Hi Sheena,

Below are our key messages and response on the cost increases, along with background details for the Surrey LRT portion.

I've also attached three documents here – the most relevant two are the Top 15 Q&A (especially the first page) and the Cost Estimates backgrounders for the technical details. The Phase 2 summary backgrounder also has the full breakdown of costs for the entire second phase – please note that these are capital and operating dollars, as that is how Translink needs to balance their funding/expenses in this investment plan.

Please let me know if you need anything further and I will pull it together.

Thanks,

Craig

IF ASKED ABOUT TRANSLINK'S INVESTMENT PLAN ANNOUNCEMENT:

- Our government remains committed to funding 40% of the capital costs of each phase of the Mayors' Council's 10-Year Vision.
- Investing in improved and expanded transit and transportation systems makes life better for British Columbians, while helping the environment and reducing congestion.
- I'm pleased by the work TransLink is doing to advance Phase 2 of the Mayors' Council 10-Year Vision for transit in Metro Vancouver.
- We encourage the public to participate in the public consultation TransLink has launched, and we look forward to continue working with the federal government, TransLink and the Mayors' Council to have these projects underway as soon as possible.
- The business cases for both the Millennium Line Broadway Extension and Surrey Light Rail Transit projects are currently being reviewed by the provincial and federal government.

IF ASKED ABOUT INCREASE IN COSTS:

- The estimated cost of the Surrey-Newton-Guildford LRT Line is $1.65 billion, subject to approval of the business case and may be refined through additional technical analysis, public input and design modifications.
- The estimate will be finalized at the end of the procurement process.

- Our government remains committed to funding 40% of the capital costs of each phase of the Mayors' Council's 10-Year Vision.
- The business cases for both the Millennium Line Broadway Extension and Surrey Light Rail Transit projects are currently being reviewed by the provincial and federal government.
- Further questions on project costs are best answered by TransLink

BACKGROUND:

Project Cost:

The Surrey-Newton-Guildford LRT is currently estimated at $1.65B. Business cases are still with senior government for approval.

Previous project costs shared in the Mayors' Vision:

- Surrey-Newton-Guildford LRT:
 - In 2015$: $1.24B = 33% increase or $410M

Original high-level cost estimates in 2014 for these projects are now 4 years old and since that time TransLink has seen costs go up for all sectors and all projects including:

- Significant increases in property, construction material, and labour costs across the country.
- Inflationary pressures such as the drop in the value of the Canadian dollar.

The current cost estimate has been informed by technical work conducted since 2014, including:

- Detailed project cost estimates
- Up-to-date labour and material costs
- Up-to-date property value assessments
- Design work and scope definition
- Site investigations, geotechnical explorations and constructability reviews
- Environmental reviews
- Multiple rounds of public consultation
- Independent due diligence assessments

Hi Sheena,

Would you please take over The Day Ahead while Jen is on the road?

Here's the process:

1. Scan the Corporate Calendar for events inside and outside government of interest.
2. Create a draft the evening before the day ahead
3. Send the draft to Roseanne and Ed that same evening. They'll let you know if anything more should be added.
4. The morning of send The Day Ahead send the overview to the distribution lists for MAs, EAs, our office and our Vancouver office, Mike Lowe and the GCPE EDs, Cara, Karl, and Marie.

I've attached a sample for you to work off.

Also, there is no longer a day of pink event on the 11th(Wednesday). Might we consider having the premier attend the midday announcement of better support for first responders with ptsd? There will be several folks in uniform as well as a police car, fire truck and ambulance at the front steps.

Hi Janet!

I just spoke with Keith Baldrey about this. At this point he is not doing any national shows.

A bit of an update to these Q and As:

Questions from Chinese media on Teleconference with the Premier

Q: Why eliminate the ministry of small business

A:
-We have committed to building an economy that works for everyone - not just those at the top.

-Small business owners are a key part of our plan to make life more affordable, fix the services people count on and create good jobs in a sustainable economy.

-For 16 years the Liberals only worked for people at the top, and many businesses struggled because of this.

-One way we're going to help small businesses grown and prosper is with our commitment to a half-point cut to the small business tax rate.

Q: Why eliminate the ministry of international trade

A:
-Minister of State for Trade George Chow and our strong cabinet team that will stand up for BC families and businesses when it comes to trade

-Getting a good deal for BC in the international marketplace is a priority for our government

-I will be travelling to Washington myself next week to fight for British Colombians get a fair deal on the Softwood Agreement

Teresa Watt attacks

Q: Why downgrade ministry of multiculturalism to parliamentary secretary?

