Good afternoon Michelle!
I hope you are enjoying this sunshine!

I'd like to request a meeting with Premier Clark for the CEO of Gateway Casinos, Tony Santo, and myself.

We have had the pleasure and privilege of seeing her at numerous event throughout the year, and I would so appreciate the opportunity to have a 15-30 min meeting with her.

Gateway Casinos has over 3000 employees in BC (50% women), 10 Casinos throughout the Province (and one in her riding), and we have contributed $567 million dollars to the BC Lottery Corporation in 2014.

It would be great to meet with her to discuss our entertainment/casino plans for BC in the future, including expansions, hundreds of more employees, and possible new properties.

If you require any further information, please don't hesitate to reach out.
Thank you so much!

Best,

Shiera

You didn't ask for these but attached are notes on Kinder Morgan and proposed refineries projects in BC. Written to explain the same kinds of info you asked for re LNG. For your back pocket just in case you need it (note the info that is subject to NDA's in the refineries note).

Shall I let Jordan know the details so it can be announced at the next Chief of Staff meeting and then they can confirm back to me which office staff will be attending which session!

Spoke to Pat.

Although local FN was on the scene first, I am told rescue effort very coordinated, response within first hour (not confirmed)

CG lead as EMBC, as mentioned previously, continues to help coordinate effort but no provincial presence on the ground.

Search in continuing and missing person is updated to 2 persons.

Only anticipate one more update.

Ok Tks - on the ground it's dfo/regional district lead with media (regulation of commercial vessels are tran canada lead) Embc providing supports as needed (ie bc ambulance).

Ryan working with min, mo's and his DMs on advice re provincial response (s).

A thought would be if search continues in am - possible press theatre briefing (if mny is here).... If it's complete - statement(s) perhaps best option

Hi everyone,
MNY, our com manager and I are leaving on a 5 pm float plane to Tofino. We will hopefully arrive in time for at least part of the meeting tonight.
We are looking at returning in the early afternoon tomorrow. Timing of our return depends on any meetings we set up. MNY has left messages for both the mayor and chief of the Ahousat.
Regardless, it unlikely she will be back for QP prep and QP tomorrow.
I will keep you posted on our schedule.

Thanks,
Matt

Hi Tim and Doug

You have stated on a couple of occasions that your lines are open. Well here goes.

I am attaching a photo of the "new look" for cic wines in the LDB stores. As you might imagine, this is whipsawing through our community, and not in a positive way. We can't fight nice about grocery stores and watch what is going on with cic in your stores. The article about the over-charging by the big 3 and the consequent asking for a greater percentage has been the most viewed email we have sent to date. We have to add this to our grocery store working group. This is an issue which if not dealt with properly will cause us to go back to fighting the issue through the media. This is just not right.

He would like to pay a courtesy call on Premier on Nov 13.

Given that the People's Institute of Foreign Affairs only hosts heads of state or former heads of state, hardly hosting sub-national leader, I highly recommend that Premier should receive Lu to show our appreciation as the Institute hosted Premier in 2013 and 2015. Pls also note that the Lu had offered a welcome banquet for Premier on the day of our arrival this Saturday, but we declined as we need the first night of rest.

RE: UBCIC Resolution 2015-33 "Development of Reconciliation Framework and Approaches"

Dear Premier Clark,

We are writing with respect to UBCIC Resolution 2015-33 "Development of Reconciliation Framework and Approaches" which was presented, affirmed and endorsed by consensus at the UBCIC Chiefs Council on September 30, 2015 (enclosed).

As you are aware, the First Nations Leadership Council and the Province have developed a draft proposed Commitment Document setting out a proposed joint agenda and action plan for advancing the Crown-First Nations relationship in British Columbia, and to develop a principled framework for reconciliation, including concrete actions, measures and steps, in a manner that is appropriate for a post-Tsilhqot'in environment.

BC Chiefs came together on September 8, 2015, to review and consider the proposed Commitment Document and made a number of suggested revisions, which were incorporated into the final draft that was jointly prepared by the First Nations Leadership Council and the Province on September 25, 2015.

