Governments of Canada and of British Columbia conclude study on protection of southern mountain caribou News Release

From Environment and Climate Change Canada<<https://www.canada.ca/en/environment-climate-change.html>>

February 24, 2017 - Ottawa, Ontario - Environment and Climate Change Canada

Conserving wildlife is integral to Canada's natural environment, and it supports our health and economy. The Government of Canada is committed to working with the provinces, territories, Indigenous people, and stakeholders to manage and support the recovery of species at risk.

The Minister of Environment and Climate Change, the Honourable Catherine McKenna, and the Minister of Environment for British Columbia, the Honourable Mary Polak, released today the final report from the joint Canada-British Columbia study on the protection of southern mountain caribou and their habitat.

The full report is available on the Species at Risk Public Registry<http://registrelep-sararegistry.gc.ca/document/default\_e.cfm?documentID=3106> and is open to public comment for a period of 30 days.

The study will inform provincial and federal decision-making with respect to the ongoing protection and recovery of southern mountain caribou and its critical habitat.

Quotes

"Our government is committed to the protection and recovery of Canada's species at risk, such as southern mountain caribou, using conservation measures based on sound science and robust recovery plans. The joint study is an important step to ensure the continued protection and recovery of this iconic species."

- The Honourable Catherine McKenna, Minister of Environment and Climate Change

"This important study compliments the extensive efforts already happening in British Columbia, including efforts to increase caribou populations, protect and restore habitat, and manage predators and recreation activities. It will also help inform our recently announced $27-million comprehensive caribou recovery program."

- The Honourable Mary Polak, Minister of Environment for British Columbia

From our PO:

Not confirmed but indications are that PM in Victoria tomorrow; then in Vancouver tomorrow evening.

Meeting with PCC not confirmed but the 2 political teams are working on it.

So we should send the briefing material no later than early afternoon today to Neil – I will copy PO just in case.

Jeremy: I think you have the format Grant is using.

Sandra and I will be working on the package.

Grant: I sent you a table that was used in the past. Lets see if you /Don can work on this asap.

Thanks

Dear Prime Minister Rt Hon Justin Trudeau & Premier Hon Christy Clark:

Re: Visit to the Downtown Eastside of Vancouver, BC – Invite MLA Melanie Mark

I am writing s.22
s.22 s.22 , bringing advocacy, awareness, and action to the opioid overdoes crisis. This is crisis is one that has crossed all boundaries of class, creed and community, and it is important that all people, no matter of what political stripe, are included in the discussion. Even more so, Ms. Melanie Mark, knows firsthand the stories of the residents, and can bring an insightful perspective to tour, and provide well needed background, and it is my hope further advocacy to this crisis, bringing the community concerns directly to yourself as Prime Minister and Premier.

I have copied other elected representative and the CBC on this email to make them aware of our concerns; it has been a significant wrong that the disenfranchised, opioid addicts, and the underclass have been set aside and disregarded in the downtown eastside, and the one opportunity that the community's representative has the opportunity to raise awareness, it is denied. As a person who value dignity, respect, and compassion for all, s.22 . I ask if the Office of the Prime Minister and the Premier are truly wanting government of "all Canadians," to please ensure s.22 Ms. Melanie Mark, is also is part of the discussion today. Many of us are very upset that she was not given an invite. If this was merely an oversight, please now be advised and send the RSVP.

Her participation is important not only to the community, but to also show that senior governments of government take there community's needs with the same regard as others. MLA Melanie Mark's office can be contacted at 604-660-0707.

I look forward to your reply, and in seeing Ms. Mark as part of the discussion.

Checking my email. Still haven't received an invite from the Prime Minister or Christy Clark about their tour of the Downtown Eastside tomorrow. Opioid deaths have crushed people/ communities throughout this province. Every day our community office does what we can to help families faced with grief and loss. If anyone knows when and where they're meeting - please let my staff know. 604-660-0707. I'll be there.