Q: Chinese community has 500,000 in population while South Asian community is only half of the size. Why NDP Government appointed two senior South Asian ministers but none from Chinese community?

Q: Why four Chinese-Canadian MLAs only took junior minister or parliamentary secretary jobs not senior ministers?

A:

-We want government to reflect and represent the diversity of British Columbia in everything we do.

-Our cabinet includes a mix of new and experienced MLAs which reflects gender equality and ethnic diversity.

* Four ministers and two parliamentary secretaries aged 40 and under

* 10 ministers and parliamentary secretaries who identify as a visible minority

* The first First Nations woman appointed to cabinet

Questions from Chinese media on Teleconference with the Premier

Q: Why eliminate ministry of small business

A: New Democrats campaigned on making life more affordable, delivering the services people count on, and building a sustainable economy that benefits everyone. These three priorities are linked together. When we take care of each other and invest in our communities, we take care of our economy.

I've heard from countless business owners who told me that the lack of affordable housing was making it difficult to attract skilled workers to our cities.

Business owners also told me about the need to get people and goods moving with real investments in transit and transportation.

We're going to help businesses grow and families prosper by moving on all three priorities.

Q: Why eliminate ministry of international trade

A: More than 30,000 forestry jobs have been lost under the B.C. Liberals, and even more forest jobs are in danger because of Christy Clark's failure to fight for a fair softwood lumber agreement.

The B.C. Liberals had two years to take action on Softwood Lumber before the deal expired and became a crisis for B.C. communities. They stood by and did nothing.

One of my first acts as premier will be to travel to Washington DC to fight for a fair agreement that protects our forest industry.

We will put people at the heart of everything we do. And we'll work hard to deliver on our commitments to British Columbians."

The government includes a mix of new and experienced MLAs which reflects gender equality and ethnic diversity.

The Union Club is available and reserved for us for May 15 for the press gallery/MLA skit night dinner, so please lock that date in your schedules.

We'll send some more information next week on it. But likely very similar format as in past, with expanded food options. We'll have wireless mics. In the past, government/caucus has sent a tech person down that day with a laptop to set up video/audio because the MLAs sometimes like to play videos, and everyone can bring those videos on a USB drive to be put on a central laptop.

If caucuses could collect the $20/MLA fee for us, and tell us how many MLAs are coming, that would be great.

As a reminder, the event is MLA/media only, and off the record. There's a limited number of staff spots, which we are going to set this year as: 4 NDP government, 2 Liberal Opposition and 1 Green. Up to the caucuses how you'd like to allocate those, but if there are any issues let us know.

With the changing of hands on the press gallery executive, it has fallen to Bhinder and I to figure out the date of the MLA/gallery dinner this year.

Usually we have it right at the end of the session, in the last couple of weeks, often on a Tuesday night.

So, asking the three of you to check your caucus calendars and see if May 29 or May 15 would work? May 22 is a break week.

We can go back and forth till we figure it out.

We'll get you some more info on the format once we've canvassed gallery members.

Likely still the Union Club location, with a start time after house rises that day.

In general would still also likely be the $20 per MLA charge that we're hopeful caucus can collect for us like they have in past years.

Premier's statement on Kinder Morgan's decision on the Trans Mountain expansion project

VICTORIA - Premier John Horgan has issued the following statement regarding Kinder Morgan's decision to suspend non-essential spending on the Trans Mountain expansion project:

"British Columbians expect their government to stand up for their interests and our coast, and to do everything we can to protect our land and waters, our coastal communities and our local economies.

"The federal process failed to consider B.C.'s interests and the risk to our province. We joined the federal challenge, started by others, to make that point."

"We believe we need to grow the economy, while protecting the environment. We want to work to address these challenges together. But we will always stand up for British Columbians, our environment and the thousands of jobs that depend on our coast."

Hello,
Red FM has invited (see email below) the Premier to draw one of their last finalists for the car give away contents at the Vancouver Parade and to draw the winner of the car at the Surrey parade.
Huge numbers of people are at the red fm stage when this happens and is a great opportunity for the premier to address people. They have however requested that others who wish to speak might have to wait until the draw is done.
This annual contest by Red fm is hugely popular and past premiers have made it a point to be present for draws. We mustn't miss this opportunity.

Hi Shruti: Further to our conversation, we would like to have Premier John Horgan on RED FM stage during Vancouver Vaisakhi and Surrey Vaisakhi Parade on 14th April and 21st April respectively.

Vancouver Vaisakhi Parade (Location: 51st and main Street): We would like to have Premier Horgan on RED FM stage to draw a finalist's name for the car giveaway contest. The contest time is 12.30pm so we are requesting Premier Horgan's presence at that time.