The UBCIC Chiefs-in-Assembly considered the final draft proposed Commitment Document at their Annual General Assembly on September 28, 2015 and provided a number of further changes. A summary of UBCIC's feedback from September 28, 2015 is attached to Resolution 2015-33 and incorporated into final draft proposed Commitment Document, and we have been directed by Resolution 2015-33 to ensure its inclusion into the draft reconciliation framework and approaches.

Importantly, by Resolution 2015-33, the UBCIC Chiefs-in-Assembly direct the UBCIC Executive, working jointly with the BC Assembly of First Nations and the First Nations Summit, under the auspices of the First Nations Leadership Council, to begin engagement with the Province to develop a draft document setting out a reconciliation framework and approaches, for First Nations leaders in BC to consider prior to September 2016. Work on the draft reconciliation framework and approaches must not be used by the Province in any way as an excuse to slow down or impede progress with First Nations at any of their respective negotiation tables.

The FNLC-BC Working Group will be meeting shortly to review direction provided to leadership so far and consider next steps.

We caution you that although we have been directed to begin engagement to develop a draft document setting out a reconciliation framework and approaches, there was substantive discussion on the draft proposed Commitment Document and engagement process at the UBCIC AGA, and an unprecedented 16 abstentions from Resolution 2015-33. We are aware that the First Nations Summit recently discussed the draft proposed Commitment Document at their October 14-16, 2015 meeting, and that there was significant dialogue at that meeting too. Furthermore, we understand the FNS delegates are calling for an All Chiefs Meeting within 3 months to collectively discuss the evolution of the Commitment Document. We understand that the BC Assembly of First Nations will not be discussing the document until their next meeting in 2016. Finally, we understand that the Province is preparing to present the draft proposed Commitment Document to Cabinet.

The UBCIC Executive will be providing the UBCIC with an update on progress regarding development of the draft reconciliation framework and approaches at the next UBCIC Chiefs Council on February 17-18, 2016.

Resolution no. 2015-33

RE: Development of Reconciliation Framework and Approaches

WHEREAS over a year has passed since the historic and unanimous Tsilhqot'in Nation judgment was released on June 26, 2014, when the Supreme Court of Canada declared Aboriginal Title for the first time in Canadian history, in the homeland of the Tsilhqot'in people, sweeping aside the discriminatory justifications and arguments advanced by the Crown to deny Indigenous rights of ownership, and confirming that the status quo is not acceptable;

WHEREAS we are celebrating the 10th anniversary of the New Relationship Vision document that the Province and First Nations reached in 2005, which echoed the words spoken by the Supreme Court of Canada in 1997 that "We are all here to stay";

WHEREAS in advancing First Nations-provincial engagement, First Nations continue to seek full implementation of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, including Article 26(2), which provides that "Indigenous peoples have the right to own, use, develop and control the lands, territories and resources that they possess by reason of traditional ownership or other traditional occupation or use, as well as those which they have otherwise acquired" and the requirement under Article 32(1) of "free and informed consent prior to the approval of any project affecting [our] lands or territories and other resources";

WHEREAS on August 14-15, 2014, BC Chiefs met at an All Chiefs Meeting to celebrate the Tsilhqot'in Nation judgment and discuss the recognition of Aboriginal Title in BC and the way forward;

WHEREAS First Nations leaders set out Four Principles on September 11, 2014, as the basis of recognition and reconciliation work, which the UBCIC Chiefs Council endorsed through Resolution 2015-04:

1. Acknowledgement that all our relationships are based on recognition and implementation of the existence of indigenous peoples' inherent title and rights, and pre-confederation, historic and modern treaties throughout British Columbia.
2. Acknowledgement that Indigenous systems of governance and laws are essential to the regulation of lands and resources throughout British Columbia.

Compilation of UBCIC's Suggested Changes to the Proposed Commitment Document Dated Sept 25
Provided by the UBCIC Chiefs Council at the AGA (September 28th to 30th)

