Subject: Media Request: Ankle Monitor Meng

Hi,

Good to send to reporter?

Deadline ASAP

Request

Reporter would like to know if Meng is using the same type of electric ankle monitoring bracelet that the rest of the public is using? Also, can we provide if there are any exceptional conditions of her surveillance. Reporter says: "I would think someone of her standing would be able to escape quite easily, and therefore I am interested into what means are put into places to prevent this from happening."

Background

Recommendation: Response on Background:

- Given the unique circumstances under which Ms. Meng is being supervised in the community, you would have to contact the third-party provider to verify the device in use.
- Due to mandatory privacy legislation, we cannot speak to the specifics of a BC Corrections client's case management and supervision.
- We can confirm that probation officers supervise clients in the community by working closely with local police and community partners to ensure offenders comply with the terms of their court-ordered supervision.
- The degree of supervision provided by BC Corrections reflects the risk that the offender poses – essentially, the higher the risk, the higher the degree of supervision.

Hi Jason and Caroline, I have made a call to Colin and need a response as soon as possible today. Reportedly the Solicitor General's office received a call from the Premier's Chief of Staff regarding Meng's detention conditions prior to bail release. I'm looking for a response and comment on that, in terms of what was reportedly asked, and what the response was. Reportedly the chief of staff was asking about whether certain special arrangements could be made.

Thanks

Importance: High

Hi Nimmi/Liam:

From Corrections, in case needed re. Meng (in light of bail; does not speak to special electronic supervision):

Holding Lines re Meng Release:

- Due to mandatory privacy legislation, we cannot speak to the specifics of a BC Corrections client's case management and supervision.
- We can confirm that probation officers supervise clients in the community by working closely with local police and community partners to ensure offenders comply with the terms of their court-ordered supervision.
- The degree of supervision provided by BC Corrections reflects the risk that the offender poses – essentially, the higher the risk, the higher the degree of supervision.
- If there is evidence that an offender has breached his/her conditions, police or BC Corrections can submit a report to Crown to independently assess whether charges should be approved and proceed to court.

Hi Nimmi and Liam,

We have a request from CNN regarding the CFO of Huawei in our custody. Told her we cannot confirm or deny, but she is asking about which facilities house women.

FYI – yesterday Wall Street Journal inquired about whether the CFO is in our custody, and I again told him we cannot confirm or deny. No follow-up from that q!

Thanks!

Subject: RE: Issues scan

Here you go:

Surrey Policing:

Statement from Mike Farnworth, Minister of Public Safety and Solicitor General:

"People deserve to feel safe in their communities and their neighbourhoods and this violence is absolutely unacceptable.

As the Premier said, we are working with Surrey as they develop a plan for their own police force. Let's be clear. No one is putting up any roadblocks. We are prepared to work with the Mayor – he has to be willing to work too.

A new police force isn't created over the weekend but the Province is committed to working with the city as they move forward. We want to make sure there is a solid plan in place to ensure the people of Surrey have strong policing they can be confident in.

We have also made significant new investments in Surrey in anti-gang programs and enhanced policing and will continue to work to ensure people can feel safe."

Status of Huawei Chief Financial Officer Meng Wanzhou:

- I can't comment on the matter before the courts.
- I understand that for privacy and security reasons, BC Corrections does not confirm if or where an individual is in its custody.
- But generally speaking, BC Corrections has a long-standing agreement with the federal government. It provides for temporarily housing individuals who have been detained by the Canada Border Services Agency. And these individuals are held in provincial correctional centres at the discretion of federal authorities.

Cannabis, Driving and the Holidays:

- This is the first holiday season with legal cannabis. Many people may be trying or using it over the holidays, and that's fine – as long as they don't drive afterwards.

- Cannabis DOES reduce your ability to drive safely. Research shows your crash risk increases with cannabis consumption and can be significantly greater if your Blood Drug Concentration is over the Criminal Code limit. Drinking alcohol compounds the impairing effect of even a small amount of cannabis.
- The police ARE ready. Drug-affected driving isn't new – police have the tools and skills necessary to detect drivers who are unsafe due to any kind of impairment, and take them off the road. If anything, the additional police training that has accompanied legalization has only increased their ability to stop drug-affected drivers.
- The police ARE out there. Counterattack is underway now, and next year, funding for enhanced police enforcement will rise dramatically.
- Mandatory alcohol screening IS legal in Canada beginning Dec. 18. If you're affected by alcohol, or any substance, and you're driving, you should expect greater scrutiny.
- The penalties ARE serious. Beyond recent changes to the Criminal Code, we're toughening provincial sanctions. On Oct. 17, 2018, we extended B.C.'s zero-tolerance restriction for the presence of alcohol to cover the presence of specific drugs, such as THC and cocaine, for new drivers in the Graduated Licensing Program (GLP). And in spring 2019, we'll be providing police with more tools to remove drug-affected drivers from the road for 90 days – a much more serious sanction than the existing, 24-hour driving prohibition.
- You CAN take it with you – but there are rules about transporting cannabis in a vehicle. You're probably aware that nobody is allowed to have open alcohol or consume it in a motor vehicle. The same goes for medical and non-medical cannabis. Cannabis in its original, sealed packaging can be stored anywhere in a vehicle. But if it's unsealed, it has to be out of reach of the driver and passengers – for example, in the trunk.
- However you choose to celebrate this season, plan ahead for a safe ride home – with a friend, by cab, or via a program like Operation Red Nose, which has volunteers in 19 B.C. communities ready to drive you home if you feel unfit to do so for any reason.
- Please, help us ensure safe and happy holidays for everyone.

Hi Caroline. We've put together this issue note on the CFO of Huawei being arrested at YVR this week. IGRS advised us that DM Sieban was interested in this IN and may have some input on the messaging, so I was wondering if you would be able to pass this along to him for review. We received some bullets from the Attorney General program area, and that's what was used to inform the messaging here.

In terms of other approvals, this is still very much a draft. It's with our ADM of international trade right now for review, and also with IGRS for review.

Here are some of the questions we'd like the ministry to address today if possible.

1. Whose decision was it to cancel the China leg of the mission (China's? Ottawa's? B.C.'s?)
2. What kind of communication was there from China regarding the scheduled Forestry trade mission after the detention of Meng Wanzhou?

3. Was there any direct communication with China on the suspension of the mission, or how to proceed, whether to proceed, after the detention of Wanzhou?
4. Was the decision Canada's alone, or were they asked not to come at this time?
5. How is this going to impact the mission's stated goals of raising the volume of B.C. Lumber products being sold to the Asian markets?
6. Who was on the mission from the industry

We need this by 3:00 pm to make our deadlines!