Surrey Vaisakhi Parade (Location: In front of RED FM Studio): This year we are giving away brand new Kia Sorento. The lucky winner of this car will be drawn during Surrey Vaisakhi Parade at 12.30pm. We would request Premier Horgan's presence for this event as well as he will be drawing the name of one lucky winner who will take home brand new Kia Sorento.

Please confirm at the earliest.

Thank you so much.

Can you please advise if there are any concerns with the disclosure of these records? Particularly the Q & As? Was GCPE involved? Should we seek their views concerning disclosure? We will be protecting personal email addresses.

Hi all,

The Postmedia chain has started a national feature that I've been assigned to participate in, about the relationships between the various BC, Alberta and NDP parties. The Alberta political reporter and a National Post reporter and myself are all tasked with getting some insight into what it's been like behind the scenes dealing with New Democrats from other provinces, other governments, etc.

Alberta is looking at the influence of Jason Kenney on Notley's government, her upcoming election and the pipeline dispute. The Post is looking at the relationship between the federal party and its provincial counterparts. I'm looking at the confidence deal with the Greens, the relationship with Alberta amid the pipeline dispute and any other provincial/federal relationships.

As part of it, I'm hoping for a few minutes with the premier in the next week or so. I can move my schedule around to accommodate his. Talk about what it's been like dealing with friends in Alberta and Ottawa now that he's in power, the changing dynamics in the small world of New Democrats in power in Canada, if that's strained his friendships or relationships, etc.

I'd also like to chat with Bob Dewar if he has a minute, drawing on his expertise with the NDP in other provinces. That can be on background. Open to any other background chats with people you can recommend. Seeking out anecdotes and context.

And I need to check – is John Heaney doing any “consulting” or “advising” work for the BC government in any capacity? Just need to cross that off my list if he is, or isn't, and what it might be.

I've got a couple weeks to work this, but better to schedule times now. Story will run in our papers, the Alberta papers and nationally.

Thanks,
Rob

Hello Sheena,

I hope you're having a wonderful day.

My name is Derek Juno and I'm one of the individuals that help run Mealshare a social enterprise that's on a mission to end youth hunger across BC and Canada. s.22

We're hoping to get your team's support and John's involvement in our main fundraiser Tonight for Tomorrow (TFT). For every dollar spent on dinner at one of our participating restaurant partners that night, one dollar will be donated to Mealshare to help us grow. This will have a massive impact on Mealshare and the youth we help across BC!

We're hoping John might be able to support the event, by doing one (or both) of two things:

- The EASY option! Committing to send out a tweet or social media post in the weeks leading up to the event, and the day of the event, and allow us to say you'll be 'supporting the event and spreading the word about it via social media'

- The DELICIOUS option! Commit to going out for dinner at one of the participating restaurants on May 9th, and allow us to say you'll be 'supporting the event and going out to dine yourself (not sure if John will be in Vancouver, Calgary, or Ottawa on May 9th)'

John passed your email address to s.22 to give to me. So hopefully we can connect on this :D.

Thanks so much in advance Sheena!

Hey there.

Can you also let me know if the Premier is going to react to the "suggestion for a solution" that Jagmeet Singh is giving shortly here in Ottawa?
If it's just a statement, can you forward that to me please?

Also, Minister Morneau said last night that he is going to meet with Premier Notley today.

Any word if he is also meeting with Premier Horgan, or has there been any word since yesterday from Ottawa?

Thanks!

Hi Ed

Hope alls well

I believe my colleague Ian Vandaelle may have reached out but wanted to ask you if Minister Horgan might be able to join BNN today for an interview once he's finished with his announcement in Victoria?

Thanks

Michael

Hi there,

I'm writing to follow up on my email from last week. My deadline is quickly approaching and we'd really like to include comments from Premier Horgan in regards to the NDP's past year in government. Please let me know if you have any concerns.

Thank you,

Hi Jen,

My name is Ashley Stephens and I am a writer with DARPAN Magazine. I am currently working on a story about the NDP's first year in power and was hoping to speak to Mr. Horgan about how he believes the year has gone. I am hoping he can speak to what has been promised and delivered so far as well as the major issues the government has had to address.

I have a few questions I could send by email or arrange a time to speak by phone if that is more convenient. I would hope to be in touch by Wednesday, April 25th in order to meet my deadline. Please let me know if I can provide additional information.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Thank you,
Ashley

Hey,

I referred Bob Mackins request about fundraising over to the BCNDP, but he is now claiming these happened during business hours. Any thoughts?

Both events happened during regular business hours, rather than evenings or weekends, and the schedule document about the Aug. 25 event lists you. So I believe it is a reasonable expectation for the Office of the Premier to comment, rather than refer to the party.

