to the information provided. Thus, from the outset we see a particular bias represented here. We're talking park here - which also implies recreational opportunities also in addition to all of the habitat.

The Mt. Elphinstone Provincial Park Management Plan and the issues it highlights regarding the small, fragmented park size and the low ecological contribution it makes is not referenced.

Hi Caelie and Eveline;

Please find a Fact Sheet on Carbon Neutral Government scheduled for release province-wide Tuesday morning at 9 am. I know Minister is in cabinet all day tomorrow and I wanted to make sure he has a chance to review before then. Bobbi has reviewed and asked for some changes, which are incorporated into this version, but she may have further thoughts so I've copied her here.

Minister

FYI about information that will be posted early next week. Our summary will be one of hundreds – each one of our Public Sector organizations will have one posted. No public messaging.

Happy to answer any questions.

In accordance with the Greenhouse Gas Reduction Targets Act, every provincial public sector organization (PSO) must annually publish a Carbon Neutral Action Report (CNAR) detailing their greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions for the year, their plans and actions taken to reduce emissions, and offsets retired to achieve net-zero emissions.

The Provincial government's total GHG emissions increased by 4.3% from 2016 to 2017. This is largely the result of increases in both fleet and building related emissions. The weather of 2017 was an important factor in both cases.

On one hand, warm and dry conditions during the summer of 2017 contributed to a more intense fire-fighting season and a significant increase in consumption of fleet fuels in support of wildfire suppression, enforcement and investigation, as reported by the ministries responsible (FLNRORD, and ENV).

On the other hand, the colder winter of 2017, as evidenced by a significant year-over-year increase in "Heating Degree Days" (a measure of the demand for energy to heat a building), led to an increase in consumption of fuels for space heating in Provincial government buildings, and thereby, increased related emissions.

Notwithstanding the recent year-over-year increase in emissions, Provincial government emissions have been trending downward since the 2010 baseline year, with 2017 still consistent with that trend at 22.7% below 2010 levels.
