He's likely thinking it should go to AG to investigate police (they don't do that) or to change legislation (they also won't do that). Since it's an RCMP matter, it would go to PSSG. Still no idea about his health care stuff.

Hi Jake,

CLIFF 709157

Another return to the breach, different caller.

He says that his correspondence was shared with PSSG and "it should have gone to the AG"

I'm merely telling you what he said, not what you should do.

Just give me something to tell him next time he beckons us to his call.

Thx,
D.

Hey Jake, one last go around with this one. He's calling about every two days, 'Outside Line'

Some background so you can suggest how to send him on his way.

I know that the long letter in CLIFF 709157 was dealt with and closed. Although he was displeased with the actions.

s.22

He thinks there's a staff member in the PO who will call him and spend the time assisting him solve these his problems.

Maybe just give me a call on it, at your convenience.

Thx,

Need some advice on this one; he's been calling the past week. This morning I referred him to PSSG for advice. At 1 p.m. he left a voice msg saying that PSSG did not have anything on him and couldn't help him.

s.22

I really don't know what to tell him, where to send him. Living in s.22

Any suggestions?

"Once more unto the breach, dear friend..." Henry V

Another call out of the blue from Mr. Salama, three months since the last; he is wondering when he will be getting his appointment with the Premier to discuss his miracle housing solution.

I peeked in CLIFF to see if any correspondence arrived and was logged, nada.

Just thought I would get confirmation from you that no such material has ever come our way, before I enlighten him once more.

This will make 10 phone calls and 28 emails on this matter since January...

Hi Jake,

"Once more unto the breach, dear friend..." Henry V

Another call out of the blue from Mr. Salama, three months since the last; he is wondering when he will be getting his appointment with the Premier to discuss his miracle housing solution.

I peeked in CLIFF to see if any correspondence arrived and was logged, nada.

Just thought I would get confirmation from you that no such material has ever come our way, before I enlighten him once more.

This will make 10 phone calls and 28 emails on this matter since January...

With 100s of millions of dollars at stake in the public housing construction market, his story, he will continue to persist.

Att: Premier Horgan or the designated Minister

For many years, my company Enviropans West Ltd. has been providing a patented, cutting edge product to protect the ground surrounding the wellheads to various oil companies across Western Canada.

From the media coverage we've been following and the research we've done, we understand that one of the biggest issues the people of BC have with the Kinder Morgan pipeline, is the risk it imposes to the ocean and other waterways in the event of a spill.

We are working with a company that has a patented process, which prevents the bitumen from sinking in water. This makes it possible to recover virtually all the lost oil should a spill occur.

This product is 100% environmentally friendly, containing no solvents or other poisonous products.

We can 100% prove that it works and would like the opportunity to meet with you and your team to demonstrate it.

Sincerely,

Wade Bergeron

Ray Travers, Chair

rtravers@islandnet.com 250-477-8479

We sent Mr. Travers a regrets notice last week.

Yesterday he left a message saying he would be sending another email requesting for someone else to attend in the Premier's place.

Today he left a new message saying he was going to invite Andrew Weaver to attend—UNLESS the Premier's Office objected to this.

I checked with Correspondence and he has not sent a new email; so I'm assuming this Dr. Weaver notion has replaced his idea of sending an new request to the PO.

What should we/I tell him?

Subject: CALLER - REACTION TO A REPORTED COMMENT THE PREMIER MADE in PG - CBC ONLINE

FYI

s.22 from Vancouver called to draw attention to a CBC online story from yesterday (Prince George) in which the Premier was questioned about LNG.

He wanted to know 'did the premier really say that?' I believe he took offence to the comment.

I told him I would look at the item in question.

The story and quote below---it strikes me that it was placed out of context, or a partial quote.

<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/british-columbia/bc-wildfires-2018-1.4792952>

When asked how the province can justify supporting a proposed LNG energy project and simultaneously try to curb greenhouse gas emissions, Horgan said B.C. is just 4.5 million people sharing a planet with seven billion others.

"We have to be realistic about what our impacts would be," he said.