Hello Sheena,

I hope this finds you well.

I asked about this last November, but did not get a reply.

I have confirmed that numerous attendees of this Aug. 25, 2017 event did, in fact, make donations to the NDP that are dated Sept. 13, 2017. Some for as much as $5,000 each. Why wasn't a "Fundraising Function" form about the Aug. 25, 2017 filed with Elections BC?

Similarly, the Sept. 6, 2017 event at the home of Kulwant Dhesi. There is no "Fundraising Function" form attached to this event. Mr. Desi and other attendees' donations are listed in Elections BC for Oct. 17, 2017.

Since the Premier attended both of these events, could you please comment on his attendance at these fundraising events, which were both held during business hours.

Hello,

I noticed this document, about an Aug. 25 event coordinated by Chak Au and attended by the Premier and you.

http://docs.openinfo.gov.bc.ca/Response_Package_OOP-2017-73439.pdf

What was the venue for the event?

What was the purpose of this event?

Did the Office of the Premier pay for the event?

Was there any direct or indirect party fundraising at the event?

Sincerely,

Bob Mackin

We should be able to send a camera to the legislature if that makes things any easier.

Could you please let me know if Premier Horgan would be available live at 5pmET/2pmPT tomorrow<x-apple-data-detectors://1>(Monday)?

We would like to talk about the Trans Mountain pipeline project, and Kinder Morgan suspending non-essential spending on the project.

Hey there,

Shane Woodford is characterizing the below changes to highway safety measures on the Coquihalla as 'breaking news'. Just in case you are asked here are the changes below. It's a pilot project that enforces stricter chain regulations, banning big rigs from the far left and extending the time requirements for winter tires.

NEWS RELEASE
Province boosts winter highway safety measures

VICTORIA - Following an intense winter, the Ministry of Transportation and Infrastructure is undertaking several improvements to make British Columbia highways safer and more reliable during winter months.

"I have heard from people and communities throughout the province that we need to take action to improve safety on our highways," said Claire Trevena, Minister of Transportation and Infrastructure. "With that in mind, our government is moving quickly to implement changes that will ensure people are able to get where they need to go more safely through the winter months."

The ministry is moving on a number of measures, including:

- * Stricter commercial vehicle chain-up requirements, including higher fines for commercial vehicles not carrying chains, or not chaining up when required. Currently, the fine is $121.

- * A pilot program to restrict commercial vehicles from using the far left lane on key three-lane highway sections in the winter, to ensure routes remain open to snow plows, emergency vehicles and passenger vehicles.

- * Investing $1.8 million over the next three years in additional weather stations and overhead message signs to provide better real-time weather and road condition information.

- * Enhanced road-maintenance contractor monitoring and auditing, leveraging new tools and technology, like road weather stations, variable speed limit systems, and GPS tracking of snow plows.
- * Extending winter tire and chain regulations on select highways, including mountain passes and rural routes in high snowfall areas, from Oct. 1 to April 30 (instead of March 31), to account for early-spring snowfall.
- * More support for the Winter Driving Safety Alliance through a specific winter driving campaign, to promote safe winter driving behaviour and awareness for all drivers.

The ministry will be engaging publicly with the commercial trucking industry, and other stakeholders, in the coming months on the implementation of the new safety measures, with required regulatory changes expected to be in place by next winter.

Winter preparation improvements in British Columbia: an in-depth look

Ensuring peoples' safety and providing quality highway maintenance, especially during winter driving conditions, is the ministry's top priority.

Here is an expanded look at the highway maintenance improvements the Ministry of Transportation and Infrastructure will be implementing:

Stricter commercial vehicle chain-up requirements - Commercial vehicle safety is a priority, especially on mountain passes. The ministry will enforce higher fines for commercial vehicle operators not carrying chains, or who don't chain up when mandatory. The exact fine amounts are yet to be determined. Other North American jurisdictions have fines up to $1,200 for similar violations.

Commercial vehicle lane restrictions - During winter months, limiting the lanes on certain corridors that commercial vehicles can use will reduce the risk of collisions with passenger vehicles, and highway blockages due to spun-out trucks. On key three-lane highway sections during winter, commercial vehicles will be restricted from using the far left lane, to ensure more reliable and safe access for the traveling public. When all lanes are blocked, the ability for emergency crews and maintenance equipment to move along the highway is eliminated, compounding the closure.

Investing in more weather stations and overhead signs - The ministry will invest $1.8 million over the next 3 years in weather stations and overhead highway signs to give drivers as much information as possible while traveling during challenging conditions. Weather stations are an important tool for maintenance contractors to proactively plan for winter storms, and also support compliance reporting by ministry staff. Digital overhead signs are vital in sharing real-time weather data and road conditions for all drivers.

