Dear Honourable Christy Clark,

Your party will continue to have my vote if you can commit to crushing organized labour unions, supporting small business, fixing the public education system, and restoring our BC healthcare system. You must focus on these four key issues and the economy will take care of itself.

Thank-you. Keep up the great work.

Subject: Voting choices

Did not vote for the party for numerous reasons, like many. A small list for your consideration:

- MSP tax reduction = too little, 30 years too late
- Carbon tax = yet another tax onto the same taxpayer
- Used auto sales tax = an unethical, repetitive tax charged on the same asset multiple times
- Property transfer tax = same type of unethical tax as on used auto sales
- LNG monetary windfall was an overblown mistruth
- LNG job 'creation' = prediction divided by a denominator of 10
- LNG tax breaks are really a tax burden for the working middle class
- LNG electricity consumption rates are astronomically counter environment
- LNG electricity charge rates are a subsidized millstone for the middle class
- Site C dam which primary purpose is to provide low-ball electricity rates to big business
- Hydro billings which include taxes for public transit
- Unethical, inappropriate contracting out private data handling to foreign entities
- Unethical sale of personal information of ICBC ratepayers to non-public parking lot companies and city governments
- Foreign property purchase tax = too little, 20 years too late
- Pay to play, pay to access
- Illegal election donations
- Sale of public crown lands and assets to shore up the government income statement
- Boondoggle of run-of-river agreements costing the taxpayer millions
- The BC Place white elephant fiasco
- The Translink arrogance, high-handed, waste-o-money debacle
- The 3P contractual disasters whereby the taxpayer holds the bag for revenue shortfalls

There is a growing concern about elitism, push back to globalisation, and the pandering to big business corporate greed. People are tired of being saddled with high debt, high taxation, high cost of living, and a focus by leadership on fiscal greed. Many are saying Enough!

I'm writing an article on how BC's provincial election results will affect Premier Clark's efforts to have thermal coal exports blocked from Canada, and/or implement a carbon tax on thermal coal. I was wondering if someone from her office would be willing to answer a few questions, including how will the carbon tax efforts be affected now that the Liberals have a minority government?

Well isn't this a fine mess, when it would of taken so little vision for you and the party to have corrected. You have to know that the disabled, mental challenge and their care givers are a large section of the voters. Instead of throwing money around like a drunken sailor, before the election, just a portion of that would of won the election hands done, I feel, if you had promised to bring those people up to at least the poverty level, instead of leaving them at half the poverty level, in living condition they are in now. Very poor judgment, not looking after people that are in that position, through no fault of their. As for the homeless, well that's a completely different story, for some it's away of life they choose and not much is going to change that. Others could be helped with an education program designed to get them off the streets. Other then that I think the campaign was well run, with little mud slinging. Not sure how your going to work with Horgan and his temper??? So good luck and who knows you could still get that extra seat. s.22

Dear Premier,

Now that the provincial election is over, I am extremely relieved that the NDP did not get to lead our province.

Hearty congratulations on the hard work of the BC Liberal Party.

While looking forward to another 4 years of Liberal leadership under Premier Christy Clark, I do have concern that the NDP was able to get more voters support on this election and would like to make some suggestions to the Premier just in case the next election favours the NDP which I hope never happens in BC.

Please consider the following; To increase revenue

1. Increase the foreign buyers tax on properties to 30% which hopefully makes housing more affordable to BC residents.

- 2.reduce operation cost on BC Ferry, ICBC and other provincial entities.

To increase spending on surplus

- 1.Reduce ICBC premium

- 2.Eliminate MSP payments

- 3.Provide more funds on affordable housing

- 4.Allocate more funds on whatever items the party feels the voters can benefit, such as provincial infrastructures, benefits the younger generation can enjoy etc.

The NDP is notoriously efficient in spending whatever surplus left behind by the previous administration, should in the unlikely event the NDP comes into power in the next election why not let the present administration spend more money wisely and generously in the 4 years coming and leave no surplus behind.

Subject: Congratulations! BC Elections

Dear Christy:

Congratulations! all your hard work paid off!

Now more hard work and challenges lie ahead. These are different challenges take note. Where before you had the luxury just to work with the liberals, now you will work with the NDP and the Green Party. Together you have the opportunity to build BC. Yes, working with all British Columbians! Just imagine that this opportunity has presented itself as we celebrate 150 years of Canada!

Your focus will broaden considerably; from the economic sector to the environment sector (Green) and the social sector (NDP). You will get the opportunity now to look at how to integrate all your issues across the board. Your revenues and costs based on priorities. And of course your investments with huge one time costs whose return will come much later.

Some of the items that i have written about previously (of liberal, ndp and green interests) are as follows:

1. humanitarian village (homeless, addiction (tobacco, alcohol, drug), mentally challenged, physically challenged - one per province; creates employment for a medical, operating, security among other; prevents people from falling through the cracks; good tracking system; detox centers; prevent huge wastage of material resources, various operation centers; aim is to make the clients well and empower them to run the village until well enough to leave; nothing is free; instead of roaming the streets, stealing etc, they will work - clean, cook , sweep, mop, rake, farm, whatever); all within the charter of rights; strict discipline, boot camp, but humane!)

