Hi Genevieve,

As per Adam's email I have attached the invoice for the Royal gifts. We are happy to take either credit card (Visa or MasterCard) which my colleague Amanda can take over the phone at 604 224 2456, or you can send a cheque if you prefer. We do not have a preference. Chloe will personally deliver the full gift package- Cedar box, Blanket, Bow Ties and Wraps to Victoria on Monday. It will come perfected and ready to present.

Please let me know if you have any other questions.

Regards,
Antigoni

Good morning,

A couple of questions from our folks at Protocol. Could you please advise. You can let me know and I will forward the info or you can reach Genevieve directly at genevieve.elliott@gov.bc.ca or 250-356-5004.

"1. Are we paying for the wraps by cheque or would they prefer a credit card payment? I haven't received the invoice yet, they could email it to me if they want and I could call them with my credit card info.

2. Are the wraps being delivered to our office or will they be sent to you directly? Do you need them in a gift box for presentation"

FYI- Their address is

Office of Protocol
Intergovernmental Relations Secretariat
PO Box 9422 Stn Prov Govt
Victoria, BC V8W 9V1

Thanks,
Adam

Hello Anish,

I am the publicist for Chloe Angus and I am hoping that you can confirm/approve the following for our media alert:

1. Chloe Angus is exclusively dressing the Premier for her formal engagements during the Royal Visit
2. Chloe Angus has been commissioned to create 5 gifts (3 are one of kind gifts) for the Royals to be gifted by the Premier from the Province.
3. The Premier has been a long time supported of Chloe Angus

We will send the media alert to you for final approval once it's finished this weekend.

Thank you!

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Designer Chloë Angus to represent BC on Royal visit
Gifts by Vancouver-based fashion designer to be presented to the Royal family

Vancouver, BC (Sept. XX, 2016) — Vancouver-based fashion designer Chloë Angus has been commissioned by the office of BC Premier Christy Clark to create five gifts for The Royals and their children during the Royal visit to British Columbia and the Yukon.

The garments, from the Chloë Angus Design Spirit Collection, are a long-running collaboration between the designer and Haida First Nations artist Clarence Steven Mills. The first gifts to be presented are a matching set of silk bow ties for Princes William and George and a Spirit Wrap with akoya shell buttons for Kate.

One-of-a-kind pieces of wearable West Coast art, the Royal set is emblazoned with a “Mother Bear” motif in a deep shade of sapphire blue. Both the design and colour were chosen in honour of Prince William’s mother, the late Princess Diana.

A symbol of strength and family unity in First Nations culture, the Mother Bear is often traditionally carved at the bottom of totem poles, denoting her strength in holding up rest of family. The invocation of the Mother Bear is reserved for the most respected and high-ranking of guests.

The young princess will receive a child-sized Mother Bear Spirit Wrap in baby pink.

Angus has also collaborated with Heiltsuk First Nation artist KC Hall on a Spirit Blanket commissioned by the Chief, Marilyn Slett and a Spirit Blanket commissioned by Premier with a collaboration with First Nation artist, Clarence Mills. The blankets will be presented to the Royal Family in a traditional gifting ceremony in Bella Bella, BC on Monday, September 27.

Chloë Angus Design is the exclusive wardrobe provider for BC Premier Christy Clark throughout the Royal visit.

About Chloë Angus

Born on the Sunshine Coast of BC and raised behind a sewing machine instead of a television, Chloë Angus has been designing clothes since she was a young girl.

Pursuing an education at Vancouver's prestigious Helen Lefeaux School of Fashion Design, Chloë graduated with the intention of creating beautiful, classic, stylish garments for women who aspire to feel elegant in their busy lives. With designs that are as innovative as they are classic, Chloë believes first and foremost in beautiful silhouettes that accentuate all body shapes without compromising her inherent eye for style.

The wild and iconic landscape of British Columbia's West Coast has influenced Chloë's design aesthetic as have her neighbors growing up, the First Nation's people of the West Coast. Working with well-known Haida artist Clarence Mills before completing her Fashion Design education, Chloë learned hands-on about the timeless art and sculpture of the Haida people. Upon finishing school, Chloë immediately embarked on a project with Clarence to unite fashion with this uniquely West-Coast art as a way to showcase and embrace the culture for which she has such profound respect. The Spirit Collection was born and continues to develop and flourish with new designs, artists, and inspirations years later.

These days, ten years after the doors of Chloë Angus Design opened, Chloë can be found designing and conducting fittings in her local studio, catching up with old and new customers, dressing countless actresses/entertainers/performers at the annual Leo Awards, or walking her lovable miniature horse Sonny around the Dunbar neighborhood she calls home.

About Chloë Angus Design

Chloë Angus Design is a small and passionate company that thrives on making women look and feel beautiful. For ten years, the Chloë Angus Design team has been creating high-quality, elegant, chic collections out of the best fabrics available for women of all shapes and sizes.

It is a thrilling and humbling opportunity to be able to collaborate and work with First Nations' artists to create the Spirit Collection. We constantly find inspiration in First Nations' history, art, and culture and have made it a priority to promote and share the important artwork that they create.

As a sustainable company, we take great pride in producing all our garments locally in Vancouver – if it has a Chloë Angus label, it was made by our hard-working neighbours down the street from our studio headquarters.

We are a group of dedicated women who are proud to be a part of a growing fashion company that prides itself on elegance, comfort, sustainability, and style.