Improved road maintenance contractor oversight - B.C. has some of the highest standards for highway maintenance in the world, and we want to ensure our maintenance contractors are meeting those standards. Ministry staff will expand contractor monitoring and auditing, including 24/7 compliance checks during winter storms. New tools and technology will enhance this oversight, including the use of GPS tracking of snow plows.

More support for safe winter driving awareness - The Winter Driving Safety Alliance, which is dedicated to improving road safety throughout the province, is managed by WorkSafeBC, and funded by the Ministry of Transportation and Infrastructure and ICBC. The alliance executes a highly successful Shift Into Winter campaign annually, using multiple platforms to promote safe winter driving and awareness. The ministry will provide more funding and social media support for this important campaign to ensure it reaches more British Columbians.

Winter tire and chain regulation expansion - The current regulations require drivers to equip their vehicles with winter tires on most B.C. highways, and all commercial vehicle operators to carry chains, from Oct. 1 to March 31. Motorists must have either M + S (mud and snow) or mountain/snowflake tires with a minimum tread depth of 3.5 millimetres, and commercial drivers must use chains when mandatory chain-ups are in place, or conditions warrant their use. The ministry will expand the date range through to April 30 on select highways and mountain passes, to account for potential early spring snowfall events which occur regularly in the Southern Interior and Northern regions of the province.

Highway maintenance contract changes:

- * B.C.'s highway maintenance program is broken down into 28 service areas.
- * 26 of the 28 service areas are up for contract renewal in 2018-19, through an open bidding process.
- * The new contract will require a more proactive approach to highway maintenance around winter weather events. The biggest improvements over the last contract are:
 - * On Class A highways, a return to bare pavement within 24 hours of a winter weather event ending (old standard was 48 hours) at temperatures warmer than -9 C, when de-icing chemical use is effective.
 - * An increase in patrol frequency to 90 minutes on a Class A highway like the Coquihalla during a winter storm (old standard was four hours).
 - * When a weather event is forecasted to occur, an increase in patrol frequency to 4 hours in anticipation of the weather event coming (old standard was 24 hours)

- * A contractor requirement to use remote weather information systems to forecast when a weather event will occur, and to spread anti-icing chemicals prior to the weather event.
- * A 9.5 millimetre abrasive size (old standard was 12.5 millimetres) to reduce potential windshield damage.
- * Service Area 11 in East Kootenay was the first to sign this new contract in fall 2016, and Service Area 20 in Robson (McBride) will be up for renewal in 2021.

Winter facts:

- * The ministry's maintenance contractors maintain nearly 47,000 kilometres of road and 2,800 bridges in some of the most challenging terrain in Canada.
- * Crews apply 750,000 tonnes of winter abrasives over 1.2-million kilometres and 100,000 tonnes of salt to highways throughout B.C.
- * The Coquihalla summit had a total snowfall of 830 centimetres from Oct. 1, 2017, to the end of February 2018 - 114% higher than the 10-year average.
- * Kootenay Pass had a highest ever recorded snowfall of 1012 centimetres from Oct. 1, 2017 to the end of February 2018 - 148% higher than the 10-year average.
- * The Coquihalla has an average of 21 full closures per winter. Through January 2018, there were 35 closures, 31 of them involving commercial vehicles.

Hi Tara,
Hope you're well. Tomorrow Kenmore Air and Harbour Air will announce a new direct seaplane service between Seattle and Vancouver, BC. This is a significant step to connect our growing innovation hubs and generate new economic opportunity for the region.
We'd be grateful if you could help amplify this news on the Governor's social media channels (the news is embargoed until 6am PST tomorrow Thursday 04.05 – press release attached.)
Transportation has always been a key part of our work to enhance connectivity throughout the Cascadia Innovation Corridor. Together with potential for future high-speed rail service, we're excited to see positive, sustained momentum toward this goal. British Columbia has the fastest growing tech sector in Canada. These new, direct flights will make it easy for business, research, and academic leaders to work together, with direct one-hour downtown flights connecting the cities.

Please join me in congratulating Harbour Air and Kenmore Air: two homegrown Pacific Northwest companies on both sides of the border, building a partnership that embodies the collaborative spirit of the Cascadia Corridor.

Thanks in advance, and let me know if you have any questions.