- Revised title of document from “BC- First Nations Proposed Commitment Document.” Purpose of revision is to clarify that the current document is the commitment document, and it is proposing future development of reconciliation framework and approaches. Revised title also includes the date. Revised title reads:
 - “BC- First Nations Commitment Document: Proposal to Develop Reconciliation Framework and Approaches (September 25, 2015)”
- Added in new paragraph at the bottom of p. 3, taken from the FNLC Terms of Reference, sections 1.1 and 1.9 to provide explicit clarity on the FNLC mandate. New paragraph reads:
 - The First Nations Leadership Council are guided by a Terms of Reference, which recognize that Aboriginal Title, Rights and Treaty Rights are held at the Nation Level. Each Nation has the authority to make decisions to suit the unique circumstances of their particular Nation and the right to a government-to-government relationship with the Crown. Individual Nations are the proper Aboriginal Title, Rights and Treaty Rights holders.
- P. 4- changed “Crown-First Nations relationship” to “government-to-government relationship”
- P. 4- added the Four Principles as a building block for the document that will be developed. Revised paragraph reads:
 - Guiding principles for reconciliation, building from those set out in the New Relationship and the Four Principles. It is anticipated this will include or reflect principles about the relationship and reconciliation as articulated by the courts, as well as principles agreed to in political accords to date in BC between the Province and First Nations (e.g. Tsawwassen Accord, Transformative Change Accord).
- P. 4- took out the header “4. partnerships and cultural understandings” so that the content from that section is included under the header “3. goals and objectives”. Also took out the example of industry as possible place for partnerships and cultural understandings beyond First Nations and the Crown.
- P. 6- revised sentence in lessons learned section to include reference to “government-to-government work”. Revised sentence reads:
 - the respective government-to-government work that First Nations and Crown governments must do to effect a transformation in relations
- p.7- under “proposed implementation and engagement process,” added clarity to Joint Core Working Group. Revised sentence reads:

- A Joint Core Working Group will be established to undertake this work in accordance with this proposed commitment document, recognizing that any government-to-government to relationship is between individual Nations and the Crown.
- P.7- Under “First Nations Engagement,” add a new bullet to the top of the list for what the FNLC proposes as the processes for First Nations engagement to clarify that government-to-government engagement with First Nations is a critical form of engagement. New bullet reads:
 - Government-to-government engagement available to all First Nations.
- P.7- under “First Nations Engagement,” revise second bullet for clarity that report out must occur on or before 6 months after the work begins. Revised sentence reads:
 - Two All Chiefs Assemblies, in addition to regularly scheduled BCAFN, UBCIC and FNS assemblies, with an update provided on or before 6 months after the work begins;
- P. 9- in second paragraph, added clarity that relationship between First Nations and the Provincial Crown is government-to-government. Revised sentence reads:
 - Consideration will be given to finding ways to raise public awareness and understanding of the unique and important nature of the government-to-government relationship between First Nations and the Provincial Crown.

British Columbia – First Nations

Proposed Commitment Document:
Proposal to Develop Reconciliation Framework and Approaches
September 25, 2015

We are all here to stay.

These are the words spoken by the Supreme Court of Canada in 1997, and the starting words of our mutual acknowledgement in the New Relationship vision document, developed in 2005.

Ten years later, we find ourselves with new circumstances and new opportunities informing this relationship. We are experiencing changes on the landscape of social issues, lands and resources, the economy, technology and case law such as the Tsilhqot'in decision.

Over the past ten years, we have experienced both successes and challenges. Many strong relationships have been built between the Province and First Nations through agreements and community initiatives, which have supported First Nations to strengthen their communities and culture and have led to partnerships in economic development. However, there is still much work to be done. We have yet to come to a common understanding of what it means to engage in a government-to-government relationship based on recognition of aboriginal title and rights as is evidenced by our different perspectives on the Four Principles which were presented by Chiefs to the Province for endorsement at the inaugural September 2014 BC Cabinet-First Nations Gathering.

Maintaining the status quo is not an option. Acknowledging our challenges and building on our successes from the past ten years, it is critical that we find a way forward with real and concrete actions so we can together build a bright future for our children.

Commitment

We remain committed to a “government-to-government relationship based on respect, recognition and accommodation of aboriginal title and rights” and to the “reconciliation of Aboriginal and Crown titles and jurisdictions”, as we agreed in the New Relationship.

As articulated by the Supreme Court of Canada, reconciliation of pre-existing Aboriginal societies with the assertion of Crown sovereignty is an imperative set out in section 35 of the Constitution

Formatted: Superscript

Act, 1982. The section 35 framework permits a principled reconciliation of Aboriginal rights with the interests of all Canadians. The courts have provided some guidance on how to advance reconciliation, but have encouraged the Crown governments and First Nations to work out the details of advancing reconciliation on the ground. Aboriginals and non-Aboriginal people are “all here to stay” and must of necessity move forward in a process of reconciliation.

