We've done some additional review, and I wanted to run some suggested edits from Microsoft by you (attached version 4).

Hi Charles –

The document is working its way through approvals here in BC. Good news about the approvals on your side. I see that the meeting between our respective Chiefs of Staff has been moved tomorrow evening.

We can take care of formatting and printing.

By the way, I thought the call this afternoon on logistics was helpful.

Thanks,

Jeremy

Hi Charles –

No major concerns from the staff level here in BC. I know that Steve Carr will be speaking with David Postman this week – hopefully that conversation will result in an agreement from both sides on final text.

The BC Business Council is hosting a call with Microsoft, BC, the event planner and the Governor's office on logistics, run of show, etc.

We should also discuss a joint statement and news release. The Premier's Communications team will be the lead on that but I will support by providing content, working with you and Keith to agree on text, etc.

Hi Schuyler,

Following up on our conversation – can you please let my colleague Julia know a time for a call for tomorrow or Thursday?

From our end it will be Steve Carr, Chief of Staff to the Premier, and myself. We are happy to bring in someone from the Cancer Agency if you would like to include someone from Fred Hutch?

Cheers,
Barinder

I was just informed by Premier Clark's office that Dr. Malcolm Moore, President of the BC Cancer Agency, will be in Seattle on Monday. He is participating in a Vancouver to Seattle Bike Ride this weekend and would be willing to overnight Sunday for a possible Monday meeting. We understand that this is very last minute and know that schedules are extremely tight, but I wanted to let you know of the offer to meet. Dr. Moore would like to discuss the potential agreement being queued up for the Sept. 20th meeting in Vancouver.

I have copied Mr. Barinder Bhullar from Premier Clark's office in this email. He has the direct contact information for Dr. Moore.

In terms of next steps, I'd propose we take the lead and get a draft news release and media advisory done up in the next day or so. We'll send it your way with a placeholder for a quote from the Governor. Would that work?

Katy and I can also put some thought into one or two media outlets/reporters that we might want to consider doing a joint sit down with and send that your way for input as well.

Would that work on your end?

Many thanks!

Thanks so much for this. Can we schedule the NY Times interview from 10:10am-10:25am? That will be the joint interview with the Premier and Governor. Will you be securing a room for that, or should I pass that task onto our event folks?

From our standpoint, we would happily do interviews with the Van Sun or Canadian Press, but I don't believe the Governor's schedule will allow for any more joint interviews based on what I'm seeing now.

Tara, please let me know if I'm wrong on that point.

As for the news release, that is still with us and I apologize for the delay on getting that draft to you. I will have it by the end of the day.

First, I'm glad you will be connecting with Nick Wingfield of the New interest in meeting for a join interview with these reporters as well? If so, we're happy to raise the possibility when we speak with the reporters tomorrow to confirm their attendance.

-Tina Lovgreen of CBC

-Geordan Omand of Candian Press

-Susan Lazuruk of Vancouver Sun

Secondly, I wanted to check in on your press plans for the MOU.

Have

you decided about doing a release and, if so, when do you think you'll issue it? Right now, we're planning to send the press release for the conference around 10:30 am. We'll put copies out on the tables, via a One Drive media folder and post to a conference landing page. For planning, would you also like to hand the release out onsite, have us add it to the One Drive sent to reporters, etc?

Finally, we'll have a photographer taking photos onsite who planned to put some photos up on the wire. He's working on our behalf that day.

We're happy to share those photos for your use, of course. Also, if we wanted to post a photo from the public event (such as the signing) on the wire or send to reporters for their use, would that be ok?

Would you need to see it first?

Thanks for helping us with these answers and look forward to meeting you next week.

So if you guys can align on a good time during the day where we can get the two of them together (as long as it is not during the Fireside Chat itself), lets book it. I will send background on Nick and possible questions, etc.

Stephen and Tara,

It was great speaking with you yesterday about the Governor and Premier's participation in the Emerging Cascadia Innovation Conference next week.

We wanted to check-in on the Governor/Premier's ability to do interviews onsite from the conference. Confidentially, Nick Wingfield from the New York Times will be there and we're trying to identify some top officials that will be available.

Would you be interested in us offering a short 1:1 (or 2:1) to Nick?

Susan Lazaruk of the Vancouver Sun is interested in a 1:1 interview with Premier Clark, if she has availability following the interview with the New York Times. Can we confirm this?

Confidentially sharing near final. Think we are close. See in particular the graphs (copied below) on MOU's. This is what we are prepared to go with and are nearing the deadline to close this, need to get it to copy edit and ready for release in a.m. Timing during or near the close of the Governor and the Premier's session tomorrow morning. Let me know if you have any issues, thx.

Leaders on both sides of the border acknowledged the opportunity to create a single interconnected region that could be more competitive in today's global economy and took immediate action today to deepen relationships and strengthen partnerships.

At the conference, Washington Governor Jay Inslee and British Columbia Premier Christy Clark signed a formal agreement that committed the two governments to work closely together to "enhance meaningful and results-driven innovation and collaboration." The agreement outlines formal steps the two governments will take to collaborate in several key areas including trade, research, transportation and education.

In addition, the BC Cancer Agency, Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center, and the Seattle Cancer Care Alliance agreed to develop a new "master collaboration agreement" expanding patient access to care and clinical trials, advancing immunotherapy, enabling research collaboration, and providing better training opportunities for young scientists and researchers.

Subject: Dr. Malcolm Moore

I was just informed by Premier Clark's office that Dr. Malcolm Moore, President of the BC Cancer Agency, will be in Seattle on Monday. He is participating in a Vancouver to Seattle Bike Ride this weekend and would be willing to overnight Sunday for a possible Monday meeting. We understand that this is very last minute and know that schedules are extremely tight, but I wanted to let you know of the offer to meet. Dr. Moore would like to discuss the potential agreement being queued up for the Sept. 20th meeting in Vancouver.

I have copied Mr. Barinder Bhullar from Premier Clark's office in this email. He has the direct contact information for Dr. Moore.

I believe these edits are high-level and in-keeping with the spirit of the MOU.
Does this work for you and your team?

All the best,