Cheers,

Luis

Hey, here are some of the numbers I was talking about yesterday:

- A single spill of diluted bitumen would put at risk tens of thousands of jobs that rely on our coast.
- Jobs in Tourism. We have over 19,000 tourism businesses employing 133,000 people here in BC.
- Tourism generates $17 Billion each year. (Ministry)
- This year, 895,000 people are expected to pass through Vancouver on cruise ships. That's up seven percent and the highest since 2010. (VFPA)
- The Vancouver Fraser Port Authority estimates these visits will directly contribute $840 million to our economy.
- Our seafood sector accounts for $1.2 billion in sales in BC and $1.3 billion in exports. And exports are growing - up 17% in 2016 (2016, BC Stats)
- Fisheries and seafood contributes more than $660 million each year to our GDP, employs 14,000 people and pays nearly $400 million in wages (2011, BC Stats).
- The wild salmon economy alone employs 10,000 British Columbians in communities up and down the coast. (2017, Pacific Salmon Commission)
- Sport fishing employs 8,400 people and generates close to a billion dollars each year in revenues. (2011, BC Stats)
- Our film industry supports more than 60,000 direct and indirect jobs. (CMPA)
- The City of Vancouver commissioned an economic study for the NEB review looking at just five ocean-dependent activities: Commercial fishing, port activities, inner-harbour transportation, tourism and recreation.
- For Vancouver alone, these five ocean-dependent activities generate more than $6.7 billion in economic activity and support more than 36,000 jobs.
- Their modelling shows that a single spill could wipe out more than $1.2 billion in economic activity and over 12,000 jobs.

I'm wondering if the Premier's office has a response to Jagmeet Singh's comments today.

Specifically:

1. Does the government have a comment on Jagmeet Singh's proposal for a joint BC-federal reference to the Supreme Court re: Trans Mountain?
2. Has the BC government formally proposed to the federal government that such a joint reference be made?

Please let me know ASAP.

Subject: CBC question - Jagmeet Singh

Sheena...

I'm a writer with CBC.ca in Ottawa.

I'm wondering if the Premier's office has a response to Jagmeet Singh's comments today.

Specifically:

1. Does the government have a comment on Jagmeet Singh's proposal for a joint BC-federal reference to the Supreme Court re: Trans Mountain?

2. Has the BC government formally proposed to the federal government that such a joint reference be made?

Please let me know ASAP.

Aaron.

Draft statement, please weigh in.

“If Alberta or the Federal government decided to reconsider, we would welcome their participation.”

We received a call from Chief Ernest Alfred on the main PO line today at 4:10; I had a brief conversation with him; his message was that he has received an eviction notice (the first one of its kind, he says) from Marine Harvest stating he must be off the island by May 6. He added that he had no intention of leaving and he is wondering how the government will react to this.

I also suggested that he send a written notice via email to the PREM with the same information at his earliest convenience. He said he would comply, likely by day's end.

NEWS RELEASE
Province submits court reference to protect B.C.'s coast

VICTORIA - The Government of British Columbia has submitted a reference question to the B.C. Court of Appeal today to affirm its right to protect B.C. from the threat of a diluted bitumen spill.

The reference question concerns provincial autonomy, particularly the rights of British Columbia to regulate the environmental and economic impacts of heavy oils, like diluted bitumen, transported through the province. It was filed today in the B.C. Court of Appeal.

"We have asked the courts to confirm B.C.'s powers within our jurisdiction to defend B.C.'s interests, so that there is clarity for today and for the generations to come," said Premier John Horgan. "Our government will continue to stand up for the right to protect B.C.'s environment, economy and coast."

On March 12, 2018, the government announced it had retained expert legal counsel to prepare and present a reference case related to B.C.'s right to protect the province's land, coast and waters.

For its reference, the B.C. government is asking the court to review proposed amendments to the Environmental Management Act that would give the Province authority to regulate impacts of heavy oils, like diluted bitumen, which, when released into the environment, would endanger human health, the environment and communities.

"We have been clear from the outset that the appropriate way to resolve disagreements over jurisdiction is through the courts, not through threats or unlawful measures to target citizens of another province," said

David Eby, Attorney General. "This reference question seeks to confirm the scope and extent of provincial powers to regulate environmental and economic risks related to heavy oils like diluted bitumen."

The Province has been engaged with Indigenous groups, industry, environmental organizations and local governments to improve spill response in British Columbia.

"Our government is working to protect our economy, environment and communities by making sure we have effective spills prevention, response and recovery in place," said George Heyman, Minister of Environment and Climate Change Strategy. "A single spill of diluted bitumen would put at risk tens of thousands of jobs across B.C. We have a responsibility to ensure that every measure to reduce risks is in place, and that those responsible for spills are held accountable for fixing any environmental damage they cause."