Elizabeth,

Do you know the latest on water delivery downstairs. I thought that the delivery guy always went down there when he came, every second Friday.

But isn't there a separate company bringing water to that high volume office, no?

I'll query Jen about the other water office.

FYI

I received several calls from Fraser Lake this afternoon regarding the wildfires in the NorthWest region. There were hints of a campaign someone was trying to organize aimed at calling the PO to demand help and/or a visit from the Premier to address the Wildfires of Note.

What I suspected was going to grow into a full-fledged campaign fizzled after 4 calls by end of day.

I've attached a form with the calls received.

I've left a paper form on my desk to record any further such calls in my absence.

Hello Don and Jake,

Received a phone call from s.22

- Traffic Violation Ticket: s.22 – Section 145 (1) driving too slow – 71/80 zone (ticket issued by s.22)
- Date: 14 July 2018
- In speaking to s.22 he was most upset and feels this is a ticket of fraud and corruptions and just a money grab. He was not impeding any one, and wants to hear back from the Premier or his assistant, no junior staff.
- He has called the s.22 police station and was told these laws are made by the elected officials and they only enforce them, so he was to call the elected officials..

He will not be paying this ticket.

Hi Moe, thx for this and for the rundown of info from Tristan; I'm getting two or three calls a day from throughout the province: fires raging, send in the water bombers, send in the military; send in the Marines; Premier is not doing enough. On one rare occasion I had a friendly chat with the Kamloops wildfire office to let them know of one caller; they pleasantly offered to call him.

Going to have a look at the resources Tristan provided and to make my list of area offices handy.

Enjoy the week. s.22

We sent Mr. Travers a regrets notice last week.

Yesterday he left a message saying he would be sending another email requesting for someone else to attend in the Premier's place.

Today he left a new message saying he was going to invite Andrew Weaver to attend—UNLESS the Premier's Office objected to this.

I checked with Correspondence and he has not sent a new email; so I'm assuming this Dr. Weaver notion has replaced his idea of sending an new request to the PO.

What should we/I tell him?

Hello Maureen,

Thank you for passing your constituent's concerns on to me. Yes, smoke is a concern for many, particularly seniors with impaired breathing. It is an issue through-out the province and unfortunately smoke can travel a long way, even fires that are not in close vicinity can impact air quality. Continuing hot and dry conditions are not helping either.

I have passed your constituent's specific concerns regarding the Cathedral Lake and Big Offer fires on to staff.

Staff have provided me with the very useful information regarding wildfires, smoke, suppression tactics etc. Please see below.

I hope you find this information helpful in addressing constituent concerns.

Thank you,
Tristan

All the fires currently burning can be seen on a map here:

[https://governmentofbc.maps.arcgis.com/apps/MapSeries/index.html?appid=ef6f11c8c36b42c29e103f65dbcd7538&m

This page is particularly helpful. It lists all wildfires of note with details on how they're being fought, status (including % contained) and Fire Information Officer contacts for public inquiries.

<http://bcfireinfo.for.gov.bc.ca/hprScripts/WildfireNews/OneFire.asp?ID=>. Info on containment/current fire suppression activities may be particularly helpful if folks are asking why aircraft aren't being used on a certain fire.

For smoke info, send folks here. They put out Smoky Skies bulletins daily when there are smoky conditions:

General Info

The BC Wildfire Service is internationally-recognised as a leader in wildfire management and is known for its skilled and committed personnel, uncompromising safety attitude, and innovative use of technology.

British Columbia's forests and wildland cover over 94 million hectares (nearly a million square kilometres) and are the most diverse in Canada. Confronted by an average of 2,000 wildfires each year, highly trained fire crews are successful in containing 94 percent of all wildfires (rank 1-4) in B.C. by 10am the following day.

Top priority in fighting wildfires is crew and public safety, followed closely by protection of property. The third priority is high environmental values (ie. Community watersheds, habitats of species at risk, etc.). The fourth priority is resource values (ie. Timber harvesting sites, resource extraction sites, etc.)

