Hello Sheila and Raj,

I am looking to follow-up with PS Ravi Kahlon's request to meet with the Physical literacy panel, and with the Woman in Sport panel sometime in early August. Sheila, Ravi is hoping to meet with these groups to discuss the upcoming sport strategy. He is hoping to discuss thoughts and perspectives from these panels on what we can do to make our sport sector better in BC. He would be happy for you to chair these discussions with perspective groups. I would imagine an hour would likely be a good amount of time, but am happy to take a suggestion for the length from you. Could you please provide a few optional dates yourself and some panel members may be available for these meetings?

Raj, I'll need your help identifying whether any of the times Sheila is available works for Ravi. I believe the ideal location would be Vancouver. I am happy to facilitate booking space at VCO, or perhaps these groups have a spot where they typically meet and we can arrange for PS Ravi Kahlon to travel there.

Thank you both for your help getting these organized,

Marina

Hello Angela,

My apologies, we are needing to move the meeting 30 minutes earlier to accommodate an s.22
s.22. If that doesn't work for Minister Duncan, please provide some alternative times that may work. If it does work, yes she will be required to type #, but I believe that is prompted within the call.

Again, my apologies.

Using a conference call line is no problem, I completely understand having multiple staff in different places.

Just to confirm, Minister Duncan is to call s.15,s.17. Is she required to press # following the conference ID.

Thanks,

Hi Marina,

Thank you for your prompt reply. Yes I am looking to schedule a phone call tomorrow July 31st.

Minister Duncan is actually in Halifax tomorrow, so there is a 4 hour time difference from where she will be to British Columbia. That being said, a phone call at 9:30am PST / 1:30pm UTC (Halifax time) would work perfectly.

Is there a number Minister Duncan could call to reach PS Ravi Kahlon at, or would it work better on your side to set up a conference call?

Thank you,

Hi Korleen,

July 5, 2018

Dear s.22

Thank you for your email of May 27, 2018, addressed to the Honourable Lisa Beare, Minister of Tourism, Arts and Culture and the Honourable Minister Fleming, Minister of Education regarding your concerns about accessing funding. On behalf of Minister Beare and Minister Fleming, I am happy to respond.

Creative BC is the provincial agency of record for the administration of the Amplify BC program. Their programs, services and investments are designed to help the province's creative sector (motion picture, interactive digital, music and publishing) realize its economic potential and contribute to the future prosperity of our province.

The Amplify BC program is open to all professional musicians, of all genres, including classical and experimental. Due to the economic focus of the fund, it is designed to support musicians who have structured their career as a business. In a sole proprietorship, one person performs all the functions required for the successful operation of the business and assumes all the liabilities. The sole proprietor is said to be self-employed.

Registering a business as a sole proprietorship allows for the generation of a business number. This provides the musician with the ability to establish a business bank account; it is also used as an identifier for remitting taxes to government, Canada pension premiums, EI premiums, and making WorkSafeBC payments. The $70 fee is a one-time cost to the applicant. If you have any further questions about the benefits of registering your business, I encourage you to contact BC Registries and Online Services directly at 1 877 526-1526 or BCRegistries@gov.bc.ca. If you would like to discuss the Amplify BC program requirements in more detail, please contact Brenda Grunau, Manager at Creative BC: 1 604 730 2251 or bgrunau@creativebc.com.

Asha Bhat

Subject: Concern about accessing funding through Creative BC for Music Industry

Dear Hon. Rob Fleming, and Hon. Lisa Beare,

I am hoping to find the best person to direct my concerns with the barriers to accessing funding through Creative BC, specifically the BC Music Fund and Amplify BC.

Increasing funding to Creative BC was touted as an influx of money to the BC Music industry. There is a barrier within the eligibility requirements that, in my opinion, feels like an intentional deterrent a certain type of music professional from applying to these programs.

BC has a strong base of music professionals working as sole proprietors under their personal names. Many of these have made long careers in the music industry in BC. In my circles, most of these people have music practices coming out of classical or experimental music traditions.

The issue is that in order to apply for funding, one must register their business. This comes with upwards of a $70 fee. As sole proprietors functioning under personal names, it is my understanding that this is an unnecessary step to working as a professional musician in British Columbia.

This requirement in the application means that one needs to pay a $70 fee to access funding. Completing this step as a sole proprietor, there is no perceived (or possibly any) additional benefit aside from being allowed to submit a application to this specific program. It is worth noting that funding programs are highly competitive and there is no guarantee of a successful application.

I have been working as a professional in the music scene in BC for more than 10 years now, and have had conversations with people who have been working much longer. My understanding is that this is the only funding application available to BC Musicians that is funded by the provincial government which requires this step and the payment of this fee.

I see this as a problematic fee within the context of a funding application. It creates, for some an actual barrier and for others a perceived barrier. Because of this requirement it is preventing some BC Music professionals from feeling that this is a program is intended for them. In my opinion, some of these are professionals who would benefit the most from these applications.

I initially felt that this funding was not intended for a professional like myself, and was a veiled attempt to exclude musicians coming from classical and experimental music backgrounds, however, after speaking with people from Creative BC, they stress that this is program is available to all musicians of all musical genres.

I am optimistic that there is a solution that eliminates this barrier to sole proprietors functioning under their personal names.

Thank you for hearing my concerns.

Hi Kelly,

All details are in her calendar and the flights are booked for both of you! There's one error in the schedule you sent me, they had her flight arriving at 11:24, but her day starting at 9:00 in Cranbrook. Still lots of time in Fernie and does not ruin the plan, just needs to be updated.

Thanks!

Marina

Hello,

We are having some staffing changes in our office s.17 and one of our staff is moving to another Ministry but keeping the same position. He's hoping to keep his device and phone number. I'm just hoping to check in to see if that option is available at this time.

Thanks you,

Please see the attached letter from the Speaker excusing Minister Beare's absences from the House. As noted in the letter, these dates should be included in the attendance declaration but will not go towards her allotment of 10 days in the current session. Let me know if you have any questions.