In January 2018, B.C. proposed a second phase of regulations to improve preparedness, response and recovery from potential spills. The regulations would apply to pipelines transporting any quantity of liquid petroleum products, as well as rail or truck operations transporting more than 10,000 litres of liquid petroleum products.

The proposed regulations would ensure geographically appropriate response plans, improve response times, ensure compensation for loss of public use of land and maximize the application of regulations to marine transport.

This work builds on the first phase of new spill regulations, approved in October 2017, under the Environmental Management Act, which established a standard of preparedness, response and recovery necessary to protect B.C.'s environment.

Quick Facts:

- * A legal reference is an advisory opinion on a point of law. The B.C. Court of Appeal is the highest court to which the Province can send a reference question.
- * British Columbia's reference seeks to clarify provincial jurisdiction with regard to regulating the potential impacts of heavy oils, like bitumen, that would endanger human health, the environment and communities.
- * B.C. has had two recent references: One regarding the constitutionality of polygamy, and one related to third-party advertising in elections.

BACKGROUNDER 2

What is a legal reference?

A reference is a process where government can refer a legal question or questions to a court for determination. The answer of the court in a reference process is treated as a decision of that court.

The Government of British Columbia can refer any matter to the Court of Appeal or to the B.C. Supreme Court under the Constitutional Question Act. The question is approved by cabinet, and set out in an order-in-council, which will be available on the B.C. Laws website.

If a matter is referred to the B.C. Supreme Court, the decision can be appealed to the Court of Appeal. References heard by the Court of Appeal avoid the delay and expense of going through two levels of court.

After a reference is filed, notice must be given to the Attorney General of Canada.

In addition, the court may direct other interested parties be notified of the hearing. These interested parties are entitled to be heard. The court will set a date for hearing the reference question.

After the hearing date, the B.C. Court of Appeal will deliberate, then release its decision. The court will determine when it releases its decision, which is treated as a decision of that court, and can be appealed.

Proposed legislation referred to a court for its advice may not necessarily be enacted. To be validly binding, the proposed legislation would need to go through the ordinary process, including being passed by the British Columbia legislature.

What is British Columbia's reference?

British Columbia's reference to the B.C. Court of Appeal is about the relationship between the Province's authority (jurisdiction) to prevent and manage releases into the environment of substances, like diluted bitumen, that would endanger human health, the environment or communities and the federal government's authority (jurisdiction) over federal undertakings, such as interprovincial pipelines or railways.

The courts have repeatedly affirmed that provinces may make laws and regulations within their legal authority, even in areas of shared authority that overlap with areas federal responsibility. In the 2016 case of Coastal First Nations v. British Columbia, the B.C. Supreme Court affirmed the ability of provinces to regulate impacts of projects, even if they are federal undertakings, writing:

"To disallow any provincial regulation over the project because it engages a federal undertaking would significantly limit the province's ability to protect social, cultural and economic interests in its lands and waters. It would go against the current trend in the jurisprudence favouring, where possible, co-operative federalism."

For its reference, the B.C. government is asking the B.C. Court of Appeal to review proposed amendments to the Environmental Management Act. The amendments would give the Province authority to regulate impacts of heavy oils like bitumen whose release into the environment would endanger human health, the environment or communities.

Specifically, these amendments would require that a person in possession of such substances, above certain minimum levels, would need to obtain a permit from the provincial director of waste management. Under the proposed amendments, the director could impose certain conditions on the permits.

In considering these proposed amendments, the Province asks the court to answer three questions that raise specific constitutional jurisdictional doctrines of "validity", "interjurisdictional immunity", and "paramountcy":

- * Is the draft legislation within provincial jurisdiction to enact? (Validity)
- * Would the draft legislation be applicable to hazardous substances brought into British Columbia by means of an interprovincial undertaking? (Interjurisdictional immunity)
- * Is there any federal legislation that is inconsistent with the proposed amendments that would render the proposed amendments inoperative? (Paramountcy)

BACKGROUNDER 3

Protecting British Columbia's lands, water courses and coast

The provincial government is working to ensure the best possible protections are in place to defend B.C. lands, waters and coast, and the tens of thousands of jobs that rely on B.C.'s clean environment.

B.C. has over 19,000 tourism businesses, employing 133,000 people, throughout the province. Fisheries and seafood contribute more than $660 million each year to the province's gross domestic product, employ 14,000 people and pay nearly $400 million in wages. B.C.'s film industry supports more than 60,000 direct and indirect jobs.

The provincial government has been working to improve spill response throughout British Columbia. Legislation to establish new requirements to prevent, respond to and recover from spills was passed in 2016. The first set of new regulations to enable this legislation was passed in October 2017.