2. Immigrants - refugees, professionals seeking a better quality of life both high end and low end, businessmen, and the wealthy. The main idea is how do you integrate them; that they understand the importance of civil society and how to contribute toward the maintenance and building of civil infrastructure (schools, hospitals, community centers, roads, sewers etc) ; our constitution, laws, municipal, provincial and federal governments. One of the key issue was that of housing real estate costs and the affordability of buying a house by ordinary British Columbians.

i am of a firm belief that those wealthy immigrants must be taxed (which we did) and in addition they must create new housing for themselves ie they are not allowed to buy existing structures. They must be convinced of this. And one more step forward, they must go into a public private partnership with the government. Assume that we target a hundred wealthy immigrants. The government creates new housing and convinces the new immigrants to buy into this new housing. of course there are options that the government must present in terms of locations and type of new housing. we must leave existing housing for those who are already here. And the government must also create affordable housing for them to. If there are thousand families who fall under a certain revenue criteria the government could present various options of types and locations and then sell it to a group of families.

we must make it easier for professionals to enter the job market; instead of having people work at menial jobs, we must give them incentives such as a loan to get their qualifications up to par with Canadian standards. they would sign an agreement such that after their qualifications are upgraded they would pay off their loans. They move on to citizenship status after their loans are paid; and they are only allowed to leave the country after some years working in Canada. ie make the process secure such that people leave right after they have their Canadian qualifications

3. As I have written before, the provincial and federal government must encourage the Indigenous Organizations to build Community Centers in one major city in each province. The Indigenous Organization should close all schools above elementary. Those students must move to the city and live at the Community Center. They would attend middle and high schools in the city which are better equipped in all aspects; sport, education, laboratories, science, technology, arts. The Community Centers would be run by Professional Indigenous Staff well capable in disseminating and preserving culture. During vacation time, the students would visit their parents to continue their cultural traditions.

The Indigenous Organizations must run their land, resources and communities as a business in all aspects. This will enable them to survive for years to come. They must be in a position to work with the governments and private businesses and form partnerships. They could charge rent, share the profits, sign clauses for capacity building and training all the while ensuring that there are clauses protecting their land from pollution. they could be part of the board of directors. And by involving themselves in the running of business, they will realize their future needs with reference to human resources. they will know what professions are required, will be required within their communities and coach,mentor the students accordingly.

4. Now let us address the issues of education. I am of the firm belief that the provincial and federal government stop supporting private religious schools, colleges and universities. Religious education is the responsibility of each Faith Community within their homes and houses of worship. The social sciences offered from K-University must include the mention of all Faiths and Ideologies. The wise men of the past, some of them divinely inspired have been instrumental in the evolution of communities. the value systems, laws, the ethical frameworks, all of civil society exist today because of the Faith Communities. The goal is to promote diversity, pluralism, reduce intolerance and advance the concepts of meritocracy and acceptance of the 'other'. And as this is a continuous process, we will see a more peaceful society. It is only then that we will be able to work across ethnicity, color, faith and solve our common problems with the best minds working together.

In high schools, we must bring in more of the software code principles. Critical analysis and global thinking also must play a part.

5. Major Projects and their consequences on the environment.

6. Climate Control

7 Solar Energy

8. Lady Jane

The Hon.Mrs. Christy Clark
Premier of British Columbia

Dear Mrs.Clark,

Keeping it short. Listening to the comments after we " Liberals" failed the election, dare to come you with an issue you never thought about: the regular winner Quebec.

When Ottawa offers a press release always start with "Canada and Quebec". sheeting Quebec is not a part of Canada. with a population of some 8 million holding 78 seats.

The three Western Provinces 10 million with 90 seats are lacking the power as it does not have the same attitude "either/or" like Quebec. there is where you failed. Time is now to approach Ottawa with a voice of presence, "Canada and British Columbia."

Don't bother to ask historians because of the 1865 decision. Trudeau Sr.could not careless with his 1964 constitutional change

So gather the Weston Premiers confidential and set an agenda together will make THE WEST a voice in the House of Commons. such without heritage references. the Central Canadian game..

Correspondence

Ms Clark,

I just wanted to clarify how I, and many others who I know felt, our message is simply that we want the liberals out. Do not fool yourself that the public's intent is just wanting change for parties to work together and do business collaboratively.

As any leader, you should honestly take responsibility when things do not go "right" - or you are a poor leader.

Your messaging is false.

Oh, and I did not vote NDP.

Just listened to Vaughn Palmer's interview with you yesterday. He asked basically if you were at fault for losing the seats and popular vote.

You just don't get it. You are full of yourself and flakey. You can't take responsibility for your actions, and those were your false smile, your two faced answers, and your strictly money based attitude, in other words SCREW the people, my pockets are full. I wish you got wiped out.

You are a disgrace.

Madam Premier: However the election results play out, I am very heartened by your newly conciliatory statements. I hope you genuinely mean them as the government is of the people and for the people. If nothing else this election should prove to you and Liberals that you lose sight of the values of ordinary people, working or not at your peril. There are so many serious issues to be addressed and I hope you are able enough to get past the partisanship that has dogged the BC government for the past four years. s.22