We commit to jointly design a creative, constructive, pragmatic and organized approach to giving life to the section 35 framework in British Columbia, with tangible milestones to demonstrate progress.

Reconciliation is a journey. There is a multitude of ways to express what reconciliation means, and how it may be achieved through ongoing processes. The following are examples of the many articulations and dimensions of reconciliation:

“Reconciliation requires constructive action on addressing the ongoing legacies of colonialism that have had destructive impacts on Aboriginal peoples’ education, cultures and languages, health, child welfare, the administration of justice, and economic opportunities and prosperity.” (Truth and Reconciliation Commission, 2015)

“Reconciliation must create a more equitable and inclusive society by closing the gaps in social, health, and economic outcomes that exist between Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal Canadians.” (Truth and Reconciliation Commission, 2015)

“Convinced that the recognition of the rights of indigenous peoples in this Declaration will enhance harmonious and cooperative relations between the State and indigenous peoples, based on principles of justice, democracy, respect for human rights, non-discrimination and good faith...” (UNDRIP)

“As Delgamuukw explains, the process of reconciling Aboriginal interests with the broader interests of society as a whole is the raison d’être of the principle of justification. Aboriginals and non-Aboriginals are “all here to stay” and must of necessity move forward in a process of reconciliation (para. 186).” (SCC, Tsilhqot’in, para. 82)

Formatted: Superscript

"What is at stake is nothing less than justice for the Aboriginal group and its descendants, and the reconciliation between the group and broader society." (SCC, Tsilhqot'in, para. 23)

We acknowledge there is a need for - and commit to jointly developing, advancing and implementing - additional concrete actions and creative approaches that better reflect our circumstances today, and which support reconciliation and this government-to-government relationship.

The process used to shape and develop our work moving forward must be inclusive, open, transparent and timely. Specifically, it is proposed that the engagement process:

- must provide for effective and informed input from First Nations leaders and communities;
- will engage all levels of the BC Government;
- will include business, industry and advocacy groups; and
- will include the Government of Canada.

Joint Agenda: Core Elements of the Work

The Province and the First Nations Leadership Council (BC Assembly of First Nations, First Nations Summit and Union of BC Indian Chiefs) (the "FNLC") have developed the following proposed joint agenda and action plan for advancing the Crown-First Nation relationship in British Columbia and to come up with a principled framework for reconciliation, including concrete actions, measures and steps, in a manner that is appropriate for a post-Tsilhqot'in environment, and with a clear timeline that identifies tangible progress.

The First Nations Leadership Council are guided by a Terms of Reference, which recognize that Aboriginal Title, Rights and Treaty Rights are held at the Nation Level. Each Nation has the authority to make decisions to suit the unique circumstances of their particular Nation and the right to a government-to-government relationship with the Crown. Individual Nations are the proper Aboriginal Title, Rights and Treaty Rights holders.

Formatted: Superscript

It is envisioned that this work will achieve a principled and substantive approach to reconciliation that will include:

1. Vision

A joint updated vision for the ~~Crown-First Nations~~ government-to-government relationship in British Columbia, which builds from New Relationship, in the context of social issues, lands and resources and the economy. The vision may also reflect on the role of the Government of Canada.

2. Guiding principles

Guiding principles for reconciliation, building from those set out in the New Relationship and the Four Principles. It is anticipated this will include or reflect principles about the relationship and reconciliation as articulated by the courts, as well as principles agreed to in political accords to date in BC between the Province and First Nations (e.g. Tsawwassen Accord, Transformative Change Accord).

3. Goals and objectives

Mutual and respective goals and objectives for reconciliation, and associated actions, measures and steps. It is anticipated these would include achieving predictability and stability in the economy, and closing the socio-economic gap that persists between First Nations and non-First Nations.

~~4. Partnerships and Cultural Understandings~~

Measures to build partnerships and strengthen cultural understandings between First Nations and the Crown, as well as with others (~~e.g. industry~~). The objective of advancing and achieving reconciliation is not an issue limited to the Crown and First Nations. It is an imperative of society as a whole and there are many potential partners to help successfully achieve this objective.

