

British Columbia Allocation Model

For the Information of Immigration Refugees and Citizenship Canada

March 13, 2024

Allocation of Provincial Attestation Letters

- The Government of Canada has mandated a cap on the number of study permit applications to be issued to designated learning institutions for undergraduate, diploma and certificate-level programs.
- Within an overall national cap of 606,250 study permit applications for undergraduate, diploma and certificate-level programs for 2024, British Columbia has been allocated 83,000 study permit applications, effective January 22, 2024.
- Each Province is expected to allocate this number to eligible post-secondary institutions through the issuance of Provincial Attestation Letters to every student.
- Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada will not accept a study permit application for undergraduate, diploma and certificate-level programs without an accompanying Provincial Attestation Letter.
- The Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills (the Ministry) has assessed data received from Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada of past study permit authorizations that fall under the federal cap criteria. Based on this data, the Ministry is allocating a specified number of Provincial Attestation Letters to eligible public and private post-secondary designated learning institutions in BC.

Public post-secondary institutions

- The allocation for public post-secondary institutions is determined as follows:
 - Public post-secondary institutions with less than 30% international student headcount attending the institution in 2022/23 receive a 20% increase over the number of study permits approved by Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada in 2023.
 - Public post-secondary institutions with international student headcount of 30% or more attending the institution in 2022/23: receive the number of study permits approved by Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada in 2023.
- Recognizing that Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada may reject a portion of applications, the allocation for all institutions is increased by an additional 50% after the above criteria are applied.

Private post-secondary institutions.

- The allocation method for private sector institutions is based on the average number of study permits approved by Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada in the designated program areas for each institution in 2021, 2022, and 2023.

- This number is then increased by 50% in recognition that Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada may reject a portion of study permit applications.
- This combined number is the institution's maximum allocation of Provincial Attestation Letters for 2024.
- Small institutions with at least one study permit approved in the past three years have been allocated a minimum of three Provincial Attestation Letters.
- Institutions with zero study permits approved in each of the past three years were not allocated any Provincial Attestation Letters.
- British Columbia has one Francophone institution, which has not received any study permits in the past three years. The Ministry provided the institution with s. 17 Provincial Attestation Letters in the interest of Francophone student recruitment.
- Only programs delivered by private post-secondary institutions that meet the following criteria are eligible to receive international students on study permits from within the institution's allocation:
 - Programs approved by the Registrar of the Private Training Institutions Branch under the Private Training Act or have Minister's consent under the Degree Authorization Act.
 - Programs with a minimum of 50% of the educational programming delivered on- site at the institution; fully online programs are not eligible.
 - Programs longer than 6 months.

Study permit approval rates

- Institution allocations are fixed, whether or not the applicant is approved by Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada for a study permit.
- Therefore, to maximize the use of Provincial Attestation Letters, each institution has been encouraged to carefully review each student's application to assess whether the applicant has a high probability of meeting federal study permit criteria.

Review and Reconsideration

- Institutions that disagree with allocations or other policy decisions may request reconsideration.
- The Ministry has established a process to receive and review these requests, and will consider the following factors:
 - Correcting data, calculations, other factors that the institution believes are in error.
 - New evidence or other considerations regarding the allocation decisions that were not taken into account at the time of the decision.
- The institution will receive correspondence from the Ministry setting out the reconsideration decision and reasons for the decision.
