Hi Jess,

In addition to the deck, I've attached the note that our team worked with EMLI, ENV and FOR to produce.

Thanks,

Monica.

Hi Jessica and Doug,

Ahead of Tamara's meetings with PDE and DM Salter next week, s.12
s.12

I have also provided this version to the folks at the JEDI ministry who prepped the materials for the two meetings. Jess Smith also has a copy.

I will be at the PDE meeting with Tamara on Tuesday. Happy to connect ahead of that if you have any questions.

Thanks,

BACKGROUND:

- YVR is a not-for-profit, community-based organization that reinvests profits back into the airport and region.
- As Canada's second-largest international airport, it contributes $3.9 billion to provincial GDP annually employs 500 airport operations workers and supports another 45,000 indirect jobs.
- YVR is also a hub for regional and coastal air services, float planes, helicopter operations, corporate charters, sport fishing camps and aerospace facilities, which connect B.C. communities, support the delivery of vital services, and facilitate business and economic growth in our province.
- According to the 2022-2024 YVR Strategic Plan, the organization connects people and places, cargo and markets, to open B.C. to the world; adapting operations around innovation, decarbonization, and inclusivity priorities.
- Collaborative partnerships are actively sought to leverage the YVR platform for economic development, innovation, a marketplace for made-in-B.C. products, and skills incubator for aviation and technology.

2023 YVR Update: Enabling Clean Growth for all British Columbians

OVERVIEW OF YVR

YVR is more than travel and tourism—it's the gateway of British Columbia's economy. We aspire to broaden the perspective on YVR, moving beyond personal, tactical experiences. Our goal is to underscore the far-reaching potential of YVR plays in advancing and supporting the priorities of the province and serving communities and people across British Columbia.

2023 IN FOCUS

YVR is poised to welcome 24.3 million passengers in 2023. Domestic and U.S. traffic has rebounded robustly beyond pre-pandemic levels. International volumes remain lower predominantly related to ongoing global geopolitical dynamics. Key air services launched or restarted included international destinations such as Dubai and Singapore, as well as and U.S. hubs such as Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Austin and Boston.

YVR's air cargo volumes continue to grow while as other U.S. West Coast airport cargo volumes shrink. To support future growth, work is underway on our $150 million cargo facility expansion.

ECONOMIC ENGINE FOR THE PROVINCE

A single direct international flight at YVR can fuel the B.C. economy, generating 320 jobs, ~$36 million economic output, and improving access for not only tourists but also for B.C.'s exports via cargo. Additionally, the combination of new international flights and increased cargo volumes, bolsters the viability of intraprovincial routes, improving regional connectivity for all British Columbians. As Canada's gateway to the Indo-Pacific, B.C. stands at a strategic advantage, further amplified by global airspace shifts and constraints. YVR's first-mover advantage attracts more international air services to our province, and this allows YVR to efficiently move goods, bolstering economic opportunities and growth, and ensures people get to where they need to go.

NET ZERO 2030 JOURNEY

YVR is on course to meet our Net Zero 2030 objectives. This includes championing sustainable aviation and building resilience and capacity to mitigate climate change impacts across the province. Low-carbon air travel is a key priority in YVR's carbon reduction roadmap. We are playing an active role in accelerating the transition to Sustainable Aviation Fuel to create new economic and job opportunities in British Columbia.

Cleantech initiatives aim to grow Sea Island as a hub for zero-carbon innovation, with a commitment to ecosystem health and noise management.

Additionally, YVR is advancing partnerships with industry, government, and higher education to accelerate the net zero economy and expanding skilled labour for both the aviation and the broader transportation sector.

INNOVATION ACCELERATOR

YVR is an innovation hub that leverages both internal and external resources to advance innovative clean tech solutions. This includes collaborating with B.C. based businesses to gain fresh insights into innovation and support their ability to scale. YVR's Digital Twin is one of many projects that has emerged from these collaborations. Additionally, YVR was the first testbed for B.C.'s Integrated Marketplace Initiative to electrify and reduce airport emissions.

LIVING WAGE EMPLOYER

As a living wage employer, YVR is committed not only to its direct employees but also to the extended ecosystem of contract providers. YVR was recertified in 2023. The current Metro Vancouver living wage is $24.08.

MUSQUEAM – YVR: WALKING THE PATH TOGETHER

The 30-year Musqueam Indian Band - YVR Airport Sustainability & Friendship Agreement is based on friendship and respect to achieve a sustainable and mutually beneficial future. The agreement includes several benefits including scholarships, new jobs, revenue sharing, identification and protection of cultural findings, and support for ongoing operations and long-term development at YVR.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

YVR and airports across British Columbia are pivotal catalysts for economic development and clean growth. B.C.'s aviation sector is at the leading edge of aviation and will be critical in enabling resilient and healthy communities across the province. ^{s.12}

Hi Gala,

Would you be able to confirm if the Premier will have any other staff joining this meeting?

Apart from Tamara, Trevor Boudreau, Director Government Relation intends to join. If Premier is attending the meeting by himself then it will just be Tamara.

Gala,

You can disregard my previous email. Yvette was able to adjust DM Salter's meeting time with Tamara. Tamara is available to meet on October 31st at 11:15AM. She can meet in Victoria or Teams. Both options will work.

Thanks in advance for facilitating the meeting.