~~5.4. Processes and structures~~

Formatted: Superscript

Action with regard to:

- a. Identifying and establishing new institutions, processes, and structures to support or facilitate reconciliation efforts;
- b. Designing new negotiation and dispute resolution approaches;
- c. Supporting First Nations capacity and governance development; and
- d. Determining and advancing strategies and actions to ensure the Government of Canada fulfills the federal Crown's obligations.

6.5. Systemic Supports: Legislation, Policy and Other Options

Concrete legislative, policy or other options and ideas for facilitating and supporting an improved and constructive relationship. These may initially focus on key legislation, policies or practices that have given rise to conflict in the relationship (e.g. environmental assessment, online mineral staking). It is anticipated that options will include a process for improved and effective engagement on the collaborative development of new legislation, policies and practices, or reform of existing ones.

Themes to Address

The work will require dialogue about a number of key themes, including:

Reconciliation and Recognition – Aboriginal rights and title exists in British Columbia. First Nations, the Province and Canada must find ways to reconcile our respective jurisdictions, governance, laws and responsibilities.

Strengthening the Economy – Having a strong and resilient economy is a shared interest and is critical to our mutual success. First Nations must be full partners in economic development and growth.

Formatted: Superscript

Lands and Resources – Aboriginal people have a unique connection to the land and resources in British Columbia and sustainable resource development is a key component of British Columbia's economy. Collaborative environmental stewardship can ensure our lands and resources are used sustainably and into the future.

Social and Economic Gaps – Closing the social and economic gap between Aboriginal peoples and other British Columbians to achieve healthy and strong Aboriginal communities is a shared objective and priority.

Advancing Successful Negotiations – Negotiation offers a path to collaboration and finding creative ways to address our respective interests, and the preferable path to reconciliation.

In addressing these themes, the work should reflect upon and consider lessons learned since 2005, including:

- progress and opportunities that have been made;
- a frank assessment of what has and has not worked;
- the implications, challenges, and opportunities for implementing the principles and standards of Tsilhqot'in across British Columbia, including recognizing the proper Title and Rights holders;
- the respective government-to-government work that First Nations and Crown governments must do to effect a transformation in relations; and
- reflect on strengths and how to address gaps in the relationships.

Acknowledging that a large body of work already exists and should be built upon moving forward, the work should consider relevant materials including the following:

- New Relationship Vision;
- Transformative Change Accord;
- The Supreme Court of Canada's decision in Tsilhqot'in and other jurisprudence;
- The Four Principles developed by First Nations Chiefs in 2014;
- The strategic objectives of the Premier and Cabinet;
- The United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples;

Formatted: Superscript

- Truth and Reconciliation Commission Reports;
- Recognition Working Group materials;
- Recognition and Reconciliation legislative initiative;
- All Chiefs Task Force Report (2009);
- Materials developed by the Union of BC Indian Chiefs, First Nations Summit, and BC Assembly of First Nations that inform the development of a reconciliation framework, and movement to a post-Tsilhqot'in environment;
- Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples Report;
- First Nations Leadership Council report on shared territories and overlaps;
- Industry and business reports and publications;
- Government reports and publications.

Proposed Implementation & Engagement Process

The implementation of this joint agenda will be overseen by the Members of the Provincial Cabinet and the FNLC, who will jointly determine milestones/timelines to be met, as informed by input gathered through the engagement process.

A Joint Core Working Group will be established to undertake this work in accordance with this proposed commitment document, recognizing that any government-to-government to relationship is between individual Nations and the Crown.

We recognize that meaningful engagement and information sharing will be critical in making progress in the coming year. We commit to developing a joint engagement workplan that is based on an inclusive, open, transparent and timely process.

First Nations Engagement

The FNLC proposes the following processes for First Nations engagement:

- Government-to-government engagement available to all First Nations;
- Two All Chiefs Assemblies, in addition to regularly scheduled BCAFN, UBCIC and FNS assemblies, with an update provided on or before 6 months after the work begins;

Formatted: Superscript

- Team/working group to present in any Nation;
- Regional sessions; and
- First Nations Organizations (sectoral councils);
- Legal advisory team (to which any First Nation can send a representative).

