Dear Mr. Shoemaker,

We scheduled a meeting with Susanna Laaksonen-Craig for next Wednesday 22 Aug in Victoria. Before this meeting, I would like to have a 15 minute phonecall with you to discuss the goals and expectations of this meeting.

As you know, Old Massett is involved in negotiations regarding the LNG pipeline project. They see the development of a Blue Carbon protocol which includes a section for Plankton Photosynthesis Stimulation as a vital component in this negotiation.

As a coastal First Nation band, Old Massett has been directly impacted by climate change resulting in significant declines of fish biomass and bio-diversity over the last decades. A process that will further impact them in the near future.

Sequestering CO2 through Plankton Photosynthesis Stimulation in Haida ocean waters allows Old Massett to develop an environmentally sustainable business which supports the local economy, creates local jobs, expands scientific knowledge of the oceans, increases bio-diversity and allows Old Massett to play an active role in offsetting CO2 emissions.

The expectation of Old Massett is that this meeting with the Climate Action Committee will result in concrete short-term actionable steps and timelines leading to a CO2 offset protocol for Plankton Photosynthesis Stimulation.

Please let me know if you can fit in a 15 minute call this week to discuss.

Regards,
Michael Riedijk

Dear Mr Shoemaker,

Further to our discussion I'd like to introduce Michael Riedijk. He is president of Blue Carbon Solutions, Inc. based in West-Vancouver and John Disney economic development officer for the Old Massett village council based in Haida Gwaii.

Blue Carbon Solutions has been working closely together with HSRC and the Old Massett band on developing a certified blue carbon protocol.

The blue carbon protocol that we have developed has been peer-reviewed by McGill university and is currently going through a formal ISO verification process with TÜV NORD in Germany.

Blue Carbon Solutions has been assigned with the task to further develop and support the protocol in collaboration with your agency.

We hope to schedule a conference call with you to get the project started in the next week.