Why we sometimes let fires burn

- A naturally-occurring wildfire may be deemed beneficial to renew and maintain a healthy ecosystem. In these cases, crews will monitor and manage a fire, rather than fight it.
- Fire is a natural component of many ecosystems and when there is no immediate threats to life or property, we may allow the fire to burn so the benefits of fire in these ecosystems can be realized.
- This also frees up resources to put towards higher-priority fires.

Aircraft

- While airtankers and helicopters are a highly visible part of wildfire response, they do not put out wildfires. Rather, they provide critical support to our crews on the ground.
- The majority of wildfires in British Columbia are quickly contained and extinguished by personnel on the ground. For larger fires, or when access is difficult, aircraft may assist ground crews by dropping retardant, foam and/or water to help contain the fire.
- Helicopters perform many different tasks, such as dropping water on "hot spots", transporting personnel to and from the fireline, and giving BC Wildfire Service staff an aerial view of a wildfire.

Martin Mars Bomber

- While the BC Wildfire Service has called upon the services of the Martin Mars on previous occasions, officials have found that the Mars has limited applications compared to more modern aircraft and there are unique logistical challenges in using this aircraft. Whereas more modern airtankers run on easily accessible jet fuel, the Mars runs on leaded-type fuel, which is becoming increasingly scarce. The considerable size and design of the Mars means it can scoop from only 113 water bodies in British Columbia (where modern amphibious skimmers can access 1,700), and it is limited to landing on water (as opposed to amphibious aircraft that can land on water or tarmac). The Mars must be refuelled on water, which requires the installation of significant infrastructure while operating away from its home base in Port Alberni. These factors greatly reduce the operational flexibility of the Mars.
- Another important point is that the capacity of the Mars makes it difficult to integrate with fire suppression operations in the air and on the ground. The large drop pattern of this water bomber means that firefighters on the ground have to stop work until the drops are completed, which may increase the risk of a fire escaping during the critical attack stage. The targeting accuracy of more modern aircraft allows firefighting crews to take a more aggressive approach to fighting a wildfire and enables skimming aircraft to work in conjunction with retardant-delivering airtankers and rotary-wing operations.
- The Province of British Columbia maintains a fleet of 32 fixed-wing aircraft, including 16 airtankers, 8 birddogs and 2 parattack jumpships. The fleet includes AT-802 "Fire Boss" aircraft, which can skim up to 3,025 litres of water in 15 seconds. Sending the Fire Boss out in groups of four allows for a nearly continuous circuit of aircraft dropping water if a source is nearby. Fire officials also have the option of dividing up the Fire Boss group to attack multiple targets at once, which is especially valuable when fighting a series of fires sparked by intense lighting storms. Lastly, if one aircraft must stop operating, the other three can continue firefighting.

- When additional resources are needed, the province has contracts in place with several different companies for firefighting aircraft, fixed-wing and helicopters, including the Coulson Group. The province can also make use of long-standing mutual aid sharing agreements to bring in aerial resources from other agencies. Through these agreements, the province has the ability to increase its air tanker capacity significantly this season, as and when needed.

The province is currently reviewing the recommendations of the independent 2017 BC Flood and Fire review report, Addressing the New Normal: 21st Century Disaster Management in British Columbia. The report is available online at <https://bcfloodfirereview.ca>. The report's recommendations will play a significant role in determining how British Columbia approaches wildfire risk reduction, including firefighting technology and aerial resources. The province will be releasing a response in October 2018.

I don't have a definitive timeline but they did say they would try to expedite it (but maybe don't mention the timeline part to the writer in case it does still take a bit). Are you able to let the writer know that the Ministry of Environment will be responding to her letter and also provide contact info for the ministry if she wants to follow up with them directly? We sent Mr. Travers a regrets notice last week.

Yesterday he left a message saying he would be sending another email requesting for someone else to attend in the Premier's place.

Today he left a new message saying he was going to invite Andrew Weaver to attend—UNLESS the Premier's Office objected to this.

I checked with Correspondence and he has not sent a new email; so I'm assuming this Dr. Weaver notion has replaced his idea of sending an new request to the PO.