BC Government Engagement

The Premier and Cabinet provide the policy direction of Government and will be informed by:

- Policy and legal working group to include and encourage advice from cross-government; and
- Premier's office involvement and linkage to core working group.

The following components are engagement pieces that will be approached jointly:

Business and Industry Engagement

The engagement process will create diverse opportunities for outreach and engagement with business and industry. Engagement with business and industry will occur through existing associations and groups including Business Council of British Columbia, sector associations such as Clean Energy BC, Mining Association of BC, AME-BC, COFI, etc. Engagement may take a variety of forms including dialogue sessions, presentations, written, etc and may be joint or bilateral.

Federal Government Engagement

The Federal Government has a critical role to play in reconciliation and engaging on a Nation-to-Nation basis with BC First Nations. The FNLC and Province of BC agree that it's important to jointly approach the Federal Government and ensure the Federal Government fulfills the federal Crown's obligations.

Public Awareness and Other Stakeholders

Formatted: Superscript

We jointly agree there will be other relevant stakeholders such as social service agencies that may want input and information regarding this work. This will be considered as part of the overall engagement workplan.

Consideration will be given to finding ways to raise public awareness and understanding of the unique and important nature of the government-to-government relationship between First Nations and the Provincial Crown.

Decision-Making and Reporting Out

The actions in this proposed Commitment Document now form the agenda for the coming year between First Nations Leadership Council and the Province, with milestones/timelines -to be jointly determined, and informed by input from the engagement process, as a priority step. It is proposed that the Province be represented by members of the BC Cabinet. This will include an Annual meeting on progress to include the Premier.

A formal report out will occur at the next annual BC Cabinet First Nations Leaders Gathering in September 2016, with other reporting as set out in the proposed Implementation and Engagement Process.

