Today's focus

Today we want to hold Kevin Falcon and the BC United Party accountable for mining the personal data of British Columbians.

Most important thing to share

Kevin Falcon's BC United Party using Red Cross wildfire donations to harvest personal information- NDP Caucus

- Kevin Falcon and the BC United Party have set up a Red Cross donation page, regarding the British Columbia wildfires, which collects personal information of donors for partisan purposes.
- We're calling on Kevin Falcon and the BC United Party to stop their data mining scheme and apologize to British Columbians.

Other items to share

Travel restriction to West Kelowna lifted midnight Thursday- Vancouver Sun

- Given the evolving situation and the accommodation we've secured, we are now lifting the travel restriction to West Kelowna.
- Because of the support of people and accommodation providers, we were able to support local governments and First Nations in securing enough hotel rooms to meet the high demand of evacuees who needed a place to stay.
- Thank you to everyone who changed their travel plans to the Interior, to the tourism industry for being nimble, supportive and understanding, and stepping up to make space available for evacuees, and to the many firefighters and emergency crews who are protecting us

Wildfire Heroes - Fraser Valley Today column by MLA Sandhu

- Wildfire fighters, volunteers, and emergency responders have been working around the clock to fight wildfires and keep us safe.
- Local Governments and First Nations have played a huge role also in making sure that people get the information and resources they need, especially when it comes to evacuation alerts and orders.
- British Columbians stand together in hard times, and I know that we will support each other through this challenge too.

What's happening today

- 11:00 am - Minister Beare, PS Elmore, MLA Parmar and others participate in BC Demographic Survey event and announce grant recipients.