What should we/I tell him?

I have been assisting s.22 on this matter since last November. I have over 20 emails associated with his request to trace these documents. The documents are missing presumed lost for good. Jake says this happens all the time with people submitting original documents—i.e. they go missing. And I guess it's common sense not to accept originals if at all possible.

My last chat with him was on June 11; I told him I had 5 or more people in 3 different offices looking for the documents and they would report to me if they were found.

Chis just told me that Evan spoke with him last week—I was expecting he would have called the PO.

I will take it up with him next chance I get. The message being the documents have not yet been found.

Hi Allegra,

Can you possibly email this fellow, s.22 ; with a brief message that his case has been passed to MAH and he should follow-up with them at the ministry office (250-387-2283).

This will let him know that his emails were received and pending action.

(When I spoke to him this morning I wasn't aware of when and how his case was actioned and I've no way of contacting him, save an email from my own ID.)

s.22 seeking a response, and doesn't have a phone (he borrows one to call out).

He's tried calling MAH and MLA Tod Stone and no one has returned his calls.

Call me if you need further.

Thx,

Don

Hello Don.

I am hoping that was a typo on his part!

I can confirm that the number of consoles to be removed is still 1 per our discussion.

Please feel free to cut s.22 out of any requests and use me exclusively. This will cut down on the to and fro, minimizing errors such as this.

Hi Chris,

Elizabeth got an email this morning from s.22 that (mistakenly) 2 consoles would be removed Friday, not only 1 as we requested.

We will only be relinquishing the one console.

Can you parlay with s.22 that this is the case and perhaps suggest politely that from now on the correspondence ought to be between you and myself, if you and your company are in agreement with this.

Thx,
Don

Pick up every two weeks as per your schedule, thanks for compiling that.

Remove the one console Aug 3, it will be labeled and someone will be here to direct the mover.

Good afternoon Don.

Thank you for reaching out to me.

I can most certainly be your contact moving forward.

To confirm, you are located at the 501 Belleville St location?

The account number associated with that location is ~~s~~.17

I am showing 3 standard consoles:

1 in the very back of the office by the copier

1 by a second copier

1 in the very back by "Bev's" Desk

If this is correct, which console would you like removed? The removal will occur on your next scheduled service day of August 3rd.

I haven't received notice to change frequency. If it is ok with you, I will use this email as confirmation of that request.

Please see the attached schedule that you can post and use for your records.

Please let me know if there is anything else that I can assist you with.

Hi Chris,

I work in the Premier's office as an assistant. Elizabeth has asked me to contact you to confirm the new regular pick up schedule.

Are you the one to get this information from?

I'm told the schedule has been increased from monthly to every two weeks, and that we are moving from three collection boxes to two boxes.

The extra box to be picked up August 3---please notify with your driver.

Can you confirm this bi-weekly pick-up schedule, I have the next pickup scheduled for this Friday, August 3.

I will calendar each bi-weekly pickup beginning with the pick up this week. Confirm if this is correct. That is August 3, August 17, August 31, etc.

This shredding process is a small but important duty here in the office; one that we have to keep on top of.

Please advise or refer me.

Thank you,

The truck will be here this Friday, Aug. 3,; if you want to dispose of items, two bins are marked full, use the bin in the hall around the corner from AmberN’s office.

Subject: RE: Printer cartridges

Hi Amanda, sorry for the delay in responding. Those cartridges fit the printer in our reception area, HP M651. Dean took the last two 'odd' cartridges today. Ones for the MFP775 arrive just in time, I don't think we have any on hand.
Hope this helps,
Don

Subject: Printer cartridges

Hello Don,

Did you mention earlier that your office has some printer cartridges that may not be for the printers you have on hand? I noticed that you have an Laserjet 700, MFP 775 at the bottom of the staircase. Do you have any other printers in your office? We also noticed a lot of cartridges by the spiral staircase as well – if these are not for any of your printers I can assist in relocating them or sending them back to HP. Let me know,

Thanks,
