Hi Mr. Glumac,

We just chatted on the phone about the development proposed for the Heart of the Fraser area. I appreciate you listening to my opinion and being open to learning more about the issue. I will add a summary of the issue below, and additional news articles and reports with more information.

<https://www.heartofthefraser.ca>

"In 2017, applications were submitted to the Ministry of Forests, Lands, Natural Resource and Rural Development to build bridges to Herrling and Carey Islands in the gravel reach of the Fraser River known as the Heart of the Fraser between Hope and Mission.

Carey and Herrling Islands were purchased from Kruger Pulp and Paper by developers that own construction and farming companies who successfully applied for them to be re-zoned from tree farming to agricultural land.

The new landowners have applied for the bridge permits to allow for the development of large-scale, intensive agriculture.

Because the islands are designated ALR land, the Streamside Protection Regulations that protect the riparian zones do not apply as agricultural land is exempt. As such no permits were needed for the extensive land clearing that has taken place since the islands were purchased.

The Heart of the Fraser is a dynamic and diverse ecosystem that cannot afford to be bridged, diked, drained and destroyed for any type of development. These islands support numerous native species of fish. The Heart of the Fraser is a nursery for billions of baby salmon every year, and prime spawning habitat for their parents, as well as for the rare and endangered white sturgeon. Especially during times of flooding, they are able to take the extra water, allowing the river room to move and spread out inundating the landscape thereby protecting downstream communities from flooding.

Carey Island is within the traditional territories of the Cheam, Kwaw'Kwaw'Apilt, Skwah and Sts'ailes First Nations.

Herrling Island is within the traditional territories of Chawathil, Cheam, Kwaw'Kwaw'Apilt, Peters, Popkum, Shxw'owhámel, Skwah and Union Bar First Nations.

These nations are currently participating in a government to government referrals process that only allows them to identify issues with the immediate footprint of the bridge project and not future implications."

"The Fraser River is one of the greatest salmon rivers in the world. All five species of Pacific salmon are found in the Heart of the Fraser River – pink, chinook, coho, sockeye, and chum – at various stages of their life cycle. The largest population of pink salmon (over 10 million) are known to spawn right in the mainstem of the gravel reach in the Heart of the Fraser. Sockeye have been known to rear in the mainstem, side channels and sloughs of the lower Fraser River. Chum salmon (over 1 million) are known to spawn in the side channels of the Fraser such as the side channel besides Herrling island. Ocean-going coastal cutthroat trout are known to inhabit the gravel reach where they forage and spawn in the mainstem and side channels. The gravel and nutrients found in this reach provide the optimal conditions for salmon."

As an owner of a Battery Operated Electric Vehicle it would be great if you could attend the opening ceremony at 10AM.

Hi Eveline,
I really need full access or editing access to your calendar so that I can go in and change bookings when there are updates without having to delete and create a whole new one for you to accept.
Please let me know if this is possible!
Thanks,
Ashley