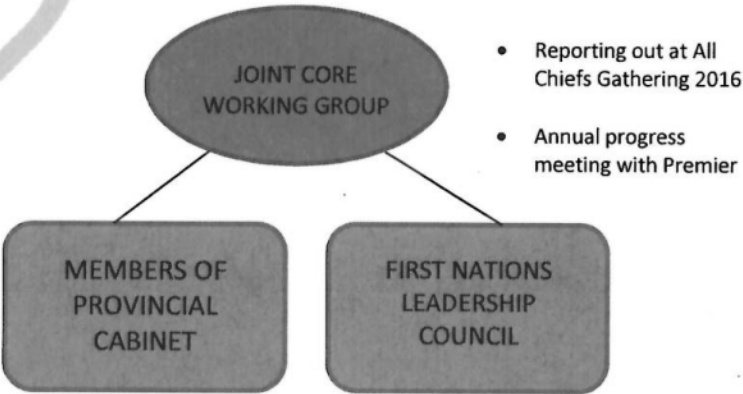

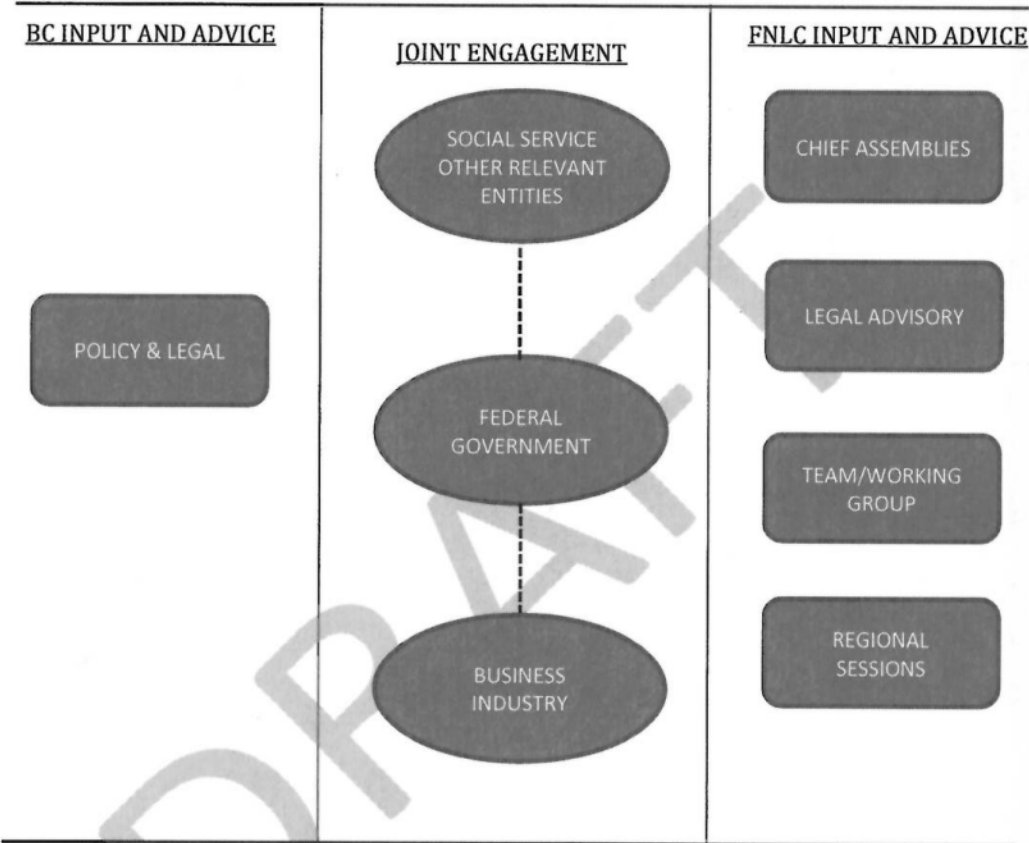

Province commits to resourcing the joint work and engagement process.

A proposed engagement and reporting structure is attached.

Ratification processes will be implemented as appropriate.

Hi Dan,

In regards to the "Concerned Professional Engineers of BC" who weighed-in to support the Delta port: They are a small group of professional engineers living in BC (some of them retired), who work on environmental issues related to projects such as the Northern Gateway Project and the TransMountain Expansion Project. They receive their funding from donors, largely through crowdfunding campaigns.

You can find out more about them here: <http://www.concernedengineers.org/>

Below is the story referenced during the morning call:

Is Delta a better spot for a jet fuel port than Richmond? Alberta's Premier thinks so.

The Province, October 27, 2015

Southwest Metro Vancouver, once thought too pristine to permit oil tankers, is starting to look like a fuel hub.

Plans call for a jet fuel terminal complete with tankers on Richmond's side of the Fraser River; and across the river in Delta an LNG terminal is also in the works.

Now, support has come forward to send crude oil tankers to Delta's seaside port instead of using the present-day terminal in Burnaby, which is located in Vancouver Harbour.

Alberta Premier Rachel Notley has raised the subject, previously considered taboo in B.C. because of environmental concerns.

Notley said Delta was better suited than Burnaby and a group called Concerned Professional Engineers of B.C. has backed her up.

The group said Delta presents much lower risks than Burnaby.

"It's common sense. At Delta ships come straight in from the open ocean," said engineer Brian Gunn of CPE. "They don't have to go through the First and Second Narrows. Going by those bridges is lunacy."

The engineers have filed a report with the National Energy Board, a federal government body that is hearing a proposal from Kinder Morgan to build a second Trans Mountain pipeline from Edmonton.

Plans call for an export capacity of 890,000 barrels per day via Burnaby. About 350 Aframax-sized tankers, each with a maximum capacity of 120,000 metric tonnes, would be required to transit Vancouver Harbour annually.

Fuel tankers have never been permitted in Delta's port area, but jet fuel and LNG facilities began receiving preliminary regulatory approvals in recent years.

Residents' concerns have always been about preserving natural habitat for birds, fish and wildlife.

Roger Emsley, executive director of a community group called Against Port Expansion, said millions of birds migrating along the Pacific Coast would be at risk.

"Roberts Bank is slap-bang in the middle of Canada's most important ecosystem," Emsley said.

"If a tanker was to break loose in the wind and have an accident, it would mean the end of the environment here," he said.

Notley isn't the only official to muse about interest in Deltaport.

Delta chief administrative officer George Harvie said two years ago he believed that oil exports were being considered off Roberts Bank.

He was among 30 B.C. politicians, industry representatives and Port Metro Vancouver officials who travelled to Norway to study fuel operations.

Afterwards Harvie said the oil industry wanted to use Delta for a terminal.

