Bear Tour, Whistler, 2002

When Ziptrek opened for business in Whistler in 2002, the original tour took visitors into the old growth forest in the valley between Whistler and Blackcomb Mountains on a series of five ziplines. The original tour s.21, and is called the “Bear” Tour in order to differentiate it from Ziptrek’s second, newer course.

Eagle Tour, Whistler, 2006

After two summers of sold-out Ziptrek Bear tours, a second tour consisting of five entirely new ziplines was added to the Whistler location: the Eagle Tour. Ziptrek accomplished another industry first by installing a 2000' zipline as part of the Eagle Tour.

s.21 Ziptrek continues to operate both the Bear and Eagle tours in Whistler, as well as a ten-line Mammoth Tour (combining Bear & Eagle).

TreeTrek Tour, Whistler, 2004 (Aerial Trekking Course)

In 2004, the Ziptrek team extended the product line by building the TreeTrek Canopy Walk - a perfect alternative for those not interested in ziplines. The tour is a guided interpretive adventure through the treetops on a stunning network of suspension bridges, s.21 boardwalks and ground-based trails.

Sasquatch Line, Whistler, 2015

In 2015 Ziptrek once again pushed the zipline limits by building a 2.2+ kilometre long single zipline involving 4 ziplines. Moa tours begin and end at the top of the Skyline Gondola which operates between Queenstown and the top of Ben Lomond Hill.

Kea Tour, Queenstown, 2010

In 2010, Ziptrek Queenstown added two new ziplines to the Moa course to offer guests another choice, The Kea Tour, which takes guests all the way from the top of the mountain to the bottom on a series of 6 ziplines. The Skyline Gondola is the steepest Gondola in the world, and Ziptrek's design and engineering team pushed the limits again by installing a zipline that is also the steepest in the world. The Kea Tour is a three-hour, high-velocity, six-line adventure.

Attention: Michael Braun
Ministry of Transportation and Infrastructure
Re: Notice of Intent – Lions Gate Bridge License to Operate Issued to Legendworthy Quest Inc.

Dear Mr. Braun,

WildPlay does not object to the initial two-year trial term for the Lions Gate bridge walk that has been awarded to Legendworthy Quest Inc.

WildPlay would be interested in making a proposal regarding this opportunity but we do not feel that there is enough time to prepare an adequate proposal for a project of this magnitude, especially given the process to this point has been two years in the making.

WildPlay has extensive experience in offering a wide variety of aerial adventure products and has designed, built and operated nine adventure parks in North America; five of these operations have been in British Columbia. We have well-documented experience in risk management and serving large volumes of guests in high risk areas, including ladder climbing and working in and around large, occupied structures. WildPlay has wide-ranging experience opening new adventure park locations on short timelines and will be opening three new locations in 2017 alone.

In our experience, the proposed activity is one of the most tiring and risky that our guests engage in. In sincere support of the best outcome, we would be happy to assist in any way we can (either the Ministry, or the proponent) with our oversight. We would be pleased to offer our expertise which may include consulting or assisting the ministry or the proponent of this project in ensuring the success of this exciting adventure opportunity in British Columbia.

Sincerely,

Tom Benson