These regulations, developed with input from industry, Indigenous groups and local communities, as well as other federal and provincial agencies, apply to anyone transporting liquid petroleum products by pipeline, and anyone transporting more than 10,000 litres by rail or truck. The regulations contain provisions that:

- * Require the development and implementation of spill contingency plans.
- * Define requirements for drills and exercises.
- * Mandate record-keeping for spill preparedness and response.
- * Require enhanced reporting, and set additional cost-recovery mechanisms.
- * Enable government to require plans for recovery in the event of a spill.

In February 2018, public consultations began on a second phase of proposed regulations, pursuant to the Environmental Management Act, to improve overall spill readiness. These include:

- * Response times to ensure timely responses following a spill.
- * Geographic response plans to ensure resources are available to support an immediate response, which consider the unique characteristics of a given sensitive area.
- * Compensation for loss of public use from spills, including economic, cultural and recreational impacts.
- * Maximizing application of regulations to marine spills.

The initial public engagement on proposed Phase 2 regulations will close April 30, 2018. Based on the results of this engagement, along with direct engagement with Indigenous groups, industry, environmental organizations and local governments, an intentions paper, outlining what final regulations might look like, will be posted for public comment later in 2018. Final regulations are expected to be in place in early 2019.

The Province will also create an independent scientific advisory panel to help address the scientific uncertainties around the behavior of bitumen when spilled in water, outlined in the report, The Royal Society of Canada Expert Panel: The Behaviour and Environmental Impacts of Crude Oil Released into Aqueous Environments.

British Columbia continues to work with the federal government to further enhance marine and terrestrial spill prevention, response and recovery measures.

NEWS RELEASE

Province announces $134M to re-grow B.C.'s forests, support communities

PRINCE GEORGE - Communities and wildlife will benefit from $134 million being awarded by the Forest Enhancement Society of B.C. (FESBC) to 71 forest enhancement projects around the Province, Premier John Horgan announced today.

"In the wake of the 2017 wildfires, our government has a responsibility to restore damaged forests and support communities," said Premier Horgan. "These investments in reforestation will benefit ecosystems, workers and the communities that rely on forestry for their livelihood."

Over $99 million is being awarded in the Cariboo, with the majority focused on forest enhancement and restoration of public forests impacted by the 2017 wildfires. Approximately 30% of the work will involve, or be led by, First Nations and their partners.

The funding for the Cariboo also includes $65 million for the Forest Carbon Initiative, which is a key part of the Province's commitment to climate action. The initiative supports projects such as increased planting density, incremental reforestation, improved utilization and enhanced fertilization to grow and store forest carbon, reduce emissions and deliver greenhouse gas benefits.

"Forestry supports tens of thousands of workers and families throughout the province," said Doug Donaldson, Minister of Forests, Lands, Natural Resource Operations and Rural Development. "Today's funding will help support B.C.'s economy and our environment."

In addition to the $99 million for projects in the Cariboo, the following amounts are being granted to other regions of the province:

- * $4.47 million to the Thompson-Okanagan
- * $5 million to the South Coast
- * nearly $3.4 million to the West Coast
- * nearly $1.7 million to the Skeena
- * nearly $1.5 million to the Omineca
- * $803,050 to the Northeast
- * $2.1 million to Kootenay-Boundary
- * over $15 million to projects that are provincewide in nature

"We're pleased to be able to award funding toward FESBC's five purposes to projects throughout the province that will benefit forest workers and communities, ecosystems and wildlife habitat," said Wayne Clogg, chair, Forest Enhancement Society of B.C. "The funding provided by FESBC helps to restore and enhance B.C.'s Crown forests, providing a tremendous benefit for future generations."

The Forest Enhancement Society of B.C. was set up specifically to advance the environmental and resource stewardship of British Columbia's forests by:

- * preventing and mitigating the impact of wildfires;
- * improving damaged or low-value forests;
- * improving habitat for wildlife;
- * supporting the use of fibre from damaged and low-value forests; and
- * treating forests to improve the management of greenhouse gases.

1:30 is an awkward time for media because they are trying to catch ministers before they go in the house. We can try I just cant guarantee it would be easy.

I know we are still holding noon on Tuesday for the Spencer announcement, however that time now won't work. All the media will be at the Legislature Library event for Zussman and Shaw's book. So that entire hour is now a write-off media wise for us.

Hi Sheena!

Wanted to remind you that s.22 is visiting the legislature on Monday^{s.22} He'll be in QP and then get a little tour. We'd talked about the tour ending in the Press area where he could talk with some of the reporters. I know they don't just all hang around up there – so wanted to know if you still thought this was a good idea and could give them a heads up?

Call if you want to chat about it further.