"Discussions with industry representatives confirmed there is interest in Roberts Bank as a potential location for a bulk liquid facility for the shipment of Alberta crude," he said in a report to council.

Delta council is against the idea. Kinder Morgan and Port Metro Vancouver said they have no plans to ask for permission to move oil through Deltaport.

October 23, 2015

Dear Colleagues,

I know you share my sense of duty to British Columbians to ensure we lead a government that is open and accountable.

To that end, we will be taking action on the Privacy Commissioner's recommendations. I have asked David Loukidelis to help us strengthen our processes and training around Freedom of Information, and give us advice on the best ways to implement actions in response to this report.

Until Mr. Loukidelis completes his work, I am further directing my Cabinet Ministers and all political staff, to keep all the emails they send, regardless of whether they are transitory or not.

There can be conflicting views on how the rules have been applied over the decades. It is my expectation that we do our utmost to follow the regulations around Freedom of Information. But, we also need to recognize that technology, as well as public expectations are evolving.

We can, and should, take this additional step to give our citizens greater confidence that their government is open and accountable.

Sincerely,

Christy Clark
Premier

Please see the attached memo from the Premier. Please confirm that you have received it by replying the following to me in an e-mail:

"I have received this memo from the Premier. I understand it and will abide by it."

Let me know if you have any questions. Thank you for your attention to this matter,

Dan Doyle
Chief of Staff to Premier Christy Clark

October 23, 2015

Dear Colleagues,

I know you share my sense of duty to British Columbians to ensure we lead a government that is open and accountable.

To that end, we will be taking action on the Privacy Commissioner's recommendations. I have asked David Loukidelis to help us strengthen our processes and training around Freedom of Information, and give us advice on the best ways to implement actions in response to this report.

Until Mr. Loukidelis completes his work, I am further directing my Cabinet Ministers and all political staff, to keep all the emails they send, regardless of whether they are transitory or not.

There can be conflicting views on how the rules have been applied over the decades. It is my expectation that we do our utmost to follow the regulations around Freedom of Information. But, we also need to recognize that technology, as well as public expectations are evolving.

We can, and should, take this additional step to give our citizens greater confidence that their government is open and accountable.

Sincerely,

Christy Clark
Premier

Dan –

I draw your attention to the highlighted text below, in a message that I sent the Finance and Audit Committee Members this afternoon ...

Thanks,

Craig

Attached, are two documents relating to the meeting of the Finance and Audit Committee scheduled for Thursday, October 29th - a confidential draft Accountability Report and the committee's draft agenda. The Accountability Report is missing only one item and that is on page 30: the inclusion of the Auditor General's opinion regarding their audit of the Legislative Assembly. It will be included at a later date but you will receive it separately in the material being "pushed" out to Members' iPads later today.

I am very pleased to report that again this year, the audit opinion by the Auditor General of British Columbia is unreserved meaning that we have received a clean audit opinion. We have worked very hard again this year to accomplish this.

The draft agenda is very ambitious and you will notice a large number of briefing notes under the item "Clerk's Update". They will be tabled for the Committee to consider at a later date enabling you time to digest their contents.

In the meantime, if you have any questions about the draft agenda or the confidential draft Accountability Report (or any of the briefing notes) please feel free to contact the Speaker, the Deputy Clerk and Clerk of Committees, the Executive Financial Officer, the Sergeant-at-Arms or me, at your convenience.

Thank you,

Craig

As you know the BC government has actively supported the formation of the Cooperative Capital Markets Regulator for several years. Recently, as it close to becoming a reality, the Province of Ontario insisted that the current head of the Ontario Securities Commission be appointed to the Board imposing on the collectively appointed nominating committee. In my opinion ,this would have cost enough support to endanger this important initiative. I want to make sure you know that Minister deJong stood firm and negotiated a very acceptable compromise - perhaps the only possible one. This is the second time he saved this reform that is so important to the Canadian capital markets in spite of the fact there is little or no voter attention to the issue. The result , if successful, will be a more efficient,flexible, competitive and accountable system with BC having an equal voice ,along with others ,to Ontario through its veto.

On October 29 , I am speaking at the Investment Industry annual dinner and intend to see that The Minister gets credit for his important role. I have already informed the Industry Board that it would not be happening without his involvement on 2 very critical occasions .
